Ribbon cutting, grand opening of Extra Space Storage in Auburn

AUBURN, ME –Diamond Point Development, LLC (DPD), in partnership with The Ardent Companies, have announced that on April 15, 2025 at 3:00 pm, they will hold a Community-Wide Ribbon Cutting and Grand Opening Celebration at the new, state-of-the-art Extra Space Storage facility at 1 Center Street, in Auburn, Maine.

“In the short time the Auburn Extra Space property has been open, it has been very well received by both the residential and the business communities,” said Jason Sommer, Diamond Point Development Principal. “In appreciation of the city’s support of the project, we are proud to make a donation to the new ‘Auburn PAL Center.’”

Auburn Mayor Jeff Harmon will be in attendance at the Ribbon Cutting ceremony on April 15, as well as other distinguished members of the city staff.

Mayor Harmon said, “Thank you so much for this support of the Auburn PAL Center - it is so meaningful and will directly impact the kids and families of this community. We look forward to welcoming you to our wonderful city of Auburn.”

Liz Allen, the City of Auburn’s Director of Communications & Community Engagement said, “We look forward to being a community partner and to supporting positive growth in Auburn. We are happy to connect the Extra Space team with the greater Auburn community, on April 15 and beyond.”

Eric Cousens, the City of Auburn’s Executive Director of Public Services said, “It was great to work with Aaron and Jason from Extra Space Storage on a very challenging site. The Site was attractive due to the high traffic and that also made it a challenge. Aaron and Jason assembled additional real estate to make the access safe and made room for public access rights for a future riverfront trail while designing the site. We appreciate their collaboration and investment in Auburn.”

The Extra Space Storage is a new, state of the art 100,000 square foot multi-story, secure, climate-controlled facility. The self-storage property was built on a blighted property along the Androscoggin River.

This newly-constructed three-story self-storage facility includes approximately 75,000 rentable sq ft and 750 individual storage units. To make the storing experience more comfortable and to protect customer’s belongings from the elements, every unit is temperature and humidity controlled.

Diamond Point Development and The Ardent Companies build class A self-storage facilities up and down the East Coast.

Indie Lens Pop-Up presents “Free for all: The public library”

AUBURN, ME — Indie Lens Pop-Up, presented by ITVS, INDEPENDENT LENS, and the Auburn Public Library will host an event featuring a shortened, preview version of “Free for All: The Public Library” followed by a discussion. “Free for All: The Public Library” tells the story of the quiet revolutionaries who created a civic institution where everything is free and the doors are open to all.

The public library is one of America’s most valued yet endangered institutions. Director Dawn Logsdon travels the United States, discovering historic and modern-day figures, especially women, who contributed to the library’s integral position within democracy. “Free for All: The Public Library” chronicles the evolution of the nation’s public libraries, tracing the battles over who can enter, what belongs there, and who makes these decisions, while exploring how public commons are defined and defended.

WHAT: FREE preview screening of “Free for All: The Public Library” followed by a community discussion

WHO: Presenters: Indie Lens Pop-Up and the Auburn Public Library

WHEN: Thursday, March 27, 2025 - 3:30 to 5:30 PM

Auburn Public librarians will host an engaging and interactive discussion about how public libraries shaped the country and continue to be a sanctuary for Americans everywhere, despite the threats to funding the civic institution has faced in recent years.

“Free for All: The Public Library” will debut on April 29, 2025, at 10 p.m. ET on PBS and the PBS app (check local listings).

City launches ‘This is Lewiston’ to transform downtown

LEWISTON, ME – Today the City of Lewiston launched a new campaign, This is Lewiston, designed to connect transformational investment in the city’s downtown to strengthening the city’s economic outlook.

“This is Lewiston presents a fresh and compelling narrative - one that speaks to residents, future neighbors, business owners, and investors alike,” said Nate Libby, the Director of Economic & Community Development for the City of Lewiston. “It’s a declaration that Lewiston is a city of innovators, where opportunity isn’t just found but created. It reflects both the strength of our community today and the limitless potential ahead. This is Lewiston tells the world our community and our people are worth the investment.”

The campaign, designed by Lewiston-based communications firm Upstream Strategies, includes a website highlighting $174.9M invested in Lewiston’s Choice Neighborhood following the City’s successful bid for federal Choice Neighborhood funding in 2021. The campaign’s photographs, taken by local photographer Ryan Captures Life, feature people who live, work, play, and raise their families in the Choice Neighborhood.

The City launched This is Lewiston to LA Metropolitan Chamber of Commerce breakfast attendees during a presentation about the ecoomic impact of Choice Neighborhood funding. The campaign was developed thanks to funding from the John T. Gorman Foundation.

“This campaign is what businesses across Androscoggin County have wanted for years,” said Shanna Cox, President & CEO of the LA Metropolitan Chamber of Commerce. “We have all been part of conversations about the challenges our community is facing. This is Lewiston acknowledges those challenges and asks us to look at Lewiston in its entirety. It amplifies the innovative and complex work people do here every day and that is key to strengthening our local economy.”

During a preview for the Downtown Lewiston Association earlier this week, members noted that the campaign will be a helpful boost for businesses on Lewiston’s Lisbon Street corridor.

“This is Lewiston helps to articulate exactly what discerning investors see here: a growing community worth attention, support, and putting our dollars behind,” said Danielle Snow, co-owner of 75 Park and Chair of the Downtown Lewiston Association Board of Directors. “This campaign challenges us to move beyond tired rhetoric about Lewiston and asks us to invest in what is possible here. Those conversations are critically important to our downtown businesses, and we are proud to be a part of these efforts.”

While the initial phase of the campaign focuses on the $174.9M invested in the Choice Neighborhood from 2021-2024, City leaders noted plans to expand the campaign to highlight businesses and investments throughout Lewiston, which has seen over $324.5M during the same period of time.

“This is Lewiston is more than a campaign - it is a statement of confidence in our city’s future,” said Mayor Carl Sheline. “Through the Choice Neighborhood Initiative and the Transformation Plan, we are not just revitalizing the Tree Streets, we are demonstrating what strategic investment can achieve. The economic momentum we are seeing is proof that when we invest in people and place, we create lasting change. Lewiston’s story is one of resilience and renewal, and we are ready for the next chapter.”

