Piedmont Pets

November 28, 2024 By Paulette Dean

A few years later, we seized a horse that was underweight by a few hundred pounds and took him to a local veterinary clinic for treatment and to be boarded. The horse stood listening to the story about the deliveryman calling us for help, our hours-long work to find transportation for him, and then our almost-comical efforts to load him into the trailer. As I finished the story with, "But when we looked in his eyes, we knew he needed help, and I promised him I would help," the horse slowly walked over to me and nudged my shoulder. I understood that to be an expression of gratitude. His story remains with me joins all the others in teaching us huge lessons about being thankful. The animals at dumpsters, the dogs who live their lives on short chains, the hurt animals, and the abused ones ask for little and receive even less. Yet, unless I am completely wrong, they do not spend their days complaining about what they do not have; they are grateful for the smallest bit of food, the hand that occasionally pets them, and the tiniest bit of water. We could learn a lot about gratitude from the animals. We could learn to treat small treats and sips of water as if they are gold, we could learn to express gratitude willingly, and we could learn that there is a myriad of reasons to be grateful for what we have.

The Board and administration of the Danville Area Humane Society offer sincere gratitude to the shelter employees who take care of the animals, the volunteers who spend time helping animals, and the donors and supporters. We are also very grateful to The Piedmont Shopper for the space provided!

Fantasy Furniture

"Fantasy furniture" usually refers to postmodern pieces with whimsical shapes and unusual colors made from unexpected materials. Like many furniture styles, it's older than you might expect.

Furniture has been made in fanciful shapes for hundreds of years; with animals being a favorite element. While the name "fantasy furniture" may imply mythical animals like dragons or griffins — and you can certainly see them in furniture and decorative arts — representations of real-life animals count, too.

Black Forest furniture with elements carved to look like realistic bears are fantasy furniture. So are Italian grotto chairs with backs shaped like enormous scallop shells. And so are pieces made to look like a whole animal, like this 19th-century carved walnut chair that Fontaine's Auction Gallery described as an "ostrich-form fantasy chair." It sold for $3,276. Its decorations aren't limited to its legs or back; it's complete with an outstretched wing for a back, the head and tail as asymmetrical arms, a feathery body with a folded wing for the seat and bird legs carved into the base.

Have you ever dreamed of sitting on an ostrich's back? Fantasy furniture like this 19th-century wooden chair can make it come true.

Professional boxer and YouTuber Jake Paul

Q. I watched the boxing match with Jake Paul and Mike Tyson. I didn't know that Jake and Logan Paul were two different people. Did they both start out on YouTube? — D.E.

A. Yes, Jake and Logan Paul are two blonde brothers who grew up in Ohio and became social media stars. They can be hard to tell apart. Logan started up his YouTube channel 11 years ago and grew it to more than 23 million subscribers. He's also a professional wrestler for the WWE and the owner of an extremely successful beverage company, Prime. Like his brother, Jake, he's also headlined boxing events, including an exhibition match against Floyd Mayweather Jr. in 2021.

Logan's younger brother by two years, Jake, recently beat Mike Tyson in a boxing match on Netflix. Many feel it was staged, but both Paul and Tyson came out winners monetarily when they each took home a seven-figure payday. Jake originally was a child actor on the Disney Channel series "Bizaardvark," then became a YouTube star like his brother. In the years before facing Tyson, Jake won boxing matches against several MMA fighters, but lost to British pro boxer Tommy Fury.

Q. What is the new "Bridget Jones" project coming up on Peacock? Is it a TV series? — S.G.

A. "Bridget Jones: Mad About the Boy" is a film based on the fourth book in the series by author Helen Fielding. Renée Zellweger returns as the hilarious and relatable heroine, Bridget, who is newly widowed with two young children. The film also stars Hugh Grant, Emma Thompson, Sally Phillips and Isla Fisher. Look for the movie in theaters and on Peacock just in time for Valentine's Day, with a release date of Feb. 14, 2025.

Q. Who is the actress with the long brown hair featured in the commercials for the new Bob Dylan movie? She looks very familiar. Also, does Timothée Chalamet do his own singing in the movie? — K.E.

