“The best we’ve seen”: Caffé Tosi still growing after 30 years

Perched near the edge of downtown St. Joseph’s bluff with its creamy yellow façade and striped awnings, Caffé Tosi is an iconic spot with a Bit O’ Something for everyone.

Since its opening in 1993, the rustic Italian eatery at 516 Pleasant Street has evolved from a coffee shop with food into a hybrid café, bake shop, deli and full-blown restaurant serving breakfast, lunch and dinner.

Perhaps that is why, as Caffé Tosi approaches its 30-year anniversary this summer, longtime owner Anne Reitz says the store is still growing.

“We’ve never had a down year,” said Reitz, who took over as owner in March 1998. “We’re continuing on the incline. ... There’s been a lot of changes, both controllable and uncontrollable, but we made it.”

On any given summer day, the line at Caffé Tosi is out the door – but Reitz said it hasn’t all been sunshine. Some of the biggest hurdles were the COVID-19 pandemic and 9/11.

“Tourism was down and people weren’t coming to St. Joe or traveling at all,” Reitz said. “But you adapt. We’ve stuck to it and kept our nose to the grindstone. ... When COVID hit, we remodeled, we ramped up our marketing and social media, we implemented delivery. We did whatever we had to do and we grew.”

Reitz also credits St. Joseph Today for continuously supporting local businesses and bringing people into town year-round.

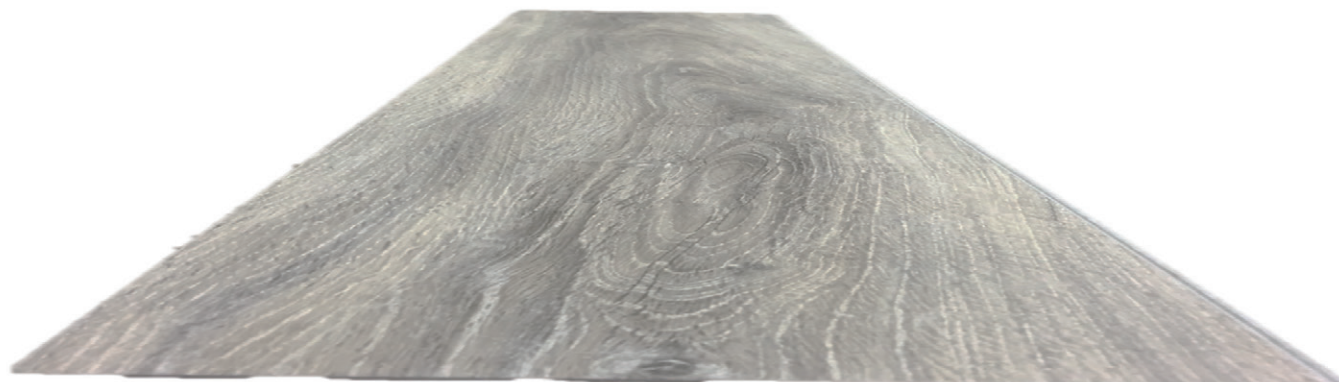

“St. Joe Today has seen some directors change, and I think right now we’re settled into the best we’ve ever had,” she said. “We get the support, the funding and the outreach. St. Joseph today members aren’t just from St. Joe. They come from neighboring

The Beast Unleashed in Southwest Michigan

Happy spring and greetings to you all! I am hoping everyone enjoyed their Spring Break and the lovely weather we had a week or so ago. Hopefully there is much more of that on the horizon in beautiful Southwest Michigan!

As we all know, nowadays there are so many new and exciting products coming to the market on a weekly basis. There are many familiar companies that are new to the alcohol category. Such is the case for Monster Energy.

Unleash the Beast!

Monster Energy has created an adult beverage, Beast Unleashed, that mirrors the taste profiles of their top Monster Energy drink flavors. To be clear, there is no “energy” or caffeine in them. These tasty FMBs (flavored malt beverages) started hitting stores at the beginning of this month and have been flying off the shelves ever since. Let’s dive into the flavors and stats.

First and foremost, “flagship” Mean Green!

“Our original crew has been making drinks for 30+ years now. Our favorite brand Monster Energy is about to turn 21. We figured why not celebrate the big day by making an adult beverage. We hit delete on the energy blend, cut out the caffeine and ditched the sugar. Next, we brewed up the smoothest tasting alcohol ever and blended it with our tried-and-true flavors.

The Beast is Unleashed! Great taste, six-point ‘oh my’ percent alcohol and no sugar to weigh you down. Get ready to celebrate and don’t be afraid of the big bad beast. Cheers!” (www.beastunleashed.com)

I am here to tell you that this tastes just like the original!

Next up is White Haze, a refreshing citrus flavor with a clean, smooth finish.

