Mental Health affects children as well as adults

By, Megan Krebs, LMSW Behavioral Health Therapist, Oak Orchard Health

Mental health affects everyone regardless of age. In 2019 it was estimated that, “1 in every 5 U.S. children ages 3–17 has a mental, emotional, behavioral, or developmental disorder” (U.S. Department of Health and Human Services). Risk factors can include genetic predispositions and environmental influences such as family environment, stressors relating to school, or peers. Another risk factor is lack of community support, this can include the stigma of seeking mental health treatment. Hurdles to getting mental health treatment for children can include issues with health insurance or parental support.

How can you get your children the care they need?

At Oak Orchard Health we recognize that seeking pediatric behavioral health care can feel like a daunting challenge. Finding a therapist for mental health care for children and teens, especially in rural communities, can be few and far between. We also know that seeking treatment in a familiar place such as the child’s primary care doctor’s office can bring feelings of comfort and trust as it is a familiar setting.

Oak Orchard Health’s behavioral health therapists work with the child’s primary care provider ensuring collaboration of care for the child. Therapists can also engage with the child’s caregivers and school to ensure the child is being supported in the influential areas of their life. Collaboration with these important parties is essential to finding strategies and applying coping skills for our pediatric patients.

The key to success for most kids is a combination of protective factors such as good coping skills and self-esteem to help foster resiliency in overcoming mental health obstacles. Supportive people in the family and/

or role models outside of the family structure are important. Other protective factors are academic achievement, engagement with school, and positive hobbies with peers. (Youth.gov)

How play therapy helps children

Parents and caregivers might wonder how their child would open up to a therapist in counseling. Children learn and express themselves through explorative play often creating narratives of how they perceive their world; this is simply referred to as “play therapy.” Traditional talk therapy might work well with some children who enjoy verbalizing their thoughts and feelings; however, for most children expression happens through play in the therapy session.

The pediatric therapists at OOH often have coloring utensils, Legos, and therapeutic games to aid children in telling their stories and expressing their emotions and in turn learning how to regulate these emotions. During sessions with kids, I spend most of our time seated on the floor playing with Legos or card games, or at the coloring table drawing or painting. One of the best compliments I have received was, “Wow this room looks just like a living room!” when a child entered my office for the first time. The time spent in sessions is one of the few times children have the freedom to express and engage in their own self-directed way to sort out challenging emotions. This in and of itself can be very therapeutic and healing for a child to know they have a space free of judgment to engage in self-expression of many big emotions.

This article touches upon some of the factors affecting kids’ mental health and how to get the services they may require. If your child needs mental health counseling, contact Oak Orchard Health at (585) 637-3905.

Is tea or coffee the healthier choice?

Millions of people consume coffee or tea, with some even enjoying multiple cups of these caffeinated beverages daily. Coffee is known to perk a person up in the morning, while tea is touted as a relaxing drink that can ease away stress. Some may wonder if one of these popular beverages is more beneficial for overall health than the other. Both, it turns out, have distinctive benefits.

Coffee and certain teas contain caffeine, a powerful stimulant for the central nervous system. Caffeine may improve endurance exercise outcomes and improve mental alertness. Healthline says that caffeine may reduce type 2 diabetes risk by improving insulin sensitivity. In addition, moderate caffeine intake has been linked to protective effects against dementias, metabolic syndrome and non-alcoholic fatty liver disease. Since coffee tends to have higher concentrations of caffeine than black tea (95 mg vs. 47 mg in an eight-ounce serving), it can provide more caffeine-related benefits than tea.

Both tea and coffee have high levels of antioxidants that can help people reduce their risk for certain illnesses. The National Cancer Institute reports that antioxidants in both tea and coffee have been shown to slow the growth of cancerous tumors. Tea may help lower cholesterol and the polyphenols in tea could boost good bacteria in the gut, according to Eat This, Not That! People may be more inclined to drink more coffee and tea so they can consume more antioxidants. However, excess coffee consumption can make people jittery from too much caffeine. Since tea has less caffeine, it might make for a better choice.

