By Randy LeBaron

Good morning! Grab your favorite cup. Fill it up. And let's start this week right... TOGETHER!!!

Sheryl and I had discovered a fantastic Black Friday deal for 60% off a day at Discovery Cove plus free entrance and parking at SeaWorld and it's sister parks for 14 days surrounding our visit. So on July 24th we flew to Orlando and spent the next week riding rollercoasters, visiting family, and enjoying many of the animal shows including the dolphins, sea lions, and orcas.

Last month I shared about some of the animal adventures that my family and I had been on over the years— everything from visiting Zoos and Safari's to holding alligators, riding elephants, and petting tigers. I mentioned at the end of that article that we would be going on another new animal encounter down in Orlando at the end of the month and some have been asking how it went so today's article will be a follow up focusing on our time at SeaWorld, Busch Gardens, and Discovery Cove.

Finally though our day at Discovery Cove had come. We were nervous having it scheduled near the end of our trip since there was more of a chance of having bad weather disrupting our day with no time left to reschedule but, thankfully, it turned out to be an absolutely beautiful day! Although we enjoyed many other activities, like interacting with flamingos and snorkeling with giant sting rays, the highlight was our time in the water with the dolphin. We watched training videos and talked with staff before walking down to the beach where we waded into the icy cold salt water. After lining up we were introduced to our dolphin "Dot" who was the smallest of the adult dolphins at 300 lbs but also the most intelligent as she could follow many pure verbal commands. In spite of that we did learn how to interact with hand gestures and she was all to eager to show off by waving her fin, splashing, blowing raspberries, and even jumping out of the water.

First, let me give you a little backstory. My wife Sheryl absolutely loves SeaWorld. Beyond visiting the park while growing up she actually taught in Florida a couple of years prior to us getting married and she lived only a mile away from it. Teachers also get free passes so she could visit to her heart's content and, even though I was still living in WNY at the time, I purchased a season pass since I knew that we would be going there whenever I had the chance to go down.

Eventually, after starting a family, we passed down our love for SeaWorld to our kids. While they were growing up we not only took them there several times but we also bought large stuffed dolphins for the girls, a giant stuffed Shamu for my son, and a CD of the Shamu Rocks Soundtrack which was played over and over again on every road trip.

After all this the time had finally come to interact with her one on one by petting her and then being pulled around the pool by holding onto her fin and flipper. Her body felt like wet leather and, even for a guy my size, she had no problem pulling me around with ease. All in all we definitely felt like our experience had lived up to our expectations and, at the end of our time, we were able to take a family portrait with Dot which we will cherish always along with the memories that we made.

Eventually we stopped taking as many trips down south and, even when we did, it seemed that Disney or the beach had become the more popular destination with the kids. Last Christmas though we stoked the embers of nostalgia by telling the kids that we were taking them on a family vacation to SeaWorld and that we were finally going to do something we had always talked about but had never done... we were going to swim with dolphins!

See you in two weeks!
Pastor Randy

TIPS TO ACE THE INTERVIEW AND LAND THE JOB

- 1 KNOW YOUR SKILLS AND STRENGTHS
 Be able to talk about your strengths, most proud accomplishments, areas of interest, personal values, areas for development.
- 2 RESEARCH, RESEARCH, RESEARCH
 Research the company, the position and your interviewer to be able to talk about them in-depth during the interview.
- 3 MASTER THE PHONE INTERVIEW
 Enunciate clearly, talk slowly and go to a quiet place where you can concentrate and listen well.
- 4 PRESENT YOURSELF WELL
 First impressions are formed by 7% of what you say, 38% of your eloquence and confidence, 55% how you dress, act and walk through the door.
- 5 PREPARE QUESTIONS TO ASK
 Interviewing is a two-way street. What is important for you to know about the workplace, role, team? Be sure to ask those important questions.
- 6 PREPARE YOUR ANSWERS
 Your answers need to prove your skills and knowledge, aptitude for success in the role, and personality "fit" in the company.
- 7 USE THE S.T.A.R METHOD
 A good answer to behavioral questions includes stating the situation, task, actions, result.
- 8 ASK FOR THE JOB
 Examples: Do you have any remaining concerns? What are the next steps? How do you see me fitting in with your company?
- 9 FOLLOW UP
 Be sure to get your thank you note out in less than 24 hours. The sooner the better. If things drag out, check in periodically.