100+ Women Who Care Southern Maine hits 515 members

MAINE -- Deb Bergeron, founder of 100+ Women Who Care Southern Maine, announced that the group has reached a milestone of 515 members after the February 10th meeting at the Portland Elks Lodge. "This growing group of women has collectively donated over $685,000 since its inception in 2014. At each quarterly meeting, we select a nonprofit to receive a donation made up of equal contributions from all members. Together, we create real, lasting change in our communities- beyond what any of us could accomplish alone. The charities present stories that highlight the life-changing impact they're making, reminding us of the difference we can create when we come together." Carol Colton from The Independent Seniors Network, a nonprofit organization dedicated to supporting seniors who wish to age in their homes, presented their organization and was selected as the February recipient. Their mission is to provide services to enable seniors to maintain active, social, safe, and independent lives through a network of volunteers and community resources. These services are offered in the greater Portland area and surrounding towns, funded by minimal membership fees, donations, and grants. As a result of the award, Independent Seniors Network has now received approximately $24,000. The two runner-up nonprofits, In Her Presence and Grace-Street Ministry, will each receive $2,000. The chosen nonprofit from the November 2024 meeting, Camp No Limits, shared how the $24,000 they received has positively impacted their program. Over the past 10 years, Maine nonprofits supporting a wide range of causes have benefited, including those focused on veterans, seniors, children with disabilities, pregnant women, fishermen, terminally ill young adults, victims of domestic abuse, animal welfare, teens, immigrant families, incarcerated youth, animal rescues, and more. Women are welcome to attend meetings as guests to see if the group is a good fit for them. Each member commits to donating $50 each quarter to the nonprofit chosen at each meeting, although attendance is not required. At each meeting, three nonprofits—randomly nominated by members—present 5-minute pitches, followed by 5 minutes of Q&A. Afterward, the group votes to select the nonprofit that will receive the donations. Donations go directly to the nonprofit via credit card or check. The next meeting will be held on Monday, May 5, 2025, at The Elks Lodge on Congress Street in Portland, with networking starting at 5:45 PM and the meeting beginning at 6:30 PM. Gorham grad represents Maine at National Credit Union event

WASHINGTON, D.C. – Emma Pierce, Communications Specialist at Evergreen Credit Union born and raised in Gorham, was selected to represent Maine as part of the Filene Institute's Crash the GAC (Governmental Affairs Conference) program. Pierce joined 54 other young professionals from across the country at the nation's largest credit union conference in Washington, D.C., to network with industry leaders and develop her leadership skills. Only 1 to 2 individuals from each state are chosen to be "Crashers". Pierce quickly connected with the Crashers and easily immersed herself in the experience. "The opportunity to spend time with current and future leaders who not only want to connect with other likeminded industry professionals but learn about the credit union movement at large is a rare opportunity," shared Pierce about being selected to Crash the GAC in March 2025. "It feels like a 'pinch-me' moment to represent the state I love through my work with Evergreen Credit Union." To be selected as a Crasher, interested young professionals need to submit backgrounds and include a 60-second video explaining why they should be selected to represent their credit union and state at the GAC. Typically, only senior-level employees attend the conference. Since 2010, the Crash the Gac program has brought emerging credit union leaders to the next level in their careers. In addition to attending the GAC, the program aims to highlight the meaningful work credit unions are doing to improve the financial well-being of their members and communities. "Crash the GAC is a brilliant program for upcoming leaders in the credit union industry. Not only do Crashers build their professional networks, but they also get to sit and learn alongside department heads and chief-level leaders from across the U.S.," said Jason Lindstrom, President/CEO of Evergreen Credit Union. "Emma has proven through her dedication and hard work with Evergreen time and time again, and she's more than ready to add to the bigger picture of the credit union movement." Evergreen Credit Union is Maine's 5th largest credit union with over $580 million in assets and serving over 31,000 members across Maine's six southern counties. Auburn UU explores faith in grief and loss March 30

AUBURN, ME -- The First Universalist Church of Auburn presents About Love: Grief & Loss, 11:30-1pm. This panel talk will consider the role of faith and community in dealing with personal loss. The panel features members who have lost a loved one.

The Adult Religious Education group, chaired by Charles I. Nero, is presenting a year of programming on the theme "The Power of Love," to explore the Unitarian Universalist Association's new covenant. "Love is the power that holds us together," the covenant proclaims, "and it is at the center of our shared values. We are accountable to one another for doing the work of living our shared values through the spiritual discipline of love." Nero conceived the "About Love" series to explore that accountability.

Nero teamed up with Toby Haber-Giasson, director of the church's award-winning UU Theater group, to structure a framework for the talk. The duo also collaborated on "About Love: Esther's Story," featuring a senior member's experiences.

Freewill donations to the church will be accepted in lieu of an admission fee.

First Universalist Church of Auburn is located at 169 Pleasant St. (entrance on Spring St. across from Dairy Joy). Accessible; parking available. FMI, call 783-0461 or contact office@auburnuu.org.

Machias Savings Bank expands leadership team

MACHIAS AND BANGOR, ME - Machias Savings Bank is pleased to welcome two experienced banking professionals, Danielle Ahern and James Gehrke, to its leadership team. Ahern joins as Senior Vice President, Director of Treasury Services, while Gehrke returns to Machias Savings Bank, stepping into the role of Senior Vice President, Regional Market Manager for Central Maine.

Danielle Ahern brings over 20 years of banking expertise to the Bank, specializing in treasury management, digital payment solutions, and fraud risk mitigation. As Director of Treasury Services, she will help businesses optimize cash utilization, enhance operational efficiency, and ensure secure, streamlined financial processes.

"Machias Savings Bank is successfully combining modern banking experiences with its longstanding commitment to exceptional customer service and community engagement," said Ahern. "When businesses flourish, our communities do too. I'm thrilled to provide a distinctive and impactful experience for our customers."

James Gehrke

Ahern is an active community leader, serving as Chairperson of the Board for Jobs for Maine Graduates and on the board of Catholic Charities Maine. She has also supported organizations including the Bangor

Danielle Ahern

YMCA, University of Maine Alumni Association, Penobscot Theatre, and Junior Achievement of Maine. She is a graduate of Husson University and the University of Maine and resides in Bangor.

James Gehrke returns to Machias Savings Bank with nearly 20 years of experience in commercial banking. In his new role as Regional Market Manager for Central Maine, he leads a team of business bankers, fostering strong relationships with businesses across the region. Prior to rejoining Machias Savings Bank, Gehrke managed a $150 million commercial portfolio at a large Maine community bank.

"What's unique about Maine is the number of businesses, often unknown to the public, that are the backbone of our communities," said Gehrke. "I am humbled by the dedication of these business owners and proud to be in a position to help them achieve their goals with tailored financial solutions."

