Master Gardeners Offer Wreath-making Class in Pre-Pandemic Format

'People are just so happy being together, and it brings back fond memories of being a kid, going to cut your Christmas tree, the smell of the greens.'

Press Release, Orleans County Master Gardener Program

KNOWLESVILLE – Orleans County Cornell Cooperative Extension Master Gardeners are gearing up for one of their most popular workshops of the year – their Wreath-Making Class – on Nov. 28.

This year, the master gardeners are thrilled to be able to offer the class in its original pre-Covid format at two different times, 2 p.m. or 6 p.m., on Monday, Nov. 28.

In this hands-on workshop, Master Gardeners provide all of the supplies needed to create the holiday wreaths, the base evergreen branches, accent materials like pinecones and dried flowers, holiday ribbon, and some decorative trinkets.

Participants are encouraged to bring their own pruners and gloves, plus any additional accents they would like to really personalize the wreaths. By the end of the class, each participant has their own truly unique masterpiece to hang on their door or wall.

"I think people really enjoy the hands-on part, that they get to make their own wreath," said Janelle Flammger, Master Gardener chairperson of the event, "It's just so neat to see everyone's final product – they all start out with the same materials and yet every single wreath turns out completely different and uniquely beautiful."

The Wreath-Making Workshop has been a Master Gardener tradition for years, a staple in the program lineup that stays constant despite changes in staff, volunteers, or circumstances.

"We were really fortunate that we were able to hold the workshops in 2020 when so many other events and programs were cancelled because of Covid," said Katie Oakes, CCE staff coordinator of the Master Gardener Program. "We did have to tweak the format a bit to comply with the safety protocols at the time, but people were just so grateful to still be able to do something fun and creative in such a tumultuous time."

In 2020 the workshop was offered as a series of small classes, with a max capacity of eight participants per class. Last year, in December 2021, the capacity of participants was increased, but social distancing was still recommended so the class size continued to be restricted.

Now that Covid limitations have been widely lifted, Master Gardeners are thrilled to be able to offer the workshop like they always have – in a big room, everyone all together, sharing creative ideas, and encouraging each other.

"I really love the social aspect of this workshop," said long-time Master Gardener Eileen Sorochty. "People are just so happy being together, and it brings back fond memories of being a kid, going to cut your Christmas tree, the smell of the greens. It's nostalgic."

Master Gardeners wanted to offer the class shortly after Thanksgiving so that participants could enjoy their fresh wreath for as long as possible before the holidays.

The cost for this workshop is $30 per wreath. To sign up for the Wreath-Making workshop or for more information on the Master Gardener program, call the Orleans County CCE office at 585-798-426 or email Katie Oakes at klo54@cornell.edu.

Don't Limit Yourself to Online Applications During Your Job Search

You want that job search to last and last? Well, then continue to rely solely on submitting online applications. You want to accelerate this bad boy? Don't stop once you apply online for that position. Start finding and then endearing yourself to people working at that company of interest. Schedule informational interviews with would-be peers. Approach an internal recruiter and ask a few questions. Get on the radar of the very people who might influence you getting an interview. (More on that here.)

Pro Tip

By lining up with people on the inside of the companies at which you want to work, you will instantly set yourself apart. Decision makers interview people who come recommended or by way of a personal referral before they start sorting through the blob of resumes that arrives by way of the ATS.

If You're Not on LinkedIn, You Very Nearly Don't Exist

Considering that more than 90% of recruiters use LinkedIn as their primary search tool, this is not an understatement. If you're a professional, you need to not only be on LinkedIn, you need to be using it to your full advantage. Don't believe me? Think about it this way: If tomorrow morning, a recruiter logs onto LinkedIn looking for someone in your geography, with expertise in what you do, and you're not there? Guess who they're going to find and contact? Yes, that person's name is "not you."

Pro Tip

If you figure out how to harness the power of no other social media tool for job search, figure out LinkedIn. It's (by far) the best resource we have available today for career and job search networking, for finding people working at companies of interest, and for positioning yourself to be found by a recruiter who has a relevant job opening.

