St. Joseph Township Lays Out Five Year Park Plan

After sending out a community survey earlier this year and a public hearing Monday, the St. Joseph Charter Township Board of Trustees approved a five-year parks plan for 2023-2027.

Abonmarche Grant Administrator Joelle Regovich presented details from the plan during the public hearing.

“Basically, the plan sets out some goals,” Regovich said. “These are flexible, they can change over time, but [it] kind of lets the community think about where the township wants to spend their dollars.

In the 163-page document, the township set six goals:

Goal 1: Continue efforts to increase connectivity between users and recreation opportunities.

- Add and improve non-motorized trails where possible.
- Continue to develop township trail network plan and work collaboratively with regional trail network planning efforts.
- Add sidewalks when possible, on road reconstruction projects.

Goal 2: Increase access to public recreation for all mobility levels

- Add access pathways and amenities at parks that support a wide range of user abilities.
- Seek input from a variety of user groups on how to best serve mobility levels.
- Promote the benefits of an active lifestyle.

Goal 3: Continue to add to or improve recreation opportunities within the Township.

- Acquire new land for public recreation when available or feasible.
- Add features and recreation opportunities that are in high demand by the community, such as pickleball and non-motorized trails.
- Add more ways to recreate or passively enjoy natural areas.
- Increase recreation opportunities along the St. Joseph River.
- Collaborate with surrounding municipalities and county to provide cost effective, non-duplicative recreation opportunities.

cians of tomorrow, by joining in for an afternoon of musical excellence, featuring a selection of classical and holiday favorites from this season's youth ensembles. The Youth Symphony, conducted by Burke Lokey, will perform Tchiakovsky's "The Nutcracker," "Dance of the Knights" from Prokofiev's Romeo and Juliet, and "Millennium" by be performing The Christmas Ship Concert with songs of Michigan history, maritime, and holiday music, including his original song, "The Christmas Ship." Broadly acknowledged as "The premier interpreter of songs and stories about the Great Lakes," Lee Murdock has a boundless body of music and stories about his home region. He combines traditional songs from the days of sail alongside some of his own musical compositions, all depicting some aspect of history and life on the Great Lakes. Celebrate the season on Wednesday, December 14 at 6:30 p.m. at the Maritime Heritage Center, South Haven.

On Saturday, December 17 from 4-7 pm, the Niles History Center will host a special evening open house. Visitors will have the opportunity to see the Fort St. Joseph Museum and Chapin Mansion dressed up for the holidays and decorated by various individuals and community groups in this year's theme: "Season's Greetings." This is the last chance to see the holiday decorations at the Chapin Mansion before the end of the 2022 season.

A Charlie Brown Christmas Live on Stage, produced by Gershwin Entertainment, is a fresh take on the timeless classic that gives the audience a completely new way of experiencing the story that is portrayed by real actors who maintain the integrity and spirit of each Peanuts character. This Emmy and Peabody award-winning story, by Charles M. Schulz, has been a longstanding tradition and has warmed the hearts of millions of fans since it first aired on television over 50 years ago. Join Charlie Brown, Snoopy, Lucy, Linus, and the rest of the Peanuts gang in their journey to uncover the true meaning of Christmas on Saturday, December 17 at 8:00 p.m. at the Four Winds Casino, New Buffalo.

The music and the magic of A Motown Christmas returns to the Mendel Center on Sunday, December 18 at 7:00p.m. just in time to get you into the holiday spirit. The Motortown All-Stars are back by popular demand featuring an all-star line-up of vocalists and musicians assembled from the ranks of the Contours, the Miracles, and the Temptations. Expect impeccable harmonies, flashy outfits and dazzling choreography.

The sun may be setting early on Wednesday, December 21, but the lights will be bright at the North Berrien Historical Museum in Coloma for the Lights of the Winter Solstice. During this special evening open house, from 5:00-7:00 p.m., visitors are welcome to view and vote on the sponsored holiday trees which have been decorated by local businesses, organizations, and society members. For all the last-minute shoppers out there, this is a fantastic opportunity to pick up holiday presents from the gift shop and also find one-of-a-kind gingerbread house kits.

Head

As we put the wrap and bow around another year, we take time to cherish those that are close to us and to remember those that we've lost over this past year.

As I look back each year, I am always grateful for the advertisers who have supported MailMax over the past 23 years. Without them, we simply would not exist as a local source of information.

The MailMax slogan proudly proclaims that we are Your Good News Paper, and our mission is to provide good news every week to as many homes as we can afford; currently, that is over 37,000 households each and every week!

Along with providing you with a free subscription and helping local businesses grow, we also sponsor more than 50 non-profit organizations each year with advertising space in MailMax and online at our site www.MailMaxOnline.com. Suicide prevention, feeding the hungry, supporting veterans, fighting cancer, and promoting the arts are among the crucial causes that we support financially and through promotion.

