Outdoor Observations

by Tom Berg

The Handsome Caspian Tern

The Caspian Tern is the largest of all terns and can be found all over the world. It is about the size of an American crow. It migrates through much of the United States in the springtime, including Indiana, and in North America it breeds in isolated spots along the Great Lakes and large bodies of water in Canada. There are also some breeding colonies in the western USA and along both sea coasts.

The Caspian Tern is a regal-looking bird, with its white plumage and crown of jet black feathers on top of its head. Its powerful wings are grayish-white and it has a very sharp, bright red beak. This bird got its name in 1770 when Prussian zoologist and explorer Peter Pallas collected a sample on the shores of the Caspian Sea, where these birds are still common. Evidently he did not know how widely these terns ranged throughout the world.

Like most terns, the Caspian tern's diet consists mostly of small fish. They catch fish by flying over the shallows of lakes, marshes, rivers and seashores, often hovering until they spot their next target. Then they make a steep dive and often hit the water hard. When they emerge with a fish, they usually swallow it quickly on the wing and begin searching for the next fish.

Besides fish, Caspian terns have been known to occasionally raid the nests of other birds to eat their eggs and even eat newly hatched birds. They will also eat crustaceans like crabs along saltwater coasts and crayfish on inland waterways. But small fish are always their first choice!

"The Aisle Seat"

by Tim Fealy

"Oppenheimer," available on Peacock, tells the story of J Robert Oppenheimer, the scientist chosen to lead the Manhattan Project which created the first atomic bomb. The movie follows a few timelines. One is the story of Oppenheimer's personal and professional life. It follows the evolution of the bomb and his involvement. The other is about a hearing after the war to revoke Oppenheimer's security clearance and discredit his reputation. On the plus side, the film is beautiful and well-acted and seeing the story unfold is interesting, especially given the high stakes involved. At one point, the scientists have to decide whether starting a chain reaction to set off a bomb would ignite the atmosphere and vaporize the planet. The film's merits, however, cannot outweigh how much I dislike this film. At over 3+ hours, it churns on and on. Even after the bomb is tested, there is still an hour or more of security hearings that seem to have no end. When the film finally does end, I was completely exhausted. It is a film you watch to the end wishing for it to get better and it never does. Somehow, some way, many will love this film. For me, there are countless, better ways to spend your time. On my scale as to what I would pay to see this film, "Oppenheimer" gets $3.

While I am not a fan of the true crime genre, I do love a good mystery! "American Nightmare" is a limited series on Netflix that tells the story of a couple, Aaron & Denise, who are woken up by a group of home invaders. The couple is tied up, drugged and Denise is kidnapped. Aaron goes to the police and recounts in detail being woken up to flashing white lights, red laser dots and intruders wearing what appeared to be wetsuits. Detectives, however, believe his story is too outlandish to be true and instead focus on Aaron as being the prime suspect in his girlfriend's disappearance. Is he telling the truth? What happens when the authorities you turn to, not only do not believe you, but suspect you? Or did Denise stage her own kidnapping because they were having issues in their relationship? This series will keep you guessing. Truth is sometimes stranger than fiction. On my scale, "American Nightmare" gets $8.

Gardening Tips

by Jackie Kubiak #12

‘March’ on into the Garden

Pull on your muck boots before you head into the yard; it's mud season! We're hunting for bulb foliage, watching for returning birds, and cleaning up the garden after a grey winter.

- Daffodils, crocus, and tulips are all pushing their way out of the soil in our zone 6 landscapes. Daffodils have round, flat tips on their leaves, while the leaves of tulips are pointed and curl a bit as soon as they come out of the ground. You can see crocus in the photo below.
- Forsythia shrubs are an early sign of spring; watch for their brilliant yellow blooms.
- Birds are returning to the garden. Scrub out your birdfeeders and fill them up to lure in migrating birds.
- Fruit trees and spring-blooming shrubs have formed buds that are starting to swell. When you prune, take some branches inside to force early blooms.

Some More Things to Do This Month

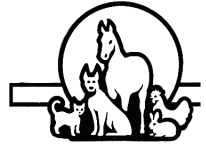

- Removing invasive plants and clearing thickets.
- Designing new ornamental gardens or kitchen gardens
- Building raised beds.
- Installing hardscape projects like natural stone patios.
- Contact your local landscape center to make appointments for all your landscape needs!
- Prune shrubs that flower on new wood.
- Trim back ornamental grass stalks to clear room for new growth.
- Spray fruit trees following guidelines for each type of tree.
- Remove protective burlap from evergreens.
- Start spring cleaning in flower beds.

Irish Apple Cake

Cake:

3 cups self-rising flour
1/2 tablespoon cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon cloves
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
1/4 teaspoon ginger
1 stick butter, cubed
3/4 cup sugar
4 apples, peeled and cubed
2 eggs
1 cup half-and-half

Topping:

1/2 stick butter
3/4 cup flour
1 cup brown sugar

Custard:

6 large egg yolks
6 tablespoons sugar
1 1/2 cups half-and-half
2 teaspoons vanilla

Preheat oven to 375 F. Grease and flour 9-inch round springform pan.

