Vocabulary Words

One evening while I was preparing dinner, my daughter came into the kitchen asking for homework help on her vocabulary words. "Mom," she asked, "what's a quarter horse?"

As I thought of a simple explanation, my five-year-old son piped up, "It's the one they have in front of the grocery store."

Piedmont Pets

March 23, 2023 By Paulette Dean

My sister and I grew up as Army brats. When I was in sixth grade, we were transferred from Germany to Chula Vista, California, for two years. Back in the States, I begged my parents for a dog, but my sister, Susan, and I settled for hamsters. One day, my parents went to the grocery store and I was left home to make sure supper didn't burn. When Susan and my parents came home, they carried in a few bags of groceries and Mother asked me to get the final bag from the back seat of the car.

There, huddled on the floor of the car was a little brown dog. He had huge ears, eyes, and paws. With one look, I was in love. My parents had stopped by the pet store for hamster food and saw a cage full of dachshund-beagle mix dogs. Daddy spent a long time looking at them and said, "Well, pick one if you have your heart set on a dog." Mother picked the only male and the only brown one, and Daddy paid the $5.

A few nights before while watching Bonanza, we laughed at a lazy dog named Walter. When our new little puppy fell asleep over Daddy's feet, we knew our dog couldn't be named anything but Walter.

Daddy started the evening by saying that the dog needed to stay outside. Then, he changed to just not letting the dog on the furniture in the house. Walter spent the first night sleeping on the bed with my parents, where he slept for the next twelve years.

When Mother had the car for the day (this was in the day of one-car families), she and Walter would come to school to pick me up. Walter leaned out the window and made many friends. In fact, the day I won the election for student body president, Mother overheard a student say, "I voted for Paulette. She has Walter."

Walter let me take him for rides in a box attached to the front of my bicycle. He woke me up for school every morning. I took him for walks in my doll stroller. Walter went every place with us; one of us would stay in the car with Walter while everyone else went into the store. Through the years, supper was delayed many times as we waited for Walter's food to cool. He always had to have a plate of whatever we were having.

Walter was my perfect friend. He listened to all my troubles, and never once betrayed a confidence. He provided a solid shoulder to cry on. Walter stood by me during the emotionally-charged teenage years, and never once criticized anything about me.

The night of June 30, 1978, I came home from a date and saw an old, sick Walter curled up on the couch with his blanket. The veterinarian had told us his kidneys were failing. I sat beside him and stroked his head and kissed that perfect spot between his eyes. I told him how much he had taught me and how much I loved him.

The next day, Mother and I took Walter to the veterinarian for the last time. He is buried in a wooden box Daddy made, his head resting on the pillow I put him on to take him for walks in my doll stroller twelve years before.

Chances are, humans will outlive their pets. But, oh, the heartache of losing them cannot make us forget the sheer pleasure of having them.

Happy Belated Birthday Dwayne Wells on March 6th. You are Missed, Thought of and Loved Very Much. Love Your Wife Sue and Grandkids.

KOVELS Antiques & Collecting
By Terry and Kim Kovel

Les Lalanne Sculptures

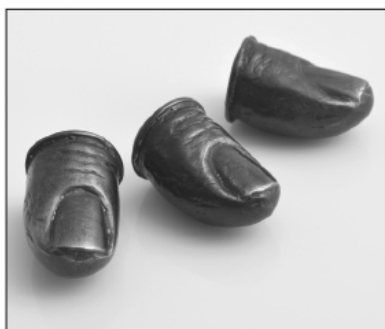

In 1966, Claude and Francois-Xavier Lalanne became known as the co-creating duo "Les Lalanne" (The Lalannes). The husband-and-wife team made surrealist dreamlike sculpture, bridging the real and the unreal to create unique hybrid sculpture.

Francois-Xavier is best known as a creator of sculptural animals that were not only pieces of art but also were furniture. Claude's inspiration is drawn from vegetation and body parts, often combining the two to produce original surrealist forms.

Claude created cast body parts in the 1970s including the "Doigt" sculptures. "Doigt," which means "finger" in French, are realistic copper caps that can be slipped on the tips of fingers. They are each about 1 inch high. Some of the Doigt sculptures included parts of plants, flowers or insects to construct a new dreamlike being. Les Lalanne sculptures are well known and widely collected.

Q: I heard old Fisher-Price toys are collectible. We have a Fisher-Price School Days desk with a green magnetic chalkboard top and a pullout tray filled with magnetic plastic letters. A compartment with a sliding lid holds extra letters and numbers, and an open section above it holds 16 word or number stencil cards. You put the card on top of the chalkboard and fill in the spaces to make a word. The number "176" is on the side and there's a red carrying handle on the bottom. What is this worth?

A: Fisher-Price was founded by Herman Fisher, Irving Price and Helen Schelle in East Aurora, New York, in 1930. The company was bought by Quaker Oats in 1969. It was spun off in 1991 and operated as an independent company until 1993, when it was bought by Mattel. Fisher-Price made the No. 176 School Days desk beginning in 1972. It came with chalk and an eraser. Sets that are missing some of the letters or cards

DANVILLE PARKS AND RECREATION CELEBRATES GROUNDBREAKING OF RIVERFRONT PARK

Danville Parks and Recreation—alongside City officials/staff, dignitaries, and supporters—broke ground on Riverfront Park this past Friday, March 17, 2023.

The new $14,000,000 park is situated in the heart of the River District at the corner of Main Street and Memorial Drive. Among many other amenities, a connection to the Riverwalk Trail, inclusive playground, spray park, and entertainment area are planned for the space.

