Welcome to In Loving Memory

This special section includes listings of community members who were featured in the obituaries section of our newspapers between October 1, 2022- December 31, 2022. You will find a truncated version of the notice featuring the following information, if provided: a photo, date of birth, date of passing, and city of residence.

We publish this to remember those who passed and to create one more keepsake for those who remain.

If so included, please take another look at the guestbook featured on our newspaper website to send another note of support to the bereaved or if you have been affected by a death please visit to remind you of the love and support around you during this difficult time. The guest book lives on line in perpetuity.

We also invite you to receive daily updates of those who have passed in your email by going online and subscribing our newspaper website.

We ask that you take the time to remember those that were lost and join us in a celebration of life.

The next publication will be April 2023.

Tips to cope with the loss of a loved one

The loss of a loved one can be difficult to confront. That difficulty might have been heightened in recent years, when a global pandemic has caused the death of millions, including many people who were otherwise healthy prior to contracting the COVID-19 virus.

Each individual may experience the grieving process in their own unique way, but the American Psychological Association notes that researchers have found that social support and healthy habits can help most people recover from loss. The APA also urges individuals to speak with a licensed mental health professional if they are dealing with severe or complicated grief, a condition marked by broad changes to all personal relationships, a sense of meaninglessness, a prolonged yearning or searching for the deceased, and a sense of rupture in personal beliefs.

The APA reports that some additional strategies may help grieving individuals process and come to terms with the loss of a loved one.

- Discuss the death of your loved one. The APA notes that avoiding talking about a deceased loved one can lead to isolation and a disruption in the healing process. Speaking about the death of a loved one can help individuals understand what happened, and that understanding can facilitate the healing process.

- Take care of your health. Mental Health America, a community-based nonprofit committed to promoting mental health, urges individuals dealing with the loss of a loved one to take care of their own health. After losing a loved one, some people may be in danger of developing a dependence on medication or alcohol that they're using to deal with their grief. It's important that grieving individuals recognize that threat and the role that maintaining one's personal health can play in the healing process. Regular contact with your physician, routine exercise and a healthy diet can promote personal health and may help individuals avoid the pitfalls of addiction after the death of a loved one.

- Accept your feelings. The APA notes that it's normal for grieving individuals to experience a range of emotions, including sadness, anger and exhaustion. Individuals who feel overwhelmed by their emotions are urged to speak with a licensed mental health professional. Such professionals can recommend various strategies to cope with emotions that can sometimes feel overwhelming.

- Celebrate your loved one. The APA recognizes that many people find the anniversaries of a loved one's death to be especially difficult. The APA recommends individuals use such anniversaries as opportunities to celebrate their loved one's life. Plant a garden in a loved one's memory or honor them with a donation to a charity they supported. Such gestures can add some positivity to the anniversary and help in the healing process.

The death of a loved one can inspire a range of emotions. Various strategies can help individuals cope with such losses. More information about grieving is available at www.apa.org.
