A blind boy sat on the steps of a building with a hat by his feet. He held up a sign which said: "I am blind, please help."

There were only a few coins in the hat.

A man was walking by. He took a few coins from his pocket and dropped them into the hat. He then took the sign, turned it around, and wrote some words. He put the sign back so that everyone who walked by would see the new words.

Soon the hat began to fill up. A lot more people were giving money to the blind boy. That afternoon the man who had changed the sign came to see how things were.

The boy recognized his footsteps and asked, "Were you the one who changed my sign this morning? What did you write?"

The man said, "I only wrote the truth. I said what you said but in a different way." I wrote: "Today is a beautiful day but I cannot see it."

Both signs told people that the boy was blind. But the first sign simply said the boy was blind. The second sign told people that they were so lucky that they were not blind. Should we be surprised that the second sign was more effective?

Moral of the Story: Be thankful for what you have. Be creative. Be innovative. Think differently and positively. When life gives you a 100 reasons to cry, show life that you have 1000 reasons to smile. Face your past without regret. Handle your present with confidence. Prepare for the future without fear. Keep the faith and drop the fear.

The most beautiful thing is to see a person smiling. And even more beautiful, is knowing that you are the reason behind it!

In God's sight, it's beginning to look a lot like Christmas whenever we rediscover the simplicity of His love and bow down in thankfulness and worship, where we are and whatever our circumstances.

David Jeremiah

Uncle Leroy got a job down at the broom factory.

On his first day the straw boss (floor supervisor) calls Leroy into his little office and says, "You the new man huh? What is yer name?"

Leroy replied, "Leroy."

The straw boss says, "I don't call anyone by first names. It breeds familiarity and that leads to breakdown in my authority. I refer to all employees by last names. Now what is your last name."

Leroy sort of smiles and says, "Its Darling - Leroy Darling!"

The straw boss said, "Now Leroy, the next thing....."

Piedmont Pets
 December 22, 2022

My Christmas holiday was almost ruined by a careless mistake. I have a screened-in porch that my completely inside cat (of course) loves to spend time in. Danny is a creature of comfort, so he likes being able to stay in it for a few minutes during the cold weather and then come in to get warm. He has an opening in the storm door for easy access to the porch.

I am always very careful to make sure the porch door is latched. Every day before Danny is allowed in the porch, I check to make sure the screen walls are secure so there is no way for him to get out.

I went home from church Sunday with arms filled with lesson manuals, gifts, and food my sister made me. I remember closing the screened-in porch door before unlocking the storm door and regular door. I went inside and heated up the food.

Danny went in the screened porch. The wind seemed a little strong, but he was fine when I checked on him.

A little bit later, I checked on him again and to my horror, I saw the porch door was ajar and Danny was nowhere to be found. I ran back into the bedroom, just to make sure he wasn't cuddled up there.

He was gone. I panicked and called the shelter manager, April. I remember screaming for her help. Did I overreact? Please understand that I have 30 years of experience, learning what can happen in these situations.

I looked through my yard and finally saw Danny hiding under my neighbor's porch. I knew I couldn't crawl under there to get him, so I called April again. My panicked voice spooked Danny and he ran towards my porch. I was thrilled, until I saw that the front door was closed and Danny was desperately trying to get in. He panicked again I didn't help by screaming to April that he was running towards the road. I hung up, leaving poor April with the impression that he had been hit by a car.

996 South Boston Rd., Danville, VA 24540
Phone: (434) 799-0843

After a couple of heart-stopping minutes, Danny ran back onto the porch and I slammed the door. He and I both took a long time to recover from this.

Why do I tell you this? I do so for several reasons: 1. We all make mistakes and should learn from them. I am double-latching my porch door and am being even more diligent, 2. Our pets do not have the same thought processes we do, and we the sooner we realize that, the better off they will be, and 3. Keeping our animals safe should be a priority.

I am so very, very grateful that this had a happy ending.

'Tis the Season to be Healthy: Maintaining Your Physical and Mental Well-Being During the Holidays

By: Dr. Sheranda Gunn-Nolan

The holiday season is finally here, ringing with the joy of visiting family and friends, attending festive parties, exchanging gifts, sharing delicious meals and giving back to charitable causes. It's "the most wonderful time of the year" as they say. Unfortunately, though – for many of us – this time of year often means more stress and anxiety than usual, balancing a social calendar jam-packed with invitations and commitments, shopping 'til you drop for the perfect gifts or perhaps struggling with a recent loss or the anniversary of the death of a loved one.

