Sawmill Square Mall to celebrate 35 years

By Ryan Griffin

One of Laurel's cornerstones, The Sawmill Square Mall, will celebrate its 35th year in July.

Sawmill Square, which opened on July 1, 1981, and hosts Laurel's annual firework show, will have some added entertainment this year to celebrate the milestone. Mall manger, Bill McMullan, explained this year's Independence Day firework celebration will be held Saturday, July 2.

"We will have two bands this year prior to the fireworks, 84 West and Paul Johnson," McMullan said.

McMullan said the bands will perform inside the mall leading up to the firework show that starts at 9:15 p.m. He explained that these events will be fun for the whole family.

McMullan also added that the health of Sawmill Square Mall was strong.

"We are at 96 percent occupancy, with a good mix of local and national retail," McMullan said. "We have had our ups and downs over the past 35 years, but we are on a good trajectory right now. The people of Laurel and Jones County have been loyal to us."

Marcus Buring, Director of Operations for SizelerCompanies, Sawmill Square Mall's parent company, added to McMullan's comments.

"To be anywhere 35 years is incredible, we couldn't have done it without support of the local community," Buring said. "There is something very special in Laurel, a very close sense of community. Bill and I are very proud to be a part of this dynamic and grateful to the community that supports us."

We are very much looking forward to the next 35 years, he continued.

Buring said they were excited about the plans for the anniversary celebration as well as the future plans for improvements in the mall.

This year's firework show is sponsored by: Sawmill Square Mall, SUEZ, Jones County EDA/ Chamber of Commerce, Jones County Board of Supervisors, Laurel Ford Lincoln, McDonald's, Kim's Chrysler,Dodge,Jeep, Toyota, Rapid Express, West Quality Foods, Hell Fighters Motorcycle Shop, Howard Technology Solutions.

Southeast Public Health District VIII to hold special walk-in immunization clinics

Submitted

The Mississippi State Department of Health (MSDH) Southeast Public Health District VIII will hold special childhood and adolescent walk-in immunization clinics for school registration on selected days in July. During these clinics, health department staff will focus solely on providing childhood and adolescent immunizations so that parents can complete the process quickly and efficiently. No appointment is necessary; all parents that sign in that day will receive service. Parents should bring a copy of their child's immunization record. If parents do not attend one of the designated clinics listed below, immunization services at local health departments are also available by appointment. Due to limited staffing, parents are encouraged to attend one of the clinics below in time for school entry. The clinics are open from 8:00 a.m. until 4:30 p.m.

*Wayne County (1100-A Cedar Street, Waynesboro) – July 11, 15, 25, 29.

Required vaccinations for children entering school in Mississippi for the first time include: diphtheria, tetanus and pertussis (DTaP); polio (IPV); hepatitis B; measles, mumps and rubella (MMR); and varicella (chickenpox). There is also a requirement for children entering seventh grade to receive the Tdap (tetanus, diphtheria and pertussis) vaccination. In addition, human papillomavirus vaccine (HPV) and a meningococcal vaccine (MCV4) are recommended for adolescents 11 to 15 years of age, and a meningococcal vaccine (MCV4) is recommended at age 16 to 18 years.

Parents must provide the school with a Certificate of Immunization Compliance (Form 121) from their local health department or physician prior to school entry. You may check with your physician or county health department if you have questions about which immunizations your child will need. Those 18 and under who are eligible for the Vaccines for Children program can receive vaccinations for $10 each. The MSDH accepts Medicaid, Medicare, CHIP and the State and School Employees' Health Insurance Plan (AHS) as well as most private insurance plans that cover childhood vaccines.

For more information on immunization requirements or medical exemptions for school entry, visit www.HealthyMS.com/immunizations. Follow MSDH by e-mail and social media at HealthyMS.com/connect.