Orleans/Niagara BOCES' CTE Students Inducted into National Technical Honor Society

Congratulations to the Career and Technical Education students from the Orleans (OCTEC) and Niagara (NCTEC) Career and Technical Education Centers who were recently inducted into the National Technical Honor Society. Out of all the high school students in the United States, the National Technical Honor Society students who receive this honor comprise 1.6 percent of that population. For staff at the Orleans/BOCES center, they represent the four pillars of the National Technical Honor Society: scholarship, leadership, service and character.

The students were honored in front of their teachers, families and school district representatives. The students had to maintain an 89.5 grade average in their career and technical education programs and an 84.5 average at their high schools, have superior attendance, exemplary behavior, be a member in good standing with SkillsUSA and have a recommendation from a faculty member.

CONGRATULATIONS GO TO:

How to Time Holiday Shopping Right

The holiday season begins at the end of November and stretches into the first week of January. But this five-week stretch may not necessarily be the best time for everyone to shop.

Harvard Business Review says that the retail industry has been turned on its head in recent years, and shoppers and retailers may want to rethink their approaches to the holiday shopping season. Consumers are no longer interested in retailers dictating their shopping schedules, and some people have grown accustomed to buying products when they want them — especially when price is of no concern.

Even budget-conscious shoppers have changed their habits, says the shopping advisor RetailNext. Many holiday shoppers are delaying their shopping until January to take advantage of post-season sales.

Holiday shopping need not wait until after the holiday season, either. A 2017 RetailMeNot survey found that 45 percent of U.S. consumers said they planned to start shopping before Nov. 1. One-quarter of the survey respondents said they planned to start shopping before October, and 12 percent started shopping for the holidays in the summer.

So when should consumers do their holiday shopping? It all depends on what fits a person's individual needs.

• Shop sales, not schedules. If budget is a big concern, shoppers should grab items that are on sale whenever they are available. That can mean shopping at any time of the year. People can try making a master shopping list early in the year and saving it on their mobile phones. While shopping throughout the year, items from the list can be purchased and stored until the holidays.

• Shop your strengths. Those who get a thrill from tackling their entire shopping list in one haul can still do that. Shopping in this manner can help shoppers focus on the task at hand and reduce the likelihood of wasting time. But keep in mind that, according to a survey conducted by Business Wire, 65 percent of holiday shoppers scramble to complete their purchases in the last two weeks before Christmas, so shoppers who delay may be stuck in long lines at the mall.

• Embrace in-store pickup. Many retailers are merging their online and brick-and-mortar operations. Shoppers have the convenience of price-comparison and online shopping, with the physical enjoyment of going out to the store to complete their purchases. In-store pickup often enables shoppers to avoid hefty shipping fees, as in-store pickup is free. Plus, scoping out items online — and ensuring they're in stock — saves the hassle of making a trip in vain.

Shoppers can look beyond the conventional holiday season to get the best prices and deals that fit their shopping needs.

The Dan Yoder Family

Much of the focus of each holiday season is on gift-giving, but all those gifts will eventually need to be wrapped. Stacks of presents just waiting to be covered with paper and ribbon can overwhelm gift givers, prompting them to put off wrapping gifts until the last minute.

Handle oddly-shaped items

Wrapping rectangular boxes can be a snap, but what about something that's round or full of angles? Think about placing oddly-shaped items inside another item to make the shape more uniform. Shoe boxes, coffee cans and even paper towel rolls can hold items. Then place the wrapping on these containers.

Cover prices

To enable easy exchanges or returns, do not cut off the price tags of gifts. Instead, place a festive sticker over the dollar amount, but leave the scan bar visible. This way the gift recipient can return the gift with ease if necessary.

Keep supplies at the ready

Devote a bin or bins to wrapping supplies and tools. Having scissors, paper, tape, ribbon, and more in a designated spot will cut down on having to hunt and peck when it comes time to wrap. Martha Stewart suggests getting a rotary cutter to cut long straight or decorative edges on wrapping paper. Rotary cutters may be easier to use than scissors, especially when paired with a ruler.

Wrap on a firm surface

Devote a table or counter to wrapping gifts. This will keep the paper taut and neat and make it easier to cut and position. You risk tearing the paper or puncturing it when working on carpeting or bedding.

