Soft consumer demand for products, Whirlpool Corp. lays off hundreds in Amana

Whirlpool Corp. has announced it is letting go of an estimated 650 workers from its manufacturing facility in Amana, Iowa, effective June 1.

In response to media inquiries after the company filed a WARN notice in the state of Iowa, Whirlpool Corp. executives blamed the layoffs on reduced consumer demand, primarily refrigeration units.

“Whirlpool Corporation has made necessary adjustments to production at its Amana operations to align with current market conditions driven by consumer demand. This has resulted in the announcement of a workforce reduction of approximately 650 employees within specific production teams at the facility. We are committed to supporting affected employees through this transition by providing access to onsite HR support and a dedicated employee support line, an employee assistance program, and guidance on unemployment benefits through Iowa Workforce Development.”

The layoffs affect nearly one-third of the company's workforce of 2,000 employees in Amana. In February, Whirlpool Corporation confirmed job cuts in their HR, Finance, Procurement, and IT groups in Benton Harbor.

The Amana operation is reportedly Whirlpool Corporation's only unionized manufacturing facility in the United States.

In their most recent earnings statement in late January, CEO Marc Bitzer said the company continues to make progress in their operations and delivered on their 2024 cost take out commitment of $300 million.

“In 2025, we expect to deliver more than $200 million of cost take out and position our business for the eventual U.S. housing recovery,” said Bitzer.

Help us Celebrate the People That Make An Impact in our Community

The staff at United Way of Southwest Michigan have been hard at work planning our Annual Celebration event since late last year. As they started making an outline of the people we would be honoring in our community at this event, something simple yet profound took me by surprise: the sheer number of people associated with United Way in some manner is huge, and without them, impact in our community would not have been possible.

Our impact is made up of a core set of passionate individuals and organizations that band together to make sure our community has what it needs to serve the most vulnerable populations. Our staff, board members, sponsors, grantors, event volunteers, investment teams, impact committee, employee campaign coordinators, municipal & community partners, and impact partners all make up this number of what is truly thousands of people. To think there are thousands of people helping thousands of others is incredibly heartwarming.

I invite you to hear about these individuals and the impact they make by attending our Annual Celebration. It's coming up Thursday, April 24 at the Lake Michigan College Mendel Center Grand Upton Hall beginning at 6pm.

The work being done in our communities is so special, we've attracted the attention of our United Way Worldwide organization. John Farden, the Executive Vice President of Global Advancement & Operations will be our guest speaker. He'll share how United Ways across the country bring communities together, especially during times of immense change. With government funding changes looming, all community organizations will have to be more targeted with our work to continue impacting populations in need of help.

During our Celebration event, we'll also recognize those individuals and organizations that have gone above and beyond in 2024 to make their communities better and brighter. In particular, we'll unveil this year's highly coveted volunteer recognition awards: The Susan L. Dobrich Volunteer Leadership Award for Cass County, and Margaret B. Upton Volunteer Leadership Award for Berrien County.

If you attend, you'll also be able to hear about the work being done by a few of our impact partners in a set of special video vignettes and stories from our speakers. This event is also a great place to network with other like minded individuals that love to serve their communities.

Our deadline for registration has been extended for a few more days so we can catch every last one of you that might want to attend to hear these great stories and meet great people. To join us, all you have to do is visit uwsm.org/celebrate-impact and RSVP at the Register button. It's just $40 per person, or a table of 8 for $300, and will include a great pasta bar dinner from the Mendel Center.

As you might imagine, it takes quite a bit of effort to put this event together each year. We do it not to have a party for ourselves, but to instead share the good news of great impact happening all around us that wouldn't happen without friends and neighbors coming together.

We'd also like to thank our incredible sponsors for helping to bring this event to you. They include our Series sponsors Silver Beach Pizza and Michigan Works! Berrien, Cass, and Van Buren; Platinum sponsor Corewell Health; Gold sponsors Sturgis Bank and the Southwest Michigan Regional Chamber; Silver sponsor Kruggel Lawton CPA; and Bronze sponsor The Purpose Partners.