A graduate of the Bangor Region Leadership Institute and Maine Leadership Institute, Gehrke is deeply involved in the community. He serves on the boards of the Brewer Economic Development Corporation and Partners for Peace, where he is also Treasurer and a member of both the Finance and Executive Committees. He is a graduate of Husson University and the University of Maine at Farmington and is a resident of Brewer.

Area small businesses recognized by SBA

AUGUSTA, ME — The U.S. Small Business Administration is pleased to announce that Carrie Gervais and Jennifer Cousins, owners of Stepping Stones Montessori School in Chelsea, have been selected to receive the U.S. Small Business Administration's 2025 Small Business Persons of the Year Award for Maine.

"For more than 60 years, National Small Business Week has honored the risk takers, innovators and job creators who are the backbone of the American economy," Administrator Loeffler said. "I congratulate the more than 50 state and territory winners on their recognition and look forward to this week of education and appreciation for entrepreneurship — as we highlight the small business owners who fuel prosperity, growth, and opportunity in communities across our country."

"Every year, recognizing our Small Business

Award winners is a highlight for us at the Small Business Administration. These entrepreneurs are leaders in their communities as educators, mentors, employers, and inspirations to the next generation of Mainers. Hearing the stories of these winners and their businesses brings into focus the incredible impact small businesses have on our state," said Diane Sturgeon, SBA Maine District Director.

Stepping Stones Montessori School is a Montessori school for K-8 students based in Chelsea. Founded by Gervais and Cousins in 2001, the school opened with 8 students from kindergarten through third grade, expanding to K-8 programming by 2010. Stepping Stones used the SBA's Economic Injury Disaster Loan (EIDL) and Paycheck Protection Program (PPP) loan to navigate challenges presented by the Covid-19 pandemic and continue operating safely. With assistance from the SBA loan programs and a grant from the State of Maine, Stepping Stones has also expanded to include Pre-K programs for local families.

Stepping Stones Montessori School and the other Small Business Award winners will be recognized at a ceremony to be held at Maple Hill Farm Inn and Conference Center in Hallowell on May 29th.

Nominated businesses selected as winners for the other categories are:

Maine and New England Young Entrepreneur of the Year, Isaac M. Young II, IMY Landscaping, LLC of Warren

Seniors Not Acting Their Age

Challenging Skiing on Hammond Ridge Trails

Wonderful views of Mount Katahdin can be observed from the Hammond Ridge Trails

Skiers descend a hard-packed surface on Katahdin View Trail

Twin Pines Loop offered a freshly groomed surface

In recent years, several friends have recommended Nordic skiing on the Hammond Ridge Trails (HRT) near Baxter State Park. About a three hour drive from my home in Topsham, arranging a trip to ski the trail system is logistically difficult. A major mid-February storm that dropped 16 inches of snow on the area motivated me to plan two days of skiing in the vicinity.

On the first day, I skied the excellent Penobscot River Trails in Grindstone. While there, I met another skier, Andy Peake, who expressed interest in skiing the HRT the following day. Later that evening, longtime outdoor friend, Ken Gordon, a veteran of HRT, said he would join us. A trip was on!

The HRT is owned and operated by New England Outdoor Center (NEOC) and is located a few miles north of Millinocket near the southern entrance to Baxter State Park. According to the NEOC website and Maine Trail Finder, the trails were designed by Olympian and preeminent trail builder John Morton. They report the network is a mixture of exhilarating downhill, invigorating up hills and everything in between; further stating there are 16 miles of groomed cross-country ski trails on rugged terrain that offer spectacular views.

The three of us drove north out of Millinocket on Millinocket Lake Road for 8 miles and then followed Blackcat Road for a short distance to NEOC. After checking in, making trail donations and obtaining trail maps, we motored to a higher elevation trailhead next to River Drivers Restaurant.

We began skiing east on recently groomed Saddle Loop until reaching Hammond Ridge Trail on the left where the fresh grooming ended. The skiing was more challenging as we angled right on Saddle Loop and coasted downhill on a hard-packed surface in a sparse predominantly hardwood forest. Although rated easy by NEOC, we found the loop moderately difficult – the firm snowpack was the reason.

After completing most of the 2.2 mile loop, we connected with Twin Pines Loop for a short distance and crossed Blackcat Road before joining Katahdin View Trail. We climbed steadily on the 1.6 mile Katahdin View Trail, also on solidified snow. The trail lived up to its name as we enjoyed wonderful views of Mount Katahdin at the top. Most of the remainder of the path was comparatively steep downhill. Given the unforgiving surface, I used the snowplow technique to control my speed for much of the exhilarating descent.

At the bottom, we rejoined Twin Pines Loop. The trail is confusing in this area. After some trial and error, we completed two road crossings and located the Lakeside Trail.

The 1.7 mile Lakeside Trail travels northeast and then loops back along Millinocket Lake. It appeared to have been groomed and tracked the previous day. Unfortunately, high winds had blown an abundance of small spruce branches and needles onto the trail slowing progress and requiring careful maneuvering. Despite the obstacles, we glided along on gentle grades back to Twin Pines Loop.

The remainder of our trek on Twin Pines Loop was on newly groomed trail in excellent condition. This sector offered very scenic pleasurable skiing. We passed a trail junction that leads to NEOC and again crossed Blackcat Road.

Soon after, a trail to Black Cat Peak was encountered on the right. The 2.8 mile Black Cat Peak Trail is rated the most difficult skiing in the trail network. Ken had skied the precipitous route during a previous visit and advised that it was a time-consuming endeavor. Since all of us had long drives home, we decided to forego the arduous adventure on this trip.

After passing the Black Cat Peak junction, we began climbing steadily on Twin Pines Loop. The well-groomed surface facilitated an efficient ascent and we progressed rapidly back to Saddle Loop Trail. A short ski brought us to the original trailhead.

We were disappointed with the condition of the trails; wrongly assuming all trails would be freshly groomed. That said, they were exciting, scenic and challenging. We hope to return to complete Black Cat Peak and Hammond Ridge Trails. However, we'll call and confirm the grooming status before committing the time and travel.

Letter to the Editor:

Eradicate hunger in Maine, Check-off box on your 1040ME

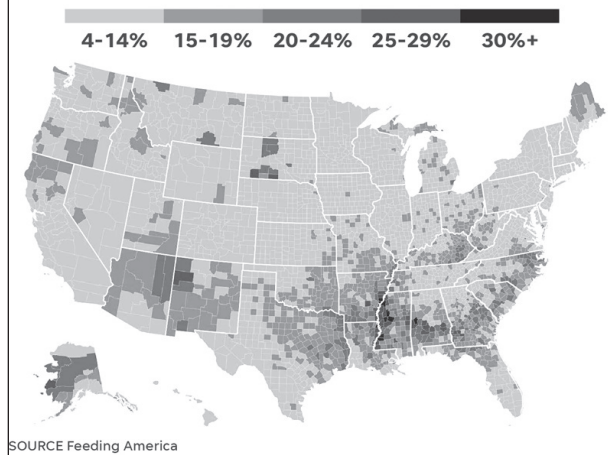

May 16, 2024: New data released from Feeding America's annual Map the Meal Gap study this week confirms what people in Maine and the statewide hunger relief network have been experiencing over the past two years: rates of food insecurity are on the rise.

