ARIES (March 21 to April 19) You're doing better on the flexibility issue, but you still need to loosen up a bit to show that you can be less judgmental and more understanding about certain sensitive matters.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Your personal aspect continues to dominate this week. But try to make time to deal with important career-linked matters as well. A change of plans might occur by the weekend.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Excuses are not really needed for much of the confusion that occurs this week. However, explanations from all parties could help in working things out to everyone's satisfaction.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) A surprising (but pleasant) recent turn of events continues to develop positive aspects. But be prepared for a bit of a jolt on another issue that needs attention.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Creating a fuss might bring you the attention that you want. But are you prepared for all the explaining you'd have to do? It's better to use more subtle ways to make your bid.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) With education continuing to be a strong factor this week, this could be the time to start learning some new skills that can later be applied to a bid for a potential career move.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) You might do well to reconsider some of your current time priorities before you get so deeply involved in one project that you neglect meeting a deadline on another.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) With an important decision looming, you need to be careful about the information you're getting. Half-truths are essentially useless. Get the full story before you act.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Find out what everyone's role is expected to be before accepting a workplace proposal. Getting all the facts now could prevent serious problems later on.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) A flexible position on a workplace matter could be the best course to follow during the next several days. A personal issue also benefits from an open-minded approach.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Involving too many people in your workplace problem can backfire. Remember, allegiances can shift. Ask trusted colleagues for advice, but don't ask them to take sides.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Before submitting your suggestions, take more time to sharpen the points you want to make. The clearer the presentation, the more chance it has to get through when submitted.

BORN THIS WEEK: Your clear sense of who you are gives you confidence when you need to tackle difficult situations.

Fun Fact

Along beaches and shorelines, we are bombarded by ions, which are negatively-charged particles in the air produced by the pounding surf. A beach can have as much as 2,000 negative ions per cubic centimeter, as opposed to a crowded city that may have less than 100. Some research indicates that exposure to negative air ions is linked to reduced depression, lowered anxiety and improved feelings of well-being.

Piedmont Pets

April 10, 2025 By Paulette Dean

If you spend any time at all on social media, you have realized there is an abundance of wonderful/cute/funny animal videos and pictures. I watch more of them than I should! However, there are some that cause me to cringe, even though they are "feel-good" ones.

For instance, there was a picture that circulated some time ago that showed a polar bear becoming friends with a dog on a chain. People thought the cross-species friendship was adorable and that it was nice that the polar bear felt empathy for the chained dog. It was revealed later that the polar bear actually killed a dog at the same sanctuary after the picture was taken.

There is another series of videos that promote the happiness on the faces of dogs the moment they realize they are being adopted. Do not misunderstand – I am happy that the adoptions took place. However, the dogs at the time could not understand about being adopted. Their happy faces are because they were happy to be taken for a walk out of the shelter, or riding in a car, or being with a kind person.

Dictionaries define "anthropomorphism" as "the attribution of human traits, emotions, or intentions to non-human entities." It is seen in religions that worship idols, but it is also very prominent in promoting the cause of animals.

Animals do not think the way we do. Frankly, they do not need to! They were created to be wonderfully different from us. They have relationships and emotional ties independent of humans. We simply cannot know the depth of their happiness, grief, pain, contentment, etc.

Through my association with tens of thousands of animals, I know they have emotions and feelings and needs. The problem for them comes when we expect them to be human-like, rather than the wonderful creatures that they are. Anthropomorphism may be a cute, feel-good meme, picture, or video; however, it does not serve the animals well.

Danville Utilities honored for excellence in electric service

Danville Utilities has once again earned national recognition for its commitment to safe, dependable electric service — achieving the “Platinum” designation as a Reliable Public Power Provider (RP3[®]) from the American Public Power Association (APPA). The “Platinum” level is the second highest a public power entity can achieve. Danville Utilities has received the RP3 designation multiple times, and this year is the second time it has reached the “Platinum” level.