County agrees to buy 25K commemorative glasses for eclipse on April 8, 2024

By Tom Rivers, Editor, OrleansHub.com

ALBION - The Orleans County Legislature wants to see the county benefit from the hoopla and influx of visitors from the total solar eclipse on April 8, 2024.

Orleans is in the direct path of totality between 3:19 and 3:23 p.m. A total eclipse occurs about once every 18 months somewhere on Earth, but only happens in the same place about every 360 to 410 years.

The County Legislature on Tuesday approved spending $9,045 from its contingency fund to buy 25,000 eclipse glasses with the Orleans County tourism logo. The glasses will provide some eye protection and also be a keepsake from a memorable day.

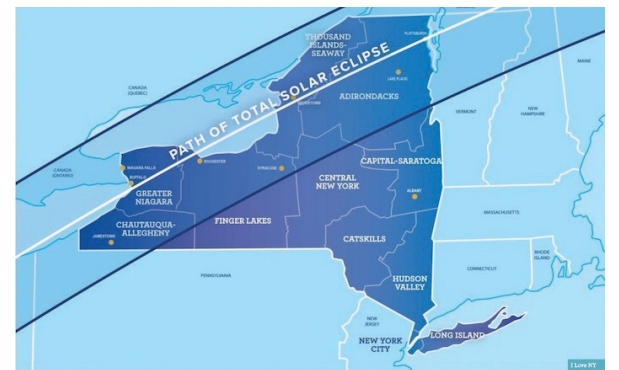

The county is working with the Orleans County Chamber of Commerce on acquiring the glasses. They are expected to be made available and distributed by the county, and local towns and villages.

Orleans County will be in the direct path of the Total Solar Eclipse on April 8, 2024 between 3:19 & 3:23 PM.

People are already booking hotel rooms and other lodging in the county that day. She knows plans are in the works to open public land, including at Lakeside Beach State Park, for viewing opportunities of the eclipse.

Darlene Hartway, executive director of the Chamber of Commerce, said that "It's going to be beneficial for our area. It's gearing up to be a momentous thing."

She commended the Legislature for approving the expenditure for the glasses.

I Love New York created this graphic showing the path of the solar eclipse. Orleans County is in direct path of the phenomenon.

Healthy Choices

— Your guide to looking and feeling your best —

Do you have HEEL pain or ARCH pain?

HEEL SPUR SYNDROME/PLANTAR FASCITIS is a common problem among people who are active. It starts as a dull intermittent pain in the heel which may progress to a sharp persistent pain. Classically, it is worse in the morning with the first few steps, after sitting, after standing, or after walking.

- Plantar fasciitis often begins with irritation and tearing of the fibrous band of tissue on the bottom of the foot, which may eventually result in the formation of a heel spur.
- Contributing factors: flat pronated feet, high arched feet, poor shoe support, increased age, sudden weight increase, increased activity level, family tendency.
- Approximately 2-3 times your body weight of force is exerted on each foot with walking. Flexible, non-custom molded arch support found at those advertised shoe stores cannot support these forces and usually do not provide long-lasting relief, do not come with a lifetime warranty, and are typically more expensive than custom-molded ones made by our office.
- 95 percent of our patients symptoms are resolved with conservative treatment, avoiding surgical intervention.
- We also offer surgical procedures with the best post-op success rates using Endoscopic Plantar Fasciotomy techniques and EPF resulting in minimal incisions and scarring, immediate ambulation and often back in a shoe in one week.