July fundraisers set for Stacy Thrash

Submitted

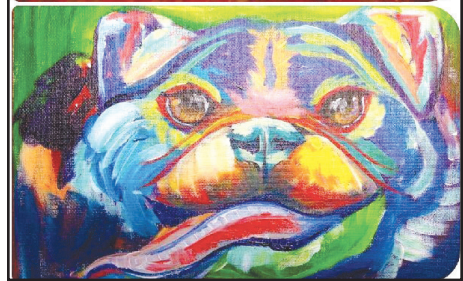

Stacy Thrash of Laurel is battling Stage 3 Invasive Ductal Carcinoma breast cancer without insurance. This 32-year-old married mother of two will have a double mastectomy, lymph node removal and radiation in August. To help with the cost of medical procedures, there are several upcoming fundraisers.

Mill Creek Church will have a pulled pork plate benefit on her behalf July 22. All orders must be placed by July 10 and plates will be available for pickup and delivery (with a five plate minimum). Tickets can be purchased from the Thrash family, the church and at Southern Cross Animal Rescue. Mill Creek Church is located in Laurel and can be contacted at 601-426-6993.

A second fundraiser will be a painting class by Anderson Studio held Saturday, July 30, also at the Mill Creek Church location. Tickets are $20 each and will include an 11 x 13 canvas painting of either a dog or cat. For more information, contact the studio at 601-498-6905.

In addition, Holly Beckham at Skin Deep Tattoo Studio will donate 50 percent of all proceeds from any cancer awareness tattoos done in July to Thrash's bills. For more information, contact Beckham at 601-651-2473.

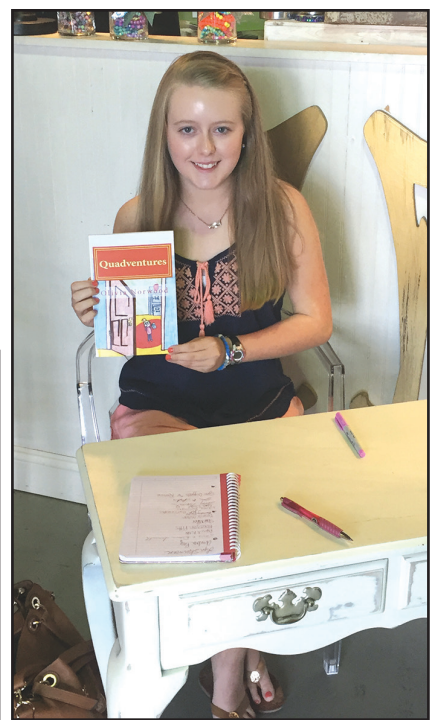

For those who would like to make a donation, a gofundme account has been set up at <https://www.gofundme.com/7dqzsvrc>. To contact Thrash directly, call her at 228-697-3270.

These are samples of what the paintings would look like at the event scheduled for July 30.

Safety tip for grilling outdoors

Submitted

Millions of grilling enthusiasts take to their backyards each year to cook delicious foods over an open flame. Grilling is embedded in the history of many cultures, and to this day many people feel nothing beats the savory flavor characteristic of grilled meats, poultry, seafood, and vegetables.

Although many people safely enjoy outdoor barbecues every day, accidents can happen. According to the U.S. Fire Administration, roughly 6,000 grill fires take place on residential property every year in the United States alone. Many grilling accidents can be prevented with some safety precautions and a little common sense.

When grilling, place the grill in a safe location. Grills should be at least 10 feet away from the house when they are in use. Also, keep the grill away from wooden overhangs or other structures attached to the house, such as garages and porches.

Before using a gas grill, inspect it to make sure there are no gas leaks. Ensure hoses are properly connected and that the grill looks in good repair.

Use propane and charcoal grills outdoors only. Never bring such grills into your house, even if it seems like there is ample ventilation. Potentially fatal carbon monoxide can build up quickly.

Keep children and pets away from the grill area. Grills can be knocked over easily, and kids and pets may burn themselves if they bump into a hot grill.

Clean the grill regularly. Grease and fat buildup forms in the tray below the grill and can be quite flammable. By brushing off the grates after each use and periodically removing food and grease buildup, you can prevent flare-ups that may ignite the grill.

