Culinary Masters Coming for KitchenAid Senior PGA Championship

One of the many fringe benefits of having the KitchenAid Senior PGA Championship in Benton Harbor is the thousands of people who get to experience, for the first time, the many treasures of Southwest Michigan. Included in that display is the delightful mix of culinary geniuses from near and far who expose us to their latest food creations.

The KitchenAid team has unveiled the slew of celebrity chefs and local talent who will be headlining the 2024 event, including some names you might recognize, and others we value so much, we appreciate having them in our own backyard.

See below for the chefs who will be featured at the 2024 KitchenAid Senior PGA Championship taking place at Harbor Shores over Memorial Day Weekend, and make plans to visit the KitchenAid Fairway Club, the centerpiece of the fan experience at the Championship. There you will find interactive cooking displays and product demonstrations, smoothie and shave ice making, espresso tastings and captivating demonstrations by renowned chefs and home designers.

Among the celebrities we are proud to call West Michigan's own is Abra Berens of Granor Farm. She's made a name for herself nationally as an award winning and best-selling cookbook author. She also brings a world-view approach to her cooking that encourages creativity as well as sustainability. We had a chance to talk with Abra back in 2023 about her third cookbook titled Pulp: A Practical Guide to Cooking With Fruit and are excited to learn she's one of the featured chefs for this year's KitchenAid Senior PGA Championship event.

Others in this year's KitchenAid Senior PGA Championship celebrity chef lineup (as provided by the KitchenAid team):

This year's star-studded lineup will be led by renowned Chef Christopher Covelli and his protégé Chef Brett Wagner. Chef Covelli, having been featured as the resident celebrity chef talent every year of the KitchenAid spon-

A Baseball-free Baseball Column!

What do you get when you combine one of my old column ideas with a new – or at least new-ish – one? For you, I hope it's five minutes of escape from whatever's buggin' ya. For me, I hope it can be padded to 550 words.

Ok, for starters, someday I want to hear from all of you about your nicknames – the one (or ones) that you're called, and/or the one (or ones) that people you know are called. However, since none of you have contributed any such fodder yet, I will focus today on nicknames from, you guessed it, the wacky world of baseball.

I'll start with nicknames that, in the spirit of a couple columns back, don't exactly inspire confidence in the abilities of the, uh, nickname-ee.

Snake Deal. Doesn't sound like a guy who cares about fair play, does it? And maybe, in a way, he didn't. Because besides baseball, Snake also played basketball for pay. And some sources say he was the first guy to shoot jump shots, rather than fling the ball hoopward flat-footed. No one apparently knew whether the rules permitted this – but hey, a Snake don't care 'bout no rules!

Gravedigger Hebner. Hebner was not so-nicknamed because he buried his team's hopes; he was actually a pretty good ballplayer. But between baseball seasons, he worked at a cemetery run by his father and brother. (There's a story that once his father scolded him for not digging a gravesite deep enough, to which Hebner replied, "Aw, I never saw anyone get up from one.")

Think many of these nicknames struck fear into opposing teams?: Putsy Caballero; Puddin-head Jones; Granny Hamner; Goober Zuber; Sloppy Thurston; Grandma Murphy.

How about Cuddles Marshall, a New York Yankee in the 1940s. Much was made of his appealing visage; one newspaper called him the "handsomest Yankees twirler."

In 1946, multiple New York sportswriters occasionally made mention of how much Marshall resembled the movie star Tyrone Power. (What a name, eh? – "Tyrone Power." He started calling himself that at an early age... because Tyrone Power was his actual name. Though his dad nicknamed him Bingo.)

Anyway, that same year, an ink-stained wretch (aka a reporter) happened to listen in while some of Marshall's teammates were gab-bing about what to nickname him. His fellow pitcher Joe Page (nicknamed "The Gay Reliever" by the immortal Joe DiMaggio for his happy-go-lucky personality, and willingness to hit the nightspots with DiMaggio until all hours of the night) surmised that Marshall's looks made all the girls want to "cuddle" with him. The ink-stained wretch began to refer to Marshall as "Cuddles" in his articles. Marshall didn't care for the nickname at first, but eventually decided to cuddle up to it.

Now we turn to Hugh "Losing Pitcher" Mulcahy, so-nicknamed because he twice lost 20 games in a season (for you non-baseball fans, that's a LOT of losing), and every season of his career he always lost more games than he won. But Losing Pitcher did come in first once: He was the first major league baseball player to be drafted into military service before the U.S. entered World War II. He served four years – and his team didn't lose that one!