If you can't remember when your feet didn't hurt, now is the time to give us a call!

Kids will Be Back to School Before You Know it!

By Lauren Rogers, PA, Oak Orchard Health in our Albion and Batavia Health Centers.

Hard to believe that the summer is fast coming to a close. The first indication of that is parents thinking about preparing their kids (and themselves) for going back to school. In this article, I want to give you a few tips on making those early weeks more successful and throughout the school year.

Kids do get sick more, especially during the first few months.

It's true, kids do get sick more in the first few months of school. How do you prevent it? Be sure they wash their hands often, have them get enough sleep, and try not to send them to school if they are sick - unfortunately, that's how germs get spread.

Often kids have runny noses, sneeze, and get chills. How do you know if it's allergies or a cold, or something else? The symptoms can be very similar. Children experience congestion, itchy eyes, and a runny nose with allergies, but he/she generally feels all right. Cold symptoms include fever, chills, and achiness all over. If your child has a fever for more than 24 hours or you have any concerns about them, contact your pediatrician.

And if you think it could be Covid-19, over-the-counter tests are readily available at your local store. Take an at-home test and if positive, then contact your provider. It's probably a good idea to have some of those tests at home.

The school physical

Often schools require that children get a physical so please make an appointment now if you haven't. Here's your opportunity to be sure kids are up to date on immunizations. It's also a great time to discuss health conditions that can hinder school performance such as vision and hearing screens.

During a physical, we also screen for anxiety, depression, and behavior issues. These are important topics that need to be addressed and we need to develop a course of action.

To be successful at school, nutrition, sleep patterns, exercise, and screen time all play a role. Ending screen time an hour or more before bedtime will help them get better sleep.

Of course, we capture height and weight and discuss nutrition. According to the Centers for Disease Control, children and adolescents aged 2-19 in 2017-2020, obesity affected 14.7 million nationwide.

Nutrition

Another great way to keep kids healthy is to give them healthy foods and snacks. Easier said than done, right? It's always best to eat something rather than skip a meal. Also, breakfast really is the most important meal of the day for kids. If they don't eat nutritious foods or skip breakfast, they're likely to be less attentive in school and that will affect how successful they are. Some good options for kids are eggs (even hard-boiled), cheese sticks, bananas with peanut butter, toast with nut butter, and yogurt, particularly Greek yogurt, are healthier choices. Try to avoid foods that come out of a package. Cereal is always easy but unfortunately, your child will be hungry an hour or two later.

Car Seat Safety

Back to school often means more drop-offs and pick-ups. Car seat safety is extremely important because motor vehicle crashes continue to be the leading cause of death for children 4 years and older (according to the American Academy of Pediatrics).

Car seat safety can be a complex topic but it's so important. Be sure to read your specific car seat manual. Keep in mind that straps need to be as close as possible to the body of the child. Big puffy coats and Halloween costumes can often get in the way. Think about strapping your child in and then adding the coat or keeping a blanket in the car.

Did you know that New York State law requires that:

- all children under the age of 2 must ride in a rear-facing car seat.
- all children under the age of 4 ride in child safety seats.
- all children ride in child restraint systems until their 8th birthday.

If you have any questions on these topics, please call your medical provider or pediatrician. Oak Orchard is always here to help.

Signs of a HEART ATTACK

Some heart attacks are sudden and intense, but most heart attacks start slowly, with mild pain. Often people affected aren't sure what's wrong and wait too long before getting help. Symptoms include:

CHEST DISCOMFORT. Most heart attacks involve discomfort in the center of the chest that lasts more than a few minutes, or that goes away and comes back. It can feel like uncomfortable pressure, squeezing, fullness or pain.

DISCOMFORT IN OTHER AREAS OF THE UPPER BODY. Symptoms can include pain or discomfort in one or both arms, the back, neck, jaw or stomach.

