Piedmont Pets

March 9, 2023 By Paulette Dean

Virginia used to have a robust humane investigation program. Private citizens who were affiliated with a shelter in Virginia could apply to take a course sponsored by the State Veterinarian's office. The bookwork taught the animal protection laws, as well as legal issues when investigating complaints of cruelty. A final exam was given at any of the state laboratories.

The coursework also required attendance for a day of Circuit Court trials, fieldwork with an animal control officer, and finally, attendance during a necropsy (autopsy of an animal) by a veterinarian.

If all of the requirements were met and a passing grade was received, the participant had to be recommended by the Commonwealth's Attorney in the jurisdiction where court appointment was going to be requested. The local authorities overseeing animal control also had to recommend appointment.

Paperwork certifying all of the above was sent to the Circuit Court judge and the appointment was finalized.

In 1997, I began the course and was appointed as a humane investigator in Danville and Pittsylvania County in 1998. It was a lifetime appointment at that time, provided 15 hours of continuing education credits every three years were obtained. Court-appointed humane investigators had the legal right to investigate complaints of neglect and cruelty and could seize animals.

I quickly realized how dangerous and heartbreaking the work could be. Suddenly, I was witnessing the cruelty when and where it was happening, not just the consequences when animal control officers brought animals to the shelter. Former Commonwealth Attorneys William Fuller (Danville) and David Grimes (Pittsylvania County) were very helpful in answering legal questions.

Shelter manager April Hogan or then-board president Lynn Shelton usually accompanied me. We saw the worst of the worst, but knew that at least we could provide relief for the animals involved. We were "cussed out," threatened, lied about, and ridiculed; however, we were comforted by the fact that we were able to remove animals from horrible circumstances and end hoarding situations. We took hundreds of awful pictures and collected a file cabinet-full of records. It has always chilled me that many people we have investigated later show up in the news for other violent crimes.

Big changes came to the program in 2002; however, I was able to retain my appointments. As current ones retire or resign, they are not replaced unless a person goes through an animal control academy.

I have had to face my lifelong nightmares, but it has been worth it and I am grateful.

DPS, PUBLIC LIBRARY ANNOUNCE COMMUNITY READING CHALLENGE

On Thursday, Danville Public Schools (DPS) and the Ruby B. Archie Public Library announced their partnership on a reading initiative for the city.

The Ruby B. Archie Passport to Reading Challenge calls for Danville citizens to read and log one million books by the end of 2023. The challenge, open to every Danville citizen, is an effort to build a culture of reading beyond the classroom. "We know that strong reading skills are a very important foundation for young children," DPS Superintendent Dr. Angela Hairston said. "By creating and promoting a culture of reading for everyone, our students and our community will see the benefits."

According to the International Literacy Association (ILA), reading builds children's ability to think creatively and critically, expands their knowledge base, and builds their empathy and compassion for others. In addition, the ILA states that children need to have supportive environments and resources for their reading to become lifelong readers.

The challenge was named after Ruby Batts Archie, who dedicated 37 years to teaching students at Danville Public Schools. She taught at both Langston and George Washington High Schools. She also served on Danville City Council for 16 years and as mayor from 1998-2000, the only woman to have done so. The city renamed its public library in her honor in 2018. "It is our absolute pleasure to be a part of this community challenge and want to thank Dr. Hairston for bringing this vision to life," Ruby B. Archie Public Library Director Russell Carter said. "As a parent myself, there is nothing that brings me greater joy than sharing a new adventure with my two boys. I hope everyone will take the opportunity to pick up a book and explore new worlds and new ideas." Through this challenge, participants will be able to log each book they read electronically via Beanstack, a reading challenge platform. Students at Danville Public Schools will use their existing accounts to log their books, while community members will be able to sign up for an account at readdanvilleva.beanstack.org and join the challenge. Beanstack also has a mobile app that participants can use to log their books.

Readers are eligible to earn badges of recognition, as well as win prizes and take part in incentives, as they read. "We hope that our community takes this challenge and knocks it out of the park," Hairston said. "It is our wish to build a community of readers."

Dan River's Farmer Signs with UVA-Wise

Dan River senior basketball player Alicea Farmer recently signed her National Letter of Intent to attend the University of Virginia's College at Wise. Farmer, the daughter of Joel and Lashawn Farmer, chose the Cavaliers out of Wise, Virginia after being recruited by multiple schools and junior colleges.

