Statewide think tank visits Berrien Co. to warn of “huge implications” in Ax MI Tax initiative

An initiative to eliminate property taxes in Michigan would result in massive funding shortfalls for local governments and public schools, according to Eric Luper, president of the Citizens Research Council of Michigan (CRC).

Speaking on WSJM's "The Morning Show with Ken & Friends" program, Lupher provided a non-partisan analysis of the "Ax MI Tax" ballot proposal, which seeks to amend the state constitution.

If it makes it to the ballot and is approved by voters, the proposed amendment would abolish all property taxes in Michigan, effective 60 days after the 2026 election. Luper stated this would remove approximately $2.5 billion in annual revenue—roughly a third of all taxes collected in the state.

While the initiative proposes to backfill some of this lost revenue by redirecting a larger portion of state sales tax, as well as a percentage of income tax and marijuana, alcohol, and tobacco taxes to local governments, Lupher's analysis shows it would be far from a dollar-for-dollar replacement.

"When you do the math...it's still a $4 billion result in less taxes to cities, villages, and townships," Lupher said. For counties, he added, the deficit would be an estimated $1.7 billion annually.

Perhaps most critically, the proposal offers “no backfill for schools,” which rely heavily on property taxes.

Lupher acknowledged the sentiment behind the initiative—that “nobody likes to pay taxes”—and the public’s frustration with government services. However, he warned of the drastic consequences.

"Taking away all their money isn't how you fix schools," Luper stated. He emphasized that the changes required to reorganize government funding would be "massive" and could not happen overnight, cautioning that using a constitutional amendment to "just blow everything up and let's see where the dust settles has huge implications."

The initiative also raises concerns about the state's creditworthiness. Lupher noted that a refusal to collect taxes for debt repayment could put Michigan on "the radar of Wall Street" in a negative way and threaten its financial stability.

August Events!

It's hard to believe we are cruising through August as quickly as we have been - slow down 2025! With a handful of events kicking the month off, our entire team is looking forward to enjoying the Berrien County Youth Fair before jumping back into events, networking, and growing the community.

On Thursday, August 7th, we hosted a ribbon cutting with Cornerstone Caregiving, a trusted provider of in-home, non-medical senior care services. The grand opening of their newest location at 2900 S. State Street, Suite 4E, St. Joseph, included an opportunity to meet their staff and learn about the services they offer. Staffed by experienced caregivers offering personalized care plans tailored to the unique needs of seniors, veterans, and individuals requiring Alzheimer's, dementia, respite, hospice, palliative, and hospital recovery support. The company's mission is to help clients maintain independence, dignity, and comfort in their own homes.

Krystyna Watson, Operating Director, has a foundational career as a nurse and has spent the last 10 years assisting clients and families navigate the different levels of care within their communities. Witnessing firsthand the profound positive impact that aging in place can have on seniors, she became passionate about advocating for their freedom and quality of life. Her dedication shines through in every aspect of her leadership: she's committed to helping each client maintain the highest level of independence with compassion in in-home support. You can connect with them directly by visiting their website at cornerstonecaregiving.com/locations/benton-harbor-mi.

Looking past fair week, on August 19th, we're helping to host a community Meet & Greet Open House with Southwest Michigan Dermatology as they welcome board-certified dermatologist Dr. Brittany Valk, D.O. to its St. Joseph office. The event will run from 4:00 PM to 6:00 PM at 2750 Niles Rd., St. Joseph, MI 49085.

Dr. Valk brings years of experience in medical, surgical, and aesthetic dermatology, along with a strong passion for personalized, lifestyle-centered treatment. Her clinical expertise includes skin cancer prevention, acne, psoriasis, surgical skin care, and cosmetic services such as Botox® and dermal fillers—always with a natural aesthetic in mind.

A proud graduate of Michigan State University College of Osteopathic Medicine, Dr. Valk completed her residency at Beaumont Hospital – Farmington Hills, where she served as chief resident. She joins Dr. Jeffrey Globerson and Dr. Ryan Jones, who continue to provide surgical dermatology services during their visits from the Portage office. Outside the clinic, Dr. Valk enjoys spending time on the shores of Lake Michigan with her husband, Dr. Josiah Valk, an orthopedic surgeon joining the local medical community this fall, and their goldendoodle, Finnegan.