“Receiving an RP3 designation is a great honor signifying a utility has demonstrated commitment to industry best practices,” said Jeremy Ash, Chair of APPA’s RP3 Review Panel and General Manager at Kansas City Board of Public Utilities, Kansas. “And ultimately, the culture developed from this pursuit of excellence and continued improvement through the RP3 program results in measurable value delivered to the local community.” The RP3 designation is awarded to utilities that excel in four key areas: reliability, safety, workforce development, and system improvement. Utilities must demonstrate sound business practices and a strong, organization-wide dedication to the safe and consistent delivery of electricity.

“This recognition is a reflection of the outstanding team we have at Danville Utilities,” said Jason Grey, Director of Danville Utilities. “Our employees take great pride in serving the community, and this Platinum designation shows their dedication to safety, service, and continuous improvement.” Danville Utilities will retain the RP3 designation for three years and joins a select group of more than 250 public power utilities nationwide to currently hold this distinction. The American Public Power Association has offered the RP3 designation for 20 years now. APPA is the voice of not-for-profit, community-owned utilities that power 54 million people in 2,000 towns and cities nationwide. APPA advocates and advises on electricity policy, technology, trends, training, and operations. Danville Utilities provides natural gas, water, wastewater and telecommunications services in Danville and distributes electricity to approximately 42,000 customer locations in a 500-square-mile service territory covering Danville, the southern third of Pittsylvania County, and small portions of Henry and Halifax counties. ###

Place potting soil in a small container. Moisten the soil well, but do not soak. Place seeds just below the surface of the soil, and cover the container with clear plastic, or insert it into a plastic bag, without letting plastic rest directly on the soil. This helps the soil retain moisture and heat. Place under a lamp for warmth, and keep the soil moist by "misting." As your sprouts appear and grow, remove plastic. Mist daily and keep sprouts warm until you are ready to transplant into your garden.

2. Did Rare Earth ever have a U.S. chart-topper hit?
3. Which artist wrote and released "Ashes to Ashes"?
4. What was the title of Neneh Cherry's first album?

Answers

1. Jack Scott, in 1959. It came out on his 1960 album of the same name and has been covered by numerous others over the years, including Tom Jones, Sonny James and Jim Reeves.
2. No. "Get Ready" in 1970 was closest, hitting No. 4. The song went to No. 1, but that was in Canada.
3. David Bowie, on his "Scary Monsters (and Super Creeps)" album in 1980. The music video came in at No. 44 on the Rolling Stone list of the 100 greatest music videos of all time.
4. "Raw Like Sushi," released in 1989.
5. "In My Room," by the Beach Boys in 1963, released on their "Surfer Girl" album. The song only made it to No. 23 on the Hot 100 chart that year, but ended up in the Grammy Hall of Fame in 1999.

Hit the Road With Baked Mini Knapsack Treats To Make the Miles Fly By

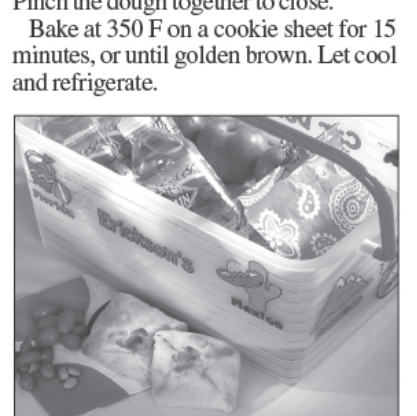

Whether you and your family are off for a day trip or traveling across the country, everyone looks forward to the first car snack when you hit the road. These mini meat-and-cheese melts gathered up in crescent-dough pockets are yummy, and they're easy to make before you go.

When you are ready to leave, pack the cooled "knapsacks" along with small plastic containers or bags filled with bite-sized grape tomatoes, fresh fruit, and trail mix. For a new healthy treat, boil, drain and cool edamame (fresh soybeans). Freeze bottled water (pour some water out first to allow for expansion as it freezes) to keep food fresh and cool until picnic or snack time.

We transport our treats in a plastic tote that we've used for years. The kids can draw symbols and write the names of your favorite destinations with paint pens around the outside.

