Y Starts 2016 off with Decorative Painting Workshop

By Linda Cranford

The activities at the YWCO for 2016 started with Samantha Huff conducting a Decorative Painting Workshop. Several ladies participated in painting a decorative Fleur de lieu.

Guiding the participants step-by-step, Huff emphasized that decorative painting can be fun, relaxing, and anyone can do it. "You don't have to be an accomplished artist to produce a beautiful piece of art," said Huff.

Several years ago, Huff began decorative painting, and when many of her friends began asking her to paint something for them, and offering to pay for it, she started raising funds for her family to participate in her church's mission trip to China. "My son goes to China each year with our mission group at Hebron Baptist Church, and works in an orphanage during the summer," said Huff.

According to YWCO Director, Sonya Manese-Turner, the next activity scheduled at the Y will be a Social Security Seminar presented by Shuff Mauldin Tuesday, February 9, at 10 a.m. The event is free and no reservations are required. Mauldin will share the information he learned while researching the best use of the Social Security benefit in retirement planning for his mother. This will be an information only seminar. Guest attending the seminar will have the opportunity to remain for lunch, and enjoy the Y's Tuesday Luncheon. The luncheon is $6.00 for age 60 and above; and $6.50 for those under 60.

Reservations are being taken now for the popular "Children's High Tea," which will be held Saturday, March 19, from 3:30 p.m. until 5 p.m. Young ladies of all ages are invited to come dressed as you like (hats and gloves are encouraged) and sip tea with your mother and/or grandmother, enjoy several courses of afternoon snacks, and learn English Tea etiquette. Space is limited so make your reservations now.

For more information on the activities offered at the YWCO in Laurel, and to make reservations call 601-428-5694. You can also like them on Facebook.

Do you snore? It can lead to heart attack or stroke

Are you sleepy during the day? Do you snore at night? Have you woken up gasping for air? You may have a condition called Obstructive Sleep Apnea. Sleep Apnea is a serious medical condition that does more than just disrupt your sleep, it can affect your overall health.

Dr. John M. Wallace

“Apnea simply means without breath,” explains John M. Wallace, M.D., Medical Director of the South Central Sleep Center in Laurel. “People with untreated sleep apnea stop breathing repeatedly during their sleep, sometimes hundreds of times during the night and often for as much as 10 seconds to longer than a minute.”

Obstructive Sleep Apnea is caused by the closing of the upper airway while asleep. The soft tissue in the rear of the throat collapses, then the tongue falls backwards forming a blockage, preventing air from entering the lungs. In order to breathe the person must arouse or awaken, allowing air to pass to the lungs. When Obstructive Sleep Apnea is left untreated it can result in serious risk factors, such as heart attack, stroke or high blood pressure.

Symptoms of Obstructive Sleep Apnea: Excessive daytime sleepiness is a typical complaint of patients with sleep apnea. The sleepiness can occur at any time of day but most commonly occurs in the afternoon or evening. Falling asleep in front of the TV or when reading are common complaints.

Snoring is typically loud in most patients with sleep apnea. The snoring has several pauses during apneic episodes. Following the apnea; the snoring is loud and explosive for several breaths before another apneic episode occurs. Some elderly patients may have minimal snoring, yet have severe sleep apnea.

Apneic episodes may be noticed by a bed partner or other observer. If apneic episodes are observed then there is little doubt that the patient has a sleep related breathing disorder and further investigation is usually required.

Choking or gasping in sleep is a common complaint of patients with obstructive sleep apnea. An abrupt awakening with the sensation of being unable to breathe that results in gasping or choking may be reported by the patient, or the patient may be seen by a bed partner gasping or choking in their sleep.

Tiredness upon awakening is a complaint heard from these patients. They awaken tired and unrested. It is due to an inadequate quality of sleep. The tiredness usually improves within a few hours at most but can last all day.

“Feeling tired and sleepy all the time is not normal,” states Dr. Wallace. “Treatment for sleep apnea is available. If you or a loved one has the symptoms of sleep apnea, we encourage you to schedule an appointment for a consult. Sleep apnea can affect all areas of a person’s life and our goal is to improve their quality of life.”