December 23, 2024: Quoting a report titled Food pantries see increased need; report finds Maine food insecurity up 47%, published by WGME On Your Side: "Last week, Bangor's Salvation Army said it's seen triple the numbers of those in need just in the last year from about 30 to 35 families showing up to eighties, nineties and even into the hundreds.

March 12, 2025: Quoting an article published in the Portland PressHerald titled USDA cuts programs that supply local food to schools, food banks: "The federal agency canceled contracts to continue providing food and funding to Maine schools and nonprofits for 3 more years. The change comes

99% of U.S. counties are home to people who can't afford food

Individuals with limited or uncertain access to adequate food in 2017:

The Feeding America map shows that Maine is the highest in New England for food insecurity.

as one in eight Mainers — about 180,000 people — faces hunger. That includes roughly 45,000 children, about 20% of the state's total population under 18."

If you worry that chronic hunger may continue to afflict more than 180,000 Mainers or even increase due to additional federal policies possibly cutting back existing programs, please continue your personal efforts in your location, but also, please consider contributing state-wide by checking off a box on:

#8. TEFAP (The Emergency Food Assistance Program) on Schedule CP of the 1040ME form.

You have the option of contributing $5 or $10 or $25 by checking one of those boxes, or more

The passage of LD1046 by the Maine Legislature and signed into law by Governor Mills in 2021 established this Maine income tax check-off box option, becoming only the second state in America to establish that convenient, effective way to spread your support/contribution throughout your home state.

by checking "other" and adding the amount of your contribution.

If just half of Maine's 800,000 income taxpayers check off $5 or $10 or $25, that would raise 2 Million or 4 Million or 10 Million this year.

Your contribution will either be deducted from your refund or you will receive an invoice if you will not be receiving a refund in this tax year.

Look for Schedule CP, which is a separate form that is included in the 1040S-ME short form booklet and in the 1040-ME long form booklet. (If you typically do not itemize Charitable Contributions, you may never have seen it.)

Or let your accountant know that you would like to support TEFAP.

And this option will remain on 1040ME's

Schedule CP in future years, so consider making this a habit. Mention it to your colleagues, family, and friends. Submit a blurb to your community or religious bulletin.

Disbursement of the funds is handled by Maine's Department of Agriculture, Conservation, & Forestry (DACF) which has the ability to reach every nook and cranny of Maine, including the inhabited islands, funding food pantries and community hunger prevention programs, including the tiniest to the major non-profits working to feed those in need.

The passage of LD1046 by the Maine Legislature and signed into law by Governor Mills in 2021 established this Maine income tax check-off box option, becoming only the second state in America to establish that convenient, effective way to spread your support/contribution throughout your home state.

Nationally acclaimed musician Chris Robley plays in Lewiston

LEWISTON, ME – Singer-songwriter and award-winning poet Chris Robley may be acclaimed by critics and audiences from coast to coast, but it's Lewiston that he calls home. That's lucky for local fans, who will get the chance to see Robley play an intimate, unplugged show on Saturday, March 29th. Robley will be joined onstage at LA Arts, 168 Lisbon St. in Lewiston, by collaborators Jeff Christmas and Sorcha Cribben Merrill, both multi-instrumentalists and singers. The trio will perform an acoustic set of Robley's Americana and indie-pop songs—with lots of 3-part vocal harmony, upright bass, percussion, guitar, and piano.

Chris Robley's orchestral indie-pop and folk music has been praised by The LA Times, The Boston Globe, NPR's Second Stage, Performer, The Associated Press, and others. Skyscraper Magazine said he is "one of the best short-story musicians to come along in quite some time."

His poetry has been published in POETRY Magazine, Prairie Schooner, Poetry Northwest, Beloit Poetry, and more. Robley is the winner of Boulevard's Poetry Prize for Emerging Writers, a recipient of a Maine Literary Award in poetry, and was selected by Robert Pinsky as a finalist for the Dorset Prize. Tickets for Chris Robley Trio's 3/29 show are on sale for $20 at laarts.org/performances. General Admission, all ages. Beer, wine, and non-alcoholic beverages will be available for purchase at the event for ages 21 and over.

LA Arts, the arts agency for the cities of Lewiston and Auburn Maine, has pursued a mission to engage and inspire a vibrant community through arts and culture since 1973. The agency works with governments, businesses, schools, and local arts and cultural organizations to create opportunities for community members across the generations to experience, learn, and participate in the arts. LA Arts organizes arts programs and initiatives, supports the work of local artists and arts organizations, and highlights the essential role the arts play in shaping an economically vital, socially integrated, and forward-looking future for its community. Learn more at www.laarts.org.

Author launches debut poetry collection in Lewiston

LEWISTON, ME --In her debut poetry collection, What Had Happened Was, Theri Alyce Pickens investigates the complex structures of Black storytelling. Addressing topics ranging from Black life, popular culture, and history to individual encounters with emotion, love, and chronic disability, Pickens crafts and questions the stories we tell ourselves about who we are and who we want to be. Throughout, Pickens mines the formal structures and the play of Black English within the lives and afterlives of Harriet Tubman, Mary J. Blige, Li'l Kim, Breonna Taylor, and figments of our collective imagination. Her poetic voice flows between what she knows and what she's heard and between everyday Black conversation and her work in cultural criticism and disability studies. Traveling at the speed of thought, Pickens explores a praxis of storytelling governed by the places where truths and fables kiss.

Dr Pickens will be launching her debut poetry collection on Thursday, April 3rd at 6 pm. This event will be held in the Commons (221 & 222) of Bates College, at 136 Central Avenue in Lewiston. Dr. Pickens will be in conversation with Samaa Abdurraqib, poet and Executive Director of the Maine Humanities Council. Book signing and reception to follow. You can join this event virtually, here: vimeo.com/event/4999616.