Color- or pattern-code gifts

It's easy to visualize who gets what gift when each recipient has his or her own special wrapping paper. This is also a handy idea when wrapping gifts from Santa, as it will differentiate the Santa gifts from the ones being given by Mom and Dad. ■

CONSIDER THESE 13 GRATIFYING THANKSGIVING FACTS

Thanksgiving is a time to gather with family and friends and reflect on one's blessings. In 2022, Canadian Thanksgiving takes place on October 10, while Americans celebrate on November 24. In anticipation of these holidays, here are some interesting facts about the Thanksgiving celebration.

1. American Thanksgiving is largely modeled on a 17th century harvest feast shared by the English settlers and the Wampanoag tribe.
2. Canadians celebrate Thanksgiving on the second Monday of October. It is based on European harvest festivals.
3. The National Turkey Federation says around 45 million turkeys will be eaten on Thanksgiving, which equates to about 720 million pounds of turkey being consumed (with the average turkey size being 16 pounds).
4. The Butterball hotline answers roughly 100,000 calls every year on its turkey question hotline.
5. In 1953, the Swanson company overestimated the number of frozen turkeys it would sell for the holiday season by 26 tons. Rather than waste the meat, Swanson sliced it up, repackaged it and created the first frozen TV dinners.
6. Thanksgiving in America may be older than many recognize. While Thanksgiving is largely tied to the 17th century settlers, the National Parks Service says in 1565 Spanish settlers in St. Augustine (now Florida) celebrated by having a meal to which they invited the native Seloy tribe. The Spanish served pork stew, sea biscuits, red wine, and garbanzo beans. Some say the Seloy contributed turkey, venison and maize.
7. Thanksgiving didn't become a civic holiday until Abraham Lincoln made it one after the Civil War tragedy. Thanksgiving was declared a national holiday on October 20, 1864.
8. The Pilgrims did not refer to themselves as "pilgrims." They used the word "separatists" as they were separating themselves from a larger belief system.
9. In addition to Canada and the United States, Grenada, Liberia, the Philippines, Saint Lucia, and the Netherlands celebrate their own versions of Thanksgiving.
10. Each year, the American president "pardons" a turkey from slaughter on Thanksgiving. This tradition dates back to when Abraham Lincoln's son was upset that his family's turkey that was going to be killed for Thanksgiving dinner.
11. According to the U.S. Calorie Control Council (CCC), an average American may consume 4,500 calories and 229 grams of fat on Thanksgiving Day.
12. The Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade is an annual tradition. People line the parade route in New York City or tune in to watch the parade on television. It originated in 1924 and the famed balloons were added in 1927.
13. Apple pie is the pie of choice for Thanksgiving, even though pumpkin pie is prevalent this time of year.

Thanksgiving is a popular holiday in Canada and the U.S. Many traditions have been borne of the holiday, and it is a favorite time of year for many people.

Shop smart for vintage signs

Decorating with vintage pieces can add an eclectic flair that sets your home apart from others. Instead of the cookie-cutter designs mass-produced for home centers and department stores, antique decor can be interesting, eye-catching and, depending on where you shop, more affordable.

Online auctions are another place to search for vintage signs. Buyers can bid on signs offered at auction and have many options to choose from. Keep in mind that you may pay more for the convenience of online auctions, and other shoppers can quickly drive up auction prices.

Antique shops are another venue for antique signs and coordinating pieces. Some sellers specialize in vintage signage. Antique stores are popular in many tourist towns and major cities, where more artistic neighborhoods tend to include one or more antique shops. If a particular antique store does not have what you are looking for, they may be able to secure certain pieces you desire from other vendors.

Shoppers looking for antique signs also can purchase reproductions. There are many retailers that produce very good likenesses that may be considerably more affordable than the originals. You also can commission an artist to reproduce signage that fits with your design plans. Some research online or a query of artists in your community may yield prospects who can produce the sign you covet.

Decorating with vintage signs and other artwork becomes much easier when you know where to start your search for materials. Scouring sales, antique stores and even online auctions can generally produce a bevy of options.