But tea and coffee provide similar health benefits, and one isn’t necessarily better than the other.

Do you have HEEL pain or ARCH pain?

HEEL SPUR SYNDROME/PLANTAR FASCITIS is a common problem among people who are active. It starts as a dull intermittent pain in the heel which may progress to a sharp persistent pain. Classically, it is worse in the morning with the first few steps, after sitting, after standing, or after walking.

- Plantar fasciitis often begins with irritation and tearing of the fibrous band of tissue on the bottom of the foot, which may eventually result in the formation of a heel spur.

- Contributing factors: flat pronated feet, high arched feet, poor shoe support, increased age, sudden weight increase, increased activity level, family tendency.

- Approximately 2-3 times your body weight of force is exerted on each foot with walking. Flexible, non-custom molded arch support found at those advertised shoe stores cannot support these forces and usually do not provide long-lasting relief, do not come with a lifetime warranty, and are typically more expensive than custom-molded ones made by our office.

- 95 percent of our patients symptoms are resolved with conservative treatment, avoiding surgical intervention.

- We also offer surgical procedures with the best post-op success rates using Endoscopic Plantar Fasciotomy techniques and EPF resulting in minimal incisions and scarring, immediate ambulation and often back in a shoe in one week.

If you can’t remember when your feet didn’t hurt, now is the time to give us a call!

Post marking the spot of the Mississippi River Head Waters at Lake Itasca, Minnesota. The inscription reads: "Here 1475 feet above the ocean, the Mighty Mississippi begins to flow on its winding way 2552 miles to the Gulf of Mexico"

Let's go on an adventure together....to The Mississippi River!

Who hasn't heard of the Mississippi River? If you've ever read Mark Twain's Tom Sawyer stories, you know it well. In grade school, you probably learned how to spell it by saying "M-i-crooked letter-crooked letter-i-crooked letter-crooked letter-i-hump back-hump back-i". It passes through ten states: Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa, Illinois, Missouri, Kentucky, Tennessee, Arkansas, Mississippi, and Louisiana, so if you have visited any of these states, you likely saw it in person. The Mighty Mississippi River is the second longest river in North America and the fourth longest river in the world. It is, in deed, mighty and famous from stories of the old south and steam boats and being a major link for commerce to ship goods across the country.

I've seen the Mississippi River up close several times. I was so excited to get to visit the Head Waters on the cross country trip I took with my brother and sister-in-law in their motorhome in 2016. The Mississippi River begins at Lake Itasca, Minnesota (the word Itasca means True Head).

The location of the Mississippi Head Waters is the only place anywhere along the Mississippi River where you can actually walk across it - it is the narrowest, shallowest, and slowest flow, allowing easy wading and playing in the waters.

The location of the Head Waters is a beautiful area. There is a wonderful Visitor's Center with lots of amazing information and Native American artifacts and several walking trails. There is a spot where they installed steps so you can walk down to the absolute narrowest point of the river and walk across to another set of steps on the other side. Lake Itasca is stunning and the spot where it flows to feed the start of the Mississippi is a wonderful place to get in and wade and play in the water. And.....YES.....of course I got in at both the narrowest spot and the actual Head Waters and did walk across the Mississippi. It was so much fun. There were many times on that trip that I declared "This is the BEST thing, yet!", but this is one that sticks out as one of the coolest things we did. It is an experience I'll never forget.