Here's the kid-friendly knapsack recipe:

- Makes 6 servings
- 1 package prepared crescent dough (in the dairy section of the grocery store)
- 6 mini rounds of Gouda or Edam cheese, red wax removed
- 6 mini slices of Canadian bacon or pepperoni
- Mustard (optional)
- Let your child unroll the dough, pinch together the perforations, and cut it into 6 equal squares. An adult should slice each round of cheese in half. Place meat between the halves to look like a sandwich.
- Place a cheese-and-meat stack in the center of each dough square. Top with mustard if you wish, and draw up the four corners of the dough to form a sack. Pinch the dough together to close.

up. This causes a clot in the aneurysm, which protects the thinned wall from enlarging further and reduces the risk of rupture.

You are quite right that the clot can propagate and break off. A large study showed that this can happen up to 9% of the time, but newer techniques and medications to prevent this complication have the potential to reduce it further.

Your neurosurgeon needs to weigh the risk of a clot or rupture during the procedure against the benefit of preventing a spontaneous rupture of the aneurysm. This takes judgment, and only your doctor can make this call based on the precise characteristics of your aneurysm and your overall medical condition.

I will note that the risk of rupture or a clot breaking off are lower when the aneurysm hasn't ruptured, compared to when the procedure is done as an emergency. You also have to rely on your surgeon to choose the best product for you. Unfortunately, there aren't studies to guide the decision, so it's left to clinical judgment. With my own patients, I defer to the surgeon.

DEAR DR. ROACH: I have never given much thought to the spellings of various medications. Why do some have an uppercase first letter while others do not? Patent versus generic maybe? — C.A.W.

ANSWER: You're right. All medicines have a generic name, which is uncapitalized, as well as a brand name. For example, furosemide's brand name is Lasix. There's also a chemical name, which is usually a mouthful. Manufacturers try to make the brand name memorable ("Lasix" was chosen to remind doctors that it "lasts six" hours), so they will often choose to use the brand name even when a generic substitute is available.

I prefer generic names when prescribing medications and when discussing them with the students and residents I teach, as the generic name often gives clues to the structure and mechanism of the drug.

Dr. Roach regrets that he is unable to answer individual questions, but will incorporate them in the column whenever possible. Readers may email questions to ToYourGoodHealth@med.cornell.edu.

SENIOR NEWS LINE

by Matilda Charles

Social Security to recover overpayments Word is that Social Security is going to “claw back” any overpayment to the tune of 100% of the monthly benefit check until it's all paid back, inciting panic across the land. But it's not necessarily true. That recovery of benefits will only affect overpayments that began on March 27 of this year. Yes, they'll take full payments until that overpayment is repaid. But any overpayments made prior to that date will be made at the rate that was in place before: 10% of the benefit check.

So, if your check is usually $1,000, the amount they'll take out is $100, not your full check. It will be the same if you receive Supplemental Security Income (SSI). They'll take 10%, not the full check.

Not that having any amount deducted will be easy. Before you start to panic that you might get the dreaded “overpayment” letter from Social Security, here are a few facts, courtesy of a report by Social Security's Office of the Inspector General:

Overpayment (and even underpayment) doesn't happen very often, in less than 1% of benefits paid.

There are two main reasons why an error can occur: People report the wrong information about their income or fail to make corrections if there are changes (especially those who are under full retirement age and still working), and there are problems with Social Security's processing, specifically errors made when workers enter the data.

If you receive the overpayment letter, you might be able to waive the recovery of the amount owed, especially if the overpayment was not your fault. Go to the Social Security website and look for SSA form 632 (www.ssa.gov/forms/ssa-632.html). If that doesn't go well, you can appeal by using SSA form 561 (www.ssa.gov/forms/ssa-561.html). You can also try calling them at 800-772-1213. If that doesn't work, look for a Social Security office in your area by going to secure.ssa.gov/ICON/main.jsp and putting in your ZIP code.

HOLLYWOOD by Tony Rizzo

Conan O'Brien will host the next Oscars ceremony in 2026.

Pamela Anderson's mounted one of the greatest comebacks in showbiz history. The "Baywatch" babe, more famous for swimsuits than acting, floored everyone with "The Last Showgirl." She jumped right into the "The Naked Gun" reboot, opposite Liam Neeson, which releases on Aug. 1. Then Anderson popped right into the thriller "Rosebush Pruning," with Elle Fanning and Riley Keough.