Patients may be self-referred or be referred by their physician for a sleep evaluation. South Central Sleep Center is located at 1105 Adams Street in Laurel. For more information or to schedule an appointment, please call the South Central Sleep Center at (601) 426-2886.

Life lessons last much longer than a game

By Mitchell Williams

Every year about this time, you hear of coaching changes. Seems like at every level. What’s interesting at times is when cable television uses “breaking news” to announce that a coach has left one job and took another, or that the coach is hired by another team or fired by his old team. Sports media has changed a whole lot in just the five years I have been out of television. A whole lot.

And while job changes in high school football are not “breaking news,” hearing that Collins High School would be looking for a new football coach did get a lot of attention. No doubt, it made us stop for a minute. Ryan Earnest, who two consecutive state titles at Collins High, is now the new head coach at Ridgeland High School near Jackson. Significant? Yep, ain’t no doubt.

Earnest, once a high school phenom at Laurel High School, and a former JCJC and Southern Miss running back, will be a difference-maker at Ridgeland the first day he’s on campus. He’s energetic, passionate, smart as a whip, personable, a tenacious competitor and, yep, he loves the Lord. Ain’t no doubt.

We have written many times that the greatest influence on a campus is a coach. High school football coaches, in particular, have a huge voice in the development of young people. They just do. And most would tell you in Covington County that Ryan Earnest had a big voice there. Yeah, his teams won championships. Yes, those boys won games in crazy, dramatic fashion. But it was what Ryan Earnest did off the field with his team that we remember the most. Ain’t no doubt.

You would see him around his players all the time. All the time. He loved them. That love was put on display when Collins lost one of it’s football players this summer to a late night murder at a nightclub. Ryan Earnest may have counseled all his players, and those boys leaned on him for strength. Five months later, Collins had won a state championship, something inconceivable in late July. From pain . . . to hope. That young coach was the reason behind what folks in Collins are still talking about. They are also still talking about losing their coach. We will all miss Ryan Earnest. Ain’t no doubt.

One more note: Know that kids respond to strong men. And when you have one on a campus, the scoreboard may say one thing for a day. But the life lessons, which never make “breaking news,” will speak for years. Ain’t no doubt.

See you at a game soon.

Junior Auxiliary of Laurel presents child abuse awareness puppet shows

This week the Junior Auxiliary of Laurel began presenting their child abuse awareness puppet show, “Someone to Talk To”. The show is presented to first graders in local schools and provides them with information on neglect and abuse in a non-threatening way. The program also helps assist the children in identifying individuals that they can talk to about their concerns and how to ask for help. Submitted

HGTV pilot "Home Town" featuring Laurel to air January 24th

Submitted
 HGTV will air a pilot episode of "Home Town" on Sunday, January 24 at 11:00 a.m. CST. The show features Erin and Ben Napier helping residents see the benefits of small-town life while finding, buying and renovating a home in Laurel, Miss. "Ben and I aren't house flippers," said Erin. "We're just two people who enjoy showing others the wonder of our sweet, small town and everything it has to offer."

In the episode, the Napiers guide a new family in search of an old home in the historic southern town of Laurel, Miss. With the help local architects, builders and craftsmen, the Napiers implement their design and vision to restore the old house. If the pilot is successful, the show could become a series on HGTV.

"When you live in a small town, you can make a difference," said Ben, who hopes the show could be a catalyst that brings other young families back home to their small towns all over America. "It's affordable. You can travel and see the world, but the small towns are important. That's where most people's lives begin."

College sweethearts and graduates of the University of Mississippi, this creative couple own several businesses including wedding stationery boutique Lucky Luxe Heirloom Design, Lucky Luxe Dry Goods, and Scotsman Co. which features hand-crafted items by Ben as well as some of his "favorite things" that speak to his masculine, vintage style.

For more information and behind-the-scenes photos, fans can visit <https://www.facebook.com/HometownonHGTV> or www.erinandben.co.

Laurel Mayor visits Nora Davis classroom

Laurel Mayor Johnny Magee recently visited with the third grade students in Carrie Johnkin's class at Nora Davis Magnet School. Mayor Magee read to the class and brought to life the book, The Black Snowman by Phil Mendez." The wonderfully touching story focuses on family, heritage, self-worth and resolve. Following the reading, Mayor Magee enjoyed holiday treats and warm apple cider with the students. Submitted