P R O F E S S O R THERI A. PICKENS received her undergraduate degree in Comparative Literature from Princeton University and her PhD in Comparative Literature from UCLA. She is a poet-scholar who focuses on Arab American Studies, Black Studies, Comparative Literature, and Disability Studies. Author of Black Madness :: Mad Blackness (Duke UP, 2019) and New Body Politics (Routledge, 2014) and editor of Arab American Aesthetics: Literature, Material Culture, Film, and Theatre (Routledge, 2018) and Special Issue of African American Review on Blackness and Disability (2017), her work has appeared in The New York Times, The Washington Post, Black Girl Nerds, The Counter, Inside Higher Ed, and Ms. Magazine. Her poetry has been published or is forthcoming from Prairie Schooner, The Journal, Diode, Black Renaissance Noire, Omni-um Gatherum Quarterly, Langston Hughes Review, The Madison Review, and Cane: A New Critical Edition.

PRAISE from readers of What Had Happened Was:

"Theri Alyce Pickens

writes a poetics of the body that considers history, politics, race, gender, and the everyday mundane ways that they are experienced in bones, in the brain, and on the skin. If you understand in depth the expression, the answer is in how one would begin: "What had happened was" - Bettina Judd, author of Feelina: Creative Practice, Pleasure, and Black Feminist Thought

"In her constantly surprising and deftly built poems, Theri Alyce Pickens enacts a poetics that refuses binaries, attends to and extends the power of Black art, and centers a body navigating illness. Pickens seamlessly moves through and braids memory, history, pop culture. The language is precise and remarkable; it will engage and entangle you in marvelous ways."- Eduardo C. Corral, author of Guillotine: Poems

"This collection demands attention and introspection by offering a raw yet eloquent portrayal of the intersections of history, identity, and systemic oppression. It's an essential read for people seeking to honor the complexity of the experiences of Black Americans." - Jessica Calaway, Library Journal

How Maine residents can prioritize mental healthcare

By Dr. Ana Stankovic, Chief Medical Officer, UnitedHealthcare of New England

Mental health challenges continue to grow and can have a significant impact on well-being¹. According to new data from America's Health Rankings, nearly 18% of adults in Maine reported experiencing frequent mental distress in 2024.

To focus on just one condition, 40 million American adults suffer from anxiety disorders which can impact quality of life³. Anxiety is now the no. 1 mental health issue among American workers⁴.

Workload and working long hours can have a negative impact on overall mental health, happiness, and well-being, according to the American Psychological Association⁵.

Supporting Mental Health Needs

Having access to affordable mental health care is important to overall health and well-being.

Surveys show that people overwhelmingly believe support for mental health at work is important. In fact, 92% of workers said it is very or somewhat important to them to work for an organization that values their emotional and psychological well-being⁵.

Some employers now offer more modernized health plans that can help you more readily access needed services to support overall health and well-being. Talk to your employer about what benefits and programs might be available to you.

Modernized Health Plans Offer Better Access

The Surest health plan from UnitedHealthcare gives people the tools to search for mental health care through an easy-to-use digital shopping experience that can help improve access and lower the total cost of care. Recent studies found the Surest model lowered consumer out-of-pocket costs by 54%⁶.

Surest eliminates deductibles and coinsurance. Instead, members have copays that vary based on the provider and facility, with higher-value options costing less. Providers are evaluated on how they have performed historically on certain criteria like effectiveness and cost efficiency.

Women who choose Surest, for example, paid 88% less for anxiety-related provider visits and 82% less for depression-related visits compared to members on a conventional health plan, according to one recent study⁷.

Digital Resources Offer Support and Convenience

Studies show that Surest members also have improved access to care. Eligible Surest members can now access digital tools such as Calm Health, as a part of their mental health benefits.

Calm Health offers an entry point for eligible Surest members to connect with personalized resources to help support their mental health in-the-moment or as a supplement to engagement with a licensed professional.

Calm Health is an evidence-based mental health app, designed to help members access personalized mental health support, including mental health screenings, therapy referrals, personalized programs and daily self-care content.

By opting for more modern health plans and using digital resources, you can enhance your access to mental health care. These types of resources can help reduce out-of-pocket costs and help you live a healthier life in 2025.

More About Pine Tree Camp: Pine Tree Camp, which celebrates its 80th anniversary in 2025, is a program of Pine Tree Society and an American Camp Association-accredited camp for people with disabilities. Every year, hundreds of Maine children and adults with disabilities arrive at Pine Tree Camp in Rome and their lives are transformed. Year-round, campers experience freedom and independence by actively participating in outdoor activities like kayaking, boating, swimming, fishing, hiking, biking, archery, snowshoeing and cross country skiing thanks to Pine Tree Camp's 285-acre, fully-accessible campus on North Pond. Full tuition assistance is available. Since 1945, no camper has ever been turned away due to their ability to pay. <https://pinetreesociety.org/camp-home/>

Sponsors of the 29th Annual Bath Savings Paddle for Pine Tree Camp include: Bath Savings, Hammond Lumber Company, The Woodshed, HUB, Franklin Savings, Central Maine Power, Harvard Pilgrim Healthcare, Evergreens Campground, Marden's, NRF Distributors, Seaspray Kayaking and Paddleboarding, Assistance Plus, Brookfield Renewable and Alice's Awesome Adventures.

APL hosts Margery Schuler Silent Art Auction

AUBURN, ME – The Auburn Public Library is excited to announce the return of its 2nd Annual Margery Eyer Schuler Silent Art Auction, taking place on Saturday, March 29th, at 10:00 AM, with bidding closing at 11:00 AM. This highly anticipated event offers attendees the opportunity to support the library while celebrating local artists and their incredible talent.

Guests will enjoy a welcoming atmosphere with light hors d'oeuvres and live music from Honey, a talented trio of Edward Little High School students, adding a harmonious touch to the morning.

Named in honor of Margery Schuler, a devoted advocate for the arts and literacy, the auction features an array of her water-themed watercolor paintings bequeathed to APL in 2023. All proceeds from the event will directly benefit Auburn Public Library programs and services, continuing Schuler's legacy of fostering creativity and learning in the community.

"This event is a wonderful way to bring together art lovers, library supporters, and community members in a meaningful way," said Haley Warden, APL's Director of Development.

The auction is open to the public, and everyone is encouraged to participate. Whether you're an art enthusiast or simply looking to support the library, this is an opportunity to take home a unique piece while making a positive impact. Advance ticket purchase is required, only $5.00, and ticket sales are available on the library's website or at the Lending Desk.

For more information, please visit the Auburn Public Library or www.auburn-publiclibrary.org.