Always tend the grill while cooking. Walking away for even a minute may lead to accidents.

Store unused propane tanks upright at all times to prevent leakage. Keep them outdoors and beyond the reach of children. Never smoke near propane cylinders and never move a lit grill.

Keep a fire extinguisher handy in the event of a flare-up. A hose may not prove effective on a grease fire.

It's also important to emphasize food safety when grilling. Invest in a food thermometer so you can test the internal temperature of foods and prevent foodborne illnesses.

Grilling is a great and flavorful way to cook. But safety must remain a priority when grilling.

Graduate students receive Mississippi Professional Educators scholarships

Submitted
 Seven William Carey University graduate students have received scholarships from the Mississippi Professional Educators (MPE). The organization awards scholarships each year to MPE members who wish to pursue graduate or advanced studies at a college or university in Mississippi. "These scholarships enable our members to improve their practice, which benefits not only our members, but their students, as well," said Kelly Riley, MPE executive director. "Our scholarships are one of several ways we support our members' continued growth as both professionals and lifelong learners. I love calling our members to share that they have been awarded a scholarship, as the excitement in their voices is so refreshing and encouraging!"

Christy Lewis was one of the WCU students selected to receive a $1,000 graduate scholarship this year. She is an elementary school science and math teacher and is pursuing a Specialist Degree in educational leadership. "There are not many scholarship opportunities available for graduate students, so I was very encouraged that MPE supports educators in this capacity as we continue our educational studies," she said. "This is just one of the many ways that MPE helps meet the needs of educators across our state."

Scholarship recipient Terri Thornton is an assistant principal at Madison Crossing Elementary School. She said William Carey University and Mississippi Professional Educators helped her reach one of her life goals. "My belief is that as long as you are living, you must keep learning. WCU has allowed me to further my education in spite of my busy schedule. By being awarded one of the MPE graduate scholarships, I was able to take an additional course this summer. It is because of great universities such as WCU and organizations like MPE that allow many individuals to become life-long learners."

According to MPE, 29 members applied for graduate scholarships. Ten scholarships were awarded, with two awarded to the highest ranked applicants from each of Mississippi's four congressional districts, as well as two scholarships to the highest ranked applicants in the remaining pool of applications (the state at large).

Dr. Ben Burnett, dean of the WCU

School of Education, said the university appreciates the support and professional resources MPE provides students and graduates. "With very little assistance for graduate course work available, we are happy that our graduate students have this opportunity to apply for financial help to further their education. We are also very proud that WCU is represented with such a large number of recipients."

- The 2016 scholarship recipients are:
- *Meghan Cates, an assistant principal at Mooreville Elementary School. She attends William Carey University and resides in Mooreville.
 - *Penny Hill, a director of curriculum and personnel in the Louisville Municipal School District. She attends Mississippi State University and resides in Louisville.
 - *Christy Lewis, a fourth-grade math and science teacher at Pearl Upper Elementary. She attends William Carey University and resides in Brandon.
 - *Kristi McMillan, a fifth-grade math teacher at Pearl Upper Elementary. She attends William Carey University and resides in Pearl.
 - *Katie Moore, a special education teacher at Greene County High School.

She attends William Carey University and resides in Leakesville.

*Leigh Anne Newton, a chief academic officer in Lee County Schools. She attends the University of Mississippi and resides in Guntown.

*Jeannie Pruitt, an English and language arts teacher at Waynesboro Middle School. She attends William Carey University and resides in Waynesboro.

*Stephanie Querns, a student services specialist at Oak Grove High School. She attends the University of Southern Mississippi and resides in Hattiesburg.

*Allison Sabbatini, a third-grade math, science, and social studies teacher at South Jones Elementary School. She attends William Carey University and resides in Laurel.

*Terri Thornton, an assistant principal at Madison Crossing Elementary School. She attends William Carey University and resides in Canton.

It's a page turner

By Ronda Addy

Want to get your kids' heads way from the video game and computer screens this summer? Take them to the library and help them find some books. There are many great children's books available, some of which are Newbery and Caldecott Medal winners.