Each December, we launch a Voluntary Pay Campaign to help ensure that MailMax can continue to not only deliver good news and information to you, but to also improve upon the services we offer to both our readers and our clients. Your contributions enable us to do this. The Voluntary Pay Campaign helps enable us to say "yes" to these local non-profits who do so much for our community and say "yes" to the families that could otherwise not afford a newspaper subscription.

Inside this edition of MailMax, you'll find your Contribution Envelope. We have several levels of donation, and those who give will be honored in an upcoming issue of MailMax. Contribution levels start at just $10. At that level, you've earned the Honorary Reporter title. At $20, you are an Honorary Editor. For only $30, you can be an Honorary Publisher. You can give any other amount you'd like. For instance, one time Jeff Painter gave me one dollar. We are still looking for a $2 million donor who will get the title... "Owner!"

Besides the contribution envelope, you may send your donation quickly and easily through our PayPal account which is online at www.paypal.me/MailMax or you can scan the QR code below with your smart phone's camera to start the process.

Whether you participate in the Voluntary Pay Campaign program or not, we will continue to deliver your MailMax each week, free of charge, right to your home.

Merry Christmas. Hanukkah Sameach. Happy New Year. And thank you.

Over the last year I'm sure most of you have become aware of businesses and individuals who continue to do great things in Southwest Michigan. Now is the time where I'd ask that you share those names with me as we prepare for our 2023 Business Recognition Breakfast. Nominations will be accepted through Friday, December 16th. - Small Business of the Year Award: A local small business that stands out for developing an outstanding, growing business; offering innovative product(s) and/or services, increasing jobs, increasing sales, overcoming adversity, and for making significant community contributions. The applicant for this award should be the highest-ranking person in the company.

- Non-Profit Excellence Award: A 501(c)3 organization that demonstrates excellence in providing a service to our community and/or in advocating, enabling, and empowering an underserved, underrepresented or disadvantaged population in our area.

- Best New Business: A new stand out business to Southwest Michigan that is between six months and two years old, has demonstrated levels of excellence in their product category and in providing service to the community.

Regovich said the majority of residents agreed the most important was the need for the township to increase ADA accessibility, and increase non-motorized paths and trails through the township – including ones which connect to the rest of the county.

“Our goal is to keep people healthy,” said Township Supervisor Roger Seely, adding the township would like to connect the incoming athletic complex at Maiden Lane and Hollywood Road to Eden Park.

“Trying to get to open recreation in any other way than a car can be very difficult,” Regovich said. “It’s in the best interest of everybody to have more than one way to get there.”

The St. Joseph Charter Township board also accepted a $200,000 Great Lakes Fishery Grant to be used for improvements to Carronde Park, including the installation of fishing platforms, a kayak launch and connecting sidewalks. The project is expected to be completed by Oct. 2, 2023.

According to township manager Denise Cook, the grant will be used as a township match on a previous $600,000 project. An earlier grant $200,000 was secured via a Michigan Department of Natural Resources grant, which required a match of $200,000 from the township. The township will commit an additional $200,000 for $600,000 worth of improvements to the park, which has about 1,000 feet of river shoreline.

In addition to improved sidewalks, the project includes repairing the tennis courts, adding pickleball courts, adding paved parking, benches, picnic tables, recycle bins and improved signage.

Dave Says

A Travel Agent for Guilt Trips

Dear Dave,
My dad and his wife asked my husband and me for $55,000. They want the money so they can pay off their debt. We're debt-free and have a net worth of between $2 to 3 million, but we're also retired. We don't keep that much in the bank, so we'd have to draw from our retirement accounts—which is something we don't want to do. They've already approached other family members about this too. His wife is owed money at some point from a family settlement, but they don't want to wait that long. My dad said we should do this if we want them to get ahead and have anything left in their later years. My dad is 80, and his wife is in her late 70s. My husband and I are both in our 50s. Please tell me how to handle this.

Karla
Dear Karla,
In their later years? I'm not trying to be mean, but they're already in their later years.
I'm really sorry you're in this situation. Even though you're in your 50s, he's still your dad, and I know this hurts your heart. It's probably even tougher to accept the fact that he's being manipulative. I mean, seriously. What dad calls up his daughter with the idea he's entitled to $55,000 of her money and starts acting like a travel agent for guilt trips in the process? That's just wrong.

Look, if the relationship and the situation were different, we might have something to talk about. With your net worth, you're not going to miss $55,000 out of $2 to 3 million. In a good relationship, I'd help my mom or dad like that in a heartbeat—just to help them out because they're older. But this situation already is what it is. Something tells me this isn't the first time he's behaved in a manipulative way. And if you say yes to this, then I've got a feeling it isn't the first time you've caved in to him. I'm worried you won't be able to live with yourself if you do this, and that it may cause a big rift between you and your husband.

