

“Mental Health Awareness Through Art” Deadline Oct. 5th

LEWISTON, ME (September 15, 2022) -- The 2022 – 2023 Lewiston Youth Advisory Council (LYAC) membership recently held its first meeting, and the group decided to first focus on mental health awareness. Each shared concerns they have, in particular about their peers who have struggled throughout the pandemic, as well as in current situations in their lives. The group is also interested in Lewiston’s growing public art scene and would like to boost mental health awareness through artwork.

As such, the Lewiston Youth Advisory Council is putting out a “call for artists of all ages” to forward them a photograph, sketch, painting, or graphic design (not over 11 x 14 in size) in an effort to educate community members about mental health; remind viewers they “matter,” and hopefully help break the stigma that often surrounds individuals with mental health challenges.

Submissions may be mailed to the Lewiston Youth Advisory Council at the City Administrator’s Office, Lewiston City Hall, 27 Pine Street, Lewiston. A brief video (under 3 minutes) may also be submitted at dottie@lewistonmaine.gov. A title; one or two sentences explaining the piece; and contact name, number, and email should accompany each submission.

Out and About

Queen Elizabeth II

By Rachel Morin
When the news of Queen Elizabeth II's passing was announced worldwide, Arthur Turner, a member of Schooner Estates Retirement Community, Auburn, was instantly filled with memories of his years of gathering memories, photos, newspaper clippings, gifts, and his memorable five visits to England over the past several years.

Art didn't have to look far. His apartment is aptly decorated with The Royal Family photos, English cathedral photos and books on England. Truly, his apartment is like a small museum to all things England with a special emphasis on the Queen and the Royal Family.

Of course, TVs were turned on and we sat transfixed to see, hear and learn all the news specials on every channel broadcasting the latest announcements on what was going on across the world. We saw the whole world was mourning Queen Elizabeth

II's passing and greatly respected her 70 years of reign.

Art had an affinity for England ever since his school days in Boston. He lived in Boston 40 years and Trinity Church was his first parish where he was a Docent. He took classes and learned about English history and learned the English ways and customs.

Art travelled to England five times, two on group tours and three tours on his own. On these tours, they would visit one cathedral a day, have a tour and learn its history. "There was something about the English ways and their customs" Art told me, "I was just drawn to it."

A visit to Salisbury, England, brought Art to the Salisbury Cathedral where they had a tour and history of the building. This is where Art heard the Evensong Service ending the day.

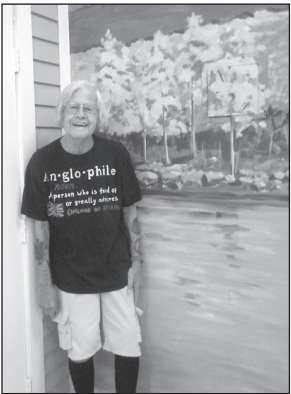

Evensong, often referred to as "the jewel in the Anglican crown" Evensong is a church service traditionally held near sunset focused on singing psalms and other biblical canticles.

Art is well known and popular at Schooner by his friends and neighbors at Schooner What makes him so well-known and popular is his love and appreciation for England and Queen Elizabeth II and the Royal Family and her people. But mostly, his appreciation and love is for anything about England.

The real secret is Art's unfailing kindness and courtesy to everyone with a friendly smile and greeting. Another not kept secret is his collection of 25 tee shirts with photos of the Queen, Prince Philip, anything British! He wears a different tee daily, well, every few days or so. This week he wore one every day. I'm thinking he will have a special one for the late Queen Elizabeth II Funeral Service.

I have included some photos I took of Art wearing the different tee shirts around Schooner for your enjoyment!

LEWISTON, ME (September 17, 2022) -- The Public Theatre will host the 25th Annual MANHATTAN SHORT Film Festival on September 30 and October 1 at 7:00pm.