In 1921, Frederic G. Melcher came up with the idea of presenting an award for the most distinguished children's book. Backed by children's librarians, the American Library Association's Executive Board approved the proposal for the award in 1922 and the Newbery Medal was born. The award was named after 18th-century English bookseller John Newbery and was first given for The Story of Mankind by Hendrik Willem van Loon in 1922.

Concerned that the artists creating children's picture books weren't getting the awarded to the most distinguished picture book of the year. The medal was named after 19th-century English illustrator Randolph J. Caldecott and was first given for Animals of the Bible, A Picture Book, illustrated by Dorothy P. Lathrop with text selected by Helen Dean Fish in 1938. There have been many other Newbery and Caldecott Medal winners. Some of these include the following.

Sarah, Plain and Tall by Patricia MacLachlan won the Newbery Medal in 1986. The book deals with loss, love and abandonment, as Sarah from Maine answers an ad placed by a widowed midwestern farmer with two children. The children become attached to Sarah and fear she is leaving them when she goes to town. Sarah is not and returns home with colored pencils to show the children how beautiful Maine is.

Maniac Magic by Jerry Spinelli won the Newbery Medal in 1991. The book tells the story of a boy named Jeffery Lionel "Maniac" Magee in folk tale form. Magee can outrun dogs, tie a knot that can't be untied and hit a home run off the best pitcher in the neighborhood. In addition to doing all of this, Magee confronts the issue of racism in his small town of Two Mills, while trying to find a home where none exists and soothing tensions between rival factions from the rough side of town.

Out of the Dust by Karen Hesse won the Newbery Medal in 1998. The book tells the story of an Oklahoma girl in stanza form, as she battles the heat, dust and wind during the Great Depression.

The Higher Power of Lucky by Susan Patron won the Newbery Medal in 2007. The book tells the story of Lucky, a 10-year-old girl who lives with her dog and her French guardian in Hard Pan, CA, a town of 43. Lucky eavesdrops on various 12-step meetings in Hard Pan in the hopes of finding something to help her through her difficulties.

The Fool of the World and the Flying Ship illustrated by Uri Shulevitz and written by Arthut Ransome won the Caldecott Medal in 1969. The book is based on Russian folklore and tells the story of the third son, who thanks to magical powers granted to him by the Listener, Swift-goer and Drinker, performs tasks the Czar has given him and wins the princess.

The Funny Little Woman illustrated by Blair Lent and written by Arlene Mosel won the Caldecott Medal in 1973. The book tells the story of a little woman who is captured by wicked creatures while chasing a dumpling. The way she escapes gives her the means of becoming the richest woman in Japan.

Song and Dance Man illustrated by Stephen Gammel and written by Karen Ackerman won the Caldecott Medal in 1989. The book tells the story of a grandfather, once a vaudeville song and dance man, who receives a visit from his three grandchildren. In the attic, the children find an old trunk and Grandpa proceeds to put on show for them, revising his old act.

Kitten's First Full Moon by Kevin Henkes won the Caldecott Medal in 2005. The book tells the story of Kitten who thinks the full moon is a bowl of milk and proceeds to try to lick it, but instead gets a bug on her tongue and falls down the stairs while trying to catch it.

This is just a tiny representation of the outstanding books that have received the awards each year. In addition to the main awards, there are runners-up or "honor books," as they are referred to now. For a complete list, check out the awards' Web sites.

Visit the local Farmers' Markets this week for fresh produce

By Kay Scarborough

Take time to check out the local Farmers' Markets this week. In Ellisville it is on Tuesday from 4-6 p.m. and located at Community Bank Park right in town. Laurel Farmers' Market is Thursday from 4-6 p.m.; you will find it by the downtown library; you can also visit Laurel Nursery's booth there. I really enjoyed visiting the Farmers' Market in Ellisville this week. I gave away white Hawaiian ginger that we recently divided and brought home raisin bread and pepper jelly. (Two things I'm too lazy to make myself). There were lots of great looking vegetables for sale.