“We’re so excited to have broken ground on a project that so many people in the City have been involved with and invested in since 2017,” said Bill Sgrinia, Director of Danville Parks and Recreation. “Danville’s Riverfront Park will be a place anyone from any background and any age can make memories that will last a lifetime.”

The groundbreaking ceremony included speeches by Mayor Alonzo Jones, City Manager Ken Larking, Senator Frank Ruff, and River District Association CEO Diana Schwartz. A picnic lunch was provided to all attendees along with bags of Riverfront Park themed gifts.

Support for Riverfront Park is still welcome. Interested individuals, organizations, and businesses can visit danvillerriverfront.com for more information on sponsorship opportunities.

* The way some items are packaged these days, you need to be Houdini to get into them. When you're dealing with blister packs -- items sealed inside a hard plastic wrapper that looks to be heat crimped on the outsides -- try your can opener. You can run it around the edge of stubborn plastic packages, enough to get the item out. It's more secure than a carpet knife or razor.

* Want to be able to tell at a glance which key belongs to the front door, the shed, your grandma's house, etc.? Raid your (or your wife's or daughter's) stash of nail polish to paint the tops of keys to color code them.

* "Styrofoam trays that come with meat or in the produce area are very handy helpers for lots of little jobs. If yours are clean and unmarred, wash with hot, soapy water, rinse and dry for later. They are perfect for sending a friend home with leftovers, as you can cover the meal with plastic wrap. There is then no need to return a plate." -- D. in Indiana

* For a deck of playing cards that has gotten sticky, put it in a bag (paper or plastic) and add a bit of baby powder. Shake vigorously. Take the cards out and shuffle to get off the extra powder. They are likely good as new.

* "Tidy loosely folded electric cords by storing them in cardboard tubes. The tubes can be cut to fit from a paper towel roll, or you can use a smaller, toilet-paper roll. Even long cords can be stored together in a gift-wrap core. Do not overfill a tube, nor wind any electrical cord too tightly." -- O.R. in Nevada

* If you have a juice spill on clothing, try club soda to remove it when the stain is fresh.

1. Who released the English translation of "Seemann (Deine Heimat ist das Meer)" in 1960?
2. Who topped the charts with "The Way You Make Me Feel"?
3. Which artist wrote and released "Lean on Me"?
4. Roger Daltrey is the lead singer of which band?
5. Name the song that contains these lyrics: "I'll go it alone, that's how it must be, I can't be right for somebody else if I'm not right for me."

Answers

1. Anne Shelton, who had a Top Ten version with "Sailor (Your Home is the Sea)." Then Anne Murray released a chart topper with her own version.
2. Michael Jackson, in 1987. The song first appeared on his album "Bad."
3. Bill Withers, in 1972. It came in at No. 208 on The 500 Greatest Songs of All Time list in 2010. The list has been updated periodically, most recently in 2021.
4. The Who. Daltrey made his first guitar when he was 13 years old and modeled it after a red Stratocaster.
5. "I've Gotta Be Me," by Sammy Davis Jr., in 1968. The song was used in the musical "Golden Rainbow." In more recent years the song has been used in soda and vehicle commercials.

Directions:

To get started, you'll want to pour your warm milk into a large bowl. (or if you're using a stand mixer, pour the warm milk into the bowl of a stand mixer.)

You want the milk to be lukewarm because if it's too hot your yeast mixture won't get foamy. If you have a thermometer handy, I have found that the best temp is around 110 degrees.

Now dissolve the yeast in your warm milk.

In a medium mixing bowl, mix the sugar, butter, salt, eggs, and flour together.

Pour your flour mixture into the bowl with your yeast and milk mixture. Mix well. If you use a stand mixer you will want to use the dough hook. Now mix that baby up!

Once your dough is mixed, you'll want to cover your bowl with a plastic wrap or a cloth and let your cinnamon roll dough rise in a warm place for about an hour. The dough should double in size during this time.

I have found that it is much easier to deal with the dough if you move it from the bowl you mix it in to a greased bowl. You'll still want to cover this with a clean dish towel or other clean cloth. Sometimes I do this...sometimes I'm lazy and just cover them in the bowl I mixed them in.

If you have sticky dough, you'll be thankful for the greased bowl.

Roll the dough out on a silicon mat or a lightly floured surface. You'll want to make a large rectangle that is around 16 inches long and 12 inches wide. If you can get it to be ¼ inch thick that would be extra awesome.

To make the cinnamon-sugar filling, you'll want to combine the butter with brown sugar and cinnamon in a bowl.

Spread the ooey goey mixture evenly over your dough. If you've always made cinnamon rolls by spreading the butter on the dough first and sprinkling it with the brown sugar and cinnamon mixture, that will work too. I know old habits die hard.

Starting from the long edge of your dough, carefully roll the dough tightly to the bottom edge.

You'll want to put the seam side down when you're finished rolling.

Now cut the roll into 1½ inch slices. It's easiest to do this either using floss or a serrated knife.

Once the rolls are cut you'll want to place them in a 13x9 inch pan that's been greased. Cover them with a kitchen towel. (If you live in a dry climate, you'll want your towel to be slightly damp.)

Leave those babies alone so the dough can rise again. After 30 minutes, they should have doubled in size.

While you're waiting for your cinnamon rolls to rise, preheat the oven to 350 degrees.

After the second rise, your cinnamon rolls are ready to go in the oven. Bake these homemade cinnamon rolls for 18-22 minutes or until golden brown. Your house will literally smell AMAZING!

While rolls are baking, mix all your frosting ingredients and beat well with an electric mixer until fluffy.

When your cinnamon rolls comes out of the oven, generously spread your cream cheese frosting over them! Enjoy!
