TIPS TO ACE THE INTERVIEW AND LAND THE JOB

- 1 KNOW YOUR SKILLS AND STRENGTHS
 Be able to talk about your strengths, most proud accomplishments, areas of interest, personal values, areas for development.
- 2 RESEARCH, RESEARCH, RESEARCH
 Research the company, the position and your interviewer to be able to talk about them in-depth during the interview.
- 3 MASTER THE PHONE INTERVIEW
 Enunciate clearly, talk slowly and go to a quiet place where you can concentrate and listen well.
- 4 PRESENT YOURSELF WELL
 First impressions are formed by 7% of what you say, 38% of your eloquence and confidence, 55% how you dress, act and walk through the door.
- 5 PREPARE QUESTIONS TO ASK
 Interviewing is a two-way street. What is important for you to know about the workplace, role, team? Be sure to ask those important questions.
- 6 PREPARE YOUR ANSWERS
 Your answers need to prove your skills and knowledge, aptitude for success in the role, and personality "fit" in the company.
- 7 USE THE S.T.A.R METHOD
 A good answer to behavioral questions includes stating the situation, task, actions, result.
- 8 ASK FOR THE JOB
 Examples: Do you have any remaining concerns? What are the next steps? How do you see me fitting in with your company?
- 9 FOLLOW UP
 Be sure to get your thank you note out in less than 24 hours. The sooner the better. If things drag out, check in periodically.

Healthy Choices

— Your guide to looking and feeling your best —

DO YOU HAVE HEEL PAIN OR ARCH PAIN?

Heel Spur Syndrome/Plantar Fasciitis is a common problem among people who are active. It starts as a dull intermittent pain in the heel and progresses to a sharp persistent pain. Classically, it is worse in the morning with the first few steps, after sitting, after standing or after walking.

- Plantar fasciitis often begins with irritation and tearing of the fibrous band of tissue on the bottom of the foot, which may eventually result in the formation of a heel spur.
- Contributing factors: Flat pronated feet, high arched feet, poor shoe support, increased age, sudden weight increase, increased activity level, family tendency.
- 95% of our patients' symptoms are resolved with conservative treatment, avoiding surgical intervention.
- We also offer surgical procedures with the best post-op success rates using Endoscopic Plantar Fasciotomy techniques (minimal incisions and scarring; often back in a shoe in 1 week).

Whole-person, whole-family care

TIPS AND PROGRAMS TO HELP YOU AND YOUR CHILDREN

By Dr. Lalit Jain, Pediatrician and Dr. Karen Mawn, Pediatrician, Oak Orchard Health Albion

When it comes to healthcare, it's important to treat the whole person—body, mind, and spirit. Many things affect your wellness. Physical, emotional, social, spiritual, and environmental factors all matter. That's where the idea of "integrative medicine" comes from. It's how providers like doctors, dentists, and therapists at Oak Orchard Health all work together on your care. Integrative medicine combines traditional treatments like medications with therapy and wellness coaching.

Treating the whole family, including children, is important, too. For instance, what affects one family member affects others in your home. Plus, COVID-19 didn't just affect our physical and mental health at home; it also changed our household routines, from screen time to exercise to schoolwork to sleep habits. At Oak Orchard Health (OOH), we understand the challenges you and your family face and have the experience to help you stay healthy.

Supporting new moms and their kids at Oak Orchard Health

From postpartum depression to anxiety, becoming a mother can be stressful. That isn't something to be ashamed of. These are very common concerns. It's important to ask for help. Our Mommy and Me program (Healthy Steps in Albion) combines routine office visits with the pediatrician, mental health for parents and caregivers, and social support. We can even provide supplies like diapers and children's books. The Mommy and Me program also offers friendly people you can trust when talking to others about your changes and challenges. You're not alone!

Looking out for mental health in young people

Everywhere you look, kids today often struggle with anxiety and depression, which can affect their physical health, too. It's not always easy to find a therapist. With the recent opening of our Child & Adolescent Wellness Center in Albion and our behavioral health services in Brockport and other locations, Oak Orchard Health is expanding its mental health services so school-age kids up to 21 can see a therapist faster and closer to home.