Peach Perfect is just that...a delicious peach flavor that is easy to drink and is perfect for a warm summer evening.

Finally, we have Scary Berries, a pleasant berry blast that is superb. All these beverages are 6% ABV, and only 130 calories. There is also no added sugar.

You can purchase all these flavors in a Monster Beast Unleashed variety pack, or you can purchase a single serve of Mean Green, White Haze or Peach Perfect. The Scary Berries is only available in the variety pack currently. Make sure to pick some up today!
As always, please enjoy responsibly!!!

Dave Says

Gen Zers and Millennials? I Love 'Em!

Dave,
I am the managing partner of a family business. We would like to add to our team, but I'm worried we can't try to hold millennials and Gen Zers to the same standards as other generations without losing them. How do you feel about this?

Sarah

Sarah, Listen, I've got a building full of Gen Zers and millennials – and I love them. If you hire the rights ones, you're getting people who love calluses on their hands and on their brains. They make the interview process easy too, because there are just two types from these generations: the ones who are unbelievably awesome and the ones who aren't. But the great ones are not afraid of hard work. They're passionate, intelligent and mission driven. I mean, they'll charge the gates of hell with water pistols for something they believe in.

But that means you have to provide meaning in the work they do. They want to see that their work connects to something that matters. They want to be treated with dignity, not like units of production. And they have inquiring minds. Most of them want to know why you do things the way you do them.

All that is perfectly okay with me and always has been.

Now, they're the worst two generations to work for someone who's just a boss. That's because bosses push while leaders pull. If you're going to pull, you have to inform, communicate and share a vision that draws people into your mission. Bosses, for the most part, have a "do it this way because I said so" attitude. That's not going to last long with Gen Zers and millennials.

I get where you're coming from though, Sarah. I've still got friends and business associates who tell me we're going to lose everyone from these generations if we don't cave in and give them things like "the flexibility to work from home" – which really means, "I don't want to work much" or "I want to work all the time." Listen, I understand not everyone who works from home falls into one of those two categories, but some of them do. There are folks who put in 80 hours a week because they can't put their screens down and live a life. Or they work three hours a day and call it "working from home." That's not working from home – that's working part-time hours for full-time pay. And that's called stealing.

But millennials and Gen Zers? I'm a huge fan of these generations. I truly, personally like them. They are, for the most part, genuine, real people and hard workers. If you give them what you should as a leader, they'll blow you away with their smarts and what they're capable of achieving!

Prove It

Then [Jesus] said to Thomas, "Put your finger here; see my hands. Reach out your hand and put it into my side. Stop doubting and believe." Thomas said to him, "My Lord and my God!"
John 20:27,28

You have to see it to believe it! Animals with two heads, products that range from the novel to the absurd, amazing abilities and little-known scientific facts. Ripley's Believe It Or Not has over three dozen museums and attractions where you can find all kinds of oddities that are strange, but true (or so they claim).

Of course, just because something is in a museum or on the internet does not mean it is true. In this digital age, so-called evidence can be easily altered to "prove" events that never happened or the existence of things that never actually existed. It can be wise to be skeptical.

Jesus' disciple, Thomas, wasn't going to get sucked into the hysteria. He wasn't going to put his life on the line for something that seemed so unlikely. He had to see it to believe it. It wasn't enough that his close friends said they had seen Jesus with their own eyes, and others claimed to have touched and walked with him. He wanted to see and touch the wounds in Jesus' hands and side for himself.

And then it happened. One week after Jesus rose from the dead, Thomas was there when Jesus appeared to his disciples. Jesus was alive, standing there in the flesh right in front of him.

Perhaps Thomas thought about how slow he had been to swallow his pride and believe the truth! But Jesus showed the scars in his hands and in his side to assure Thomas that he paid the price for his pride, doubt, and all of his sins. A living Jesus was proof that Jesus defeated the devil and overcame death. Seeing his living Savior, Thomas joyfully confessed, "My Lord and my God!"

Do you have doubts about God's love? Are you worried that God couldn't forgive you? The risen Jesus proves that God loved you enough to give his life for you. Proof that death is conquered, and life is yours. Believe it!

Prayer: Jesus, forgive my fears and doubts. Help me confess with Thomas, "My Lord and my God!" Amen.

cities – Stevensville, Benton Harbor – so that influx of interest has really boosted our tourism.”

When events like Krasl Art Fair on the Bluff bring in artists from all over the country, Caffe Tosi is uniquely positioned to thrive.

“Our type of food establishment lends itself to the arts because we take pride in creating the dishes, plating the dishes and using awesome ingredients,” Reitz said. “The art fans, and almost every artist on the bluff comes in and dines during the weekend.”