All the rain and moderate temperatures we enjoyed this spring have created a jungle in our yard. All the evergreens have outgrown their boundaries. Against my own advice, we cut back azaleas this weekend. (They should be pruned right after blooming in the spring.) But they overwhelmed everything else in the large bed where they are located. We will probably see fewer blooms next year, but the flower bed looks so much better, like a long overdue haircut.

We also pruned branches on several oak and river birch trees. Even I had to dodge overhanging branches. Prune your blueberries and blackberries when they have finished bearing. Harvested the elephant garlic this morning - the large pods are milder than smaller varieties. They are in a mesh bag in a shady spot to dry out some. We plant garlic next to the blueberries; they occupy very little space.

My containers are looking kind of pitiful right now. This might be a good time to check out the rescue rack at local garden centers for "left-overs," those forlorn plants that are overgrown and half dead. Many retailers mark these way down to clear the shelves. Don't be afraid to ask for a great price for the "poor nearly dead things."

When you get it home, remove the plant from its pot and use a knife to cut a big "X" several inches into the bottom of the root mass (be careful not to cut yourself; oops, forgot that we're all adults here). Spread out the flaps you just created and plant in the garden or a nice pot. Cut the top of your plant back by about one-third and water in a handful of slow release fertilizer to give it a boost. In just a short time, you should have a healthy, "new" plant. I recommend a local product that is a byproduct of chicken farms.

Wishing for a beautiful, lush, hanging basket? Compare prices on different-size plants. It may be cheaper to buy several small plants and combine them yourself rather than pay for one large plant. If your container plants are not thriving in the hot sun, try moving them around, they will let you know when they're happy.

You can make your own potting mix for containers. Felder Rushing recommends cheap potting soil and finely ground pine bark mulch, in equal parts. That's all; it doesn't get any easier . . . just mix up a batch and store in bags or I use a "rubber" container with a lid to keep critters out.

If slugs are a problem, place beer-filled plastic tubs or saucers in the garden, set level with the soil, to lure slugs to a drunken death. This works, but I use only old, stale beer.

Mow your lawn when it needs it, not necessarily on a set schedule. Grass thickens and provides better coverage when regularly cut at the proper height. Adjust your lawn mower blades to cut the grass at 2 or 3 inches rather than at 1 1/2 inches.

Unless you're working your way through knee-high grass, don't remove grass clippings from the lawn. Leave them where they fall - free fertilizer.

The temperature is all the way down to 85 degrees, think I'll go relax in the hammock with a cool drink!

Pete Rose says Taylorsville's Hamilton is fastest player he's ever seen

By Dale McKee

He has been called the best basketball player on the planet. If you ever doubted that LeBron James deserves that tag, think for a moment. Over the seven-game NBA championship series against Golden State, James averaged 29.7 points, 11.3 rebounds, and 8.9 assists and shot 53.3 percent. Cleveland is just the fourth team in NBA history to win game seven of the NBA Finals on the road and the first to overcome a 3-1 series deficit in the finals. The win also ended a 52-year major sports championship drought for the city of Cleveland. The last time a Cleveland sports team won a championship was back in 1964 when the Browns won the NFL title. Now that Cleveland has won their title, what city has the longest drought between championships? San Diego is the winner. The Chargers won the AFC title way back in 1963.

host to Alabama State on Sept. 10 and Arkansas Pine Bluff on Sept. 15 on the ESPN network. The Arkansas contest on October 1 will be on the SEC Network, while the final TV game on Nov. 5 against Prairie View will be back on ESPN. Other possible Alcorn TV dates are the SWC championship game on ESPNU on December 5 and the AFR Celebration Bowl in Atlanta on ABC on December 17.