What makes this Film Festival so special is the diversity of the short films from around the world, and the fact that the audience determines the winners. Every person watching the festival around the world will get a ballot to determine the Best Film and Best Actor awards, so this is your chance to play film critic! The festival also has an enviable history of showing films that have gone on to be nominated for Oscars including one that went on to win the Oscar in the Short film category! All Final Ten short films become Oscar qualified, meaning they will be automatically eligible for an Academy Award nomination by screening for a week at the Arena CineLounge in Hollywood in the county of Los Angeles from September 23 to September 29.

The Ten MANHATTAN SHORT films hail from eight countries with films from Scotland, Czech & Slovakia, Spain, Australia, Finland and Lebanon, alongside two films from France and USA. This year's Final Ten Films represent

Harriman, Printup Appointed to Board of Directors

LEWISTON, ME (September 17, 2022) -- Androscoggin Home Healthcare + Hospice is proud to announce the appointment of Phillip Harriman and Heather Printup to its Board of Directors.

A lifelong resident of Yarmouth and four-term Maine Senator, Harriman is a founding partner of Lebel & Harriman LLP, a financial advisory firm established in 1978, Board Chair of Make A Wish Maine, part of the Board of Trustees for Husson University, and Political Analysis for Newscenter Maine, Political Brew. Formerly, Harriman served as President of Million Dollar Round Table (MDRT), an international financial services professional services organization, as well as Director of the Yarmouth

Clam Festival.

A native of Auburn, now Poland resident, Printup is a Community Relations professional boasting more than two decades with BlueTriton Brands, formerly Nestle Waters North America, representing the Poland Spring Brand. Printup is a member of the Maine State Chamber of Commerce and an Executive Board Member of the Poland Spring Preservation Society.

With the many challenges faced today in the healthcare industry at large, an organization is only as strong as the foundation provided by its Board of Directors.

"Health care in Maine and the United States is in a period of significant transformation as Medicare prepares for a massive infusion as baby boomers, who are today aging into Medicare eligibility at over 11,000 people per day," says Ken Albert, President and CEO of Androscoggin Home Healthcare + Hospice. "The economics and regulatory dynamics in our Maine health care system are challenging, and it takes a special group of people in our community who want to dedicate themselves to governing organizations like ours. We are so fortunate to have a strong and engaged board of directors who share their time and talents with us at Androscoggin. Adding Heather and Phil to the team will make us even stronger. We are excited to work with them both."

Seniors Not Acting Their Age

A Gusty Surprise Traversing Moxie Pond

Paddlers pass some islands on Moxie Pond

Mosquito Mountain can be seen in the distance as canoeists begin a traverse of Moxie Pond

The winds pick up as kayakers navigate Moxie Pond

By Ron Chase
Each July, the Penobscot Paddle & Chowder Society celebrates summer with a weekend of paddling adventures collectively called the Summer Picnic. For many years, the event has been held at West Forks in western Maine.

The base camp for club activities is Webb’s Campground located on the Dead River at West Forks just before it merges with the Kennebec River. Both rivers provide whitewater paddling opportunities that vary from Class I to Class IV. Again this year, the most popular scheduled trip on the first day was a Class III excursion on the Dead, while a few members paddled the Class IV Kennebec Gorge.

My wife, Nancy, and I decided to offer club members a flatwater option; a traverse of nearby Moxie Pond. Although Nancy had kayaked a portion of it, neither of us had paddled the entire length. Since we had hiked Moxie Bald and Mosquito Mountains, which border the pond on the east and west, we knew it was a very scenic body of water. Viewed from the mountain summits, my impression was that it had the character of an inland fjord. That’s how I promoted the trip.

Three additional Chowderheads signed on for the excursion. We were a diverse paddling group. Gail and Devon Carter navigated a tandem canoe and Jonathan Ludlow a solo canoe. Nancy and I paddled solo flatwater kayaks.