Caffe Tosi scratch-makes most of their menu, but they also bring in some tried-and-true southwest Michigan staples, including fresh-baked breads, pastries and desserts daily from Bit O’ Swiss, minestrone soup from Tosi’s Restaurant and coffee from Infusco Coffee Roasters.

“My philosophy is it’s good to keep quality products in distribution,” Reitz said. “And we like to keep it local.”

Reitz, who also owns the Wally & Gertz at Silver Beach, has lived in southwest Michigan since she was four years old, and has a deep love of southwest Michigan.

“This is my stomping grounds,” she said. “I like the change of seasons. I like the ease of life. We have the beach you can unwind and relax, and I love this community. ... I mean, somebody last year came in and said, ‘oh my gosh, you’re so lucky to live here. This is like The Hamptons.’ I never thought of it that way. Here’s your little community, here’s the beach steps away, and there’s a lot of things to do.”

Between Caffe Tosi and the Silver Beach concession stand, Reitz said she stays busy, but that’s the way she likes it.

As for the future of Caffe Tosi, she said she once thought the business would be passed off to her children, but they have since moved away.

“I’ve often thought about what my long-term plans are,” Reitz said. “I think I’m just going to ride it until the wheels fall off. I don’t see myself stopping.”

loading docks. Hundreds – if not thousands – of seagulls have taken up roost.

Human traffic inside the mall is practically non-existent and the owners have a long history of being behind on their property taxes.

Berrien County Commissioner Chokwe Pitchford says he's talking with the owners, and he's confident they're working on a plan.

What that plan might include is unclear. "Whether it's housing, or a banquet hall, or a reduced mall footprint, they're putting together proposals and I'll see those," said Pitchford. "If they're coming to the table in good faith, we would be remiss for us to not also come to the table in good faith."

Chokwe added that it must be, "...a proposal on paper that comes with an investment from Bedi and Associates that is real – a financial investment of 20 to 30 million dollars where they say this is how much we're willing to put it."

Pitchford said any plan will require investment from the owners, agreement from the local governments, and economic development monies from the state.

Whether all that can come together is what Chokwe says he's willing to test.

Upcoming Events!

While Mother Nature figures out a plan for the temps and season outside, things at Your Southwest Michigan Regional Chamber continue to heat up as our calendar quickly fills up with events and celebrations! I know I've said it before, so pardon me for being a broken record, but this is FANTASTIC news! Having a mix of ribbon cuttings, groundbreaking, and other events mixed in is something we can all be proud of and happy about. Let's take a look at what you can participate in over the next few weeks.

On Tuesday, April 25th from 4:00 - 6:00 p.m., we are excited to bring back the folks from Navaquest for another On The Rocks Marketing seminar. In partnership with Mid-West Family Southwest Michigan, Joe Daguanno and Theresa "TK" Timm will be speaking on recruitment. A timely topic as we just partnered with Lake Michigan College and Michigan Works! for two successful career fairs last week.

Joe and TK will be sharing with you how to think like a marketer and your applicant, what your candidates and employees want, what do your job postings and descriptions really say, how to 'plug the holes' in your applicant's journey, and how to effectively use storytelling during the recruitment journey.

On the Rocks will once again be held at the Shadowland Ballroom in St. Joseph, and will feature a fun, interactive session, networking, delicious food and beverage! RSVP your business for FREE at OnTheRocksInfo.com.

Up next is the May 4th groundbreaking ceremony for the new Mosaic CCDA Transformation Center at 10:30 a.m. This new center will be located directly beside the Mosaic CCDA Headquarters at 1804 M-139 and will house a collaborative vision of over a dozen community partners committed to working together to transform lives here in Southwest Michigan.

Mosaic is working directly with Pearson Construction on the development and design of the space that will provide clients a one-stop-shop so to speak, providing clients access to barrier removal services, Mosaic initiatives, and health-care, fresh food, workforce development training, just to name a few.

Inside community members will find office space for local partners and entrepreneurs, conference rooms, and an environment that encourages collaboration and growth. Additionally, there will be an event center for training sessions and mid-size gatherings featuring state-of-the-art equipment and technology.

Notable partners on the project include Whirlpool Foundation, Storyline Church, First Church, Berrien Community Foundation, Pearson Construction, and Tera Architects.

The last one I'll leave you with for now is the Villwocks Outdoor Living Ribbon Cutting for their new 24,000 square foot state-of-the-art greenhouse. What once was a dream of a connecting community to gardening is now a reality for the family and team at Villwocks Outdoor Living as the new greenhouse space officially opened on April 15th.

With a deep family history in local agriculture and gardening, owner Mike Villwock knew one day he wanted to share his love for the land and soil with fellow Southwest Michigan residents & visitors. The addition of the new year-round space expands the garden and nursery portion of Villwocks Outdoor Living and will allow for educational opportunities for beginning and advanced gardeners, planting classes, and more.