UMaine Extension offers farm tractor safety courses this spring

SIDNEY and TOPSHAM, ME — University of Maine Cooperative Extension will offer two multi-session farm tractor safety courses this spring. The Kennebec County session will be held on Monday evenings (and one Thursday) at Kramer Tractor, 2400 West River Road in Sidney, starting April 14. The Androscoggin/Sagadahoc counties session will be held on Tuesday evenings at Topsham Tractor and Equipment, 403 Lewiston Road in Topsham, starting April 22.

The training will include classroom lectures, tractor driving time and homework over the 5-part course, which is recognized by the U.S. Department of Labor. Successful completion of the course is required for 14- and 15-year-olds who plan to operate farm equipment for hire on farms other than their own family's farm. Participants will learn how to safely handle tractors and equipment and how to avoid hazards and minimize the chance of accidents. Certificates will be issued after successful completion of the course, including a written test and a driving test. The program is designed for adults and youth at least 14 years of age.

There is a sliding scale fee for the course of $40 (full price) or $20 (suggested for youth 14-17 and those who can afford 50% of the full course fee). Access to a computer, tablet or smartphone is required to complete homework assignments. More info including dates and registration links are available on the event webpage. For more information or to request reasonable accommodation, contact Jenni Cappello-Ruggiero at 207.781.6099 or extension.agcumberland@maine.edu.

North Star Baroque presents second concert of debut season

PORTLAND, ME -- North Star Baroque presents second concert of its debut season, Bach's

Brandenburg Concerto No. 5, Vivaldi, Concerto for sopranino recorder, with Venezuelan recorder virtuoso Aldo Abreu, and music of Handel and Purcell on Friday, March 28, 7:00 at Woodfords Congregational Church, 202 Woodford Street, Portland, ME.

To purchase tickets through PortTix and for further information: www.NorthStarBaroque.org

North Star Baroque opened its debut season this past fall with an acclaimed concert featuring Vivaldi's The Four Seasons with Baroque violinist Christina Day Martinson.

The ensemble's Music Director, Anna Pearlman, was born and raised in the greater Boston area. She is the daughter of Martin Pearlman, the founder and music director of Boston Baroque, America's oldest period-instrument orchestra, and spent her early years hearing, watching, and breathing Baroque music. Now a Maine resident, Anna performs throughout New England on modern and Baroque violin and viola. She is delighted to announce North Star Baroque, Portland's period-instrument orchestra.

Award winning Choir to return to Lewiston

LEWISTON, ME -- The Windham Chamber Singers will be appearing in concert at the Franco Center on Wednesday, April 9 at 7:00 pm as part of their 2025 Spring Tour. The Windham Chamber Singers gained international attention in 1996 when they won the Prize of Vienna, the highest award given at the International Youth Music Festival in Vienna, Austria. Since then, they have captured the hearts of audiences across the globe.

They have appeared in concert with artists including the late Kenny Rogers and Andy Williams, John Rutter, Josh Groban, Noel Paul Stookney (Peter, Paul and Mary), Sutton Foster, Norm Lewis, Mandy Gonzalez and numerous times as special guests of the Portland Symphony Orchestra. Recent performances include their annual American Family Holiday concerts and collaborations with the Celtic Tenors and Portland

Municipal Organist, James Kennerly.

Recognized for diversity, their performances include music spanning hundreds of years and many different cultures and genres. For example, in May, 2016, they were featured for the third time at St. Patrick's Cathedral in New York City in a concert of sacred a-cappella music. In contrast, later that year they joined with tribute band, Master Stroke in a performance that featured the music of the iconic rock band, Queen.

The choir has released four CDs on the Pine Point label and appears on many other compilation recordings as both a featured choir, and as backup singers.

According to the conductor, Dr. Richard Nickerson, "We are so excited to begin our tour in Lewiston and honored to perform at the Franco Center!" Nickerson is also the Artistic Director of the Maine Music Society, based in Lewiston.

Stanton Bird Club April Meeting

LEWISTON, ME -- On April 7th, the Stanton Bird Club will be hosting the fifth in its 2024-25 lecture series presenting "The Amazing Adaptations and Night Shift Work of Bats" with Jocelyn Hubbell.

On summer nights, while you are asleep, bats are hard at work. Join Jocelyn Hubbell to learn how bats' nightly rounds benefit you, about their amazing adaptations, which species live in Maine, and how to listen to and view bats safely.

An Interpretive Specialist with the Maine Bureau of Parks and Lands, Hubbell has worked in the field of environmental education as Senior Educator for the Wildlife Conservation Society's Prospect Park Wildlife Center in Brooklyn, New York, for Maine Audubon as their Camps and Outreach Program Manager and as the first Executive Director of Cornerstones of Science. Her current duties include the production of color guides and maps, the monthly newsletter, a weekly Nature Note, grant writing, and the development of nature programs.

The talk will be held on Monday, April 7th from 4-6pm at the Auburn Public Library. The public is welcome. The lecture series is free of charge.

The Stanton Bird

Club, a leader in environmental awareness, owns and manages the Thorncrag Nature Sanctuary in Lewiston as well as the Woodbury Nature Sanctuary in Monmouth and Litchfield. More information about other activities of the Club can be found at www.StantonBirdClub.org and on its Facebook page.

Arts education in focus at spring conference

WATERVILLE, ME—For several years the arts scene in Waterville has been growing and expanding, cementing the city’s burgeoning reputation as a destination for concerts, festivals, creative workshops, and more. As a more central location than Portland or Bangor, Waterville is not just attracting more artists and audiences, but art teachers as well, who travel from across the state to learn new skills and share their own expertise with each other, expanding the arts experience available to Maine students.

Artist and illustrator Lucky Platt will lead one of several workshops for teachers throughout the MAEA spring conference. Photo by Serena Sanborn.

Reflecting the city’s growing profile as a major destination for arts, the annual spring conference of the Maine Art Education Association (MAEA) will be held in Waterville April 4-6. This year’s event is organized by Waterville Creates and held in partnership with the Colby College Museum of Art and Colby Arts. This year’s spring conference has already attracted record numbers of art educators from across Maine and throughout New England.

“Attending the MAEA conference in Waterville—a community that truly values the arts—feels especially meaningful,” said Holly Hubbard, a teacher at Waterville’s George J. Mitchell School. “In Waterville Public Schools, where we strive to engage, empower, and inspire, we often see teaching itself as an art form—one that invites curiosity, creativity, and deep engagement in any subject. This gathering isn’t just for art educators; it’s for anyone who believes in the artistry of teaching. It brings together educators, artists, and community partners, sparking new collaborations and keeping creativity at the heart of our work.”

