By Tom Rivers, Editor Posted 7 November 2023 at 11:07 pm

SHELBY – A contentious election season ended in Shelby with incumbents holding their seats, except John Pratt, a current councilman who fell short in a write-in campaign.

• Linda Limina, 779, and Jeff Schiffer, 529, were both elected as Republicans. There were 427 write-in votes.

• In other contested positions, Dale Root won re-election as highway superintendent over Bill Wolters, 556 to 488. Root had the Republican and Conservative lines while Wolter ran under the Democratic Party line. Wolter works as a motor equipment operator in the highway department.

• Darlene Rich also held off a challenger and was re-elected town clerk. Rich, a Democrat, also ran under the independent "People's Choice" Party. She received 616 votes to 446 for Christine Pask, a Republican. Rich has been the town clerk for 16 years.

• Other candidates were unopposed including: Scott Wengewicz for town supervisor, 706 votes; and Ed Grabowski for town justice, 771 votes.

Medina CSD FFA Advisor Takes Part in International Agriculture Conference

DES MOINES, Iowa—Outstanding Educators from 18 states and four countries convened in Iowa last month to participate in a unique professional development experience called the Global Guides program. Hosted by the World Food Prize Foundation and the Global Teach Ag Network, the Global Guides brought educators together for conversations and innovative learning opportunities with scientists, policymakers, and hunger fighters from around the world.

Todd Eick, agriscience educator at Medina Central School District, was selected to join the elite program that included 40 hours of immersive programming as part of the World Food Prize and the Norman E Borlaug International Dialogue, the premier global agriculture and food security convening.

Eick engaged digitally for two months of preparation before attending the Borlaug Dialogue, and will continue applying concepts in their communities over the next five months through designing and implementing interdisciplinary global learning projects as an individual or team with other Global Guides. "Words cannot begin to convey the experience," says Eick. "It was personally and professionally one of the most powerful and inspiring opportunities I've had in my career as an educator. The global network and direct connections I was able to make will bring a new level of global ag education to our program that we have never had."

During the Borlaug Dialogue, Eick and other Global Guides interacted with experts in food security, including 2023 World Food Prize Laureate Heidi Kühn, author Roger Thurow, Australia's Action For Agriculture Founder Lynne Strong, 2022 World Food Prize Laureate Dr. Cynthia Rozensweig, and 2018 World Food Prize Laureate Dr. Lawrence Haddad.

The World Food Prize Global Guides program was facilitated by faculty from the Global Teach Ag Network including Daniel Foster, Ph.D., Associate Professor at the Pennsylvania State University, Melanie Miller Foster, Ph.D., Assistant Professor at the Pennsylvania State University, OP McCubbins, Associate Professor at Mississippi State University, and Tobin Redwine, Ph.D., Learning Strategist at Vivacy, Inc.

Foster, Co-founder of the Global Teach Ag Network explained the impact and importance of the Global Guides program. "Educators are an invaluable component of fighting global food insecurity," Foster said. "By situating educators as part of the conversation among scientists and world leaders, we bring global action to local contexts and see direct change."

To learn more about the World Food Prize Foundation Global Guides Program, visit the website at tx.ag/GG23 or email Jon Wogman at JWogman@Worldfoodprize.org.

Photo Caption: Global guides including Todd Eick (fourth from the left). Standing behind Eick in the white suit is Heidi Kuhn, this year's winning laureate. Ms. Kuhn's efforts to turn minefields into vineyards through her Roots for Peace non-profit earned her the 2023 World Food Prize Laureate sculpture and $500,000 in prize money.

Murray elects new town supervisor; Kendall picks new Town Board member

By Tom Rivers, Editor Posted 7 November 2023 at 11:27 pm

Yates board members hold off challenge from 2 Conservatives

The Town of Murray elected Gerald Rightmyer as the next town supervisor, ending Joe Sidonio's four-year tenure. Rightmyer, who beat Sidonio in a June 27 Republican primary, had 510 votes to the 175 for Sidonio, who ran under the Conservative Party line.

Other results in Murray include:

Town Council members for four-year terms (pick two) – Lloyd Christ Jr., 484; and Randall Bower, 489.

Town Council members for two-year terms (pick two) – Michael Christopher, 441; Elaine Berg, 461; and Eric Collyer, 216.

In Kendall, residents elected a new member to the Town Board in David Bentley, a Republican with 361 votes. He ousted Margaret Lynn Szozda, a Democrat and incumbent, with 198 votes. Barb Flow, a Republican was re-elected with 432 votes.

Other candidates elected include: Tony Cammarata, town supervisor with 410 votes; and Eric Maxon, highway superintendent with 426 votes. There were also 88 write-ins for highway superintendent. Maxon will succeed Warren Kruger, who Maxon defeated in a Republican primary.

In Yates, incumbent Town Board members John Riggi and Susan Hrovat were re-elected, holding off a challenge from Paul Lauricella Jr. and Steven Colon.

Hrovat, 245 votes, and Riggi, 244, votes, are Republicans. They were challenged by Lauricella, 173 votes, and Colon, 129, who ran under the Conservative Party and independent "Taxpayers First."

Other Yates candidates to be re-elected include incumbents: Jim Simon for town supervisor, 312 votes; Michelle Harling for town clerk, 351 votes; and Roger Wolfe for highway superintendent, 352 votes.

"My dad recommended Pat's when the brakes in my car started to go this past week and I am so happy he did. The owner's daughter was so sweet when I came in to drop off my car and they were able to fix my brakes, provide an oil change, tire rotation, and wiper fluid for me at all a very reasonable cost. I highly recommend if you are in the area (or not! I live in Buffalo!) You go get your car work done at Pat's. They truly are the nicest, most honest repair company I've ever worked with. Without doubt I will be returning! Thank you to the team at Pat's!"
