Ace Hardware targets April opening of Bridgman location

Plans are underway for the addition of an Ace Hardware store in Bridgman.

Speaking on the WSJM Morning Show with Ken Lundberg, Bridgman Chamber and Growth Alliance Director Nancy Kiernan discussed plans for the new hardware store to occupy the former RiteAid drugstore location at Gast & Shawnee Road on Bridgman's East side.

The 10,000 square foot store has been vacant since RiteAid exited Michigan several years ago. Kiernan said it's a great location, but not a lot of businesses are looking for that much space.

She said she's been talking to the Borre family, owners of Ace locations in St. Joseph, Stevensville and Watervliet almost since the day she took the Bridgman development position-- and the discussions paid off.

"I was talking to this operator like day one, so almost two years ago. And the timing's got to be right, and the opportunity's got to be right," Kiernan said.

"They will be expanding their footprint in our area and we're just really grateful to have them. And I will emphasize that my philosophy is we've got to grow our own. And if we've got a good person that's doing good things in our community, let's see if we can help them go to another local community and do the same thing."

Chip Borre, owner of the area's Ace Hardware outlets in St. Joseph, Stevensville and Watervliet tells us he plans to have the new Bridgman location up and running sometime in April.

That's probably sooner than most observers might have expected. However, with the building already being there, in the form of the former Rite Aid drugstore, and configured in an open concept retail manner, Ace apparently can move quickly to ready the space for operation.

Borre commented on the expansion into Bridgman:

"The Bridgman community has long been on our radar. We've heard from many customers who wanted the convenience of a local Ace in this area, and when this location became available, it felt like the perfect opportunity. We are

The Rise of Modulating Furnaces: A Leap in Home Heating Technology

In the realm of home heating systems, modulating furnaces represent a significant advancement, offering precise control over indoor temperatures while prioritizing energy efficiency. These sophisticated units stand out from traditional models by continuously adjusting their output to match the exact heating demands of a space, rather than cycling on and off at full capacity.

At the core of a modulating furnace is a variable-speed blower and a modulating gas valve. When the thermostat signals a need for heat, the system starts at a low output level, often around 40 percent of its maximum capacity. As conditions change—due to outdoor temperature fluctuations or internal heat loss—the furnace ramps up or down in small increments, sometimes as fine as one percent. This dynamic operation ensures consistent warmth without the abrupt temperature swings common in older systems. The blower motor also varies its speed, circulating air more evenly and reducing drafts.

Compared to single-stage furnaces, which operate solely at full blast, or two-stage models that switch between low and high settings, modulating versions provide superior performance. Single-stage units can lead to uneven heating and higher energy bills because they frequently overshoot the desired temperature, then shut off until the space cools significantly. Two-stage furnaces improve on this by offering a middle ground, but they lack the fine-tuned precision of modulation. As a result, modulating furnaces achieve annual fuel utilization efficiency ratings up to 98 percent, far surpassing the 80 to 90 percent typical of standard models.

The benefits extend beyond efficiency. Homeowners experience enhanced comfort through stable temperatures and reduced humidity levels in winter, as the system runs longer at lower speeds. This prolonged operation also filters air more effectively, improving indoor air quality by capturing more dust and allergens. Noise is another advantage; the gradual adjustments minimize the loud startups and shutdowns associated with conventional furnaces, creating a quieter environment. Additionally, the reduced strain on components can extend the system's lifespan, potentially lasting 20 years or more with proper maintenance.

However, these advantages come at a cost. Modulating furnaces typically carry a higher initial price tag, often 20 to 50 percent more than two-stage alternatives, due to their complex electronics and variable components. Installation may require compatible thermostats and ductwork modifications, adding to the expense. Repairs can be pricier too, as specialized parts and technicians are needed for the advanced technology. For smaller homes or milder climates, the energy savings might not offset the upfront investment quickly, making simpler systems more economical in some cases.

Despite these drawbacks, the long-term savings on utility bills make modulating furnaces an appealing choice for those seeking optimal efficiency. Over time, the reduced gas and electricity consumption can recoup the initial outlay, especially in our area with harsh winters. As energy costs continue to rise and environmental concerns grow, these furnaces align with trends toward sustainable living by minimizing fuel waste and carbon emissions.