We look forward to celebrating our people and our impact with you soon!

The Unsung Hero of Home Hygiene: Mastering Bathroom Maintenance

In the hustle and bustle of daily life, the bathroom often becomes a sanctuary—a place to unwind, refresh, and recharge. Yet, this haven of cleanliness can quickly turn into a breeding ground for grime, mold, and bacteria if not properly maintained. Regular bathroom upkeep is not just about aesthetics; it's a critical aspect of household health and longevity. With a few simple strategies, anyone can transform bathroom maintenance from a chore into a manageable routine.

The cornerstone of bathroom care is consistency. Experts recommend a weekly cleaning schedule to tackle soap scum, toothpaste splatter, and water spots before they harden into stubborn stains. Start with the sink and countertop, using a mild cleaner and a micro-fiber cloth to wipe away residue. Mirrors, often overlooked, deserve a streak-free shine—white vinegar diluted in water works wonders here. The toilet, meanwhile, demands a thorough scrub inside and out with a dedicated brush and disinfectant to eliminate germs lurking in hard-to-reach crevices.

Shower and bathtub maintenance requires special attention, as moisture fosters mold and mildew growth. After each use, a quick squeegee swipe on glass doors or tiles can prevent water spots and mineral buildup. For deeper cleaning, a mix of baking soda and vinegar can break down grime without harsh chemicals, leaving surfaces sparkling. Don't neglect the grout—its porous nature makes it a magnet for discoloration. A small brush and a targeted cleaner can restore its original hue.

Ventilation is another unsung hero in bathroom upkeep. Poor airflow traps humidity, inviting mold and peeling paint. Running an exhaust fan during and after showers—or cracking a window—helps keep the space dry. For homes without fans, a portable dehumidifier can work wonders. Regularly check caulking around tubs and sinks, too; cracked or peeling sealant invites water seepage and costly repairs.

Storage plays a subtle but vital role in maintenance. Cluttered countertops collect dust and spills, while damp towels breed bacteria. Invest in organizers for toiletries and ensure towels dry fully between uses—hanging them on racks rather than hooks speeds the process. A periodic purge of expired products keeps the space functional and fresh.

Finally, don't underestimate the power of small habits. Wiping down surfaces after use, keeping a trash bin handy, and addressing spills immediately can reduce the need for marathon cleaning sessions. A well-maintained bathroom not only elevates a home's appeal but also safeguards its occupants' well-being.

So, the next time you step into your bathroom, take a moment to appreciate its role—and commit to giving it the care it deserves. A little effort goes a long way in preserving this essential space for years to come.

Whistler-ing While We Work
(at Skiing)

Starting this column is a bit like starting a ski run you're not sure you can handle. Which, in an amazing coincidence, is (partly) what this column is about!

Let's start with some reminiscences from the recent past. For starters, the previous sentence is the first time I've EVER spelled "reminiscences" correctly on the first try! (Hmmm, is that a little too recently in the past?)

Drifting a little further back in time: I took a skiing trip this winter. Now we travel further backward: Do you recall last year's ski trip column? It began thusly: "The operative words in that first sentence are 'skiing' and 'trip.' See, someone took a trip. While skiing. And that someone now faces a lengthy period of R & R – Rehabilitation & Ruling the Spouse 'Round. The Rehabber is my wife. Guess who's getting Ruled 'Round."

When this happened, the future looked sketchy for my wife's injured MCL (Massively Costly Ligament) and ACL (Alarmingly Costly Ligament). Eventually she got a prognosis involving recovery WITHOUT surgery!! – which she did NOT want to have. With physical therapy and a custom-molded leg brace, she could very well resume skiing, maybe even just like always! Well, she positively jumped at that! – figuratively, not literally; I mean, c'mon, her Costly Ligaments were a mess!

Well, it worked! She skied just like always. I guess. She skied, too far ahead for me to see, just like always.

We skied in Whistler, Canada. Since I've already reported on the skiing (wife really good, me not), here are a few fascinating observations from the trip.