She also has the upcoming drama film "Place to Be," co-starring Best Actress Oscar winner Ellen Burstyn ("Alice Doesn't Live Here Anymore") and Adapted Screenplay Oscar winner Taika Waititi ("Jojo Rabbit").

Village Roadshow Pictures, once a very successful production company thanks to "The Matrix" franchise, "Ocean's Eleven," "Joker" and "The Lego Movie," has filed for Chapter 11 bankruptcy because of $223.8 million in asset-backed secured notes and $163 million of senior-secured debt. This was due to the Keanu Reeves starrer "The Matrix Resurrections" (2021), which cost $190 million and only grossed $159 million. As Tom Cruise was the first to say ... "This is a risky business!"

WHITE CHOCOLATE PECAN BROWNIES

INGREDIENTS

- 9 ounces (255 g) white chocolate baking bars, not chips or almond bark, divided
- ½ cup (113 g) salted butter
- 2/3 cup (141 g) lightly packed brown sugar
- 2/3 cup (141 g) granulated sugar
- 3 large eggs
- 2 teaspoons vanilla extract
- 1½ cups (213 g) all-purpose flour
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 1½ cups coarsely chopped pecans, divided

INSTRUCTIONS

Preheat the oven to 325 degrees F. Lightly grease a 9X13-inch baking pan and set aside. Chop the white chocolate into small pieces (about the size of small raisins). Put 6 ounces of the white chocolate (about 1 scant cup, depending on how small the chocolate is chopped - there should be about 1/2 cup remaining to stir into the batter later) in a large bowl with the butter. Microwave for a minute or two (watching closely so it doesn’t burn and stirring every 30 seconds or so) until the mixture is smooth and completely melted. Stir in the brown sugar and granulated sugar and mix well. Add the eggs and vanilla and mix until well combined.

In a separate bowl, whisk together the flour, baking powder and salt. Stir the dry ingredients into the wet ingredients, mixing just briefly. Add 1 cup of the pecans and the remaining white chocolate pieces while there are still lots of flour streaks remaining. Stir until the batter is combined.

Spread the batter evenly in the prepared baking pan. Sprinkle the remaining pecans over the top. Bake for 35-40 minutes until the brownies are set on the sides and in the middle and a toothpick inserted in the center comes out clean or with just a few sticky crumbs.

Let the bars cool completely in the pan. Slice and serve or store covered at room temperature or in the refrigerator. They will stay moist for several days.

NOTES

Chocolate: white chocolate chips do not melt well so don’t use them in this recipe - baking chocolate is what you need (not almond bark). I use the Ghirardelli brand of white chocolate usually found above or nearby the chocolate chips in the baking aisle.

* Got fresh herbs? Try this drying tip/car freshener in one: Lay herbs flat on newspaper in your car. Keep windows closed, and after a nice sunny day, you’ll have a delicious-smelling car and dried herbs to store for later dishes.

* “Raised beds are a nice addition to our garden area, but it seems the gophers liked them too. To combat the problem of the beds being attacked from below, we lined them with chicken wire this time, and everything is going really well so far.” -- J.J. in Illinois

* When starting plants from seeds, you can use an old cupcake pan. Use paper liners or coffee filters to line the cups. Add soil and seeds. Water as necessary. When the seedlings are ready for replanting, simply lift out and break the bottom seal of the paper or filter, and plant as-is in the ground. It’s east to transport them in the pan, and no leaks.

* Two things your garden should have: a rain barrel and a compost pile. Both are relatively easy to set up, and pay big dividends. You can get a book at your local library on how to set up a compost pile. Some cities will give away rain barrels or hold workshops. Find out today!

* “To keep track of what is planted in your garden, you use garden markers. Make your own by writing the type of flower, plant or herb on a brick or large flat stone. Use permanent marker and cover with clear acrylic if you want it to last longer. You can even use both sides for different seasonal items.” -- Z.M. in Georgia
