Jimmy Carter's 2005 challenge: "Make Benton Harbor all it can be, show me you care!"

The passing of former President Jimmy Carter may be an international historical event for most people. However, for a group of Southwest Michigan leaders of 20 years ago, it is a personal loss. And one that invokes memories of a 'one of a kind' man who gave of himself and his influence to build 24 Habitat for Humanity homes in Benton Harbor in 2005.

Carter's time spent here personally working on the construction project in June 2005 was designed to inspire cooperation among local leaders as they faced an agenda of projects that required joint efforts their local municipalities had never achieved before.

The challenge was put to them by Jeff Noel, first in his role as the head of Cornerstone Alliance and later as the Global Vice President of Whirlpool Corporation, overseeing major local projects the compa-

Me, Disney, and Lippas—Lipizin— the White Stallions

Vienna is a city I longed dreamed of visiting. And it's all due to Walt Disney.

Before I explain, a few trivial-bordering-on-obscure factoids:

- Was the croissant “invented” in Austria? I guess so, since the internet says “most sources” believe it. It was originally dubbed Kipferl. (FYI, Kipferl seems to always have a capital “K” – I don’t know why, but I’ll never sloppily misspell it. (Because spellcheck automatically capitalizes it.)

As for the clearly Frenchy word “croissant,” it’s said this stems from Kipferl’s debut in Paris in 1839, when an ex-pat Austrian named August Zang opened a Viennese bakery. Parisians dug the Kipferl and other patisseries copied it. The name croissant barely beat out the other popular tag for the treat: Zangthang, as in, “Give me some of that Zang thang!”

- We strolled by Griechenbeisl, the oldest restaurant in Vienna, dating to 1447. A sculpture above Griechenbeisl’s doorway depicts Marx Augustin, a bagpiping minstrel from the 1600s. He’s immortalized in the familiar ditty, “O du lieber Augustin,” which he may have written. And which may be your earworm for the rest of your day.

- Vienna is home to the world-famous Spanish Riding School, home to the world-famous Lipizzaner horses, which tour the world famously putting on shows of precision dressage.

I was super excited to have a Spanish Riding School experience while in Vienna. We didn’t see a performance, but we did take a “backstage tour” of the stables, tack rooms, and the arena where they perform.

Why this penchant for the Lipizzaners? For one thing, adult Lipizzaners are strikingly all-white. However, they are born practically black. I can relate, as I also have a slightly more, um, pale-colored coif than I used to.

For another, we learned a lot about what it takes to become a world-famous Lipizzaner, as opposed to just a normal, everyday Lipizzaner. For example, there’s a LOT of training involved. A horse learns the intricate steps and moves over a 6-to-8-year period. The apprenticeship is even longer for the riders – 10-to-12 years! This reflects my training as a writer of phenomenally funny columns – I’m in my third decade pounding the keyboard, and I’m just about to finish MailMax’ probationary period.

Here’s the most pertinent aspect of my Lipizzaner love: As a kid, I saw the “Wonderful World of Disney” production “Miracle of the White Stallions.” It’s about the close call the animals had in World War II, when they were under threat from Nazis, most of whom didn’t care much about protecting them. The horses eluded danger by being surreptitiously relocated to what is now the Czech republic. Where they faced threat from advancing Russian forces. Who likely would have eaten them.

I watched “Miracle of the White Stallions” after the trip, for the first time since the 1960s. And of course, everything works out in the end, thanks to a few (sympathetically portrayed!) Nazis, and a lot of horse-loving Americans. Including George C. Sco---I mean, General George Patton.

So, I satisfied my childhood fascination with the Lipizzaners, for which I can thank Walt Disney. AND, additional tangential thanks to Disney: My probationary period at MailMax is over! Because throughout this column, I never misspelled Lipizzaner! (Psst! - spellcheck corrects it automatically, but don’t tell Farrell and Head.)

Real Joy Lasts

Rejoice in the Lord always. I will say it again: Rejoice! Let your gentleness be evident to all. The Lord is near. Do not be anxious about anything, but in every situation, by prayer and petition, with thanksgiving, present your requests to God. And the peace of God, which transcends all understanding, will guard your hearts and your minds in Christ Jesus.

