Patricia "Paggie" Poehlman, 70, of Clarendon decided on Sept. 20, 2022 to leave the building and head off to the Rainbow Bridge to be reunited with all her domestic felines which had gone before her. Paggie was born in Baltimore, MD on Dec. 28, 1951 and had lived in this area for over 5 years. As an employee of the NYS Department of Taxation and Finance, she felt that being born so close to Christmas, that she was gift to the people of New York and would endeavor to 'help' them with their tax problems as needed. In her spare time, she liked to read, do needlepoint and sew as well as watch old movies and be glued to the Turner Classic Movie channel on TV. She was a hard-core woman with a heart of gold. One of her greatest pleasures in life was to spend time with and enjoy her family. Paggie will forever be remembered by her family and friends for being friendly, stubborn and a "Typical State Worker." She's now going out for coffee with Gram!

Breast Cancer: Can you prevent it?

By Mary Richards, FNP,
Oak Orchard Health in Warsaw

Most everyone knows a friend or family member who has been diagnosed with breast cancer. That is because breast cancer is the leading cause of cancer deaths in American women, except for lung cancer. It can occur at any age, but the risk goes up as you get older. Because of certain risk factors, some women may have a greater chance of having breast cancer than others, according to the American Cancer Society.

Schedule your mammogram today!

Many women with breast cancer have no symptoms which is why it is important to get a regular mammogram. The American Cancer Society recommends women start at age 40 for their yearly breast cancer screening. Should you have a family history of breast cancer you may need to get your mammogram earlier, particularly if that family member was under 40 years of age and in your immediate family (sister, mother). If that is the case, you may want to start mammograms at 35. With that family history of breast or ovarian cancer, you may be eligible at age 25+ for the BRCA1 and BRCA2 gene mutation test. According to the Mayo Clinic, the BRCA gene test is offered to those who are likely to have an inherited mutation based on personal or family history of breast cancer or ovarian cancer. Talk to your health care provider about this option.

What causes Breast Cancer?

With about 1 in 8 women getting breast cancer during their life, it is important to look at what causes it. Though there are no definitive answers for every case of breast cancer, we do know that there are known risk factors. They are lifestyle related or genetic. A risk factor can increase your chance of getting it, but that is not for sure. Here are just a few according to the American Cancer Society:

Drinking alcohol is linked to an increased risk of breast cancer. The risk increases with the amount of alcohol consumed. Women who have one alcoholic drink a day have a small (about 7% to 10%) increase in risk compared with those who do not drink, while women who have two to three drinks a day have about a 20% higher risk. Alcohol is linked to an increased risk of other types of cancer, too.

Being overweight or obese. Having more fat tissue after menopause can raise estrogen levels and increase the chances of getting breast cancer. Women who are overweight also tend to have higher blood insulin levels. Higher insulin levels have been linked to some cancers, including breast cancer. However, weight is a complex topic when it comes to a link to cancer. You should talk with your provider if you have questions.

Not being physically active. The American Cancer Society recommends that adults get 150 to 300 minutes of moderate-intensity or 75 to 150 minutes of vigorous-intensity activity each week (or a combination of these). Getting to or going over the upper limit of 300 minutes is ideal.

You can help reduce your risk of cancer by making healthy choices like eating right, staying active, and not smoking. It is also important to follow recommended screening guidelines, which can help detect certain cancers early. And never let paying for your mammogram stop you from getting one. Contact Oak Orchard Health at (585) 637-3905 and we can help you find financial support.

Is tea or coffee the healthier choice?

Millions of people consume coffee or tea, with some even enjoying multiple cups of these caffeinated beverages daily. Coffee is known to perk a person up in the morning, while tea is touted as a relaxing drink that can ease away stress. Some may wonder if one of these popular beverages is more beneficial for overall health than the other. Both, it turns out, have distinctive benefits.

Coffee and certain teas contain caffeine, a powerful stimulant for the central nervous system. Caffeine may improve endurance exercise outcomes and improve mental alertness. Healthline says that caffeine may reduce type 2 diabetes risk by improving insulin sensitivity. In addition, moderate caffeine intake has been linked to protective effects against dementias, metabolic syndrome and non-alcoholic fatty liver disease. Since coffee tends to have higher concentrations of caffeine than black tea (95 mg vs. 47 mg in an eight-ounce serving), it can provide more caffeine-related benefits than tea.

Both tea and coffee have high levels of antioxidants that can help people reduce their risk for certain illnesses. The National Cancer Institute reports that antioxidants in both tea and coffee have been shown to slow the growth of cancerous tumors. Tea may help lower cholesterol and the polyphenols in tea could boost good bacteria in the gut, according to Eat This, Not That! People may be more inclined to drink more coffee and tea so they can consume more antioxidants. However, excess coffee consumption can make people jittery from too much caffeine. Since tea has less caffeine, it might make for a better choice.

