Gourd times and fall memories at Boysnberries Farm

A great fall outing is looking at pumpkins and gourds and snapping photos at Boysnberries farm south of Brainerd on St. Mathias Road. Here is a whimsical hut fabricated from a tree stump.

By ANN SCHWARTZ
"Every leaf speaks bliss to me, fluttering from the autumn tree," Emily Bronte.

South of Brainerd, on the St. Mathias Road, is a great spot for a quick pumpkin get-away.

Bob and Caroline Nibbe, a retired engineer and nurse, started raising strawberries and then pumpkins over 20 years ago, to put their boys through college. Thus, Boysnberries was born.

Now, the farm features exquisite fall picture-taking venues, pumpkins, gourds, mums, corn shocks, a store and more.

The "boys" are now aged 25-43, with the youngest just getting engaged. The couple also has five grandchildren.

Changes are coming to the business and the property. The greenhouse part of the business is taken over by Candace and Thomas Zimmerman <https://www.treelineacres.com/> farm at Jim Nibbe, the owner's brother, has the job of replacing the pumpkin products in the outdoor showplace. "I'm not artistic at all, that is Caroline (co-owner). "I just find a spot where a pumpkin was before and set it in there." Jim likes spending his retirement working seasonally for his brother Bob and being outside.

Public invited to weigh in on major power line project at open house

Local voices are being invited to help shape the future of a major power transmission project that could span 160 miles across Minnesota and into North Dakota. On Thursday, October 23, from 12:00 p.m. to 2:00 p.m., community members are encouraged to attend a public open house at The Lodge at Brainerd Lakes, 6967 Lake Forest Road in Baxter, to learn more about the Maple River-Cuyuna (MR-C) Transmission Project.

Hosted by Minnesota Power, Otter Tail Power Company, and Great River Energy, this event is part of a second round of open houses being held across the region to gather public input on preliminary route options for the high-voltage transmission line.

The MR-C Transmission Project proposes a 345-kilovolt (kV), single-circuit transmission line stretching from the Cuyuna Substation near Brainerd, Minnesota, to the Maple River Substation near Fargo, North Dakota. The line would be built on double-circuit-capable structures, designed to bolster regional electric reliability and support growing energy needs.

Back in June 2025, residents, landowners, and stakeholders attended the first round of open houses. Their feedback — ranging from concerns about aesthetics and environmental impact to property rights and cultural preservation — has already influenced key refinements in the project's early planning.

Minnesota Power and its partners have used that input, along with coordination from federal, state, local, and Tribal governments, to narrow down potential routes. Planners prioritized corridors that follow existing transmission lines to reduce land use impacts and better align with community and environmental interests.

Attendees will have the opportunity to:

- Review maps of the newly developed preliminary routes
- Ask questions directly to project team members

Share feedback on how the proposed routes may affect their land, community, or the environment

Organizers stress that public participation is critical to developing a route that reflects local values and minimizes disruption.

"This is your opportunity to get informed and have your voice heard," said a spokesperson for the project. "The more feedback we receive, the better we can balance infrastructure needs with the needs of the communities we serve."

The open house is free and open to all, with no RSVP required.

Youth and antlerless deer seasons

Persistence and patience paid off ending with a perfect shot for this young lady. It was her first deer on last day of youth season. And she is all smiles, as she wanted venison jerky. DNR submitted photo courtesy of Marsha M

As the fall colors peak and temperatures cool just enough to feel like autumn, Minnesota hunters are gearing up for one of the most exciting weekends of the year. From Thursday, Oct. 16, through Sunday, Oct. 19, the woods will once again welcome young hunters and seasoned deer chasers alike for the Statewide Youth Deer Season and Early Antlerless-Only Deer Season.

Youth deer season
For young Minnesotans

aged 10 to 17, this four-day youth season is more than just a chance to harvest a deer — it’s an invitation to learn, grow, and connect with one of the state’s oldest outdoor traditions. The timing couldn’t be better: the season coincides with Minnesota’s statewide teacher workshops and school fall breaks, making it a natural time for families to head to the woods.

Youth hunters must meet all licensing and safety requirements, and an adult must accompany them in the field. Details on these rules and other helpful tips are available on the DNR Youth Deer Season webpage at www.dnr.state.mn.us/hunting/deer/youth.html.

Early antlerless-only season
Alongside the youth season, Minnesota will also host its Early Antlerless-Only Deer Season, giving hunters in select permit areas a chance to help manage deer populations where herd numbers are above target levels.