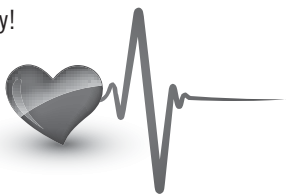

SHORTNESS OF BREATH with or without chest discomfort.

OTHER SIGNS may include breaking out in a cold sweat, nausea or lightheadedness

Women are somewhat more likely than men to experience other common symptoms, particularly SHORTNESS OF BREATH, NAUSEA/VOMITING, AND BACK/JAW PAIN.

If you or someone with you has one or more of these signs, don't delay!

Detecting Early Stages of Lung Cancer Might Come Down to this Test

By Erica Chutko

Did you know breast cancer is the most common form of cancer in the United States? As a result, the American Cancer Society recommends women over the age of 40 should at least consider getting yearly mammograms. Mammograms can help prevent breast cancer, which can be credited with one of the reasons that the 5-year survival rate is as high as 90% plus. It's all about early detection. Did you also know that not only is lung cancer the 2nd most common form of cancer in the United States, but it's also the leading cause of cancer related deaths? Knowing this, is there an imaging test that can help detect lung cancer? Thankfully, the answer is yes - a CT scan.

What is a CT scan?

Commonly referred to as a CAT scan or computed tomography scan, CT scans produce a number of detailed and efficient computerized x-rays of the body. If contrast dye is ordered by the physician, the technologist will use a small needle to place an intravenous line into the arm. For those not familiar with the test, patients lie down and enter through what looks like a tunnel, sometimes even doughnut-shaped. Even though the machine is large and makes humming noises, it will not touch your body during the scan. A radiology technologist will operate the scanner. During the test, a low dose of radiation is used to take images that are then sent to a computer for a more detailed look at different portions of the body. The computer puts the images together to make a 3 dimensional (3D) image. The dose of radiation is low and safe as possible, but still gives the best quality for the images.

What can a CT scan detect?

The minimally invasive test can diagnose, detect, and evaluate a host of diseases and injuries. A CT scan is often used to investigate head injuries or acute neurological symptoms, evaluate chronic sinus symptoms or hearing loss. It can diagnose appendicitis and evaluate masses. Your doctor may request a CT scan to obtain specific diagnostic information that is not provided by or is complementary to other imaging technologies. Those include x-ray, ultrasound, nuclear medicine, or magnetic resonance imaging (MRI). Whether your doctor is looking for muscle disorders, broken bones, internal injury, bleeding, or for the purpose of this discussion the location of tumors, including cancer.

What are some general guidelines to follow when having a CT scan?

1. Notify the radiology department of any illness such as cold, cough, fever, diarrhea, or vomiting. They may need to reschedule your appointment if you are an outpatient.
2. Notify the radiology technologist about all allergies or any previous drug reaction that may keep you from receiving contrast if needed.

3. Notify the radiology technologist if you have severe kidney disease or are on kidney dialysis due to risks from the contrast.

4. Dress in comfortable clothing with no metal snaps, belt buckles, or zippers. In the case of CT scans of the head, metal hair clips and jewelry must be removed.

Prevention is the key.

How well do you know your body? Only you will know when chest pain is different, wheezing or a cough is more than allergies, and other symptoms just won't subside. These symptoms and others are why it's so important to have a good relationship with your primary care provider. An annual physical will allow you the opportunity to continue a dialogue and bring up concerns or simply questions you might have. If these symptoms develop throughout the year, even if you've already had your annual physical, you should contact your primary care provider immediately. Early detection is crucial, and it's one of the reasons the 5-year survival rate for lung cancer is so low, because detection is typically not found until the later stages.

What should you be looking for? You've probably guessed it already and can assume many of the early symptoms of concern center around your chest and throat. Chest pain, shortness of breath, a worsening cough, and even a hoarse voice might be signs that you need to call your doctor.

