SPRING AHEAD NOW

Typically the Spring market starts the selling season. So when does that happen. This year the Spring market started in January, what does this mean. The buyers have taken off quick. They are looking for houses and guess what, the inventory is low and they cannot find the perfect house. When the inventory is low the prices start to creep up. The supply and demand changes and the market changes to a sellers market.

We are now seeing houses selling within 48 hours, multiple offers, some selling over asking price. What a time to be on the market. This doesn't mean you can put your house on the market at any price. It means you go on the market, price it right, have it pristine and you should see great results.

If you have any questions about the current market and what is trending, please give me a call and I will update you.