It's wrong of your dad to treat you this way and put you in this situation. If you want to tell him your money's tied up, which it is, or you just don't like the way it feels, that's fine. But my advice is to try to step back from the emotions and come to the realization in your own head that no is a complete answer.

You don't have an ethical or moral obligation to give manipulative people money just because they're related to you.

Assembly Required

The Lord, the God who inspires the prophets, sent his angel to show his servants the things that must soon take place. ~ Revelation 22:6

"Some assembly required." Those can be dreadful words. You purchase a new bookcase, and before you know it, parts and pieces are strewn all over the floor while you pore over the directions. "Insert hardware piece A into side panel 12. Insert hardware piece B into shelf C. Tighten bolt DD with locking nut FF." By the time you get to step 22-3a, you lose patience and try to figure things out on your own. But just when you think you are done, you are concerned that there is still one board, four nuts, and three brackets. For a completely assembled product, you need to follow the steps in order.

From the beginning, God has proved himself a God of order. He didn't create the fish on day five and then slap his forehead, "Ugh! I forgot to create water." Creation had an order. So too, on the other end of the world's timeline, God is all about order. Certain things must take place before this world comes to an end. We may not know all the "things that must soon take place," but "the Lord, the God who inspires the prophets," showed us what we need to know. From the rest of the Bible, we know some steps are quite difficult—wars, natural disasters, persecution. These "things" may not be easy, but according to the God of order, they are necessary.

Such things can be disturbing. But they ought not be surprising. And the fact that the God of order said this is how it would happen brings us great comfort. For it assures us that when this world seems to be spinning out of control, our God is still the One in control. And he is the One who will see us through these things until we reach the perfect new world; he has promised all those who place their trust in Jesus as their Savior from sin and hope for heaven.

Prayer: Lord, assure me that everything I see happening in the world is still according to your great plan. Amen.

There are three things I'm certain of at this moment: Somebody, somewhere, is playing baseball; somebody, somewhere, is listening to Beatles songs; and it's dawning on you that I'm going to once again try to navigate through hordes of fans, they mobbed it, pulling off the hood ornament and side mirrors. . .so the car drove back inside the park.

Turns out there was an armored car available to transport the band – but someone had let the air out of the tires! The next alternative was an ambulance that was standing by. Scully says, "With lights flashing and sirens blaring they would barge through the thousands of kids. But the ambulance went over a speed bump – and the radiator fell out of the vehicle!"

It was decided to try the armored car after all – with fully inflated tires this time. But it was engulfed by fans. Then – Vin invokes a commonly used bit of baseball-announcer-ese – "The Beatles suddenly caught a break." That is, if you consider the Hell's Angels a "break." Because they showed up, encircled the car and finally escorted the Beatles out of the stadium.

Tidbit: The all-seeing Internet indicates that there are four baseballs in existence that bear the signatures of all four Beatles. I wondered what these might be worth and found that one went up for auction in 2020; it appears to have sold for somewhere between $80,000 and $100,000.

The autographs were inked on the ball in 1966, at Candlestick Park in San Francisco, where The Beatles staged their last-ever live performance (until the "Let It Be" rooftop jam). The Fab Four signed it for a San Francisco Giants' clubhouse employee. He gave it to his Beatlemaniac sister. . . who lovingly tossed it into the nether regions of some closet decades ago.

Tidbit: To commemorate the 50th anniversary of the "Sgt. Pepper's Lonely Hearts Club Band" album, at least two minor league baseball teams played games while wearing specialty jerseys styled to look like the gaudy uniforms The Beatles wore for the album's photos. The Toledo Mud Hens and Fresno Grizzlies sported the gear, and reportedly all the players looked really gear. Which is slangy Liverpool "Scouse" meaning "excellent," and which tons of American teenagers began saying in 1964 thanks to George and John uttering it in the film "A Hard Day's Night."

I don't know whether any Mud Hens or Grizzlies augmented their Peppery unis with the paper moustaches that you could snip out of an insert in the Sgt. Pepper's album. But I do know that I still have my copy of that insert, and it's in pristine condition, and I can let it go to you for, say, somewhere between $80,000 and $100,000. If I can just find it in the nether regions of some closet.

TakeFiveT5@yahoo.com

connect those things in a dopey column!

Tidbit: Baseball fans consider the late sportscaster Vin Scully as immortal in his line of work as The Beatles are in theirs. So I was thrilled to find a clip from a 2016 ballgame that Scully called, wherein he reminisced about the Moptops' 1966 concert in Los Angeles' Dodger Stadium.

This is Vin's recollection: When The Beatles finished, they were supposed to pile into a Lincoln Continental and scam. But as the vehicle tried to