Philippians 4:4-7

“There’s no place like home for the holidays!” That’s what one classic Christmas song says. Our fondest memories of Christmas likely take us back to being at home with family sitting around the Christmas tree, singing, laughing, and expressing joy in whatever way possible.

Do you know where the apostle Paul was when he wrote, “Rejoice in the Lord always”? He wasn’t in the comfort of his home or gathered with family and friends celebrating a holiday. He was in prison for sharing the good news about Jesus. That makes the joy he expresses more intriguing. How can one rejoice even when unjustly imprisoned? How can I rejoice even when I’m going through hard times, grieving, or whatever unpleasant thing is happening in my life?

You can still rejoice because real joy, rooted in Jesus, lasts. We possess this joy everywhere and all the time. Notice that today’s Bible passage says, “Rejoice in the Lord...” When our joy is in the Lord and not in our circumstances, joy lasts because Jesus and his promises will never change. We can rejoice anywhere and anytime because “the Lord is near.” He was with Paul in prison. He is with you whether you are near or far from family this Christmas, no matter what.

Christ came to give us a joy that is deep and a joy that lasts because it’s not tied to the changing seasons or circumstances of life. Real joy is found in this: The Lord has taken away our punishment and he rejoices over us! He considers it a joy to be our Savior! Someday, we will truly be home for Christmas, and for eternity because the Lord will come again to bring us home at last!

Prayer: Lord, even when the lights come down and the season is past, give me joy and peace that transcends all understanding and keeps my heart and mind in Christ Jesus. Amen.

Dave Says

Compromises Are Part of Marriage

Dear Dave,
My wife and I have been married for two years, and we both have good jobs. Together, we bring home around $190,000 combined. We also have $100,000 in a savings account, and no debt except for our mortgage. A couple of weeks ago, I was contacted about an opportunity to take a job in commercial real estate in my hometown. To be honest, this kind of work has been a dream of mine for several years. The problem is my wife is upset by the idea of moving. She says it's because she doesn't want to be even further away from her family, but it seems like something else is bothering her. Do you have any advice?
Freddie

Dear Freddie,
Anytime you're in a relationship and something like this happens, it's a little like making a sale in that you've got to dig out the real reason for the objection. It could very well be that she doesn't want to be further away from her family, and that's natural—to an extent. But like you said, there could be other factors involved.

There might be something in your past that bothers her, or something she doesn't want you to revisit. There may even be feelings of discomfort with your family for things that have happened or been said. It could also be the insecurity that goes along with a move, a new home and a new job. I don't know how far away you're talking about moving, but it could also be she's worried about leaving her job.

From a relationship standpoint, you two each need to lay your cards on the table and be honest with each other. Open up, and really talk about it. Otherwise, it's going to become a sore spot and cause even more problems. Part of marriage is making compromises. Sometimes compromises must be made by one, or both, people in order to do what's best for the relationship in the present and in the long run.

It could be that you just need an impartial referee. Would you both be willing to attend a few sessions with a good pastor or marriage counselor together? Talking to either one doesn't mean your marriage is on the rocks, but sometimes a compassionate and objective third party can help dig down below the surface to uncover issues and help find a reasonable solution to problems.

I hope this helps. God bless you both, ny was spearheading. In that role, Noel had the opportunity to interact with Jimmy Carter and attract his attention to the opportunities that existed to help Benton Harbor begin to realize its potential.
Freddie.

After Carter's death Sunday, Noel reached out to MoodyOnTheMarket publisher Pat Moody with some thoughts on Carter and the difference he made through his focus on and challenge to Benton Harbor.

Here are excerpts from Jeff Noel's personal note to Pat Moody upon hearing of Jimmy Carter's passing:

"Given the passing of President Carter, we should all thank him for Harbor Shores, HOPE VI Revitalization Grant, and the Boys and Girls Clubs.

When Mark Mitchell and I were asked to go to Plains and pitch the Jimmy Carter Work project for Benton Harbor, he asked us in mid presentation. "I can build 22 homes anywhere, so what is the big picture and what will our 22 homes do for the community?"