The same Oct. 16–19 timeframe applies, and hunters heading into designated permit areas — including 213, 214, 215, 218, 219, 221, 222, 223, 225, 227, 229, 236, 240, 277, 341, 601, 605, 642, 643, 645, 646, 647, 648, 649 and 661— are encouraged to review specific guidelines before heading out. Bag limits, blaze orange rules, and land access requirements can vary and are outlined on the DNR Early Antlerless Season webpage.

This season plays a key role in controlling population density, reducing damage to crops and forests, and maintaining a healthy deer herd across the state.

Central Lakes College Clay Target Team ranks among best in the league

The Central Lakes College Clay Target Team is proving that talent and teamwork matter more than numbers. Despite having one of the smallest rosters in their division, the Raiders have an incredible seven shooters ranked in the top 25 across the entire league — out of roughly 260 competitors statewide.

“That’s an amazing accomplishment,” said Head Coach Robb Kolodziej. “When you look at the level of competition in this league, having seven shooters in the top 25 is something really special.”

Even more impressive, three CLC athletes — Benjamin Hagenson, Joseph Kreus-

er and Jacob Williams — are currently tied for second place overall in the league standings. Their consistency and precision have helped lead the Raiders to the top of their division through the first three weeks of competition.

CLC currently holds a slim lead in their division over Alexandria, with North Dakota State College of Science close behind. As the season enters its final two weeks, the team is preparing to shoot their best to maintain that edge before heading to the state shoot later this fall.

What makes this performance even more remarkable is the team’s size. While NDSCS has 47 shooters and Alexandria 31, CLC has just 19 — meaning every shot counts. League scoring is based on each team’s top 13 shooters, similar to how cross-country team scoring works, giving larger teams an inherent advantage. But CLC’s “small but mighty” squad has risen above those odds.

Within the division, CLC athletes continue to dominate the leaderboard, holding the top six men’s spots and leading among female shooters as well, including first, fourth, and fifth place rankings.

The season will wrap up with the state shoot hosted by Alexandria, where each team’s top five shooters’ scores will determine the final results. It’s shaping up to be a thrilling finish — and CLC is ready to prove once again that big things come from small teams.

The CLC Clay Target team uses Lakes Area Shooting Sports and Staples Sportsmen’s Club as home ranges, practicing and competing on

Hank, 3, from Blaine, was with parents and grandma. Grandma was buying pumpkins to paint later. Mama was picking out a wagon full of fall décor: pumpkins, gourds and flowers. And dad was shepherding everyone around the grounds.

10246 County Road 44, Brainerd1. Some version of the Nibbe family will carry on with the pumpkins and related gourds. Bob and Caroline will sell their homeplace and move to a new barnorinium on another part of the property.

“People come from all over,” reported Caroline. “We just had a family from Chicago. Families come back every year and take their photos with our billboard or other spots.”

Cheerful demands could be heard as parents and grandparents arranged for family photos. Pumpkins, babies and toddlers were hauled in wagons as families toddled through the rows, reveling in fall.

Three injured in plane crash near McGregor Airport in Aitkin County

A small aircraft carrying three adults crashed approximately half a mile southeast of the McGregor Airport on the afternoon of Sunday, October 5, after reportedly losing power shortly after takeoff.

According to the Aitkin County Sheriff's Office, emergency the airport. First responders were immediately dispatched to the area and located the downed aircraft in a swampy, wooded area just short of the runway. The aircraft, identified as a Piper PA-28-140, is a single-engine light plane commonly used for flight training and personal use. Initial reports suggest that the plane lost engine power shortly after take-off. The pilot was attempting to return to the airport when the aircraft went down. All three individuals on board sustained injuries, but survived the crash. One occupant was airlifted from the scene for advanced medical treatment, while the other two were transported by ground ambulance to Riverwood Healthcare Center in Aitkin. As of Monday morning, all three were reported to be in stable condition. The passengers have been identified as Kaden Brazinsky, 23, of Ham Lake; Wyatt Sherry, 22, of New Richmond; and Jocelyn Erlandson, 23, also of Ham Lake. Emergency response at the scene involved coordinated efforts from multiple agencies, including McGregor First Responders, McGregor Fire Department, North Memorial Ambulance, Cromwell-Wright Ambulance, the Minnesota State Patrol, and the Aitkin County Sheriff's Office. The National Transportation Safety Board (NTSB) and the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) have been notified of the incident and are expected to conduct an investigation into the cause of the crash. No other injuries or damage to property were reported. Authorities have not yet confirmed who was piloting the aircraft at the time of the incident.