Thankfully, there a few simple things you can do amid all the holiday hustle to help make sure you're taking care of your mind and body, while minimizing the stress and strain of the season.

Eat smart.

Although this may be the most wonderful time of the year, it can also be one of the most tempting times to abandon healthy eating habits. With so many opportunities to indulge during the season, a big key to maintaining your health is being mindful of your eating habits. Being mindful doesn't mean depriving yourself entirely though. In fact, healthy holiday eating is easily achievable when you follow these tips:

- Drink at least 64 ounces of water each day – more if you engage in regular physical exercise
- Avoid sugary beverages, like sodas, bottled teas, smoothies, adult beverages and fruit juices
- Aim for smaller portions of your favorite holiday treats

- Plan and prepare healthy snacks and meals around your holiday feasts
- Pay attention to what you're eating and avoid mindless "grazing"
- Put a heart-healthy spin on your holiday favorites, like using olive oil and herbs and spices instead of unhealthy oils and salt.

Stay active.

Physical activity is one of the most effective ways you can improve or maintain good physical and mental health, and that goes for the holiday season as well. Continuing your regular exercise program or beginning a new physical routine will help you combat any extra holiday calories and keep you feeling good through December and into the new year. Be sure and talk to your provider before you start a new exercise routine.

Know you're not alone.

The holiday season can be a difficult time for many, pained by mental and emotional fatigue. Whether you're facing the first holiday season without a loved one or the pressure to do everything and be everywhere, it's important to know that you don't have to face the season alone. It's okay to ask for help or talk about what you're going through. If you're struggling and need to speak to a counselor or other behavioral health provider, please don't hesitate to do so. The Suicide and Crisis Lifeline is also available 24 hours a day, seven days a week to those in suicidal crisis or extreme emotional distress, by calling 9-8-8. Another way to combat loneliness is to be of service to others. Find an opportunity to share your time and talents through volunteerism. It is true that we get back more than we give when we volunteer!

Visit your provider.

There's no better time than now to schedule your annual wellness exam or any other health screenings you may have been putting off. Annual wellness exams and recommended health screenings give you and your provider the opportunity to catch any health issues before they become serious and avoid any complications that can arise from delaying care. Regular visits with your provider also help you stay on top of things like recommended immunizations and any needed procedures, like hip or knee replacements, a hernia repair, wound care or foot/ankle surgeries. Scheduling your check-up or screening is a great way to help you end 2022 and kick-off 2023 in a healthy way.

Fortunately, many health insurance plans offer regular wellness exams and other age-specific, preventive health screenings – like mammograms and colonoscopies – at little or no cost to you, and out-of-pocket expenses for procedures like the ones mentioned above could be minimal or nothing if you've already met your health insurance deductible for the year. If you've been holding off on scheduling your wellness visit, check with your provider about available end-of-year appointments.

By keeping these tips in mind and taking the holidays in stride, you can effectively reduce your stress level and preserve your peace and joy this season. At Sovah Health, we care about your health and happiness – during the holidays and all year long. We're grateful you choose to come to us for your health and wellness needs and we wish each and every one of you a safe, healthy and happy holiday season!

To find a provider or schedule an appointment, call 844.GO.SOVAH. For more information, visit SovahHealth.com/find-a-doctor.

HOLLYWOOD

by Tony Rizzo

HOLLYWOOD — Jessica Lange has played some of the greatest roles in classic literature, such as Maggie in "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof" (1984), Blanche DuBois in "A Streetcar Named Desire" (multiple productions on stage and screen), Joan Crawford in "Feud: Bette and Joan" (2017), Cora in "The Postman Always Rings Twice" (1981), and Patsy Cline in "Sweet Dreams" (1985). Now, she'll add Mary Tyrone to the list, in Eugene O'Neill's 1956 Pulitzer-Prize-winning play "Long Day's Journey Into Night," set in 1912 Connecticut.

Katharine Hepburn received an Oscar nomination for the 1962 film version, co-starring Sir Ralph Richardson, Jason Robards and Dean Stockwell. In 1982, a made-for-TV movie featured an all-Black cast, starring Ruby Dee. In 1987, Kevin Spacey, Jack Lemmon, Peter Gallagher and Bethel Leslie (as Mary Tyrone) were in another made-for-TV film.