The MAEA promotes visual arts education throughout Maine, encouraging best practices in classrooms, supporting professional development for its members, and recognizing and celebrating outstanding educators. Annual conferences provide an opportunity for educators from across the state to meet, develop new skills, share ideas, and expand curricular offerings.

For Waterville Creates—a community arts nonprofit and home to the Waterville Opera House, Maine Film Center, and Ticonic Gallery + Studios—working with MAEA and supporting arts education gets to the heart of the organization’s mission.

“At Waterville Creates, our mission is ‘Arts Experiences for All,’ and that begins with supporting the educators who ignite creativity in students,” said Serena Sanborn, manager of outreach + community partnerships at Waterville Creates. “When you invest in one arts educator, you empower hundreds of students—fostering imagination, confidence, and

The Colby College Museum of Art and Colby Arts Office have been investing beyond the borders of the school’s campus, as well. “As a teaching museum first and foremost, we center the work of both academic and K-12 educators as core to our mission,” said Christian Adame, Mirken director of learning and engagement at the Colby Museum. “Teaching is a creative practice, and we hope the MAEA convening in Waterville invites art educators to invest in that practice, to learn with others, and to discover new ways to center the visual arts in their classrooms.”

In a time of budget cuts, standardized testing, and a curricular shift towards STEM fields, groups like Waterville Creates, Colby, the MAEA, and others demonstrate just how crucial it is to work together to provide extra support for art educators and their students. Waterville is emerging as a hub for conversations across the state about the right of youth access to the arts.

“Nourishing creativity for all children through the arts is why art programs are essential to a well-rounded education,” said Jessica Hamilton Jones, art teacher at the Waterville Alternative School. “The MAEA supports the arts, art students, and art teachers and has been pivotal to my success as an art teacher. I am thrilled that Waterville and Waterville Creates are hosting our spring conference this year.”

“By bringing together arts educators, creatives, and cultural organizations, this conference is a catalyst for inspiration, collaboration, and lasting impact in our communities,” Sanborn added.

Art educators from across Maine and beyond can register for the MAEA conference in Waterville before March 25. This year, the Colby Museum and Colby Arts are sponsoring major scholarships to cover registration fees for Maine teachers. Visit aeforme.org/2025-spring-conference to learn more and register.

“We are thrilled to welcome art educators from around the state into the vibrant art spaces in downtown Waterville and on Colby College’s campus,” said Tyler French, associate director of artistic planning and community engagement at Colby. “We hope they will return and engage, to see the arts ecosystem in Waterville as rich in resources to support their professional development and their students.”

“The MAEA is so thrilled to have the opportunity to work with Waterville Creates, Colby College, and the greater Waterville community for our spring conference this year! It is sure to be an epic event,” said Matt Johnson, MAEA’s president-elect.

Public comment open for Monarch Butterfly Endangered Species Act

MAINE -- The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service is reopening the public comment period for a proposed rule to list the monarch butterfly as a threatened species under the Endangered Species Act. The proposed rule includes species-specific protections and flexibilities to encourage conservation of the butterfly under section 4(d) of the ESA. The comment period will be reopened for 60 days, until May 19, 2025, to give all interested parties an additional opportunity to comment on the proposed rule, which was published on December 12, 2024. Comments that were previously submitted do not need to be resubmitted as they are already incorporated into the public record and will be fully considered in the final listing determination.

Public comments are an integral part of the ESA listing determination process, and the Service recognizes the complexity of the information requested for public comment in the proposed rule. By reopening the public comment period, the agency is ensuring everyone has a chance to share information relevant to the conservation status of the species, including the associated 4(d) rule and proposed critical habitat designation.

The reopening of the public comment period for the monarch butterfly will publish in the Federal Register Reading Room. A reopened 60-day comment period will open on March 19, 2025, and will close on May 19, 2025. Information about how to submit comments can be found on regulations.gov by searching for docket number

FWS-R3-ES-2024-0137.

Everyone can play a role in saving the monarch butterfly. Because of the species’ general habitat use and wide distribution, all sectors of society have an opportunity to participate in a broad range of conservation efforts throughout the butterfly’s range. You can learn more about the monarch butterfly, the monarch listing proposal, and how to help conserve monarch butterflies at fws.gov/monarch.

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service works with others to conserve, protect and enhance fish, wildlife, plants and their habitats for the continuing benefit of the American people. For more information, visit www.fws.gov and connect with us on social media: Facebook, Instagram, X, LinkedIn, Flickr, and YouTube.

You must start your first unemployment insurance claim by phone. After your first claim is done, you can file weekly claims online.

File even if appealing the termination

Don’t panic about a $0 determination— Federal wages aren’t reported in state systems, so your initial claim may show $0. As wages are verified your Monetary Determination will be updated.

Request a wage affidavit if delayed— If your agency doesn’t respond within 12 days, you can complete an ES-935 affidavit to speed up your claim.

Once your initial claim is in system, you will find this form in your account under Correspondences.

Check messages regularly—State agencies may request additional information, so frequently check your portal, email, and mail.

Certify and job search weekly— You must certify unemployment and actively search for work each week to continue receiving benefits.

The Maine Department of Labor’s Rapid Response team is holding a weekly session via Zoom at 10 a.m. every Wednesday to go over top line information for laid off workers, such as unemployment insurance, health insurance options, training and job search resources.

The full guidance and Rapid Response information for affected employees can be found here: www.maine.gov/labor/federal-workers/

UMaine Extension presents webinar on perennial gardening

ORONO, ME – University of Maine Cooperative Extension will offer a webinar for home gardeners on selecting resilient perennials from 6 - 7:15 p.m. on Wednesday, April 9.

Herbaceous perennials support wildlife and pollinators while adding beauty to home gardens. As long-term investments, perennials can also be affected by fluctuations in temperature, rainfall and snowfall. Stephanie Burnett, professor of horticulture in the School of Food and Agriculture at the University of Maine, will discuss what to consider when selecting perennials and make recommendations for resilient Maine gardens. This webinar is the final in the 4-part series, Gardening for the Future.

Registration is required; sliding scale fee options are available. Register on the event webpage to attend live or receive the recording link. For more

New Maine hearing loss support chapter wins national award

MAINE -- The national organization Hearing Loss Association of America (HLAA) has awarded the Downeast Chapter of Maine the "Up and Coming HLAA Chapter of the Year." The announcement was made on March 10, with the official award presentation scheduled for the HLAA National Convention in Indianapolis this June. Four Maine Downeast members will be present to accept the award. HLAA Downeast was founded in 2021 after Margaret Myatt and Pat Dobbs connected during a national HLAA convention. Sharing a vision for a support network for Mainers with hearing loss, they crafted a mission statement, built a website, and established key connections. Their vision became reality in 2022, when the chapter was officially formed and received 501(c)(3) nonprofit status. Since launching remote meetings in May 2022, HLAA DownEast has expanded to host in-person meetings and events across the state, including Kennebunkport, Portland, Augusta, Ellsworth, Bucksport, and Bridgton.

