PRESSING ON AFTER A BAD LANDING

Tumbleweed Smith

Tumbleweed Smith

Koben Puckett, of Canyon was raised on a ranch in New Mexico.

“By the time I got out of grade school, I was one hundred percent pursuing rodeo; junior rodeo, high school rodeos, all kinds of rodeos.”

He became a bull rider.

“That’s what I did all through high school and eventually, by the time I was 16 I was competing against adults in amateur events and I learned to make a living riding bulls.”

He won some awards.

“I got my professional bull rider card when I was eighteen. I won a couple of professional events at that age.”

He’s been involved in bull riding a long time.

“I grew up around it. I was passionate about it. My dad was a past Turquoise Circuit champion bull rider. I just grew up in that atmosphere. My dad and I raised bucking bulls from the time I was twelve years old and when I was fifteen and sixteen, my Dad took Double Aught, one of the bulls we had raised, to the PBR world finals in Las Vegas, Nevada. So I was around those guys going there. It was where I belonged and what I loved.”

He competed as a professional bull rider just two years, then had a bad landing at a bull riding event in Mesquite in two thousand eight, when he was nineteen. He landed on his head and neck was paralyzed from the neck down. Doctors told his father that patients didn’t usually improve much more after three years of therapy. He had a rough six years, but he is still improving.

“I have a strict rehab schedule and I’ve even learned to walk on a treadmill. I can live on my own with assistance and I can drive a truck. I got back involved in the sport I love and I host an event here in Amarillo, Texas. That was because I had a family supporting me and I decided to not look at life through hopelessness.”

He started a foundation called PRESS ON to help injured cowgirls and cowboys. It’s funded in part by his PBR event held every July in Amarillo.

“This event just this past year raised Thirty Thousand. I bring in some of top bull riders from Brazil, Mexico, Australia, and the US, you name it.”

He gives motivational talks to different groups, including young bull riders who know the risks, but still want to participate.

“I think by the time they get to that level, it’s in their blood so much that I don’t think they’re too worried about that. I think they just love seeing someone that doesn’t quit.”

BUSINESS SERVICES

The business services industry is a very broad industry encompassing many different categories of business operations; all of them provide some sort of non-financial service to other companies. These services include advertising, marketing, consultation, logistics (including travel and facilities services), waste handling, staffing services, shipping, administration, and security services to name a few. Nearly every business in operation has need for at least one of the different kinds of service offered by the industry. Marketing companies are responsible for increasing the sales of a client company by helping the company gain new customers as well as keep current ones. Legal services are needed to deal with business transactions, as well as for litigation purposes. Logistics and shipping companies are responsible for connecting businesses to other businesses or consumers by collecting, storing, transporting, and delivering products. Staffing companies match people in need of jobs, temporary or permanent, with companies in need of qualified employees. Leasing companies fill a client's need for certain items without requiring full purchase. Security companies are responsible for keeping a company's assets secure. Consulting companies are in the business of fulfilling needs for expertise that clients cannot fulfill themselves. These companies may offer professional, scientific, or technical consulting, management or strategy consulting, or human resources consulting.

Happy
FATHER'S DAY

Father's Day, in the United States, holiday (third Sunday in June) to honour fathers. Credit for originating the holiday is generally given to Sonora Smart Dodd of Spokane, Washington, whose father, a Civil War veteran, raised her and her five siblings after their mother died in childbirth. She is said to have had the idea in 1909 while listening to a sermon on Mother's Day, which at the time was becoming established as a holiday. Local religious leaders supported the idea, and the first Father's Day was celebrated on June 19, 1910, the month of the birthday of Dodd's father. In 1924 U.S. Pres. Calvin Coolidge gave his support to the observance, and in 1966 Pres. Lyndon B. Johnson issued a proclamation that recognized the day. It became a national holiday in 1972, when Pres. Richard Nixon signed legislation designating the third Sunday of June as Father's Day.