Lange has already won a Tony Award for the 2016 Broadway production, co-starring Gabriel Byrne and Michael Shannon. She's currently represented on big screens in "Marlowe," opposite Liam Neeson and Alan Cumming (releasing Feb. 2023). Filming of "Long Day's Journey" was recently completed in County Wicklow, Ireland, doubling as Connecticut. It's not due until Feb. 20, so she'll be the one to beat at the Oscars next year.

Luke Macfarlane gambled when he quit making Hallmark movies to star in the first gay rom-com from a major studio, "Bros," which, despite good reviews, recouped only $14 million of its $40 million investment. His last Hallmark film, "A Magical Christmas Village," also starred "That Girl" Marlo Thomas.

Luckily, before "Bros" opened, he portrayed a bouncer in the impending big-screen film "Lone Star Bull," as well as starred in AppleTV+'s upcoming 10-episode comedy series "Platonic," with Rose Byrne and Seth Rogen.

In 2018, Macfarlane became an American citizen, so he's definitely here to stay. That was also the year he was rumored to have split from his longtime boyfriend, "Prison Break" star Wentworth Miller, but that rumor may have been just to take the heat off their personal lives for a while.

After 22 Hallmark movies, you'd think he'd know how to find a happy ending!

Austin Butler's not waiting for an Oscar nomination to bolster his career. Right after "Once Upon a Time in Hollywood," he hit Broadway with Denzel Washington in Eugene O'Neill's "The Iceman Cometh" and then immersed himself for two years in everything Elvis Presley for Baz Luhrmann's "Elvis."

Right after the press tour for "Elvis," Butler took on "Dune: Part Two." He then jumped right into "The Bikeriders," with Tom Hardy and "Killing Eve" star Jodie Comer, and started filming the AppleTV+ American war-drama miniseries "Masters of the Air," with "Fantastic Beasts" star Calum Turner.

* "Set up a phone call between kids and grandparents a week or so before visiting. They can talk about what the kids might like to do. It gives the grandparents time to prepare, and it gives kids a chance to build excitement before the trip." -- G.R. in Ohio

* Clean and disinfect a wood cutting board with salt and lemon juice. Sprinkle the board with a healthy dose of plain salt (kosher or coarse salt works best), and scrub it with a cut half of a lemon. Rinse and clean with soap and water.

* Hairspray spritzed on the end of a thread will stiffen it long enough to get it through a needle head. You also can thread your needle in front of a surface that's an opposing color (i.e. a white piece of paper while threading a needle with black thread).

* When shopping for seamless bras, bring a T-shirt that is relatively tight-fitting to wear over the bras. You will know right away if there are seam lines or if the cup is too small. These sometimes get overlooked when a bra is worn under a looser shirt. -- E.D. in Ontario, Canada

* Another use for baking soda: It's a perfect exfoliator. It's good for the whole body and is pH neutral, so it won't overdry skin. To use it, just make a paste and rub onto skin. Rinse and enjoy the softness.

* Cold and flu got you down? Once you clear those symptoms, try gargling with saltwater. It reduces inflammation in your throat and washes away irritants and bacteria.

Serve Up Smiles with Favorite Holiday Sides

FAMILY FEATURES

Turkey and ham may sit centerstage, but classic holiday sides can make the season truly special. You can bring smiles to your loved ones' faces by dishing out those favorite recipes everyone asks for year after year.

Made with a delicious combination of rice, cheddar cheese, cream of mushroom soup and broccoli florets, this quick and easy version of Broccoli and Cheese Rice Casserole is an ideal one-pot dish to keep the holidays simple. With three easy steps and everyday ingredients, it comes together with minimal effort for traditional casserole taste.

When it comes to feeding a crowd, it's often best to let your oven do the work. This Brussels Sprouts and Ham Rice Gratin recipe allows you to serve up a filling favorite with little effort using pantry staples. Plus, it's a kid-friendly way to encourage veggies at this year's holiday meal with gooey cheese providing tempting taste bud motivation.

These seasonal classics and more are made quick and easy with an option like Success Boil-in-Bag Rice, a pre-measured, mess-free way to make fluffy, high-quality rice. It's cooked by simply dropping a bag of rice in a pot of water or broth then boiling it for 10 minutes. BPA-free and FDA-approved, the bags are safe to use and made to withstand high temperatures.

An added bonus: If you're aiming to achieve a particular flavor, just season the rice by cooking in water infused with herbs, spices, broth, coconut milk or other liquids like juice for sweeter recipes.