In fact, the US Preventative Services Task Force (USPSTF) recommends annual lung cancer screening for people those at high risk. These would be individuals who smoked 1 pack per day for 20 years and still smoke or who quit in the last 15 years and are age 50 - 80. The annual surveillance has demonstrated some success in catching lung cancer very early. This early detection can lead to higher survival rate.

Now that you know a CT scan can help detect lung cancer, you should also know how to avoid it in the first place. By now you've probably seen an ad that discusses smoking and its dangers. That's because smoking tobacco products causes 8 to 9 out of 10 cases of lung cancer. While radon, a family history of lung cancer, and asbestos are said to be some of the other causes, so is secondhand smoke. If you want to be serious about avoiding lung cancer, you have to be serious about avoiding tobacco products altogether.

Protect Yourself from Disease Carrying Ticks

GO Health started conducting local tick surveillance in both counties this month. Tick dragging is a widely used technique for active collection of host-seeking ticks and is done by dragging a cloth over the top of vegetation and regularly checking it for the presence of ticks. The collected ticks are sent to the laboratory and tested for the presence of tick-borne diseases. Over the next few months, health department staff will continue tick dragging in local parks and public places.

To prevent tick-borne illness exposure while outdoors, you and your family can do the following: (<https://www.health.ny.gov/diseases/communicable/lyme/>)

- Wear light-colored clothing with a tight weave to spot ticks easily.
 - Wear enclosed shoes, long pants and a long-sleeved shirt. Tuck pant legs into socks or boots and shirt into pants.
 - Check clothes and any exposed skin frequently while outdoors.
 - Use insect repellent with 20-30% DEET. Follow use instructions.
 - Stay on cleared, well-traveled trails. Avoid dense woods and busy areas.
 - Avoid sitting directly on the ground or on stone walls.
 - Keep long hair tied back, especially when gardening.
 - Bathe or shower as soon as possible after going indoors (preferably within two hours) to wash off and more easily find ticks that may be on you.
 - Do a final, full-body tick check at the end of the day (also check children and pets), and remove ticks promptly.
- Additional prevention tips to create a tick-free zone in your backyard to keep you, your family and pets safe from tick exposure include: (<https://www.health.ny.gov/publications/2825/>)
- Keep grass mowed, along with clearing tall grasses and brush.
 - Remove brush and leaves around stonewalls and woodpiles.
 - Keep woodpiles and bird feeders away from your home.
 - Keep family dogs and cats out of wooded areas to reduce ticks brought into your home.
 - Place swing sets, sand boxes, decks and patios in a sunny spot away from yard edges and trees.
 - Place a 3 foot wide barrier of wood chips or gravel between lawns and wooded areas and around patios and play equipment.

To properly remove a tick, you should use fine-tipped tweezers to grasp the ticks by its mouthparts, as close to the surface of the skin as you can. Carefully pull the tick straight up without twisting. Do not touch the tick. Do not squeeze the body of the tick (it may increase your risk of infection). Clean your hands and the areas on your skin where the tick was. Watch the site of the bite for rash (3-30 days after bite). Removing a tick within 36 hours of attachment to the skin can lower the risk of contracting Lyme disease. You can view the following video to learn more about what you can do if you find a tick attached to you: <https://youtu.be/oGrK4ZKUFhQ>.

To learn more about ticks, Lyme disease and other diseases ticks can spread visit the New York State Department of Health, <https://www.health.ny.gov/diseases/communicable/lyme/>. For more information on Health Department programs and services, visit GOHealthNY.org or call your respective health department at: Genesee County: 585-344-2580 ext. 5555 Orleans County: 585-589-3278

Follow GO Health on Facebook, Twitter and Instagram at GOHealthNY.