What to give new homeowners this holiday season

The real estate market has been a wild ride in recent years. Sellers have cashed in on record-breaking profits, and buyers have had to compete against many others — sometimes in bidding wars — for a limited number of properties. Once listed, homes are selling fast. As interest rates rise and inventory increases, things are likely to change, though for some it did not come soon enough.

Individuals who were lucky enough to find a new home this year may discover they now have little money to outfit those homes. Shoppers with new homeowners on their holiday shopping lists may want to help those loved ones outfit their homes this season. The following are some home-related gift ideas to get shoppers started.

• Video/smart doorbell: Although the smart doorbell market began with only a handful of options, there's now a bevy of manufacturers who make video and smart home doorbells. These doorbells serve the dual purpose of alerting homeowners to someone at the door, while providing surveillance of the comings and goings outside of the home. Depending on the product, a subscription may be needed to access video history. Doorbells range from $50 to $200 and more depending on features and resolution.

• Furniture gift card: There's a good chance new homeowners will need to furnish new rooms in a home, particularly if they're coming from an apartment or a smaller place. Many people also like to update furnishings when they move into new places. A gift card to a popular furniture store in the area will provide the head-start new homeowners need to secure sofas, dining sets, lamps, rugs, and more.

• Household tool kit: What better way to prepare new homeowners for the do-it-yourself projects and household repairs than with a tool kit? Home improvement retailers often package common tools needed in carrying cases or sets, but shoppers can grab separate items they think will be used and group them together into one gift. Pliers, screwdrivers, wrenches, a level, and measuring tape are good starter tools.

• Customized doormat: Give that new home additional curb appeal with a doormat customized with a special message or the new homeowners' names, such as Welcome to the Smith Home. Other customizable products include cutting boards and wall plaques.

• Programmable thermostat: A programmable or learning thermostat will help new homeowners save on their energy bills. Many thermostats now pair with smart home systems and phones and automatically adjust the temperature as needed to reduce energy consumption.

• Linens: A high thread count sheet set or plush Turkish cotton towels may not be something new homeowners think to get for themselves. But these luxurious gifts can make life at home more comfortable.

Moving into a new home is an exciting yet expensive endeavor. Carefully curated gifts can tap into what new homeowners need the most.

Travel Thoughts By Kim

Let's go on an adventure together...when things don't go as planned!

I tend to paint a joyful, easy picture of traveling and probably 95+% of the time, that's absolutely correct. But.... it would be unfair to not tell you about some of the times traveling did not go exactly as planned. Oh, those times can certainly be challenging, upsetting, frustrating, and, yes, even a bit scary at the time! But, every one of them turned out to be times that I look back on with a chuckle and a reminder that sometimes it's the not so perfect things that become our most interesting of memories! You've got to try to keep calm and keep your sense of humor or you can risk totally ruining your vacation for something you have absolutely no control over. Here are just a few examples that I now laugh about:

First: the issue of lost luggage. I've heard stories about this, but honestly, I've flown a LOT between all the years of off and on business travel and traveling for pleasure and it has only happened to me one time. I was flying from Raleigh to Buffalo when I lived in NC to come home to Albion for Christmas. I got to Buffalo and my luggage didn't join me. The airline was great. They told me they would find it and bring it to me as soon as they got it back. Luckily, I was visiting my Mom and it wasn't an issue to not have my luggage – just a minor inconvenience. The airline found it right away and delivered it to Mom's the next day! I discovered that it went to California!!! I had a serious talk with that suitcase – I told it that I am nice enough to take it with me everywhere I go and it had the unmitigated gall to go to sunny California and let me continue on to snowy Buffalo! Hahaha But, seriously, this is something that happens from time to time.....it can be a lot more than a minor inconvenience, depending the situation. But, there isn't much you can do about it – the airline will usually find it and get it to you as quickly as they can. Plus, it's a good reminder to pack at least one good change of clothes and your medications in your carry-on bag. Also, ensure you have your name, address, and phone # on your checked bag with other visual things to distinguish it (stickers, ribbons, something).....AND – ALWAYS take a photo of your luggage with your phone before you leave in case you need to give it to the people who will be searching for it.

My luggage went to California without me!