The direction of narrow Moxie Pond is north-south. Moxie Pond Road follows along the west shore. We needed to decide which way to travel. The forecast called for winds from the southwest for the entire day so our choice was south to north. Unsure of where we could launch on the southern end, Nancy and I explored the Moxie Pond Road in advance of meeting the group. We found a suitable location where vehicles could be parked next to the shore near the southern-most navigable sector of the pond.

The group met at Moxie Pond Boat Landing adjacent to the outlet dam near the northern terminus. From the dam, Moxie Stream flows west for about five miles before entering the Kennebec River. Just before joining the Kennebec, spectacular Moxie Falls, one of the highest waterfalls in Maine, tumbles vertically for almost 100 feet.

The weather was beautiful with sunny skies. As predicted, there was a gentle southwest breeze. Participants transported their boats south after leaving two vehicles at the landing to facilitate a post-trip shuttle.

Paddling was superb as we began our eight mile journey north. Proceeding through a narrow channel on the right, we entered a wider body of water where Moxie Bald Mountain was visible in the east and Mosquito Mountain west. That’s when I realized my observation that the pond resembled an inland fjord was an unintentional embellishment. However, if you let your imagination soar, navigating through the pond between Mosquito and Moxie Bald Mountains looks something like an inland fjord.

Everything went effortlessly while enjoying a gentle tailwind and sunny weather until we started looking for a location to stop for lunch. After exploring several possibilities that were unacceptable, we found a small uninhabited island where landing was doable but challenging. A team effort was required to ascend the steep embankment before partaking of our delayed luncheon.

Paddlers enjoy an island lunch spot

Easy paddling continued as we entered the northern sector of the pond that was cluttered with small islands and ragged peninsulas. In an open area about a mile from the landing, the wind gods betrayed us. Nasty broadsides rocked our boats until we gained shelter in lee of a lofty peninsula. Turning the bend towards the landing, we were confronted with a powerful headwind that persisted until we reached the western shore. By the time we arrived at the takeout, everyone had experienced an invigorating aerobic workout.

Only day one of our exciting weekend of adventures; more exhilarating exploits were anticipated. Nancy and I were scheduled to lead a Class III whitewater trip on the Kennebec from Carry Brook to West Forks the following morning. The day ended with a short club business meeting and a delicious potluck picnic dinner at Webb’s Campground.

Read about more Maine lake and pond expeditions and exciting whitewater trips on the Dead and Kennebec Rivers in my book, Maine Al Fresco: The Fifty Finest Outdoor Adventures in Maine.

See Shapeshifter at Monkintree

GARDINER, ME (September 5, 2022) -- Shapeshifter highlights work by Chelsea Ellis, Whitney Gill, and Allison McKeen and their exploration of shapes through ceramics, photography, and painting. In each artist's work one can see recognizable shapes transformed- from circles to the human form. In Whitney Gill's ceramic forms, broad brushstroke circles may reveal a hidden rectangle. In Allison McKeen's paintings one may find bisected circles and multicolored arches. Chelsea Ellis's photographs morph the human form in unexpected

Working off a common theme, each artist developed their own interpretation:

Chelsea Ellis

"I follow two curiosities: the deconstruction of the female body into an apparitional experience and the creation of windows through which viewers can see an almost human dimension inhabited by these humanoid forms and fragments."

Whitney Gill

"I wondered how one's personal transformation can be felt in the form they have created. In so many ways, we have all been forced to transform and adapt to our current circumstances. These forms reflect my own transitional state in an ever-changing environment."

Allison McKeen

"When I'm painting, my only plan is to leave the piece unplanned with as much room for play and spontaneity as possible. The image shifts as each new addition builds off of the last. I make hundreds of small decisions, over and over. The process builds trust with my own intuition as it builds the composition."

The show can be seen at Monkintree-263 Water Street, Gardiner, ME September 9-October 29th during regular shop hours- T/F 10-5, Sat 10-4.