- We began our journey by flying to Vancouver, British Columbia, spending one night there. Outside our hotel window, there were scads of gulls circling around. I eventually determined they were Glaucous-winged Gulls. When I typed a quick note as a future reminder to myself, auto-correct rendered the bird's name as "Glaucoma-winged Gull."
- "Glaucous" is a science-y way of describing something with a frosty or powdery appearance. Now I ask you, wouldn't those be much more fun names for the bird? – Frosted Gull! Or Powdered Gull!
- Hmmm, anyone else suddenly hungry for a donut?
- My "column ideas" notes from the trip include "Hard ham" and "Canadian 5-dollar bill." I can't remember why.
- From the peaks of the ski slopes, one can see a geological formation called The Black Tusk. It's the ancient hard-lava core of a volcano, the cinders of which have crumbled away. Now, as happens EVERY TIME I hear the word "tusk," the Fleetwood Mac song of that name will play in my head. All day.
- Back in Vancouver airport for our journey home, I ogled the artwork on display. One piece I particularly liked was "Canadian Gothic," an amusing take on Grant Wood's famous "American Gothic" (you know, the stern-looking farmer with the pitchfork and his rather glum-looking daughter).

The figures in the sculpture bear the same unsmiling expressions. They're dressed in mackinaws, jeans and galoshes. The gent wears a took, holds a hockey stick in one hand, and a coffee mug in the other. The lady sports a fur-lined Elmer Fudd hat and carries the perfect complement to the gent's coffee! A carton of Tim Horton donuts!

Mmmmm, glaucous, I hope!

Is God in It?

So whether you eat or drink or whatever you do, do it all for the glory of God.
1 Corinthians 10:31

My children often ask questions like, "Are there raisins in it?" or "Are there onions in it?"

How often do we ask, "Is God in it?" That sure sparked up a battle recently when an atheist didn't want to have his child say the Pledge of Allegiance because "God" was in it. But even if we keep the words in the Pledge, we have to look at our country and ask, "Is God in it?" Are those just empty words or does God really reside here? What do you think when you look around you?

The Bible assures us that, whether we acknowledge him or not, he is everywhere at all times. And where his Word and people are present, he is present in a special way. He comes to bring us to repentance and to lead us to depend on his all-encompassing forgiveness won for us in Jesus. He is there in our lives to make us more like him. And God promises his believing children that even the seemingly difficult things will turn out right because God is in it to turn it into a blessing.

The question remains, however, in relationship to your thoughts, words, and actions. "Is God in it?" We don't have to look back very far to see God was not the focus in what we listened to, looked at, bought, did, or said. Knowing what he has done for us and how essential our relationship is to him we want to look for him to be in everything we do—as eagerly as my children look for the chocolate chips in the cookies. Let him be the source and focus of all you do.
Prayer: Lord Jesus, may everything I do bring you glory. Amen.

Open house on Main Street project in downtown St. Joseph next week

The Michigan Department of Transportation is planning an open house for next week to tell everyone about the latest plans for the reconstruction of Main Street in downtown St. Joseph.

MDOT's Nick Schirripa tells us the plan is to rebuild Main Street, or M-63, in 2027. This will be a once in a generation kind of project.

"We are rebuilding a segment of M-63/I-94 Business Loop in St. Joe," Schirripa said. "We are essentially changing Port Street and Ship Street to, we think two way streets, instead of two one way streets, and then rebuilding M-63 between the Blossomland Bridge and Central Avenue."

Schirripa says the project will mean traffic changes and new routes for pedestrians once all is finished.

As MDOT planned the work, it held multiple public meetings to find out what residents want. Some of those ideas have now been incorporated into the plan, and that's what will be presented next week.

"We haven't finished the plan by any stretch, but it's now further developed because of that input. So, we want to roll out that updated concept to folks."

Schirripa says MDOT engineering staff and consultants will be on hand for the open house to answer questions and take suggestions. The open house will be at St. Joseph City Hall next Tuesday, April 8 from 4:30 to 6:30 p.m. All are invited.

You can learn more about the project right here.

What's next after cancellation of $20M grant for Benton Harbor?