Getting lost: I am one of the most directionally challenged individuals on the planet. I have gotten lost all over the world – I used to say “all across the country”, but I recently got lost trying to find my way back to my hotel in Rome, so I've upgraded the reference. One of my favorite stories was when I was in Colorado in 2019. A tour guide told me that Cripple Creek and Victor were wonderful old cowboy towns and I should definitely put them on my agenda. So I did! I found my way there and visited both towns – it was not a good day to go because everything I wanted to see was either closed or I just plain couldn't find it. So, I looked around, got some great photos and tried to head back to Colorado City. Well....my GPS kept trying to put me on questionable looking dirt roads and the one highway it kept directing me to was the one between the two towns with no exits. I literally drove that one highway EIGHT TIMES between Cripple Creek and Victor and could not find my way back to Colorado City. I found myself singing the words to the Eagles' Hotel California – “you can check out anytime you like, but you can never leave!” Since the towns were literally closed, I couldn't find anyone to help direct me – I was on my own. I finally gave in and took one of the dirt roads, thinking my GPS must know what it's talking about. It ended up being a STEEP windy one lane path with lots of big boulders to maneuver around that ended with a fence that said “No Trespassing – Do Not Enter!” I had to do a very precarious three point turn and climb back up out onto the paved road – luckily I had a SUV that managed the climb and the boulders very nicely. I did find my way back – without the help of my GPS, which I threw into the back seat after that mess – I just kept turning in the direction I thought would get me there and bam – there I was! Moral of that story: I was pretty scared and worried at the time, but I survived and I now have a story that I really enjoy telling and I think of it every time Hotel California comes on the radio.

Flight issues: Flight delays and cancellations are never fun. But, please remember that it isn't the fault of the poor airline personnel who you have to deal with. Don't take it out on them. It only makes them less likely to help you and puts you in a foul mood. One example were I was actually the only one to blame was when I went to Hawaii in 2020. I somehow misjudged my time and arrived at the airport too late to make my flight. The airport staff were great and got me on the next flight, but I was a bundle of nerves and my imagination went wild on me. I ended up with a very tight layover that even the slightest delay would have caused me to not only miss my connecting flight in JFK, but also the first day of my cruise to Hawaii! It all worked out, but it was the most tense few hours of my life. Another recent example was when I went to Scotland earlier this year with 19 others on a group trip. Our flight out of Glasgow was delayed enough that we knew before we left that we were likely going to miss our connecting flight in Amsterdam – and we did miss it! We lucked out having Mitzy from Orleans Travel actually traveling with us – it wasn't easy getting 17 people rebooked (2 didn't need to stay with us), but she worked her magic and got us all home. It wasn't without much more drama and the need to stay overnight in Amsterdam, but we all survived and eventually got home and we all have an awesome story to tell.

These are just a few examples that stick out as times things didn't go as planned for me. My point to this is that things are bound to happen from time to time. The important thing to remember is to not let it totally ruin your trip or your well-being. It is usually just one of those things – you'll survive – it will work out somehow. Just try to stay calm and don't shoot the messenger – getting all upset won't change the situation. Remember, you'll likely end up laughing about it when looking back at it.

For more details on the stories behind these examples, check out these blog posts:

Happy Adventuring,
Kim Pritt

No one to blame but myself for almost missing my connecting flight to Hawaii – but, as you can see, I made it!

PRESS RELEASE

Orleans County to Participate in STOP-DWI Thanksgiving High Visibility Engagement Campaign

Orleans County STOP-DWI Coordinator, Sheriff Christopher M. Bourke announced that local law enforcement agencies will actively participate in the STOP-DWI Thanksgiving High Visibility Engagement Campaign which runs from November 23-27, 2022.

As Thanksgiving Eve is one of the biggest drinking nights of the year, it is vital that law enforcement presence be at its peak on this night to bring awareness to the dangers of impaired driving, reminding drivers to have a Plan while traveling to prevent injuries and save lives.

During this campaign, Law enforcement agencies and local STOP-DWI Programs will collaborate across the state in this coordinated effort to reduce the number of impaired driving-related injuries and deaths.

The STOP-DWI High Visibility Engagement Campaigns are promoted by New York STOP-DWI Association with additional funding from the Governor's Traffic Safety Committee and implemented by the STOP-DWI Foundation
