Piedmont Pets

September 14, 2023 By Paulette Dean

We are receiving an increasing number of telephone calls from people who are concerned about coyotes in their neighborhood. According to the Virginia Department of Game and Inland Fisheries, the coyote population in Virginia continues to grow and is distributed throughout the state, even though it is thought that more coyotes live in the area west of the Blue Ridge Mountains.

The Virginia Department of Wildlife Resources suggests that "Small dogs and cats should be kept in an enclosure when kept outdoors in order to prevent coyotes from attacking and killing a pet animal. Even though a fence may dissuade coyotes from attacking your pet, be aware that coyotes can jump over fences less than 7-feet high and can climb over taller fencing that does not have an outward slanting overhang." (From www.dwr.virginia.gov)

This certainly is not an issue that should cause undue concern or cause people to panic; we do not have herds of coyotes in each neighborhood that are waiting to attack humans and their pets. However, it is not a bad idea to exercise caution. It is better to take a pro-active approach to staying away from coyotes and encouraging them to leave inhabited areas.

First and foremost, cats are safer inside. Small dogs should also not be left outside by themselves. All dogs and cats should have rabies vaccinations that are kept current. Dogs that are chained outside are also at risk of being attacked by coyotes.

If a food source is provided (even unintentionally through feeding pets outside), a coyote may become more comfortable in staying around your house. That is not a good thing, because the coyote may become more aggressive. Take steps to secure garbage cans, and prevent small prey from staying around your house; they can attract hungry coyotes.

The Department of Wildlife Resources also offers some good advice about how to make coyotes feel unwelcome. They suggest you find a place that keeps you safe from the animal, and then yell while throwing non-food items in the direction of the coyote.

It is always safer to stay away from wild animals, and it is safer for your pets to take steps to keep them away from them also.

Strates Shows Celebrates 57 Years Of Midway Magic In Southside Virginia

The James E. Strates Shows, exclusive midway provider for the Danville-Pittsylvania County Fair, is celebrating the 100th anniversary of its founding during 2023. It's a historic milestone in the outdoor amusement industry that has deep roots in South-Central Virginia. Strates Shows local connections first began at the Great Danville Fair in 1938, were revived in 2004 and will continue when the Danville-Pittsylvania County Fair opens on September 15th.

Strates Shows began in 1923 when James E. Strates, a Greek immigrant, began his first show. Strates came to America in 1909 and, like many immigrants, worked hard at many small jobs to find success in his new country. In 1919, he joined a carnival athletic show as a wrestler named "Young Strangler Lewis" who would take on all challengers. In 1923, James E. Strates co-founded Southern Tier Shows in Elmira, New York that consisted of a three-abreast merry-go-round, a Ferris wheel, an athletic show, 15 concessions and three side shows. In a short period of time, Strates reputation for running a clean, honest and entertaining show allowed him to turn the ragtag hodgepodge of wagons and rigs into a thunderous railroad caravan of shows. In 1932 the carnival was renamed the James E. Strates Show and in 1934 began traveling by rail for the first time. The use of the train allowed the carnival to travel further distances including adding Southside Virginia to its route.

Strates first brought his railroad traveling carnival to the Great Danville Fair in 1938. The show consisted of 10 rides, 20 shows and 50 food and game concessions. He quickly made friends with Danville's Greek Community who centered around St. Peter's Orthodox Church. It's here that he first met Danville native Sam Sakellaris, who in addition to being the Secretary and Treasurer of the Great Danville Fair, would later join Strates Shows as its General Manager.

For years, James E. Strates had a great interest in the Danville Fair. He played a major part in the selection of the former Fairgrounds when the Fair was moved from its Forest Hills location. It was Strates who assisted Fair officials in planning and laying out the new grounds on Riverside Drive.

Postwar prosperity and "free-spending crowds" resulted in record Fair and midway attendance during the mid-1950s. Strates Shows grew to 65 railway cars, 650 employees, 30 rides and 20 shows. Many people remember Terrell Jacobs' Wild Animal Circus, the Hollywood Revue burlesque show, the motorcycle Thrill Arena and appearance by Johann Petursson, the 8 feet, 8 inches tall "Viking Giant." By the end of the 1950s, Strates Shows was one of the largest traveling amusement companies in North America.

Danville would forever be linked to Strates Shows history when, following the conclusion of the five-day 1959 Fair (where it rained for 4-days), James E. Strates would be stricken ill after experiencing a stroke. Strates passed away at Memorial Hospital on October 11, 1959.

According to a September 1960 article in the Danville Register & Bee, the night before Strates was taken ill he told Fair Manager C. C. Finch that although Danville was one of the carnival's smallest show-dates, it was the show-date that he valued most highly. Strates felt like he was coming home whenever the show returned to Danville because he had made some any close friends.