In essence, modulating furnaces embody the evolution of heating technology, balancing comfort, efficiency, and durability. For homeowners weighing options, understanding these systems can lead to smarter decisions that enhance daily life while curbing energy use.

Putting More “Bleak” in Your Bleak Midwinter

My wife and I are best friends with a couple, Caroline and Charlie, who are originally from Liverpool, England. When we're together, we often chat about differences between the English and Americans.

Recently, we chatted about favorite Christmas carols. I figured if anyone would know a good carol, it would be Caroline. (Carol-ine...get it? Ok, I know that's not really worth a laugh, and no one else thinks so either, although Charlie and Caroline gave it everything they had to muster a couple of polite chuckles.)

Quite to my surprise, Caroline's favorite carol is one I don't think I've ever even heard, and moreover, one with a title that contradicts her sunny disposition: "In the Bleak Midwinter."

"In the Bleak Midwinter" is based on a poem by a woman named Christina Rossetti. Rossetti was born in 1830 in ...London, England. (If you're surprised, thinking her birthplace was probably in Italy, I'm sorry, but that's an infraction, and Farrell and Head say I'm allowed to penalize you to read my last four columns!)

Rossetti's poem became a Christmas carol in 1906, set to a melody by Gustav Holst, the composer best known for a suite of works collectively known as "The Planets." He was born in...Cheltenham, Gloucestershire, England. Ha-ha-ha! ANOTHER trick set-up! And I bet you fell for it! I bet you thought he was born in Sweden or somewhere like that! Penalty on you! – that's four more of my old columns you have to read!

But there's another musical version of "In the Bleak Midwinter" in addition to Holst's, to a tune written by a guy who perhaps had an affinity for bleak subject matter – Harold Darke. Darke's version was in fact, named the best Christmas carol EVER in 2008, in a poll of, and I quote, "some of the world's leading choirmasters and choral experts."

(For this accolade, my No. 3 son thinks Darke should be posthumously knighted. Not because he's a big Harold Darke fan, but because he's a big fan of all "Batman" movies, and he thinks it would be cool for there to be an actual "Darke Knight.")

Darke's carol was originally published by a music firm in London called Stainer and Bell. Stainer and Bell were each born in...ha-ha-ha! Yet ANOTHER trick set-up – they were never born at all!

According to the official Stainer and Bell website, the story goes like this: "There was neither a Mr. Stainer nor a Mr. Bell. The firm's six original partners chose the name because it had a creditworthy ring to it." I can't explain why, but I love that. It's so British isn't it? "Stainer and Bell" – not real people! For me, this brings to mind the legendary "Monty Python." Which I often had to explain to my dad was not a real person.

So, it's time to close, and as you face the bleak midwinter penalty of reading more of my columns, I want you to keep in mind a quote attributed to Gustav Holst, and quite applicable to my writing: "If a thing is worth doing at all, it is worth doing badly."

Have a Blessed Day!

Blessed. What does it mean to be blessed? To be blessed is to have some gift from God, some ability, some good from him.

The first Psalm shows what a blessed person looks like. “How blessed is the man who does not walk in the advice of the wicked, who does not stand on the path with sinners, and who does not sit in a meeting with mockers. But his delight is in the teaching of the Lord, and on his teaching he meditates day and night. He is like a tree planted beside streams of water, which yields its fruit in season, and its leaves do not wither. Everything he does prospers.” (Psalm 1:1-3).

Where do we walk, stand, and sit? There are many voices that would like you to listen as you walk along, stand for a while and ponder, or sit and dwell with them. They aren't voices that will help you or bless you. Run from those voices of the world, the devil and his temptations, and your sinful nature.

Delight in God's word. Run to it, sit with it, and learn what your God has to say to you—his law, his good news of a Savior, his plan to bless your life.

Set aside time during this December as you prepare for Christmas for reading your Bible. Pick a time when you are at your best so you can sit and take it in. Possibly take notes during a sermon on Sunday. Bring your own Bible to a Bible study and write in the margin what you learn.

God used the picture of a tree vibrant and healthy that bears fruit, withstands storms, and draws strength from the stream of water. God pictures you as a tree as you are in his Word. You are blessed.