An official Grand Opening and Ribbon Cutting celebration will take place on Friday, May 5th from 4:00 - 6:00 p.m. jointly hosted by the Harbor Country Chamber and the Southwest Michigan Regional Chamber. Guests will enjoy special savings all weekend long leading up to Mother's Day, and a chance to speak with the Villwocks team and representatives from Bad Boy Mowers.

For more information on these and other upcoming events, including our brand new Wine & Nine ladies only golf outing on June 2nd at Pipestone Creek, and how the Chamber can benefit your business, visit smrchamber.com or email me at sspoonholtz@smrchamber.com Looking forward to seeing you around Southwest Michigan!

Gotcha Doin' Good - Robin Lydic

Robin's Story

Robin Lydic went above and beyond her call of duty at the Humane Society of Southwestern Michigan to help a family keep their dogs after they were all recently displaced by a house fire. Since pets are such a comfort, Robin wanted to make sure the family could keep them by their side; she connected the family with local veterinarians, walked them through the process and paperwork for support animal designation, and found other resources to keep the family together.

Thanks for being awesome!

Berrien Community Foundation is seeking nominations for our Gotcha Doin' Good spotlight!

Gotcha Doin' Good is all about showcasing the awesome acts of kindness people do right here in Berrien County!

BCF wants to hear (and then share) about the people who go the extra mile – a one-time thing or a recurring act of kindness. Like the person who spent a little bit of their Saturday picking up trash at a local park, or that child who decorated rocks with encouraging sayings and left them around town for strangers to find.

If you know someone who fits the bill, visit www.berriencommunity.org or scan the QR code or visit and click on the Nominate button!

You can nominate more than one person by filling out the form multiple times!

My Most Colorful Column Ever!

As I write, it's a very gray day, which thankfully doesn't have me feeling blue, although it certainly doesn't put me in the pink either.

The preceding paragraph is an example of my unmatched skill at foreshadowing, for this is another column detailing interesting – to me, anyway – things I learned about colors recently.

Orange ya glad I explained that?

Now, did you know?

- There's a color called "Light Deep Pink." At first, I questioned whether something can be light and deep at the same time, then I recalled some of my most amusing yet simultaneously profound columns and realized, yes, "light deep" is a thing!

Generally speaking, I would say pink and its variants have some of the more, um, fetching names on the color wheel. There's Hot Pink. . .there's Shocking Pink. . .which, for a spell in the last century, was also called "Kinky Pink". . .there's a shade of light pink called Lusty Gallant.

- A couple other not-really naughty colors are:

- Hooker's green -- a dark green created by mixing Prussian blue and gamboge. Hooker's green is named in honor of an English artist named William Hooker, who was famous for painting botanical art – pictures of plants. And he was the first to use this particular green for illustrating leaves.

Then there's Flirt, a "deep purplish red." Very different, no doubt, from Byzantium, which is a "deep reddish purple."

- About those ingredients to mix the Hooker color – did you wonder what the heck gamboge is? Well, tough, I did, and here's the deal: Gamboge is a "partially transparent deep saffron to mustard yellow pigment. It is the traditional color used to dye Buddhist monks' robes." In 1908, a physicist named Jean Perrin used this pigment in some way (don't ask me how) to prove Brownian motion.

So, I ask you, isn't something wrong with this picture? Doesn't this seem criminally unfair to gamboge?! Why in the heck isn't it called "Gambogeian motion"? I intend to pursue this to the highest authorities, foremost to rectify a 115-year-old wrong, and perhaps in the bargain win a Nobel Prize, or better yet, one of those mega-moolah MacArthur Foundation "genius grants"!

- Ever heard of the color Fulvous? It's variously described as "dull orange," "brownish-yellow," "tawny," "a variation of buff, beige or butterscotch." Now don't get nervous – I'm not going to poke fun at Fulvous the way I did last week with Ecru, which no one can actually define either. The reason I'm giving Fulvous this slack is that I've learned there are 16 species of birds with "Fulvous" in their names. Though I also won't make fun of those birds, I probably could, with names like Fulvous whistling duck, Fulvous chinned nunlet, and Fulvous babbler.

- Let us praise the Crayola color Fuzzy Wuzzy (originally Fuzzy Wuzzy Brown): Fuzzy Wuzzy was a bear/Fuzzy Wuzzy had no hair/ Fuzzy Wuzzy wasn't fuzzy, was he?

- There's a color called Kobicha, a brownish hue used in Japan for centuries to dye kimonos. The name derives from the Japanese word for the color of tea made from kelp. Butt – I mean, but – Kobicha also describes a form of flattery that equates to the English term "brown nosing." And that's why I saved Kobicha for the END. (Mic drop!)