Now that a $20 million EPA grant for community resiliency projects around Benton Harbor has been canceled by the Trump administration, what's next?

The Southwest Michigan Planning Commission's Marcy Hamilton tells us alternatives will be sought for some of the things that were in motion as a result of the grant. Among other things, it would have been used for clean energy, workforce development, and the restoration of the Bobo Brazil Community Center.

Hamilton says there is an appeals process when federal grants are canceled.

"So, looking into that, and then there are groups that are working nationwide with different grantees and looking at potential legal actions," Hamilton said. "There's a lot of claims that the way that the grants are terminated isn't legal, so we're following those kind of national movements to see if it fits us or not."

Hamilton says the planning commission is also exploring other ways to secure funds for Bobo Brazil. She notes the city has already been awarded $1.5 million in state grants for improvements at the center, so some work will still be done there. However, Hamilton says it's a shame the roughly $3 million Bobo Brazil was going to get via the EPA grant is now gone.

Hamilton tells us the Southwest Michigan Planning Commission had an inkling the big EPA grant might be rescinded, so it was careful not to spend any money it didn't already have in place as it prepared to implement the funding. Now that it's gone, she says some beneficial projects won't be happening in the city, at least for now.

United Way sets cardboard boat races for July 17; registrations now open

The United Way of Southwest Michigan is now taking registrations for this summer's Rock the Boat cardboard boat races.

The United Way's Erin Glaske tells us the races are a chance for teams to sign up to build their own boats out of cardboard and then race them in the St. Joseph River Channel to raise funds for the organization. Each team can choose whatever boat design they like, as long as it's cardboard.

"It's really such a fun event," Glaske said. "You can make the boat sturdy if you want, you can make it really fast, or you can just go for the fun, creative side. So, it's kind of whatever you want."

Glaske says it's always fun to see what the teams come up with, telling us she remembers last year's winner quite well.

"One that stand out was actually the winner -- and it's not because it was so creative -- it was honestly looked like a legitimate speed, like a crew boat, and they just zipped right past the finish line."

That's why the cardboard boat races course this year will have a couple of obstacles.

Glaske says the theme for the races on July 17 will be a Hawaiian luau, but it's not a requirement that boats follow.

You can register a team to be part of the Rock the Boat races at UWSM.org. Glaske says they had 25 teams last year, and they're hoping for 50 this time around.

Bridgman Chamber of Commerce and Growth
Alliance (Bridgman CGA)

Bridgman CGA Update

Springtime brings a fresh perspective. With warmer days and longer sunlight, we emerge from hibernation, ready to reconnect and revitalize our community. Over the past few months, the Greater Bridgman Area Chamber and Growth Alliance (BCGA) has been hard at work. We hosted a well-attended Annual Meeting in November, followed by the beloved Holiday Village in December. February saw us celebrating our progress at the Southwest Michigan Regional Chamber's Business Recognition Breakfast, where we were thrilled to have representatives from the Michigan Economic Development Corporation, the Michigan Department of Agriculture and Rural Development, and The Great Lakes Housing Service join us at our table. In March, Governor Gretchen Whitmer's Community Engagement Representative, Carly Swanson, joined us at D'Agostino's Navajo Bar and Grille for our first Commerce and Conversation event of the year.

Building a Stronger Community

In 2025, BCGA's focus is clear: Community Engagement. A thriving local economy starts with a strong, involved community. We are launching a holistic economic assessment of our commercial corridor, spanning Lake Charter Township and the City of Bridgman. We will also assist in updating the City's master plan and continue working toward Redevelopment Ready Communities certification. Looking ahead, we are excited to host a Strong Towns Local Conversation group in April and to bring back a daylong Celebrate Bridgman event on July 12th.

The Strong Towns Approach: A Smarter Path to Growth

As we shape the future of Bridgman, it is essential to embrace strategies that foster long-term economic resilience. The Strong Towns framework offers a sustainable approach—one that prioritizes fiscal responsibility, incremental growth, and community well-being.

