Do you have HEEL pain or ARCH pain?

HEEL SPUR SYNDROME/PLANTAR FASCIITIS is a common problem among people who are active. It starts as a dull intermittent pain in the heel and progresses to a sharp persistent pain. Classically, it is worse in the morning with the first few steps, after sitting, after standing or after walking.

- Plantar fasciitis often begins with irritation and tearing of the fibrous band of tissue on the bottom of the foot, which may eventually result in the formation of a heel spur.
- Contributing factors: Flat pronated feet, high arched feet, poor shoe support, increased age, sudden weight increase, increased activity level, family tendency.
- 95% of our patients' symptoms are resolved with conservative treatment, avoiding surgical intervention.
- We also offer surgical procedures with the best post op success rates using Endoscopic Plantar Fasciotomy techniques (minimal incisions and scarring; often back in a shoe in 1 week).

How to find more time to read

Avid readers know that a good book can be a great escape. In addition to being a go-to hobby on rainy days and a great way to get away from the daily grind, reading can have a profound impact on mental health.

A 2013 study published in the journal Brain Connectivity used MRI scans to measure the effects of reading on the brain. The scans showed that reading not only triggered brain connectivity while reading, but also continued to do so for days afterward.

The dawn of a new year is widely seen as a great time for people to make positive changes, and many of those are rooted in personal growth. If that personal growth involves reading more, then the following are some ways people can find more time to get away with a good book.

- Take a book to the gym. Weightlifting and reading might not be a match made in heaven, but taking an e-reader along with you to the treadmill, elliptical or exercise bike can be great way to pass the time while breaking a sweat. Instead of firing up a streaming service during your cardiovascular workout, bring an e-reader and read a book. That can make your workout twice as beneficial because you'll be working out your body and your brain at the same time.
- Hit the books before bed. Many people find time to read right before going to bed each night. Reading before bed is a great time to get some reading in, and it also can benefit readers in a unique way. A 2009 study from researchers at the University of Sussex found that six minutes of reading before bed reduces stress by 68 percent.

- Listen to books while commuting. While it takes some getting used to, listening to audiobooks is another way to indulge in a good book. Though various studies have suggested audiobooks can lead to lower levels of reading comprehension than reading traditional print books, people with hectic schedules may need to give a little to get a little. Professionals with long commute times can turn their daily drives to and from the office into opportunities to listen to audiobooks. It might not be quite the same as reading a print book, but it's still a great way to dive into a good story.
- Turn the television off. Data collected from Nielsen in 2018 found that the average adult now spends nearly six hours per day watching television, videos on a smartphone or tablet and/or videos on devices connected to their televisions. Adults who want to find more time to read may need to just turn off their televisions and devices and spend more time reading than watching videos.

Reading more can be a great way to grow as a person and that growth can have a profound effect on readers' overall health.

Joan M. Woodward, of Medina, passed away peacefully at home surrounded by her family on January 28, 2024, following a long illness. She was born on August 7, 1936, in Somerset. Joan was the daughter of the late Otto and Hazel (Allen) Heideman. Growing up in the Barker area, she married Francis Woodward in November of 1953. They settled in Lyndonville and raised a family of seven children. While raising her children, Joan also worked for H. H. Dobbins, Inc. for many years. She loved reading, embroidery, crafts, family events and working in her flower gardens. Our mom was a miracle worker. With little resources, she always managed to put clean clothes on us all, while taking a few cans of food and making it seem like a feast. She squeezed her budget so that she could buy us those things we just "had to have". She was our nurse, teacher, counselor, cook, maid and friend, and still greeted the world with a smile. Others may have had more money than we did, but no one had a better mother. Joan was a great example to her children and grandchildren, sharing important life lessons until her last days. She loved her husband well and taught us to "be good to all people and always do the best you can." Joan was proud of her family, who brought her so much joy. Her best days were when they were all together with her as a family. Her family, friends and neighbors will miss her dearly. Joan was predeceased by her husband, Francis; grandson, Timmy Woodward, Craig

Woodward and Kahutah Fletcher; brothers, Don, Chuck, Al, Ross, Jerry and Raymond Heideman; and sisters, Norma Newman and Joyce Houseman. She is survived by her loving children, Danny (Bev) Woodward of Lyndonville, Diane (Howard) Boyce of Lyndonville, Darlene (Bob) Waters of Medina, Francis (Bev) Woodward, Jr. of Medina, Connie (Lee) Fletcher of Medina, Donald (Paula) Woodward of Medina and Michael Woodward of Medina. Joan leaves behind eighteen grandchildren; thirty nine great-grandchildren; four great-great-grandchildren; a sister, Linda Hall; many nieces and nephews; and many dear friends. A private committal service will be held in Lynhaven Cemetery at the convenience of her family. Arrangements are in the care of Cooper Funeral Home, 215 W. Center St., Medina. In lieu of flowers, memorial donations may be made to Hospice of Orleans at www.hospiceforleans.org. Share condolences and memories at www.cooperfuneralhome.com.