How do I know?

Have you ever asked for a sign from God? It is normal for us to want something like this. We ask of those who profess their love to us, “You say that you love me, but how do I know? Show me.” We do this because we want to be certain that they really love us.

Abraham was a man in the Bible who was told many things by God—but they hadn’t happened yet. After years of waiting, Abraham began to wonder if it was all true. So he asked God for a sign. He wanted to be sure that God would come through.

But have you ever asked why we need a sign? Shouldn’t it be enough that someone simply says it? Don’t we trust the person? Perhaps it’s because we’ve been burned in the past. Someone made a promise and didn’t follow through. Someone said they loved you—and then hurt you deeply. Or maybe we’ve placed unrealistic expectations on someone and been disappointed when they couldn’t meet them.

Abraham asked for a sign because he was growing impatient with God. He has his own expectations and timetable. He thought God should have to follow his schedule. But God knew better.

Interestingly, God didn’t give Abraham a sign, not the way we might expect. Instead, he doubled down on his promise. “I will do what I have promised.”

Abraham responded:
“Abram believed in the Lord, and the Lord credited it to him as righteousness.” (Genesis 15:6).
A few years later, God did follow through. That’s one sign that God keeps his word.
Another sign that God gave to show he is true to his word was a cross outside the city of Jerusalem, around 33 CE. Jesus, God’s one and only Son—the Son who he loved—was crucified to show that God truly loves all humanity. Three days later, that same Jesus rose from the dead to prove that sin and death held no power over him, and therefore hold no power over you.

He said he loved us—and he showed it with a real event in history.
So what do we have left to do?
Nothing at all.
Believe in the Lord and he credits righteousness to you.

You and I haven’t kept all our promises either. We’ve said we love and yet shown the opposite. God has always kept his promises—especially the one to forgive and love you. He gives his righteousness—his “rightness”—and credits it to you. Every kept promise, every faithful word, every enduring act of love—it’s all yours in Christ.

You want a sign to know if God is real or if he already loves you? He has made many public signs throughout history. Read about them in the Bible and see for yourself.

Can you think of a time when you doubted God’s promises or timing? What helped you trust him again or what could help you trust him now?

Dear Lord, I have doubts. Help me to believe. You are the one who has kept your word repeatedly. Help me lean on those times to get me through the seasons of uncertainty. Amen.

Corn Sweat Intensifies Southwest Michigan’s Summer Heat

Southwest Michigan’s summer is feeling the weight of an unusual phenomenon: corn sweat. This natural process, driven by the region’s vast cornfields, is amplifying the heat and humidity, creating challenging conditions for communities and agriculture across Berrien, Cass, and Kalamazoo counties.

Corn sweat, scientifically known as evapotranspiration, occurs when corn plants release water vapor into the atmosphere during growth. With over 150,000 acres of corn in southwest Michigan, the collective effect is significant. Each plant can release up to a gallon of water daily, and during peak growing season, this process can increase local humidity by 10-20%. The result is a heavy, oppressive atmosphere that makes summer days feel even hotter. The National Weather Service in Grand Rapids reported heat indexes reaching 105°F in July 2025, with corn sweat contributing to the elevated moisture levels.

This heightened humidity impacts the region’s agricultural backbone. Southwest Michigan’s $1.2 billion corn industry relies on healthy crops, but the moist conditions created by corn sweat foster pests and fungal diseases like gray leaf spot, which thrive in warm, damp environments. Farmers are increasing pesticide applications to protect yields, adding to operational challenges. The intensified humidity also complicates field work, as machinery and laborers contend with the muggy air.

Beyond agriculture, corn sweat affects daily life. Outdoor activities, such as farmers’ markets in St. Joseph and Niles, see reduced attendance as residents avoid the sticky heat. Cooling centers in Dowagiac and South Haven are experiencing higher demand, particularly for vulnerable populations like seniors at risk of heat-related illnesses. Meanwhile, local businesses report a surge in demand for cooling products, with ice cream sales in St. Joseph rising 15% and backyard sprinklers becoming a common sight.