We drove along and crossed the Mississippi many times on that trip as we traveled through several

The Mississippi Head Waters - the spot where Lake Itasca in Minnesota flows to form the start of the Mississippi River states - including when we got to see the Gateway Arch in St. Louis, Missouri. But, the next major experience we had on the Mississippi was in New Orleans, Louisiana. We were visiting family there - my nephew and his family lived in Houma, LA at the time - and we all took a river boat cruise out of the French Quarter in New Orleans. We took the Natchez - one of only two true steam boats still active on the Mississippi River, today. The Natchez cruised from the heart of the French Quarter along the crescent of the Mississippi River, which is the deepest point of the river at 200 feet deep - giving us the honor of being able to say we were at the start and end, as well as, the shallowest and the deepest points of the Mighty Mississippi all in one trip! It was so beautiful and gave us a view of New Orleans that can't be seen from the streets. On this cruise, we saw everything from sandy beaches with people out for a stroll or fishing, to major industry like a Domino Sugar Refinery and oil refineries, to shipping operations, to the beautiful New Orleans skyline.....what a diverse section of the river - just amazing! I thoroughly enjoyed checking this major bucket list item off my list - Take a River Boat Cruise on the Mississippi!

The Mississippi River in New Orleans, Louisiana. This is the deepest point of the river at 200 feet deep and is the last part of the river before the delta flows into the Gulf of Mexico.

On my trip to Iowa in 2017, I had another memorable experience with the Mississippi River. I stayed in Dubuque and discovered a wonderful River Walk park along the Mississippi. I spent a lot of time strolling along the river looking at the amazing sculptures by local artists and enjoying the beautiful weather. That River Walk happens to have views of the first railroad bridge built across the Mississippi in 1867-68. Andrew Carnegie supplied the iron for the $800,000 railroad bridge spanning 1,535 feet, which provided an alternative to ferry crossings across the river. The bridge is still in use, today - I watched a train cross it! There is also the remains of an old shot tower constructed in 1856 to produce lead shot ammunition. Molten lead was poured into the top of the tower and passed through a series of sieves to form the proper shot size. The shots then fell into a tank of cold water at the bottom of the tower. It was so cool to see and learn about these historic points of interest along the Mississippi River.

More recently, I got to spend some time on another River Boat cruise on the Mississippi when I visited Memphis, TN in 2021. Wonder when and where I will experience her the next time we meet.

If you'd like to see more photos and information about the Mississippi River, visit my Blog Posts about two of the trips mentioned in this article: The Mighty Mississippi Start to Finish: <https://thoughtsbykim.com/2016/10/11/mea-2-the-mighty-mississippi-start-to-finish/> The Mississippi in Dubuque Iowa: <https://thoughtsbykim.com/2017/10/20/2017-dubuque-iowa/>

Eleanor "Elli" Lockwood passed peacefully on June 11, 2023. Elli was born 12/3/1929 to Robert and Helen C. Miller in Albion, New York. Elli was predeceased by her husband, Burt E. Lockwood in 2006. She is survived by her children; Mark E. Lockwood and Valerie J. (Scott) Graff; her grandchildren, Vanessa J. (Sithidej) Soundara and Violet S. She was employed at Lipton Canning Factory until moving to Riverside and Azusa, California shortly after her marriage to Burt in 1952. They lived in California for 18 years, during which time she became a mother and a Certified Teacher at Covina Adult Education. When Elli and Burt moved back closer to their roots in Medina, New York, Elli began working as a seamstress at S.A. Cook. After a few years, they moved to Venice, Florida where Elli was the Master Seamstress/Tailor at The Elegant Lady Bridal Shop. After several years in Florida, they returned to Albion, New York where Elli enjoyed a short career as a Department Manager at Dale's Grocery before retiring from there. Early in life, Elli began bowling. She advanced her skill to include many games over 200, and several games at 299; but, quoting Elli, "Never the 300 game! Always missing 300 by ONE PIN!" Elli taught bowling to locals, coached semi-pro's, and bowled with Hollywood Stars. She earned, literally hundreds of trophies, patches, and pins; including glass engraved mugs from every Orleans County ABATE Bowling Tournament she entered. Her bowling hobby continued well into her 80's, when she led the last team she was on, her own team, "Elli's Girls". Elli was very active with the First United Methodist Church. She loves God, her faith, and church family. She never hesitated to volunteer a helping hand with dinners, prayer chains, etc. Elli took great pride in orchestrating annual rummage sales to raise money for the church, for many years. Elli was an avid Buffalo Bill's football fan. She kept track of game scores all year! She attended several games and met several players. Elli enjoyed the motorcycle rides Mark gave her; and walking alongside creeks and fields with Valerie. Elli loved her pet chihuahua's, Peppi 1, 2, 3, and 4. Having her first dog in California and replacing each as they passed, with another. She loved decorating to the hilt for Christmas, baking, writing recipes, and gathering for family picnics. Elli gave of herself immensely to befriend and help anyone. Prior to her passing, Elli chose against a standard burial and funeral. She donated her body to the University of Buffalo's Anatomical Gift Program and upon completion she will join her husband Burt at the Skinnerville Cemetery on UB's North Campus. As Elli wished, a private moment will be held by the family at a later date. In lieu of flowers, Elli asked that memorials be made to Save-a-Pet Niagara County, Inc. at <https://www.saveapetniagara.com>