A. You're probably thinking of Monica Barbaro, who is best recognized as Lt. Natasha "Phoenix" Trace in "Top Gun: Maverick." She also co-starred in the Netflix series "FUBAR" opposite Arnold Schwarzenegger and, prior to that, the ABC series "Splitting Up Together" and Lifetime's "Unreal." In "A Complete Unknown," Barbaro plays folk singer and political activist Joan Baez, who was instrumental in the success of Bob Dylan early in his career. You could also be thinking of Elle Fanning, who sports reddish-brown tresses in "A Complete Unknown." She plays a character named Sylvie, who is loosely based on Dylan's girlfriend at the time, Suze Rotolo. "A Complete Unknown" is directed by the same person who directed the Johnny Cash biopic "Walk the Line." Both of those stars did their own singing and learned to play instruments for their roles. Timothée Chalamet can definitely sing, as witnessed in the motion-picture musical "Wonka," and he's said to have done his own vocals in the Dylan film.

Stephen James Reynolds

June 10, 1975 ~ November 21, 2024 (age 49)

Stephen James Reynolds (Jimmy) of Danville, Virginia, passed away peacefully with family by his side on November 21, 2024. He was 49 years old.

Jimmy was born in Danville, Virginia on June 10, 1975 to the late Stephen Allen Reynolds and is survived by his mother, Cynthia Lee Williams.

No one knew more about the San Francisco 49ers and St. Louis Cardinals than Jimmy. If you saw him around town, chances are, he was wearing a red 49ers jersey or a Chase Elliott NASCAR hat (or both). His perfect day would include wetting an early morning fishing line in a nearby pond stocked with chunky bass, grabbing a burger for lunch watching football, baseball, or NASCAR racing with friends and family, then mellowing out to the tunes of Pearl Jam and Van Halen before turning in for bed.

Jimmy was a talented welder for Altec Inc, one of the leading equipment providers in the world. He started working at Altec as a painter, but after a welder failed to show up to work one day, the owner gave Jimmy a shot at welding, and quickly realized his natural ability.

At his best, Jimmy had a heart of gold. He loved buying gifts for his nieces and nephews (49ers jerseys, of course). He loved to laugh and have a good time with family and friends. He was fiercely loyal to his family. He stood up for the people he loved. Like all of us, he struggled at times, but he kept fighting, to the very end. Jimmy embodied the spirit of courage.

Jimmy leaves behind many loved ones, including brothers, Christopher (Katie) Carter, Zachary (Brooke) Carter and Connor Williams. His grandmother, Evelyn Reynolds, and a village of dedicated aunts, uncles, and a stepfather who helped raise him: Annette (Sunny) Singh, Gina (Jeff) Abel, Lynda (Dale) Groce, and Charles Carter Jr.

The family will hold a private celebration of life for Jimmy in the coming months.

In lieu of flowers, we ask that you consider making a small donation to help with funeral costs.

100 Years Ago This Month: Historical events from November 1924

The month of November has been home to many historical events over the years. Here's a look at some that helped to shape the world in November 1924.

- The Meteorological Flight Service is introduced by the British Royal Air Force on November 1. The service is implemented to identify temperature, pressure, humidity, and general weather conditions.
- Éamon de Valera, future President and Taoiseach of Ireland, is sentenced to a month in prison on November 1 for illegally entering Ulster, Northern Ireland.
- A freight train hits a street car after midnight in Chicago on November 2. Witnesses reported the freight train had no lights on as it reached the railroad crossing at the intersection of North Avenue and Kingsbury Street. Ten passengers on the street car are killed and 31 others are injured.
- On November 3, presidential hopefuls Calvin Coolidge, who is seeking to be elected after succeeding to the presidency upon the sudden death of President Warren G. Harding in 1923, and John W. Davis make their final appeals to voters via radio addresses. Coolidge is elected the following day. • Despite having no experience in finance, Winston Churchill is appointed British Chancellor of the Exchequer on November 6.