Climate trends are exacerbating corn sweat’s effects. Warmer summers prompt corn plants to transpire more, releasing additional moisture and creating a feedback loop that intensifies humidity. Researchers at Michigan State University note that this cycle highlights the need for adaptive strategies, such as developing heat-resistant crop varieties and expanding community cooling resources to mitigate the impact on public health and comfort.

As southwest Michigan navigates another month of heat, corn sweat remains a defining feature of the region’s summer. While it underscores the area’s agricultural strength, it also challenges residents and farmers to adapt to its humid consequences. From increased pest management to community efforts to stay cool, the region is finding ways to cope with this sticky byproduct of its cornfields, a reminder of the intricate link between nature and daily life in this agricultural heartland.

Initiative leader for Ax MI Tax, Karla Wagner, has posted a number of articles on her website calling for an end to Michigan's property tax, saying, "Any time we pay a government entity to provide a service, the end recipient gets much less than the full amount. Too many hands grab too many of those dollars before it reaches the intended party."

"We must force the government and other entities seeking our dollars to find another source of revenue. AND THEY MUST STOP SPENDING!!! We are being taxed out of our homes and off our property!! We are being forced to close the very businesses that offer us jobs and a living!!!"

The petition organizers are now gathering signatures, hoping for a spot on the 2026 ballot.

New gas station planned near St. Joseph Martin's grocery store

A gas station could be opening next to the Martin's Super Market in St. Joseph Township.

www.MailMaxOnline.com

The township board of trustees on Monday reviewed a site plan for the Martin's Gas Station proposed for 1666 Hilltop Road, the site of a former KFC. Anchor Properties is planning to tear down the KFC building and construct a new 2,600 square foot station with a total of eight fuel pumps across four pumping stations.

Trustees Monday were more concerned about the Berrien County Road Department's management of nearby traffic than anything else. In particular, trustees were concerned about the traffic light at Hilltop and Cleveland backing up vehicles because they said its cycle is too long.

"When we approve this thing, indicate to the -- or at least drop a note or something to the developer and say we're doing this, but we hope that you'll join with us to put some pressure on the powers that be to get the signal straightened out because it's not going to do them any good," one trustee said. "It's going to hurt their business if people can't get in and out of there."

Township Manager Denise Cook said she would contact the Berrien County Road Department about the matter. The department just wrapped up a traffic signal replacement project in the area that should have resolved that long cycle problem by now. Department spokesperson Adri Boone told us Monday the new signals are camera-controlled, so wait times should be reduced.

Either way, township trustees Monday were inclined to approve the site plan for the new gas station. The township building official has reviewed the site plan and determined it meets local rules.

New Benton Township car wash project delayed by road construction

The opening of a new Tommy's Express Car Wash planned for the corner of M-139 and Napier Avenue in Benton Township has been delayed.

The Benton Township Board of Trustees was told on Tuesday the delay is due to construction scheduled on both M-139 and Napier next year.

While the news may disappoint some potential Tommy's customers, Cornerstone Alliance's Greg King told trustees it brings with it another problem. He said Tommy's is asking that a 12-year Commercial Facilities Tax Exemption granted by the township to the business last year be delayed to December of 2026 to reflect the new schedule.

Township Supervisor Cathy Yates told us the upcoming construction would make a smooth opening too difficult for the car wash.

"I'm excited about the car wash and I do know that MDOT is going to be doing some work there," Yates said. "It's major work down on M-139, and that's why the delay."

But Yates said bumping that tax break back isn't a problem and the project remains a win for the township.

"I think it's going to be a great one for the township. I feel our residents will use it because they'll be able to buy monthly passes and go every day and get their car washed if they choose to do so."

Trustees agreed to the delay. They were told because Tommy's operates on a membership basis, it's pretty important for its members to be able to access the business unencumbered. So, the company will just wait out that road construction.

The Commercial Facilities Tax Exemption will give the company a 50% property tax reduction for 12 years once it opens. That'll amount to about $62,000 per year saved on taxes to help it recoup a more than $5 million investment.

Dave Says
Focus on What's Important Now

Dear Dave,

I'm 22, working my way through college and I've already been able to start setting money aside for life after graduation. I had a talk with my parents recently about my plans once I get a real job and get out on my own. They seem to think I'll be okay, but sometimes things can seem so overwhelming. How do people manage and prioritize more adult responsibilities like investing, marriage, having kids and everything else?