Traditional economic development often relies on large-scale incentivized projects, tourism, or expansion of public infrastructure, which can lead to long-term financial burdens. Instead, the Strong Towns model champions small-scale, locally driven investments—supporting small businesses, enhancing existing infrastructure, and fostering organic neighborhood growth. This method yields higher public investment returns while reducing financial risk.

A Balanced Future: Residents First

As we look forward to warmer weather and the return of visitors to our area, we want to keep in mind that while tourism plays a vital role in our local economy, an over-reliance on seasonal visitors can create instability. Our vision is to strike a better balance between resident and tourist needs, ensuring that economic growth enhances—not undermines—our community's quality of life.

Prioritizing Local Voices: Community input is essential in tourism planning. By engaging residents, we can craft policies that protect our town's character while maximizing economic benefits.

Investing in Local Entrepreneurs: Strengthening small businesses ensures long-term stability, extending economic opportunities beyond seasonal trends.

Encouraging Smart Growth: Walkable neighborhoods, mixed-use development, and bottom-up decision-making create vibrant, sustainable communities where people want to live and work.

Shifting gears slightly, the collaboration between Bridgman Public Schools and the City of Bridgman continues with the return of the beloved banner project showcasing the creativity of students from F.C. Reed Middle School will return this week!

This project, which began in 2019, serves as both a celebration of young talent and a way to enhance the visual appeal of the downtown area. Each banner reflects the unique perspectives and artistic abilities of the students, making this initiative a source of pride for the entire community.

Each year, students are given access to any classroom art supplies to create their designs, many beginning the process and inquiring about the theme the first week of school. Once students have completed their design local community stakeholders are selected to judge and have the difficult task of reviewing all 260 designs and selecting the final 52 that will be turned into banners. This year's banner theme focuses on the concepts of Heroes, specifically the people and ideals that learners idolize.

We hope you'll visit downtown Bridgman to enjoy and support the students' work! Additional details will be available on the City of Bridgman website bridgman.org.

For more information about the Bridgman CGA, head to our website www.BridgmanCGA.org or feel free to connect with me directly at NKiernan@BridgmanCGA.org or 269-285-2152.

Dave Says

He's Going to Need You in His Life

Dear Dave,

My wife and I are going through a divorce, and she just had our first child. Under the circumstances, I feel it's my responsibility to take care of her for a while longer, and to put her and our son in a safe, new vehicle. She's driving a 2002 Chevy Prizm right now with lots of miles on it. I'm afraid any kind of accident could result in a disaster. Do you think I should buy her a bigger, safer new car?

Ewan

Dear Ewan,

God bless you both. And that little boy. I'm truly sorry you're going through a mess like this, and I appreciate your attitude and concern about things. Divorce carries a lot of emotional stress and worry for everyone involved, but honestly? I don't think buying her a new car will solve anything.

My guess is the truth of the matter is this: The whole situation is breaking your heart, and you're worried sick about your son. This is 100% natural, buddy, and it means you love that little baby with all your heart. But if it were me, I'd find a little bit larger used car—a good, reliable one—that either one of you, or both of you combined, can pay for with cash. No payments, no leases.

But Ewan, here's the important thing. Spend every second you can get hugging and loving on that little boy. And let his mom know you want to be part of his life as much as possible. He's going to need his daddy around.

— Dave

It's Not About Greed, it's About Doing Good

Dear Dave,

On your show, you're always talking about accumulating piles of cash. I've gone to church my entire life, and I know for a fact the Bible says not to lay up treasures on earth. Doesn't that mean we shouldn't be greedy or accumulate wealth?

Lawrence

Dear Lawrence,

The Bible also says in Proverbs that in the house of the wise there are stores of choice food and oil. I appreciate your concern, but when I talk about "piles of cash," my frame of reference is that we're to handle our money and other possessions for good and for God. It's not about greed, or to show off or to use it just to buy bigger and better things for ourselves.

If you look back through scripture, you'll find many of the Bible's major characters were wealthy people, who understood they were not the owners of the money and wealth. They understood God owned it all, and their job was to manage it all properly for God's glory.

But here's the thing. You can't do good if you don't have the resources to do good.

— Dave