Following his passing, Strates' 29-year-old son E. James (Jim) Strates took over the family business. Under his leadership, Jim Strates would continue to transform the Show with innovation and creativity. His goal from the start was not to be the biggest, but to be the best midway in America. From marketing to customer service, he helped to lead not only his midway but the entire carnival industry, into the big-business, high-tech world of modern family entertainment.

During the 1960s and 1970s, new rides like the Sky Wheel, Sky Diver and Sky Ride dominated the midway. As the "show" aspect of the midway began to lose favorite with a new generation of guests, imported rides from Europe became larger and more spectacular. In 1972, advanced midway ticket sales were introduced at the Danville Fair. An innovative centralized ticketing system was introduced in the mid-1970s allowing for accurate financial accountability and greater profits for fair partners. Strates Shows would provide the carnival to the Danville area for 38 seasons before the Greater Danville Fair was formally dissolved. During those years, the Fairgrounds moved several times and profits fluctuated due to hurricane season storms and flooding.

Without an authentic county fair in Danville for several years, Larry Burnett and his family brought back the tradition with the inaugural Danville-Pittsylvania County Fair in 1991. In 2004, Strates Show would return to Southside Virginia to provide the midway. 2023 will mark the 19th consecutive year for Strates Shows at the Danville-Pittsylvania County Fair and the 57th time since 1938 that the Strates Family has been part of the community's various celebrations.

As the Strates Shows celebrates its centennial year of operations the family business is led by the 3rd generation of Strates members including Jimmy, Jay, John, and Susan. Nick Strates, who officially joined the show full-time during the 2015 season, is the 4th generation of the Strates family to continue the tradition. Overseeing it all, as he has for the past six decades, is E. James Strates who is still actively involved in daily operations from the Strates Shows offices in Orlando.

About the Strates Shows – Celebrating its centennial year operations in 2023, Strates Shows is a family-owned and operated outdoor amusement and carnival business with headquarters in Orlando, Florida. Founded in 1923 by Greek immigrant James E. Strates as the Southern Tier Shows in Elmira, New York, the Strates Shows is one of America's premiere providers of carnival midways.

Danville police chief leaving, accepts offer as Roanoke police chief

City Manager Ken Larking announced today that Police Chief Scott Booth will be leaving the City of Danville to accept the position of police chief for the City of Roanoke. Booth's last day as police chief in Danville will be Oct. 31.

Larking noted the dramatic reduction in crime rates under during Booth's tenure. "While I am disappointed that Chief Booth will be leaving us, I am incredibly thankful for what he and his team have accomplished under his leadership," Larking said. "I am happy for him to have this new opportunity and for the people in Roanoke. Scott and the department have built a winning system in Danville." Mayor Alonzo Jones agreed, saying, "He's done a great job for the City of Danville, and he deserves praise for the work he has done. To see crime at the lowest rates in years, the partnerships between the police department and the community that are now in place, and the high level of engagement and trust with citizens speaks volumes for Chief Booth and the entire department."

Booth has been the chief of police in Danville since February 2018. "Over the last five years, we have worked together as a city to meet several goals, including reducing violent crime and establishing community-based policing, which has become the Danville model," Booth said. "Through a philosophy of having leaders in the department that are empowered to act, and lead by example, the Danville community has come together and established a better tomorrow for the future." During his tenure, he has been recognized for his leadership in reducing crime, community policing, and community engagement. Most recently, Booth received national recognition with the Frederic Milton Thrasher Award from the National Gang Crime Research Center. The award recognizes Booth's accomplishments for superior leadership, specifically as it relates to reducing gang-related crime in the community.

In 2022, he was awarded the Innovation in Government Award by Virginia Commonwealth University's Wilder School of Government and Public Affairs. In 2020, he received the Excellence in Policing Award by Radford University's Center for Police Practice, Policy, and Research.

City manager names interim police chief

City Manager Ken Larking announced today that Deputy Police Chief Chris Wiles will serve as interim police chief when Police Chief Scott Booth departs in October. Wiles has served 30 years in the Danville Police Department, joining the department on Sept. 1, 1993. He was named deputy police chief last December.

Prior to his promotion, he served at the rank of major, and he commanded the operations division.

Larking also announced today that there will be a national search for the city's next police chief. He expects the search to be completed by the end of the year.

Danville Kiwanis Club Speakers

At their September 7th meeting, Kiwanis members heard from two members of the Danville Literacy Council. Laura Powell, President of the board and board member Ann Sylves discussed challenges of literacy in Danville's population. For example, at the 18% level, 1 in 5 Danvillians are reading below the 4th grade. Laura and Ann mentioned the importance of tutors who provide tutoring services for 46 18 and over individuals. Kiwanis members were thanked for providing a grant in support of Project Literacy. Pictured (L-R) are Carolyn Smith who serves as chairperson of the Kiwanis Program Committee, Laura Powell and Ann Sylves.