Meet the founders: Margaret Myatt has worn hearing aids since age 30 and has been an HLAA leader since 2013. She previously served on the Steering Committee of HLAA-Central Massachusetts and earned HLAA's Hearing Assistive Technology (HAT) certificate. She retired to Maine in 2020.

Pat Dobbs began losing her hearing in her early 20s and now has a cochlear implant. She has been an HLAA leader for over 20 years, founding the HLAA-Morris County New Jersey Chapter and earned a Peer Mentoring certification from Gallaudet University. She moved to Maine in 2019.

They are joined by dedicated HLAA DownEast leaders:

Thomas Watson III (Dixmont, ME) • Andy Chandler (South Portland, ME)

Gwendolyn LaPointe (Bangor, ME)

Upcoming Events: Thursday, April 17, 2025, 7:00 PM – Zoom event: Hearing Loss 101

Saturday, May 17, 2025 – In-person luncheon in Augusta

MDOL launches Work Source Maine Virtual CareerCenter

AUGUSTA, ME – The Maine Department of Labor (MDOL), along with local workforce boards, has officially launched the Work Source Maine Virtual CareerCenter, a new online platform designed to connect both job seekers and employers with essential workforce resources. The platform provides easy access to career services, hiring support, and training programs, ensuring that individuals and businesses across the state can find the tools they need to succeed.

"While in-person CareerCenter services are still available across the state, this new virtual CareerCenter option will make personalized services even easier to access," said Labor Commissioner Laura Fortman. "Job seekers and employers can now connect 24-7 with workforce resources from wherever they are, and tailor their search results to fit their needs."

The Work Source Maine Virtual CareerCenter serves as a centralized hub for workforce development, offering job seekers access to personalized job search tools, resume-building resources, career counseling, and virtual hiring events. The platform also provides employers with resources to support recruitment and retention, including hiring incentives, workforce development programs, and guidance on labor laws and best practices.

"Forty percent of Maine's population lives in rural areas. This virtual career center will help every citizen in every corner of the state to access resources and information to help them find their place in Maine's labor force—great news for job seekers and employers alike," said

Erin V. Benson, Executive Director of the Central Western Maine Workforce Development Board.

"The Northeastern Workforce Development Board is excited to see this statewide launch of the Virtual CareerCenter. Individuals unable to physically access one of the CareerCenter locations can now go online and find valuable training and employment resources with this new user-friendly platform for job seekers and employers! This resource is going to be especially important for the people of Maine who live in our more rural communities and are unable to travel due to gas prices, health reasons, winter road conditions, or simply not enough time in their day. This is a big win for Maine's workforce!" said Galan Williamson, Executive Director of the Northeastern Workforce Development Board.

Job seekers are already finding value in the platform. A new resident of the Portland area shared their experience using the site, stating, "I really love the website. I just moved here from Boston, and the website is so well put together. There are a lot of resources there and phone numbers – the contact information was very, very helpful. Overall, it made an amazing impression because I have used other websites, and they were not as resourceful as this one."

Designed to be inclusive and accessible, the Virtual CareerCenter offers multilingual support and tailored resources for veterans, older workers, individuals with disabilities, and those re-entering the workforce. Employers can take advantage of tools that streamline hiring processes and strengthen workforce development efforts.

"The Coastal Counties Workforce Board is thrilled to know that we have a resource in Maine that can be accessed by anyone with a computer, tablet, or smartphone. The Virtual CareerCenter resources and services are invaluable for anyone who is unemployed or underemployed or for anyone wanting to change jobs who needs our services. Available services include career advising, coaching, access to job training and other support. This is not just a website for job postings! With this new online Virtual CareerCenter, visitors can obtain services from the comfort of their home, 24/7, making these resources more accessible than ever," said Antonette Mancusi, Executive Director of the Coastal Counties Workforce Board.

The Work Source Maine Virtual CareerCenter is now live and available to all Maine residents. To explore the platform and access its resources, visit www.myworksource-maine.gov.

The upcycled Celtic folk trio, House of Hamill, features Brian Buchanan and Rose Baldino of the Celtic folk-rock band Enter the Haggis. They are both accomplished traditional fiddle players and classical violinists, with over 25 years of writing and performance experience between them. They write unusual new fiddle tunes and exciting, unpredictable original songs while breathing new life into traditional and contemporary songs. A third full-time member, Caroline Browning, recently joined the duo, playing bass, mandolin, and vocals. Their music occupies a space between traditional Irish and sophisticated indie folk.

Tickets are $25 in advance, $30 at the door, and $10 for students/children. Available at the church office, Gulf of Maine Books, or online at ticketstripe.com/house.

Finding meaningful work that's flexible and close to home

Direct Support workers help Mainers stay connected to their communities

From her earliest memories, Kathleen's mother, Alice, has been independent. Having raised four children largely on her own, Alice worked until she was 85 and is a fixture in their island community.

But as Alice aged, her vision began to deteriorate. She wanted to continue living independently in the home and community she loved, but she and her kids knew that she needed a helping hand to remain safe and happy.

For the family, that helping hand came from Jim, a Direct Support worker, who lives nearby, and now visits Alice for a few hours, several days a week. He supports her with a variety of household tasks, including shopping and preparing meals. Often, the most valuable support is the conversation and camaraderie he provides.

"Jim is my godsend," Alice said. "I look forward to him every single week."

Jim is part of the growing field of Direct Support, ensuring that Mainers with age-related, physical, behavioral, intellectual and cognitive health needs have the support they need to stay safe, independent and empowered to achieve their personal goals.

For Jim, this is the ideal encore career. At 65, he retired from his full-time job; but after two years, he began to feel restless.

"If you have too much time you can overthink things and feel like you're missing out on something," he said. "But when you're helping somebody, it feels like you're in exactly the right spot. And that's such a good feeling."

For Dakota, 24, the steady presence of a Personal Support Specialist, Sonya, has made all the difference in the world. Dakota, who lives with intellectual and developmental disabilities, says that Sonya's support has allowed him to gain the independence and a sense of connection to the community that he didn't have before. In addition to assisting with activities of daily living, her support allows him to go to the movies, go to bookstores and do many other activities he loves.

"It makes me feel so happy to be a part of society," he said. "With her support, I really feel like I've been able to flourish."