To make cake: In large bowl, sift flour with cinnamon, cloves, nutmeg and ginger. Using fork, cut butter until mixture resembles crumbs. Add sugar and apples; mix well. Stir in eggs and half-and-half until mixture reaches thick, dough-like batter. Pour batter into prepared pan.

To make topping: In bowl, mix butter, flour and sugar to create crumbled mixture. Sprinkle on top of batter in pan. Bake 1 hour. Check with toothpick to make sure middle is completely done. If not, bake 5-10 minutes. Let cool on rack.

To make custard: Whisk egg yolks and sugar. In saucepan, bring half-and-half to boil. Add one spoonful half-and-half at a time to egg mixture, whisking while adding. Once whisked together, return to saucepan and stir over medium heat until thickened, about 4 minutes. Remove from heat and whisk in vanilla. Serve custard over cake.

Fit & Healthy Family Guide

Believe it or not, it's already the month of March! Now's the time to get moving as we transition seasons. Here are seven hints to help you "spring into wellness" and the activities of summer!

Wake early to exercise.

The mornings are warming up, and spring means the sun rises earlier each day. So take good advantage of this change. Get out and exercise before starting your day, whether it's going for a run or walking the dog. Exercising before work can begin your day on a high note with clarity and energy.

Update your workout attire.

Proper footwear can help support an active lifestyle by providing important support for your joints. In addition, new lightweight clothing can help you manage heat and perspiration to optimize comfort when exercising. And be sure you're properly equipped before starting a new workout routine.

Seven Tips for Promoting a Healthy Spring

Revitalize your daily fruits and vegetable.

Spring is a great season to add new fruits and vegetables to your diet. The U.S. Department of Agriculture recommends 4.5 servings of fruits and vegetables each day. These are among those that are in season during the spring: cherries, raspberries, nectarines, plums, pluots and rhubarb; artichokes, cucumbers, peas, peppers, squash and tomatoes.

Say "yes" to a healthy breakfast.

It's a solid foundation and great start for any day. And make sure to partner a morning exercise routine with a healthy breakfast. You'll need energy to make the most of your fitness regimen. Instead of coffee and a quick breakfast sandwich, how about a glass of OJ and a grapefruit?

Seven Tips for Promoting a Healthy Spring

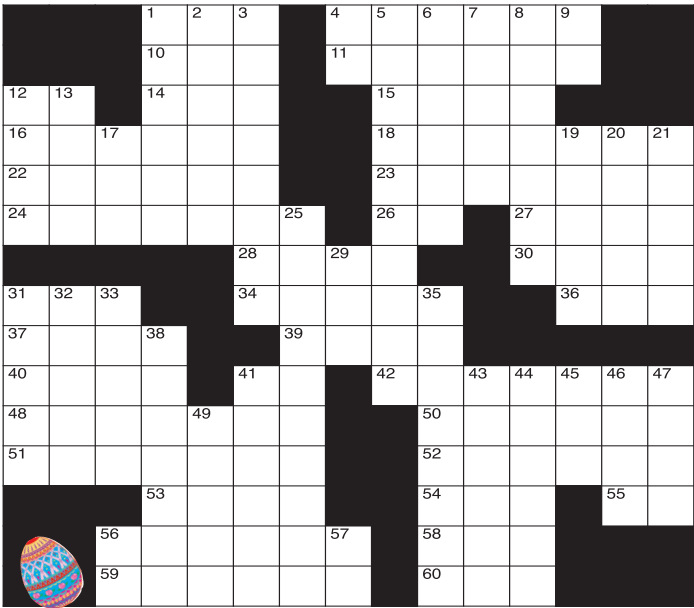

Water with a squeeze of lemon.
How often do you drink the recommended 64 ounces of water each day? For your body to perform at a high level, it's essential to stay hydrated. A glass of water can also be a good appetite suppressant and can help maintain a healthy weight. Try a squeeze of lemon in your water to add a bit of zest.

Proper sleeping habits help maintain a healthy weight.
Strive to sleep 6-8 hours each night. Also, staying up late has been shown to increase the likelihood of overeating. Achieving proper rest will help reduce the opportunity to make bad diet decisions while preparing you for the demands of the next day.

Schedule screenings and doctor's appointments.
Spring is a good time for a health tune-up. For example, before starting an exercise routine, it's always recommended to check with your primary care physician. And are there any allergy medications that need to be refilled before heading outside? When the weather turns warm and the blossoms start coming out, it's our signal to get ahead of the game for making each summer fun and rewarding. Many of the activities above can be done with friends, family and coworkers for mutual reinforcement. It's not too early to start acquainting kids with some of these habits for a lifetime of healthy living.

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!