Perhaps with more confidence than we should have possessed, we made it clear that our vision was to build the community through partnerships, block by block and was real...and we discussed key milestones already achieved. We laid out the Harbor Shores vision, the desire for the 5th time for the community to apply for Hope VI housing grant dollars, and the commitment to create a Boys and Girls club facility on the site of the Jimmy Carter building project.

A few months later, you were there when he came to Benton Harbor and announced the commitment to build homes, and he asked the community to work together and above all, show pride and clean up the streets. He said, "Make Benton Harbor all it can be, show me you care."

The vision and tenacity of Dave Whitwam and the CWCC and the courage of Jeff Fettig to go all-in, along with Mayors Wilce Cooke and Mickey Yarbrough, former Mayor Emma Hull and Mayors Mary Goff and Jeff Richards who collectively created the platform by President Carter which evolved into, and brought, so much change to the community through the Boys and Girls Clubs facilities, Hope VI Housing opportunities, the Senior PGA Championship, Harbor Shores, and the Whirlpool North American headquarters Riverview Campus, and...yes...the new Emma J. Hull Flats apartments, the MLK projects, and beyond.

Never forget Dan Smith and Merlin Hanson saying we will be there for what is needed when President Carter came to town. We should never forget these moments and how fortunate Benton Harbor has been with great committed leaders."

For reference to names Noel mentioned, Whitwam is the former Chairman of Whirlpool Corporation and generally considered the vision and force behind the Harbor Shores Development. Fettig is the former President of Whirlpool and Whitwam's successor as Chairman. Local banker Smith and industrialist Hanson were early leaders of Cornerstone Alliance.

Noel's exceptional communication skills and unique ability to unite diverse groups toward a common goal culminated in drawing the attention of an international figure and world leader—Jimmy Carter—who focused, for a time, on Benton Harbor and its potential for renewal. Indeed... how fortunate!

Editor's Note: Jeff Noel is now an advisor to the governor of Kentucky, since leaving SW Michigan in 2022.

Be Healthy Berrien Awarded $150,000

Be Healthy Berrien Awarded $150,000 from Michigan Health Endowment Fund to Improve Health and Access in Berrien County

Be Healthy Berrien and Corewell Health to support the Community Leadership Academy project with the 2-year grant.

Be Healthy Berrien, a collective impact initiative anchored by United Way of Southwest Michigan, has received a $150,000 award from the Michigan Health Endowment Fund (MHEF) to continue its efforts to reduce obesity in Berrien County. The two-year grant will support these efforts through the Community Leadership Academy (CLA) project, which will create cohorts of community stakeholders that focus on various health and wellness initiatives in Benton Harbor.

"We sincerely thank the foundation for their contribution, which is instrumental in advancing our efforts to build community wellness," said Dawn Marie Smith, Director of Be Healthy Berrien. "To develop solutions, we must begin with those who navigate complex systems daily. That's what's exciting about the CLA – it empowers those with lived experience, giving them the knowledge and tools to drive meaningful change."

The CLA program will receive support from steering committee organizations including the City of Benton Harbor, the Southwest Michigan Planning Commission, and the Region IV Area Agency on Aging. The inaugural cohort will focus on engaging the community in the restoration of the Bobo Brazil Community Center, a project that recently secured $1 million in funding for its initial phase. Participants in this cohort will work to design and carry out plans that reflect the community's vision for the center.

Be Healthy Berrien and Corewell Health™ will develop the project framework and course content, and support operations, evaluation and sustainability planning while funded by the grant. The project will be sustained by the Corewell Health Center for Wellness in Benton Harbor after the grant funding ends.

"By bringing together the voices of our community members and an active network of partners, we can harness the strength of diverse perspectives," said Heather Rudnik, Project Specialist at Corewell Health. "This project will unite community members and organizations to create sustainable, community-driven impact."

Efforts are underway to recruit additional steering committee organizations that are dedicated to social innovation and committed to driving community transformation through systems change. To learn more, contact Dawn Marie Smith through behealthyberrien.org.

Community Leadership Academy stakeholders included representatives from Be Healthy Berrien, Corewell Health, city of Benton Harbor, Region IV Area for Agency on Aging, Abonmarche, Southwest Michigan Planning Commission.