- In a political misstep, 185 opposition members fail to show up for a new session of the Italian Parliament on November 12. The move is a protest against the Fascist Party, which uses the members' absence to enact Prime Minister Benito Mussolini's restrictive program.
- On November 14, noted explorers Roald Amundsen and Lincoln Ellsworth announce plans for a joint polar flight expedition in 1925.
- Nine members of the infamous, St. Louis-based bank robbing gang Egan's Rats are each sentenced to 25 years in federal prison on November 15. The conviction puts an end to the gang, which had employed hundreds of people over the course of more than three decade
- The Gandy Bridge across Tampa Bay opens to drivers on November 20. The 2.5-mile bridge was the longest bridge in the world at the time of its opening.

- United States Navy aviator Dixie Kiefer takes off from the deck of the U.S.S. California on November 21. Kiefer becomes the first pilot to take off from a warship at night.
- On November 23, Edwin Hubble announces that Andromeda, previously believed to be a nebula, is actually another galaxy.
- Australian anatomist and anthropologist Raymond Dart discovers the fossilized remains of the "Taung child" on November 24. The remains were sent to Dart in a box by a shottirer who saved them from a limestone quarry in South Africa. Carbon dating indicates the remains are around 2.8 million years old.
- The first Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade is held in New York City on November 27.
- The Montreal Forum opens in Canada on November 29 when the Montreal Canadiens defeat the Toronto St. Pats 7-1.

Strange BUT TRUE

By Lucie Winborne

* As part of David Hasselhoff's divorce settlement, he kept possession of the nickname "Hoff" and the catchphrase "Don't Hassle the Hoff."

* The fuller your refrigerator, the more energy-efficient it is.

* Dr. Seuss coined the word "nerd." The term originated in the 1950 book "If I Ran the Zoo." The sentence goes: "And then, just to show them, I'll sail to Ka-Troo. And bring back an IT-KUTCH, a PREEP and a PROO, a NERKLE, NERD, and a SEERSUCKER, too!"

* Nobel Prize winner Niels Bohr was given a perpetual supply of beer piped into his house.

* Between 1848 and 1850, the population of San Francisco grew from 900 to 35,000 people thanks to the Gold Rush.

* During his World War II service, LBJ was due to fly in the observation seat of the B-26 bomber Wabash Cannonball. However, he was replaced when he had to go to the toilet before takeoff. The Wabash Cannonball was shot down during that flight over New Guinea with no survivors.

* A Chinese millionaire sold canned air to people on the streets to raise awareness of air pollution and then donated the money to charity.

* Newborn babies can only see in black and white for a few months.

* Seventy percent of the dirt on your clothes is invisible.

* In "The Empire Strikes Back," an extra can be seen running with what appears to be an ice cream maker. The character became legendary among fans, and was eventually given a name (Willow Hood) and a backstory.

* Some scientists believe that dogs can tell when you're coming home by how much of your scent is left in the house.

* "Digital picture books are very easy to make these days, and they make great gifts. But here's a way we use our digital photos to keep the kids engaged at our family gatherings. Each family prints out a selection of photos. We let the kids make their own books using half sheets of paper, glue and markers. They design frames, etc. After they have several pages done, we tie them together and make a cover of heavy card-stock. It's a great take-home craft, a special souvenir for visitors, and it gets them talking about family moments." -- R.E. in Alabama

* Want to mix it up a bit with your traditional chocolate chip cookies? Try rolling them in different types of chopped nuts or sprinkles. Even crushed pretzels are really good. Or change the flavor of the chip. Add minced dried fruit, quick oats or other seeds for a change of taste. Melt chocolate chips and dip one side in it, then let dry on waxed paper. Endless possibilities!

* At a loss of what to do with Christmas cards from years past? Why not try making a wreath? Cut out a large ring from a cardboard box or other sturdy material. Arrange cards at different angles around the circle. Add holiday picks and ribbon or a bow for depth.

* Having a holiday party? Put foods and drinks in separate areas, as these are places that guests tend to linger. With different stops for each, guests will not bunch up in one place trying to do both, and it actually encourages mingling!

* Looking for a great cause for gifting this year? Go to www.charitynavigator.org to find out more about how your prospective charities rank in areas like CEO pay, money spent on fundraising, etc.