Kieran

Dear Kieran,

You're right, it can be overwhelming if you look at all these things as if they have to be done right now. But I'll tell you something you already know: You don't have to do everything right now. It's great to look toward the future, and have a plan, but you're only 22. You've got plenty of time to decide what's important to you. For now, let's just say you've done a great job so far. Take a deep breath and relax. You're way ahead of the game compared to most young people your age, and you should be proud of your accomplishments.

Now, all the things you mentioned are great goals. Some of them are kind of intimidating, but those aren't what you're facing right now. In my mind, finishing college is your number one priority. Then, after you graduate and begin life on your own, you can begin looking at the other things you mentioned—one at a time. Once you find a good job, you can begin setting aside for retirement. If your car is about to roll over and die, that first step may be a better vehicle. If there's a special lady in your life, you might begin focusing on marriage somewhere down the road.

Don't be too intimidated, Kieran. Things are often easier to deal with when you break them down into smaller pieces and address them individually. There's a funny old adage that goes something like this: How do you eat an elephant? One bite at a time. Do you get what I'm saying? Nobody can do four or five big things at once and do them all to the very best of their abilities. Decide what matters most, put it at the top, and list everything else in descending order of importance. Once you've done this, go down the list, focus and knock them out one after the other.

You're a smart and determined young man, who has accomplished a lot already. Something tells me you can do just about anything you set your mind to!

— Dave

What's It All About, Amalfi!

Before we dive into the deets of a day that ended in Pompeii, let me just say it doesn't feel terribly appropriate to try and make light of what happened there on August 24, 79. That's when Mount Vesuvius erupted and, well, you know.

Something I can make light of, which happened the evening before our day that ended in Pompeii, is the White-Hot Glow party aboard the Norwegian Sky, a gathering on the pool deck where everyone was supposed to wear white clothes and gyrate amidst flashing lights and pulsating music.

For this special night, I went all out. I wore my Whitest Hottest outfit, the centerpiece of which was a brand-new, gleaming alabaster-colored guayabera shirt, which reflected approximately 97.9% of the ambient glow. And rather than my usual reluctant dance techniques, I busted out a buncha bodacious and booty-licious boogies.

NONE of which, it turned out, was White or Hot or Glow-y enough to entice my wife to dance. Which was weird, because she's always the one trying to coax ME to dance. Thus, it was an Off-White Not-So-Hot Slow party for me.

The next morning, we set out on a tour that began with a scenic drive along Italy's Amalfi Coast. The journey started with a not-so-scenic drive out of Naples, during which we encountered standstill traffic. Our guide was a vivacious young lady named Selene, who tried keeping us awake during stoppage time with interesting factoids such as:

- Mozzarella cheese is not a cheese. Selene said this most emphatically, with a few extra talking-with-her-hands gestures.

- Mozzarella seems to have been invented in or quite close to Naples, which Selene takes pride in since she is a Neapolitan.

- Yes, I know what you're thinking, and I agree...a sizable serving of Neapolitan ice cream would be just about awesome just about now.

Nearing the city of Sorrento, we began seeing lots and LOTS of lemon trees, mostly in tended orchards, but also just growing hither and thither. And they bore the most JARGANTIC lemons I've ever seen! We got up close and personal with some of them, and with a multitude of products made from them, at a visit to a shop called Limonora in Sorrento. There we sampled six or seven adult beverages made with lemons. Which almost led to an impulse purchase of a pair of lemon-yellow sandals, AND a complementing pair of knee-high socks festooned with lemons (imprinted lemons, that is).

Fortunately, I got talked out of this, because I soon learned about something better I should start saving my money for: Driving along the Amalfi Coast, Selene pointed out a cluster of islets which she says are called the Chicken Islands. (Wikipedia says they're the Siren Islands, "Le Sirenuse," which sounds a little better than the Chickens, I think.)

They're private islands, but one of them has accommodations that can be rented. Selene says celebrities (she specifically mentioned the super-model Naomi Campbell) go there when they need to unwind from, well, I guess from being celebrated. Surprisingly, they go for just 200. That is, $200,000. Per night.

When I take my family there someday, I'll try to make it special somehow. Probably by wearing the new white-hot fashions I'm about to order! Yellow sandals and knee-high socks festooned with lemons!