The Genesee and Orleans County Health Departments (GO Health) encourage residents to protect themselves, their children and their pets from tick-borne diseases. Not all ticks can cause disease and not all bites will make you sick, but as ticks become more widespread, there is a higher risk the ticks will carry disease. It is important to learn how to prevent a bite, how to check for ticks, how to remove a tick and -what to do if you think you could have a tick-borne disease. "Lyme disease is endemic (widespread) throughout New York State," states Brenden Bedard, Director of Community Health Services for GO Health.

"Lyme disease is also the most common disease spread by ticks in New York, but there are other serious diseases ticks spread including Anaplasmosis, Ehrlichiosis, Babesiosis, and Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever. There are many different species of ticks, but locally the most common is the deer tick. The deer tick is a vector (carrier) for several diseases (Lyme disease, Babesiosis, Anaplasmosis) and received the name because of its habit of living and feeding on white-tailed deer, however ticks acquire Lyme disease by feeding on infected mice and other small rodents," stated Bedard.

"According to the New York State Department of Health Bureau of Communicable Disease Control, Genesee and Orleans Counties have had 36 local cases of Lyme disease between 2018-2020," stated Paul Pettit, Public Health Director for GO Health. "Ticks are here locally and you can't tell which are infected by disease or not."

Ticks are found in many types of settings such as woodlands, tree stumps, lawns and gardens, around stone walls, nature trails, outdoor summer camps, and playing fields. Ticks do not jump or fly, they attach to their host when a human or animal makes contact with something that a tick is on, like tall grass, shrubs, or an animal. The risk of human infection with Lyme disease is greatest in late spring and summer, but ticks can be active any time the temperature is above freezing. "We know the ticks that cause Lyme disease are in Western New York, that is why it is so important to make sure you do regular checks for ticks while outdoors and when you first get home," said Pettit. "It is also important to check pets for ticks after they spend time outdoors."

HOROSCOPES

ARIES - Mar 21/Apr 20

Aries, you may want to move your relationship in a different direction, but your partner is resistant. This could be a conflict, or something that opens up a dialogue.

TAURUS - Apr 21/May 21

Taurus, you might feel like doing all you can to make a problem go away, and think that acting immediately is the way to go. But ponder a few options beforehand.

GEMINI - May 22/June 21

Gemini, a professional opportunity that seems to have many positive financial outcomes actually could have a down side to it. It's best if you do your research before acting.

CANCER - Jun 22/Jul 22

You may think that others do not understand you, Cancer. But that may be a good thing. You can focus on explaining your position and maybe make a few friends along the way.

LEO - Jul 23/Aug 23

Leo, you tend to be attracted to things that tempt fate or may even be considered forbidden. When others want you to walk the straight and narrow for a bit, it could be tough.

VIRGO - Aug 24/Sept 22

Virgo, an opportunity to get away presents itself. Enjoy this much-needed respite and don't be afraid to go the extra mile to ensure the trip is as memorable as possible.

LIBRA - Sept 23/Oct 23

You may want to do it all, Libra, but sometimes you have to let others know you have limits. When you don't, it is easy to get taken advantage of or run yourself ragged.

SCORPIO - Oct 24/Nov 22

Scorpio, are you ready for an adventure? Identify some new hobbies and then learn all you can about getting out there and doing those types of activities with frequency.

SAGITTARIUS - Nov 23/Dec 21

A loved one may want to be more cozy with you this week, but you're content to have ample space and do your own thing, Sagittarius. Let your views be heard on this situation.

CAPRICORN - Dec 22/Jan 20

Capricorn, you may want to tell a loved one what they want to hear right now to make a difficult situation go away. However, that only postpones the inevitable tough talk.

AQUARIUS - Jan 21/Feb 18

You have been feeling like it is time to break away from your regular routine, Aquarius. It could be because there has been added stress on your shoulders. A vacation may be needed.

PISCES - Feb 19/Mar 20

There are some limits to doing all of the work on your own, Pisces. First off, you may lack the time and the expertise. Bring on helpers this week if anyone is available.