Laidback Golf Tour Kinderton Tournament Results

Thirteen of the Laidback Golf Tour's members traveled to Kinderton Country Club in Clarksville, Va Monday September 11th to participate in their thirteenth tournament of the season. They found the 1947 Donald Ross/ Dick Wilson layout to be just as challenging as in their previous times there as there was only three rounds in the seventies and fourteen total birdies made. Fran Hensley, last years winner here was the only repeat winner as she turned in the low round of the day with her one under par 71. Fran began the day with a bogie on the first hole before carding two birdies and the rest pars in her round. It gave her her third win of the season. Meanwhile Mike Asbury playing in the B Flight claimed his fifth season win with his round of 75. The current Tour's leading money winner Jody Myers also collected his third season win in the C Flight with his round of 82.

Fran Hensley and Bart Truesdell each won a closest to the Pin prize but there were no Honey Hole winners today. The $90 Honey Hole prize money will carry over to the next scheduled event which is at Forest Oaks Country Club in Greensboro, NC on Monday September 25th beginning at 9:30am. Registration for this event is required by Monday September 19th. Entry fee will be $75 for Tour members. Enter by emailing golftripman@yahoo.com.

Charlotte Louise Lowther

Charlotte Louise Lowther died peacefully surrounded by family on Aug. 31st. She was 98.

Preceding her in death are her husband Homer (Bus) Lowther and a son Robert Lowther. She is survived by four children Mary (Paul) Patrick, David (Sally) Lowther, James (Lynn) Lowther, and Sharon Lowther; seven grandchildren Ben Lowther, Ted Patrick, Stephanie (Kevin Brauning) Patrick, Jennifer (Matt) Embry, Brian (Debbie) Lowther, Kristin (Joey) Connelly, Mike (Kirksey) Lowther, and fourteen great-grandchildren.

Charlotte was born to Mary and William Huff on April 19, 1925 in St. Louis, Missouri, the oldest of four children. Most of her childhood was spent in Springfield, Missouri. She graduated from Drury University in 1947 and took a job at Westminster Presbyterian Church in Topeka, Kansas, as Director of Religious Education. While she resigned her job to start of family the inside joke was that she continued her work as Director of Religious Ed., but was just no longer paid for it. Bus and Charlotte and their five children stayed in Topeka until promotions with Goodyear took them first to Ohio and eventually to Danville, where Charlotte resided from 1977 until her death.

Charlotte's priorities could be described as God first, family second, and service third. She was involved in many community activities in Danville, including First Presbyterian Church, P.E.O., Wednesday Club, Daughters of the American Revolution, and the Danville Genealogical Society. In her volunteer capacities she served as officers in all of these organizations, directed the church midweek evening program, served as an elder of the church, taught a church circle into her 90's, and wrote numerous programs for meetings and for publishing. She also loved travel. She enjoyed three trips to Europe, but her favorite place to go was always Colorado.

The family would like to thank Charlotte's caregiver Emily for her unfailing love and expertise. They would also like to thank Commonwealth Hospice for all the care and support they provided Charlotte and her family.

Service will include a dual memorial for Charlotte and her son Robert at 11:00 am, Tuesday, September 12, 2023, at First Presbyterian Church with the Reverend Doctor Elizabeth Broschart officiating.

Interment for Charlotte will be in Highland Cemetery, Winfield, Kansas, at a later date.

The family will receive friends on Tuesday, at the church, from 10:00 am until 11:00 am. Memorials in honor of Charlotte may be made to First Presbyterian Church, Dorothea Henry Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, P.E.O. Chapter B.O. (designate for Cottey College).

Wrenn-Yeatts Westover Chapel is serving the Lowther family.

1. The Love Unlimited Orchestra was the band for which vocal artist?
2. Which doo-wop group released "Under the Boardwalk"?
3. Who released "Let the Little Girl Dance"?
4. Which group released "Cold as Ice"?
5. Name the song that contains this lyric: "I'm out of work, I'm out of my head, out of self-respect, I'm out of bread, I'm under loved, I'm underferd, I wanna go home."

Answers

1. Barry White. The orchestra was a 40-piece mostly string group. They also backed up White's female trio, Love Unlimited. They were with White for the '70s decade and periodically released their own albums.
2. The Drifters, in 1964. The song climbed to No. 1 on the R&B chart and has since been covered by several artists, including the Rolling Stones (their cover went to No. 1 in Australia and South Africa).
3. Billy Bland, in 1960. Bland overheard another artist recording the song and gave suggestions about how it should be sung. Bland recorded it just that once ... and that is the version that was released.
4. Foreigner, in 1977.