But tea and coffee provide similar health benefits, and one isn't necessarily better than the other.

Do you have HEEL pain or ARCH pain?

HEEL SPUR SYNDROME/PLANTAR FASCITIS is a common problem among people who are active. It starts as a dull intermittent pain in the heel which may progress to a sharp persistent pain. Classically, it is worse in the morning with the first few steps, after sitting, after standing, or after walking.

- Plantar fasciitis often begins with irritation and tearing of the fibrous band of tissue on the bottom of the foot, which may eventually result in the formation of a heel spur.

- Contributing factors: flat pronated feet, high arched feet, poor shoe support, increased age, sudden weight increase, increased activity level, family tendency.

- Approximately 2-3 times your body weight of force is exerted on each foot with walking. Flexible, non-custom molded arch support found at those advertised shoe stores cannot support these forces and usually do not provide long-lasting relief, do not come with a lifetime warranty, and are typically more expensive than custom-molded ones made by our office.

- 95 percent of our patients symptoms are resolved with conservative treatment, avoiding surgical intervention.

- We also offer surgical procedures with the best post-op success rates using Endoscopic Plantar Fasciotomy techniques and EPF resulting in minimal incisions and scarring, immediate ambulation and often back in a shoe in one week.

If you can't remember when your feet didn't hurt, now is the time to give us a call!

The entrance to the city of Pompeii with the view of Mt Vesuvius looming in the distance.

This is the third in a series of articles from a Mediterranean Adventure I took in August. This post will focus on the first port of the Mediterranean cruise portion of the trip – Naples, Italy.

We were told that when in Italy, it is called Napoli, not Naples – they said that “Naples” is in Florida! Hahaha! Napoli is the capital of Campania and is the third largest city in Italy after Rome and Milan. Napoli comes from the Greek word Neapolis which means “new city” or “new town”. It was originally given this name by its early Greek inhabitants in the 8th century BC.

We arrived in port at 6:15 am and had to be back on ship no later than 4:30 pm, so we didn’t have a lot of time in that port. Possible sights to see while in this port were Napoli, Sorrento, the Amalfi Coast, Isle of Capri, and Pompeii. I chose to do a 4 hour “Pompeii on Your Own” tour that started at 8:15 am. A bus took us from the ship to Pompeii with a guide who talked about what we were seeing along the way – so it was also a Napoli city tour – and what we could expect when we got there. She then walked us from where the bus had to park to the site and showed us where to get audio headsets and where to go, etc.

It was the most amazing feeling and so cool to be standing in a place that was destroyed by a volcano in 79 AD..... 1,943 years ago.....and it’s ruins are still there telling their story.....mind blowing!!! The entrance to the city with the view of Mt Vesuvius in the distance had me overwhelmed with emotion and sense of awe over the idea of what happened there almost 2000 years ago. We think we have history here – 200+ years, but going anywhere in Europe and other countries show us just how inferior that timeframe is. WOW!!!

So – if you didn’t pay attention in history class... Pompeii was an ancient city located in what is now the commune of Pompeii, near Naples in the Campania region of Italy. Pompeii, along with many villas in the surrounding area, was buried under 4 to 6 meters (13 to 20 ft) of volcanic ash and pumice during the eruption of Mount Vesuvius in AD 79. Largely preserved under the ash, the excavated city offered a unique snapshot of Roman life, frozen at the moment it was buried. Approximately 1,150 bodies have been found on site so far, so the theory is that many did have time to escape the devastation. But, can you imagine? Seeing history up close and personal like that is pretty danged amazing!

A lesson learned and a bit of advice for anyone finding themselves in ports with shore excursion options – “On Your Own” excursions can be good or bad, depending on the time you’ll have to spend there. Be aware that “on your own” means just that. You’re paying for transportation to the site only - no guided tours and most likely they don’t include entrance fees. I was aware of all of this, so no surprise, there. However, given the time it took the bus to get us to and from Pompeii and the short time we were actually there, I think I would have gotten a lot more out of a guided tour than I did trying to figure it out on my own – especially since my headset was set to a language I didn’t understand...hhmmm. I also got some very upsetting news from home the night before that put a damper on my day. So, I didn’t get to see as much of Pompeii as I would have liked. But, it was still a huge thrill just being there. I mean, how could it NOT be?

So, when choosing shore excursions, do a bit of research. Read the reviews (unfortunately, in this case, there were no reviews to read). Determine how much time you’ll have to actually spend at the site to be sure you’ll have enough time to really enjoy it. After all, it may be the only time you’ll ever be there and you don’t want to regret not getting the most out of it. Don’t get me wrong, though – some “on your own” tours are awesome and worth the investment. Just be sure to know what to expect.

For more info and photos about Pompeii, check out my Blog Post: <https://thoughtsbykim.com/2022/08/26/2022-mediterranean-adventure-naples-and-pompeii/>

Happy Adventuring,