Vincent Charles Martina, who left his most indelible marks as a loving father and impassioned Catholic, was born in Albion, New York, to proud Sicilian Americans Charles and Sara Martina. As the youngest of three children, Vin was close to his sisters Marilyn and Joanie. Vin's early fascination with flight – which he courted as a child with an umbrella from the second floor of a barn – ultimately led him to serve as a U.S. Navy officer and navigator for a reconnaissance P-3 squadron. His children reveled in his tales of tracking Soviet submarines at the end of the Cuban Missile Crisis. A sustained interest in aviation led him to pursue private flight lessons later in life. While Vin's preference for playing and socializing led to meager early academic achievements, he found success at Le Moyne College, and there participated in theater, with a main role in a production of Shakespeare's King Lear. After graduating, he worked for many years with his father, who was a serial entrepreneur in the grocery and theater businesses. When Charlie retired and they sold the theater business in upstate New York, Vin chose to pursue a lifelong interest in law. His intellectual gifts were revealed at Franklin Pierce Law School in New Hampshire, and he graduated at the top of his class. After passing the state bar he practiced law in Amherst, New Hampshire, for more than 20 years while building a successful title company. Throughout his legal career Vin exhibited a spirited antagonism toward the abuse of judicial authority, and he embodied an oft cited bible passage, 'it's easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle than for a rich man to enter into the kingdom of God,' through his frequent pro bono advocacy. Although shrewd in his suspicions, Vin proved a ripe target for jest, often from his brother-in-law Earl on the golf course, and pranks levied against him by his children. Ultimately, it was his full-bodied laugh – a guffaw that would devolve into a joyful wheeze – that motivated those antics through the years. As a result, many good stories were created. He knew how to laugh, and laugh he did, even at his own expense. So much of his marriage with Susan, his wife of 24 years, was marked by this humor and companionship, culminating in some of the happiest years of his life. The pair spent many weekends traveling the East Coast with a close-knit group of four couples they dubbed their "golf family" in a quest for freeways and friendship. A devout Catholic, Vin found purpose in his final few years after his move to Wilmington in his local Catholic men's group where his presence and wisdom was celebrated and appreciated. Vin is survived by his four children with his first wife Barbara – Liza, Anthony, Max, and Michael; his wife Susan; his sister Joanie O'Neill; and five grandchildren, Peter (22), Zoe (19), Elliot (15), Sawyer (13), and Rhys (10). A funeral mass will be held 12:00 PM, Tuesday, June 20, 2023, at St. Therese Catholic Church, 209 S Lumina Ave, Wrightsville Beach, NC. In lieu of flowers, donations may be made in Vin's name to Lower Cape Fear LifeCare, Wilmington, NC.