VA HANDICAP
“I tried to file a claim on my own and gave up.”

When I left the Air Force I tried doing a compensation claim on my own without much success, I sought out the Service Officer where I lived at the time but did not get much help so my claim wither on the vine. When I retired from my civilian career one of my goals was to re-file for VA benefits.

I had just relocated to South West Michigan, I knew a few people but I was unsure what I would do to be fulfilled in retirement in my new town. I decided to become more active in my local American Legion Post (331 Bridgman). I imagined I would meet some other female veterans to do things with in the community, but I was the only woman who came to our meetings. While at the Post I saw information on our Berrien County Service Office and I thought I would give it another chance before giving up.

When I went to my appointment I was immediately impressed with how warm, welcoming and helpful the Director, Maureen Adams, was. She answered all my questions on healthcare and the VA system. I then asked if she knew any lady veteran groups in the area- there were none but Maureen inquired about my interest in starting one. She put me in touch with a few female veterans that she knew and today we have a growing group of veterans who meet regularly to enjoy good conversations and lots of laughs.

Not only did Berrien County Veteran Services provide great service for my VA claims; they also helped me connect and become part of a new community.

Connection with Jesus

[Jesus said] "I am the vine; you are the branches. If you remain in me and I in you, you will bear much fruit; apart from me you can do nothing." ~ John 15:5

Lately, I seem to be getting frequent reminders that I am not as young as I used to be. The latest was a notice in the mail that my twentieth high school class reunion will be held this summer. Indeed, those twenty years can go by very quickly. Also, a lot can happen in twenty years, making it hard to stay connected with classmates. Life happens. We get married and have children. Jobs take us all over the country. When we go so long without seeing people, it is easy to lose the connections we once had with them.

It's also easy for that to take place with Jesus. Life happens. We get married and have children. We fill our schedules up with work, sports, and school activities. We have family and community obligations. We take vacations and try to make the most of life. Before we know it, we are losing our connection with Jesus. This happens gradually, just like with high school classmates over twenty years.

Losing a connection to a high school friend is one thing. Losing our connection with Jesus is another thing altogether. Jesus makes it clear in John chapter 15 that without a connection to him, we are in trouble: we can't produce spiritual fruit and be saved from our sins. Ultimately, no connection with Jesus means no getting into heaven. It means getting tossed out with the other dead branches into the eternal burn pile.

The good news is that Jesus will never sever his connection with those who are joined to him by faith. He is always ready and waiting in his Word to remind us of his love and to draw us closer to him.

Perhaps, for you, now is a good time to reconnect with Jesus and take steps to remain in Jesus. Recommit yourself to regularly attending worship. Join a Bible study. Expand your devotional life.

We may or may not want to attend a class reunion, but we never want to miss out on eternal life with Jesus!

Prayer: Dear Savior, thank you for always being there for me in Word and sacrament. Bless my efforts to remain in you now and forever. Amen.

Dave Says

Where's the Money Going?

Dear Dave,
I have a roommate, and we've shared the same two-bedroom apartment for about three years. During that time, we've always had an agreement that we would split the bills fifty-fifty. But for the last several months, he's been very late paying his half of the bills. There have even been a few times when he didn't pay his part at all, and I had to cover the entire bill. We both work good jobs, so money isn't an issue. He says he's broke, but when I ask him where all his money goes, he just shrugs and acts like he doesn't know. We're good friends, so I don't want to be cruel. How can I approach him about the situation?

Mikhail
Dear Mikhail,
No matter whether you're talking about friendships or business dealings, to be unclear is to be unkind. Believe me, I understand you don't want to be mean to a friend. But situations like this should always be addressed directly and quickly, before things get out of hand.

You said you were good friends, and not just roommates, right? My advice is to suggest a night where you both just hang out at the apartment. Offer to pay for dinner to be delivered, and just relax and watch a movie or a game together. Before the night's over, tell him there's something you've been wanting to talk to him about, and begin an understanding—but firm—conversation about the last few months and the situation with the bills. Let him know he's a good friend, and you enjoy his company, but the roommate agreement isn't working out because he's not living up to his agreement to pay half the bills. Give him every chance to give a reasonable explanation for things, but make sure he understands that you two aren't going to be able to be roommates much longer unless he starts paying on time.