During routine appointments like physicals or immunizations, we can screen school-age patients for anxiety and depression. If they need mental health services, they'll get assigned a Care Manager who can get them into therapy, whether through our Wellness Center or a convenient telehealth appointment. Telehealth can also be a great alternative for our busy pediatric population and their families.

Creating a healthier space at home

Just like it's important to think of yourself as a whole person with different types of healthcare needs, it's important to think of your whole family, too—the example you set and the routines you put in place for kids affect everyone in the household. For instance, the smartphone age has a big effect on children's health. We can all get sucked into staring at our screens, from phones to TVs to laptops. That can affect you and your kids. Here are some helpful tips that can bring balance to your home life.

- Make room in your schedule to be available to talk and give your kids your full attention.
- Include your kids in household routines like family movie nights or cooking healthy meals together.
- Students can be overwhelmed with school activities. Make sure they have some quiet downtime.
- School-aged kids need at least nine hours of sleep. Create a routine that includes turning off their screens an hour before bedtime.
- From bullying to bad information to inappropriate content, social media can be very harmful to young kids and teens. Limit kids' screen time to two hours daily and use parental controls on devices and apps.

Here for you and your kids

As pediatricians with years of experience, we know what to look for and what to ask. If they aren't making eye contact with us, facial expressions, fatigue, and simply not talking -- often indicate that mental health services are needed. Changes from appointment to appointment are key signs, too. In addition, we often give kids a short questionnaire to help us understand where they are at. They may not want to talk about it and are more comfortable writing it down.

We understand that everything's connected—not just to physical and mental health but to the health of your whole family. We're here to support you as your family grows and changes at every step along the way, with caring providers at Oak Orchard Health and helpful support to make home life happier.

We're also ready to meet you where you are and in your language. When you make an appointment, ask for our interpreter services. We're here to help.

Looking for in-home care? We can help.

How to Determine if the Time is Right to Downsize

The phrase "bigger is better" has endured for quite some time. Though it may be impossible to pinpoint precisely who coined the phrase, its lesson that larger things tend to be more valuable than smaller alternatives is applicable in numerous situations. But no adage is applicable to every situation, and in some instances people may find that bigger is not better.

Downsizing is an approach many individuals consider after turning 50. Parents who are empty nesters and others nearing retirement may wonder if the time is right to downsize from their current homes. Though that's a strategy millions of people have adopted over time, the decision is not always so simple. Individuals over 50 who are trying to determine if downsizing is right for them can consider a host of factors before making a decision.

Monthly housing expenses: Before downsizing their homes, individuals should determine just how much they're currently spending on housing. Individuals who have fixed rate mortgages likely know the amount of their monthly mortgage payment, but what about maintenance? Home maintenance expenses fluctuate, but a careful examination of the previous 12 months' expenditures can give homeowners an idea of just how much they're spending to maintain their properties. The number may be eye-opening, as Thumbtack's "Home Care Price Index" released in the third quarter of 2024 revealed that the average annual cost to maintain a single family home reached an all-time high of $10,433. If such expenses are preventing homeowners from building their retirement nest eggs, then it might be time to seek alternative housing.

Real estate prices: Real estate prices have skyrocketed in recent years, which can be both good and bad for current homeowners considering downsizing. Many people who downsize look to move from a single-family home into a condominium, where maintenance tasks are typically handled by a homeowners' association (HOA). Such communities typically charge HOA fees, which can be minimal or considerable. In addition, the price of condominiums has risen in recent years, with the lender New American Funding reporting in early 2024 that the median sale price of a condo reached $341,000. So homeowners who want to downsize their homes may end up taking most of the profit from selling their current properties and reinvesting it in a costly condo. Some may deem that worthwhile, while others may find the cost savings of downsizing in the current market are negligible.