Farmer led the Wildcats in nearly every category during her senior year. The 5'10" guard/forward averaged 24 points per game, ranking her fourth in the state according to MaxPreps. Farmer averaged 13.1 rebounds, six steals, and nearly four assists per game, finishing this season with 19 double-doubles and four triple doubles. She ended her career second in school history in both scoring (1,024 points) and points scored in a game (43).

DR's Farmer Scores 1000th Point

In her final game in a Wildcat uniform, Dan River's Alicea Farmer would go over the 1,000-point mark for her career. Against Patrick County on February 17, Farmer scored her milestone point on a layup in the second quarter. She would single-handedly keep the Wildcats in the game as she would score 42 of the team's 43 points. Dan River would lose to the Cougars 61-43 but Farmer would earn the respect from the Patrick County community as they presented her a game ball afterwards to celebrate the milestone.

Even Exchange by Donna Pettman

Each numbered row contains two clues and two 6-letter answers. The two answers differ from each other by only one letter, which has already been inserted. For example, if you exchange the A from MASTER for an I, you get MISTER. Do not change the order of the letters.

* Among the many reuses for plastic newspaper bags: Put soiled diapers in before putting in a trash can. Use to pick up after your pet on a walk. Fill with grocery store plastic bags for storage. Keep a few to store wet swimsuits in after a trip to the beach or pool.

* Before removing a splinter, ice the area. Less fussing and a wooden splinter might absorb some liquid, causing it to swell enough to pop out a bit more.

* Recycling paper is good, but reusing before recycling is even better. Ask your child's classroom teacher if he or she has a "both sides" policy for lined papers. Also, copy paper that's printed on only one side can be quartered for quick scratch paper.

* Trying to spot roof damage but not quite sure you're up for climbing a ladder? Before you get up on the roof, get out your binoculars. You'd be surprised how much you can see from the ground, and you can do a cursory examination and then decide if anything needs a closer look.

* Cut kitchen sponges into smaller pieces. They clean as well as a larger sponge, and you can dispose of the smaller pieces when they get yucky. -- O.C. in Michigan

* Need sliced mushrooms for your salad or recipe? They are hard to cut, but you might have a perfect tool for doing the job already in your kitchen. If you have an egg slicer, get it out. It works very well for mushrooms, and it's easier to use than trying to cut those slices yourself. -- J.R. in Utah

Strange BUT TRUE

By Lucie Winborne

I was driving when I saw the flash of a traffic camera. I figured that my picture had been taken for exceeding the limit even though I knew that I was not speeding.

Just to be sure, I went around the block and passed the same spot, driving even more slowly, but again the camera flashed. Now I began to think that this was quite funny, so I drove even slower as I passed the area once more, but the traffic camera again flashed.

I tried a fourth and fifth time with the same results and was now laughing as the camera flashed while I rolled past at a snail's pace.

Two weeks later, I got five tickets in the mail for driving without a seat belt.

* Believe it or not, cows can be potty trained -- and, it is said, with less trouble than toddlers. It's called MooLoo training, and involves not a toilet, but a special pen with artificial grass. But why bother? The practice helps the environment by reducing air and water pollution and even planet warming.

* The J.W. Westcott II is a boat that delivers mail to ships at sea. Operating out of Detroit, it's the only floating zip code in America.

* In 1931, German engineer Richter Raketenrad built a bike with 12 rockets mounted to its back wheel and reached a speed of 90 kph before his invention exploded and threw him off. While that was, sadly, the end of the rocket bike, Raketenrad himself suffered only a few scrapes.

* Kintsugi is the Japanese art of putting broken pottery pieces back together with gold.

* For over a year in the mid-2000s, members of the group Untergunther broke into the French Pantheon to repair a clock that had been broken for four decades. They later received court time for the effort but were somewhat vindicated when member Jean-Baptiste Viot, a clock restorer, was hired to repair it in 2018 after further neglect.

* Researchers have found that approximately 97% of people are keeping a secret at any given time, with the average person keeping around 13.

* In 2008, a former high school star athlete escaped a crime scene by using Craigslist to hire a dozen identically dressed (and unwitting) civilians to stand at the exact place and time of the arrival of the armored car that he planned to rob.