Being understanding is key in a situation like this, Mikhail. You don't want to approach him with a bunch of accusations, but at the same time, you need to know what's going on. Maybe he needs help learning to budget money properly. You said both of you have good jobs, so that means his money has to be going somewhere. The problem is it sounds like it's not going to the right places.

When a friend is having a rough time, you should always do what you reasonably can do to help. But in this case, he's got obligations he needs—and agreed—to live up to. Do what you can, but in the end, he should understand it's time for him to get his act together.

Bridgman Happenings!

As we make a mad dash towards summer, our friends in Bridgman have multiple opportunities for you to enjoy some fun, scope out their businesses, and celebrate their 75th birthday as a city!

Back by popular demand is the Bridgman Open Air Market, which officially opens this Sunday, May 12th aka Mother's Day and runs through mid-October! Located on the United Federal Credit Union parking lot on the corners of Lake Street and Red Arrow Hwy, you'll discover homegrown flowers, freshly baked goods, locally sourced honey, dog treats, and numerous booths of handcrafted items from local artisans.

"We are so grateful for the love and support from the community and strive to bring only high quality, local items for our patrons," said Roseann Stachowiak, Market Manager at the Bridgman Open Air Market.

If you've attended in the past, you've likely noticed that each year the Bridgman Open Air Market strives to take on a charity to give back to the community. This year Animal Aid of Southwest Michigan will be rejoining the market on a bi-weekly basis to find homes for their furry friends. In August they will be hosting a back-to-school drive with all items donated going to the Bridgman Public Schools. Then in the month of September the market will also be hosting a food drive for the local food pantries.

"We know that these last couple years have been tough and with the amount of support we have been shown we want to give back as much as possible to the community," adds Roseann. "If anyone would like to donate we have a spot for donations set up at our information and first aid tent; or one of the board members (easily spotted in board shirts and with a sign at their booths) would be happy to assist."

One of the most exciting things about the Bridgman Open Air Market is the sheer number of vendors each week, but also the number of returning vendors year-after-year! As it grows so does the market's endeavor to keep all of the items available to the public locally sourced. Many of their Southwest Michigan vendors can be found right on your doorstep like Adrian Quint of Peacock Rocks and Rebecca of Rebecca's Ceramics. Both of those Bridgman based businesses come and set up at the market regularly to connect more with their community. More information can be found about our vendors at the Bridgman Open Air Market Facebook page where the media team updates weekly about vendor of the week and highlights from the market.

The Makers Trail Festival returns to beautiful Weko Beach on Saturday, June 8th from 1:00 until 7:00 p.m. This event is in partnership with the Southwest Michigan Tourist Council and St. Joseph Today showcases 25 of our local wineries, breweries, cideries, and distilleries that call Southwest Michigan home. This is also the perfect event for you to try new drinks from places you haven't visited yet, or sip on some of your favorites! To see the full line-up of Makers, bands, food trucks, and of course to purchase your tickets visit: makerstrail.org/festival.

On Saturday, July 13th you're invited to Bridgman's 75th Birthday Bash! There's a full day of fun all throughout the City including: Bridgman 5K, Parade through Downtown, Lemonade Stand, Quatresonics Barber Shop Quartet, Balloon Animals & Face Painting, Children's Games, Pop-up Market at Transient Artisan Ales, Beer Garden & Boutique Lemonade at the American Legion, Free Hot Dogs & Kids Activities at Immanuel Lutheran Church & School, Autos & Ales Car Show at Haymarket Taproom, Don Chepe Food Truck, Music with The Spaniels in the Courtyard, Movie in the Courtyard, and so much more!!!

Sponsors Include: Indiana Michigan Power an AEP Company, Classic Catering & Events, Arcadia Gardens, A Friend of Bridgman, Casey's General Store, D'Agostino's Navajo, The Swab Agency Farm Bureau Insurance, Klipper's Family Salon, Liskey Insurance, McGee's Heating & Cooling, Mayor Jan Trapani, Paws to Wash, United Federal Credit Union, and Wightman.

Bridgman is just one of our beautiful communities with some fun and exciting things happening - I hope you'll join me in discovering more of them! To get more information visit our website at smrchamber.com. You can also connect with me directly at 269-932-4040 or sspoonholtz@smrchamber.com