Emotional attachment: Downsizing may be considered with cost savings in mind, but it's important to consider your emotional attachment to your current home. Many homeowners over 50 raised their families in their current homes, and letting go of a property where so many memories were made can be difficult. Homeowners who are not prepared to move on from properties that are meaningful to them and their families can consider additional ways to downsize their financial obligations.

Downsizing is something many homeowners over 50 consider. Any decision regarding downsizing is best made after considering a range of variables.

Mary is survived by her 12 children and 21 grandchildren: Jennifer Thrower (Glenn, children Kayla and Glenn), David Grean (Marilea, children Nikolas and Miranda), Carrie Grean (Todd, children Madison and Brandon), Melissa Grean (Brian, children Nicole, Kayla, Gavin), Sara Jones (Ron, child Abigail), Paul Grean (Jennifer, children Olivia and Mia), Shirley Potts, Jason Grean (Jessica, children Gabriella and Ethan), Kelly Grean (child Keira), Spencer Grean (Carey, children Ryker, Caydence, Lilliana, Carter, Aurora), Joshua Grean, and Taylor Grean (Emily, child Connor). Mary found her greatest joy in her family and was especially devoted to her grandchildren, whom she adored more than anything. Her face would light up at the mention of their names, and she loved spending time creating precious memories with them. Her love extended to her pets, who were also a cherished part of her life. Calling hours for Mary will be held on Tuesday December 17th from 5pm-8pm, at Fowler Funeral Home, located at 340 West Ave, Brockport, NY 14420. A graveside service for the family will take place Wednesday morning at Hillside Cemetery in Holley, NY, where we will honor her remarkable life and the impact that she had on all of us. In lieu of flowers, the family kindly requests donations be made to the remarkable people at Hospice of Orleans in her memory. We find comfort in knowing that Mary, Mom and Nana to so many, is now at peace, surrounded by love, and reunited with those who went before her. She will forever be missed but never forgotten.

Snow blower Safety tips

Meteorologists are predicting an El Niño weather pattern this winter. What that spells out for particular regions of the country remains to be seen, but when snow hits certain areas hard, cleanup will be necessary.

It is essential for homeowners and business owners to get outdoors promptly to remove snow from walkways for the safety of pedestrians. Shoveling snow can be back-breaking work, particularly when the snow is very wet or compacted. That's why many people have invested (or plan to invest) in snow blowers to make faster work of snow removal. While these tools are quite effective, they require caution and proper technique to help avoid injuries. The Consumer Product Safety Commission estimates there are 5,740 hospital emergency room-related injuries associated with snow blowers each year. The organization Safety Now says most injuries associated with snow blowers involve injuries to the hands or fingers, including amputation.

Individuals can prevent common injuries and even death by following these snow blower safety guidelines.

- Read the owner's manual to understand all of the controls and features before use.

- Dress accordingly for the weather, including using sturdy footwear with good traction. Boot or shoe grippers can reduce the risk of slips and falls. Also, avoid loose clothing, as scarves or jackets can become tangled in moving parts of the machine.

- Start the snow blower outside and not in a garage or shed. Gas-powered devices give off carbon monoxide.

- Stay focused on the task at hand, which means using the snow blower only when sober and not under the influence of medications that can cause drowsiness.

- Working at a brisk pace can help prevent the snow blower blades from getting clogged from the snow sticking. Wet, heavy snow is more likely to clog the machine, so it may require more passes to get the job done.

- Clogs can occur, and require extreme caution to dislodge. Always turn off the snow blower and disengage the clutch, says the American Society for Surgery of the Hand. Wait for the impeller blades to stop spinning. Always use a broom handle or a stick to clear compacted snow. Never stick your hand down the chute or around the blades, even if the power switch is off.

- Keep all safety shields and mechanisms in place on the machine.

- Do not leave a snow blower unattended.

- If the snow blower is an electrical version, use an extension cord designed for outdoor use and plug it into an outlet equipped with a ground fault circuit interrupter. Keep the extension cord away from the auger.

Even though snow blowing can be less physically taxing than manually shoveling snow, it still exerts the body. Take frequent breaks to rest. Exercise caution where you toss the snow, and make sure other people, particularly children, are not in the path of snow removal.

