Tips on how to write CLASSIFIED ADS that sell!

- 1 USE A KEY WORD. This immediately tells the reader exactly what you have to sell.
- 2 Make your description CLEAR AND FACTUAL. State the year, make, model, color & size and tell what condition the item is in. Also, state the special features.
- 3 STATE THE PRICE. Successful classified advertisers have learned that the price in an ad helps increase the chances for results.
- 4 IF THERE IS A GENUINE SENSE OF URGENCY, say so. The words "We're moving," or "Must sell fast," suggest that readers respond immediately.
- 5 INCLUDE YOUR PHONE NUMBER. Classifieds get results fast and often generate immediate sales. If you cannot be available to answer the phone at all times, be sure to specify special calling times such as "after 9pm" or "before 11am."

Refill with Randy

By Randy LeBaron

Good morning! Grab your favorite cup. Fill it up. And let's start this week right... TOGETHER!!!

Today I would like to encourage you to start a praise drawer. Early on in my ministry I started to fill a drawer with cards, letters, pictures, drawings, ect. that people had given to me that either acknowledged something I had done that they appreciated, affirmed my call, let me know that they were praying for me, or something that just generally brought a smile to my face and boosted my spirit. I especially cherished the pictures the children would draw for me. Admittedly I used to also keep a criticism drawer filled with not so nice notes or e-mails but I realized a while back that it wasn't very good for my mental health and cleaned it out. Ironically, I realized that both drawers were filled with things from the same people.

As he handed me the gift I quickly discovered that it was a framed picture of what I had posted as my FB background a week earlier. Bruce then explained that when I posted it it had resonated with him and in response he wanted to do something to remind me that Pastors need to be loved and encouraged too. I was really taken aback because not only had this new friend gone out of his way to show another church's pastor love and appreciation but he did it when he himself was struggling with a terminal illness. My buddy Bruce has since passed away but his extremely thoughtful gift remains on my wall as a daily reminder that I am cared about.

The reality though is that I have been collecting these mementos for more almost three decades and every now and again when I am going through a difficult time, when I am feeling discouraged, when I am questioning my call, or when I am hurting from something someone has said or done, I will open this drawer and read a few of the notes in an effort to counteract the criticism. I'm not saying this always works (it's true that we tend to remember the negative more so than the positive which is why it is suggested that we need 7 praises to counteract 1 criticism) but it does help to give me perspective and is a good reminder that just because someone might act unlovingly toward me that it doesn't mean that I am unloved.

Friends, in case no one has told you lately, I want you to be reminded that you too are loved and appreciated in spite of any criticisms you may have had cast your way. So, to that end, I would encourage you to do three things this week...

(1) Create your own praise drawer and start stashing away meaningful messages and other items for a rainy day.

(2) If you do have a criticism cupboard (physically or even just in your mind) clear it out so that you can forgive, forget, and not allow past comments to continue define how you see yourself in the present.

(3) And finally, be intentional about filling other people's praise drawers. We live in such a negative, critical culture that a hand written note of affirmation or thanks, or even just a thoughtful text, can mean the world to someone. So, why not stop and take a minute to make someone's day? It won't cost you much but it might make a significant difference to the person who is feeling knocked down and needs to be reminded of how valuable they truly are.

*See you in two weeks!
Pastor Randy*

One item that does not fit in the drawer but is now hanging on the wall of my home office and is particularly meaningful is a framed piece of art that I received back in 2016. At the time I was part of a Men's Small Group that got together weekly at Dunkin' for Bible Study and prayer and there were guys who attended from a number of different churches in the area. One of these men, Bruce, showed up at my church out of the blue one day with a gift for me. It was a surprise not just because I had not been expecting it but because at the time I barely knew Bruce and he was an active member of another church.

He was an avid collector of coins from many different years and it was something he was quite proud of. Before Betty passed, they enjoyed traveling together and will forever be "walking through the tall grass" together. Computer Technology Students Score Big at NYS SkillsUSA Competition

Computer Technology teacher Paul Herrmann was pleasantly surprised at how well his students did at the recently New York State SkillsUSA competition in Syracuse. He had five students bring back four medals to the Orleans Career and Technical Education Center. SkillsUSA is a partnership of students, teachers and industry working together to ensure America has a skilled workforce. There are competition at the regional, state and national level for the best of the best.

Nathaniel Wolf, a junior from Royalton-Hartland, took a gold medal in the Internet of Things and Smart Home competition. The competition tests each competitor's preparation for employment and recognizes outstanding students for excellence and professionalism in the field of home technology integration. Caleb Joseph (Newfane) received a silver medal in Technical Computer Applications. Students in this competition demonstrate installation, configuration and use of Windows, Mac OSX and Linux Professional Operating Systems and one or more integrated office suite packages including email, word processing, spreadsheet applications, database applications, web page development, money management applications, presentations applications, internet browser applications, etc. Nathaniel will be moving on to the National SkillsUSA competition in Atlanta at the end of June to represent New York State. "Nate is a great kid," says Herrmann. "He did all the right things and I was thrilled to see him rewarded with a first place finish in his competition. There is no doubt that he will make everyone proud at nationals."

Caleb Joseph, a junior from Newfane, received a silver medal in the Technical Computer Applications competition. He had to demonstrate installation, configuration and use of Windows, Mac OSX and Linux Professional Operating Systems and one or more integrated office suite packages including email, word processing, spreadsheet applications, database applications, web page development, money management applications, presentations applications, internet browser applications, etc.

Tyler Halifax, a senior from Lockport, took a silver medal for Information Technology Services. Tyler had to compete in modules designed to test his knowledge as an IT service professional. The competition challenged competitors to correct end-user computing issues, configure and secure networks, manage virtual machines, navigate and modify operating system internals, deploy operating systems, leverage troubleshooting software and tools, identify virus and malware origins, work with mobile devices, and proficiently use command line interfaces. Additionally, competitors were evaluated on their interpersonal skills (such as communication, teamwork and honesty).

A bronze medal went to Ian Jones, a senior from Lockport, and Jordan Reynolds, a senior from Holy Ghost Lutheran, in Web Design and Development. In that competition, a team of two completed a series of challenges focusing on creating a website for a client and a specific target audience. It was judged on focusing on meeting the client's needs, usability and accessibility and industry standards best practices. "It was a great year for my students," says Herrmann. "I am very proud of all of them and all the hard work and dedication they have shown in class this year. I know they will all go one to do great things."

Our Connect Orleans staff are available to help low- and moderate-income residents in the Villages of Albion, Holley, and Medina and the Towns of Albion, Gaines, and Shelby prequalify for free installation of wireless broadband service and free equipment, and $30.00 off the cost of service each month.