LPL Hosts Author of a Memoir of an Amish Childhood

LEWISTON, ME (September 17, 2022) -- The Lewiston Public Library will host author Saloma Miller Furlong on Friday, September 23rd. She will talk about her book “Liberating Lomie: Memoir of an Amish Childhood.” This free, public program will take place from 2 to 3:30 PM in the Jeanne Couture Room at the Lewiston Public Library. In Liberating Lomie: Memoir of an Amish Childhood, Furlong traces the genesis of her desire for freedom and education and chronicles her conflicted quest for independence. She recalls her painful childhood in a family defined by her father’s mental illness, her brother’s brutality, her mother’s severe punishments, and the austere traditions of the Amish—traditions she struggled to accept for years before making the difficult decision to leave the community. Eloquentlly told, Liberating Lomie is a revealing portrait of life within this frequently misunderstood community. Saloma Miller Furlong was born and raised in an Amish community in northeastern Ohio. With the eighth-grade education of her childhood, she acquired her GED, enrolled in community college courses, and became an Ada Comstock Scholar at Smith College. She studied at the University of Hamburg in Germany for a semester. At fifty, she graduated with a major in German Studies and a minor in Philosophy. Furlong is the author of three books, and her story has been featured in two PBS American Experience films, “The Amish” and “The Amish: Shunned.” She is the mother of two grown sons and lives in Virginia with her husband, David. A copy of the book is available to borrow for library card holders.

Challengers are: riders, walkers, runners, volunteers, donors, fundraisers, kids, adults, and families — a community. People who want to make life better for people dealing with cancer.

How it works

Participants can be part of a team or join as an individual. Participants can choose either the in-person Local Challenge, or can participate virtually as a Global Challenger. Participants receive support for training and fundraising from Dempsey Center staff. In 2021, Dempsey Challenge participants from all over the world raised over $1.5 million dollars!

How to get involved

Sign up today to participate, fundraise, or volunteer! If you're in the Lewiston/Auburn area on event weekend cheer for walkers and runners as they hit the pavement on Saturday, or create a cheer station along one of the many bike routes throughout Maine!

Artwork submitted will become the property of LYAC, and LYAC has the sole discretion as to whether a submission is accepted for forum display. If a submission is chosen for display, the artist will be contacted for completion of an art release form. Depending on response, LYAC may also develop the submissions as a traveling exhibit at places that would like to display the work, such as perhaps a school.

LYAC’s Feysal Abdirahaman notes, “Mental health can impact all of us. The challenges are real, and they can happen to anybody. Others may be oblivious to what others are experiencing, but it’s very real.”

LYAC’s Ava Golder agrees, “It’s important that people dealing with mental health concerns not be dismissed.”

Corinne Rosario, also an LYAC member, says, “It’s important for people’s voices to be expressed and truly heard.”

LYAC hopes that themes depicted in the artwork will include kindness, personal experience, encouragement, and respect for others.

Art Walk LA and all LA Arts programs would not be possible without the generous support of community partners including Community Arts Champion sponsors Austin Associates, P.A., Bates College, Baxter Brewing Co., Berman & Simmons, the City of Auburn, the City of Lewiston, DaVinci’s Eatery, Dirigo Federal Credit Union, Liberty Mutual, Munka Coworking, Payroll Management, the Sun Journal, the Szanton Company, as well as the Bangor Savings Bank Foundation, Maine Arts Commission, the New England Foundation for the Arts, the Onion Foundation, and the Ladd Foundation.

Since 1973, LA Arts, the arts agency for the cities of Lewiston and Auburn Maine, has pursued a mission to engage and inspire a vibrant community through arts and culture. The agency works with governments, businesses, schools and local arts and cultural organizations to create opportunities for community members across the generations to experience, learn, and participate in the arts. LA Arts organizes arts programs and initiatives, supports the work of local artists and arts organizations, and highlights the essential role the arts play in shaping an economically vital, socially integrated, and forward-looking future for its community.