Celebrate the Holidays Vape-Free

As the holiday season approaches, many people enjoy gathering, celebrations, and family traditions. It's a time to relax and reconnect, but for some, the holidays can bring extra stress. When people feel stressed, they often look for comfort or distractions, and this might make vaping more tempting - especially for those who already use nicotine.

Nicotine gives a short-term feeling of relief by boosting dopamine, a chemical that helps with mood. However, this can lead to dependence, making stress even worse in the long run. "Some people use e-cigarettes to handle stress or anxiety," stated Paul Pettit, Public Health Director for Genesee and Orleans County Health Departments (GO Health). "However, vaping to feel better creates a cycle of nicotine dependence, which can become another source of stress."

This holiday season, try to take steps to stay healthy and manage stress in positive ways. By understanding your triggers and using healthy coping tools, you can enjoy the season without turning to vaping or other quick fixes.

Take the following steps to enjoy the holidays vape-free:

- Start reducing your nicotine use before the holidays. Gradually cutting back ahead of time gives your body a chance to adjust and helps you prepare for extended time with family without facing withdrawal symptoms. By lowering your nicotine intake as the holidays approach, you can set yourself up for a more enjoyable and stress-free season.

- Come prepared with healthier ways to cope with stress and triggers. Listening to your favorite songs, taking a walk, or practicing deep breathing techniques are great options to help distract you from cravings while supporting your body and mind in a positive way.

- Stay hydrated by drinking plenty of water throughout the day. Staying refreshed can help reduce cravings and support your overall well-being. Keep a water bottle with you and sip regularly - using a straw can also help satisfy the oral fixation that often comes with vaping.

- Stay active during the holiday season! You don't have to run a marathon to keep moving. Simple activities like taking a daily walk, following an online yoga session, or enjoying outdoor fun like sledding or snowshoeing can go a long way in helping to manage nicotine cravings and boost your mood.

- Keep your schedule packed with activities that don't involve vaping. Plan outings with friends and family, try cooking a new recipe, make a snowman or ornaments for the tree. Staying busy helps you avoid boredom, which is one of the most common triggers for vaping.

- Keep in mind that quitting isn't easy, and it is okay to treat yourself! Set small goals, like making it through a morning, a day, or a week without vaping, and reward yourself when you achieve them. Celebrating milestones makes the process more enjoyable and helps build healthier habits over time.

Remember, the holidays do not have to be perfect, and managing stress is about progress, not perfection. Taking small steps to cope in healthier ways can make the season more enjoyable.

Honey-glazed Ham

Ingredients

- 2½ kg boneless unsmoked gammon joint
- tied
- 1 sprig thyme
- 2 bay leaves and 1 rosemary sprig tied together
- 1 onion
- halved
- 2 carrots
- roughly chopped
- 1 celery stick
- roughly chopped
- 1 tbsp black peppercorns
- 1 tsp cloves
- For the glaze
- 1½ tbsp English mustard
- 70g clear honey
- 2 tbsp soft dark brown sugar

Step 1

Put the gammon in a large, deep saucepan. Add the tied herbs, onion, carrots, celery, peppercorns and cloves. Pour over enough cold water to cover the meat, then bring to the boil, cover with a lid, and lower to a gentle simmer for 1 hr 15 mins. Turn off the heat and leave the ham to sit in the liquid for 30 mins.

Step 2

Remove from the liquid (this makes a delicious soup stock) and leave to cool until cold enough to handle. Peel off the thick layer of skin on the gammon to reveal a layer of fat. Discard the skin and score the fat in a criss-cross pattern with a sharp knife.

Step 3

Heat the oven to 200C/180C fan/gas 6. Put the ham in a roasting tray lined with foil. Mix together the mustard, honey and sugar in a bowl, then generously brush half over the ham. Roast for 15 mins, then brush with the remaining glaze. Return to the oven for a further 20-30 mins or until sticky and brown. Leave to cool for 15 mins before carving into thick slices.