What blessings can you see coming if you were to spend regular time hearing from God in his word, the Bible?

Prayer: Dear Lord, you call me blessed. You deepen my blessings through your word. Keep me grounded and sink those roots deeply into your truth so I can stand firm in your blessing. Amen.

Berrien County selling 36 acres of property in Three Oaks

Thirty-six acres of property in the village of Three Oaks that have been caught in limbo for over a decade, are being sold by Berrien County to create a new housing development.

The board of commissioners has authorized the sale of the Schwark Drainage District property, at 6974 US-12, to Green Development Ventures for $305,000.

Berrien County Administrator Brian Dissette tells us Green, which constructs homes under the name Allen Edwin Homes, has been behind several residential developments in the county. That's what they have in mind for the Schwark property.

www.MailMaxOnline.com

"In approving the buy-sell agreement, we cannot guarantee that the developer will proceed with the housing plan," Dissette said. "However, I think it's a safe bet to say that there is a high probability that that is what will occur."

Dissette says the county commission in 2024 authorized the purchase of the Schwark property, the site of a failed residential development back in the 2000s. The county drain commissioner had borrowed money to improve the land, but the treasurer later foreclosed on the developer for unpaid property taxes, leaving the county with $551,000 in debt. The county paid that off and has been trying to sell the land since and recoup the money.

Dissette says the $305,000 sale price should pay off the bulk of that debt.

Green Development's plan to turn the Schwark property into homes has the support of the Three Oaks Village Council. Dissette says a brownfield capture will be used to help complete the housing development.

'Memory Cafes' being planned by Area Agency on Aging

The Region IV Area Agency on Aging is launching a new program for those living with dementia and their caregivers in 2026.

Area Agency Campus for Creative Aging coordinator Jess Kolbe tells us Memory Cafes will be held throughout the year in New Buffalo, Niles, and Stevensville. They'll be a place for those with dementia and their caregivers to engage in art, enjoy games and puzzles, and learn about interesting topics in a safe and welcoming environment.

"Together at these Memory Cafes, the person that may be living with dementia or other cognitive changes comes with their caregiver and we give them a space to build social connection and friendships and help kind of destigmatize living with dementia," Kolbe said.

Kolbe says there are more than 12,000 people currently estimated to be living with Alzheimer's disease or related dementia in Southwest Michigan. As the dementia-friendly community has grown, the Area Agency on Aging has seen a need to help those affected interact.

The Cafés are scheduled for:

- 9:30-11:30 a.m., first Tuesday of the Month at the New Buffalo Township Library
- 9:30-11:30 a.m., second Thursday of the Month at the Niles District Library

- 1:00-3:00 p.m., third Monday of the Month (2nd Monday in January and February due to holidays), at the Lincoln Township Public Library in Stevensville

Huizenga welcomes funding for SMRs at Palisades

Congressman Bill Huizenga says the $410 million recently awarded by the federal government to Holtec to establish two small modular reactors at the Palisades Nuclear Power Plant is a continuation of years of bipartisan work to reinvest in the facility.

Huizenga says Michigan will be a leader in the new SMR technology, and Palisades is the perfect place to get started.

"These are much smaller footprint nuclear reactors that are able to be, in a way, prefabricated prior to getting to the site," Huizenga said. "But what makes sense about this and having it at the Palisades site is there's the infrastructure that's already there."

Huizenga called the Palisades project a proof of concept for next-generation nuclear power and said it shows federal support for an "all of the above" energy strategy.

With the $400 million now coming, Holtec says it hopes to have its small modular reactors online in the early 2030s.

2nd Annual HYPE Winners!

On November 19th Southwest Michigan's brightest entrepreneurial talent gathered at the Watermark Solarium for the second annual HYPE – Highlighting Young Professional Excellence pitch competition. Hosted by the Southwest Michigan Regional Chamber Foundation in partnership with the Emerge Innovation Hub. This dynamic event provided a unique platform for aspiring entrepreneurs to present their ideas and compete for meaningful cash prizes and in-kind support to grow their businesses.

The evening began with an engaging panel discussion featuring successful young entrepreneurs, including Danielle Grandholm (Rising Kites & Rising Kites Coffee), Michael Rowland (Michigan Gateway Community Foundation), Dustin Jankoviak (2nd & Main), and Vanessa Frias (Willowbrook Farms). These panelists shared their entrepreneurial journeys, offered valuable insights, and later served as judges for the pitch competition.

The competition itself featured seven contestants, with awards going to the top three, plus a special Crowd Favorite Award chosen by live audience voting. The winners were:

1st Place: Bare Naked Salts & Soaps, Alexandra Ranft, Niles - She launched the business in 2022 after her son suffered from severe dermatitis due to commercial baby products. Motivated to find a better solution, Alex crafted a line of soothing, all-natural skincare products. Today, Bare Naked offers a line of all-natural and mineral-based essentials – including magnesium butter, soaking salts, and aloe bar soaps – all designed to be gentle, healing, and safe for sensitive skin.

2nd Place: Hello Beautiful Fashion Boutique, Kenyona Speight, Benton Harbor - Hello Beautiful started in 2020 as a small, family home-based jewelry business. Today, Hello Beautiful has its own storefront located at 170 E Wall Street downtown Benton Harbor and sells everything from men and women's clothing, jewelry, shoes, purses, and accessories. And yes, they are plus size inclusive!

3rd Place: Bake Effect, Emily Onken, St. Joseph - Emily launched her first home baking business in 2019, leveraging many years of baking and restaurant experience as well as a background in events and communications. While relocating from Texas to Michigan, Emily discovered she had a contact allergy to wheat flour and was faced with the choice: Either stop baking entirely, or pivot to a new way of creating. In 2021, she started from scratch as Bake Effect, offering "gourmet treats made without wheat."

Crowd Favorite: Base Bowls & Company, Stephanie Ott-Williams, St. Joseph - On a mission to redefine healthy eating with a balance of hearty, delicious meals and a commitment to fresh ingredients, her restaurant has won "Best New Business," "Best Catering," "Best Takeout," and she has been recognized as a winner of "40 Under 40" and "Bold Women in Business." Driven by her extensive experience in hospitality, including time spent working as the executive suite manager for the Miami Dolphins, Stephanie has cultivated a space that nourishes both the body and the community. Notably, Base Bowls serves as the main food provider for the Saint Joseph Senior Center, impacting over 4,000 members annually.

Additional contestants included Final Brush, LLC of Buchanan, OH Art, LLC of Benton Harbor, and Rite Innovations of Benton Harbor.

All told, the event awarded over $65,000 in combined cash prizes and additional opportunities, made possible by the generous support of Pinnacle Sponsors Frederick S.

Dave Says
Talked About, Dealt With,
Agreed Upon

Dear Dave,
My girlfriend and I dated exclusively for three years before I asked her to marry me. Before that, we were great friends for almost 10 years. It seems like we know everything there is to know about each other. In our situation, would you still recommend pre-marital counseling before the wedding?
Grant
Dear Grant,
I'm a big believer in pre-marital counseling, no matter how long a couple has been dating or how long they've known each other. In my mind, in-depth, detailed pre-marital counseling is an absolute must. I mean, you wouldn't try to run a marathon without adequate preparation, right? So, why on earth would you promise yourself to someone else in something that's supposed to last a lifetime without properly preparing yourself?
Please understand, when I say pre-marital counseling, I'm not talking about one hour-long meeting, shaking hands with the preacher and everything's good to go. I mean getting into the important parts of life that every couple should agree on. It's been my experience that most couples stand a really good chance of having a successful marriage when they agree in detail on four things ahead of time. I'm talking about money, kids, religion and in-laws.

When it comes to money, find out who's the spender and who's the saver. Be honest, no matter how embarrassing everything may be, and construct a game plan for your finances you both agree on that includes living on a written, monthly budget. With kids, the big question is do you want them or not? If so, how many? When? Are you on the same page when it comes to teaching them and applying discipline?
Next, be in agreement on religion. Statistically speaking, two people from the same faith have a much better chance of making a marriage work. And finally, when it comes to your future in-laws, you both need to know what you're getting into. What are they really like—the good and the bad—and where are the boundaries when it comes to their influence in your lives?
Grant, everyone has a past. And we all have opinions. But to have the best chance at a long, strong and happy marriage, these issues should be talked about, dealt with and agreed upon before you're pronounced husband and wife.