College Baseball News

“Surprise! Surprise! Surprise!” As Gomer Pyle would say. Can you believe that Coastal Carolina and Arizona are playing this week for the College World Series title Mississippi State baseball player Reid Humphreys has inked a pro baseball contract with the Colorado Rockies. He was a seventh round draft choice of the Rockies and the 200th overall pick in this year’s amateur baseball draft. His signing contract was for $227,400. Humphreys has Jones County roots and is the brother of Tyler Moore, who is currently playing in the Atlanta Braves organization.

Canadian Football League has Mississippi flavor

Eight players with ties to Mississippi are on Canadian rosters for the 2016 football season. Former Ole Miss quarterback and coach Kent Austin has two Rebel greats from the past in quarterback Jeremiah Masoli and defensive tackle Ted Laurent. Masoli enters the season as the starter. Runningback Tory Harrison of Calgary played at USM. Saskatchewan lists former MSU defensive back Justin Cox and former Mississippi Valley O-Linemen Thaddeus Coleman on their rosters. Edmonton shows Alcorn State’s C.J. Morgan and Jackson’s State Marcell Young. Both Morgan and Young are defensive backs. Alcorn State’s wide receiver Emmanuel Arceneaux is playing with the B.C. Lions. Several CFL games will be shown on the ESPN networks this summer.

Alcorn to be on tube

Alcorn State football is scheduled for several national TV dates this fall. The Braves will begin the season in Daytona Beach against Bethune-Cookman at noon on Sept. 4 on ESPN. The Braves also play

One of the most popular former USM baseball assistant coaches, Lane Burroughs, has been named the head baseball coach at Louisiana Tech. Burroughs led the Northwestern State baseball program the past four years. His first hire was former JCJC pitching coach Chris Ostrander.

Major League Baseball

In Major League Baseball the Cincinnati Reds hosted Pete Rose Weekend. The Reds honored Pete with induction into the Reds’ Hall of Fame on Saturday and then on Sunday retired his number 14 jersey. Last Friday night, the Reds honored one of the greatest baseball teams ever in the 1976 Big Red Machine led by the likes of Pete, Joe Morgan, and Johnny Bench. The bad was the Reds could only muster one win in a four-game set with the last place San Diego Padres. Former Ole Miss pitcher Drew Pomeranz did about everything in a 3-0 Padre win on Saturday. Drew threw seven innings in gaining the win and also homered and drove in another run with a single. Pomeranz is now 7-7, and his 2.76 ERA is one of the best in the National League. Rose spoke on camera about the speed of Taylorsville’s Billy Hamilton. He stated to the media that Billy was the fastest player he has ever seen.

Happy Father’s Day

Former Vanderbilt head basketball coach Kevin Stallings had a very special Father’s Day. Stallings, who now coaches at Pittsburgh, received a phone call from his son last Saturday night. The son Jacob asked him if he could meet him in Chicago the next day. Coach Stallings flew and even had time to pick up his son at the airport and escort him to Wrigley Field. Young Stallings, a 26-year-old catcher in the Pirates’ farm system, was making his major league debut.

On the other hand, Johnny Manziel’s dad may have had a less than happy Father’s Day. He said jail might be the best place for his son. In an ESPN statement the elder Manziel said his son is a “drug-gie” and pled for his son to come to his senses and get meaningful help.

Submitted

Courtney Jackson, Lily Ready and Audrey Wohlscheid, current 8th graders at Stringer Attendance Center, have been selected to attend the Lott Leadership Institute for rising ninth graders at the University of Mississippi. The Lott Leadership Institute for rising ninth graders is a program designed to develop critical thinking and leadership skills in soon-to-be high school freshmen. Its aim is to cultivate and inspire honest, compassionate, and responsive leaders who will focus on responsibility and stewardship. The overall goal being that students who complete the program will return to their high schools and put the new skills to work for the betterment of the community.

The 48 students accepted students are selected from thousands of applications from all over the state of Mississippi. They are given a residential college experience on the Ole Miss campus, earn high school credit, study public policy and leadership, all while forming bonds with peers in the program. As part of the experience, students mingle with college administrators, student leaders and active community members while participating in current event discussions and decision-making activities. During the program, participants take a trip to Jackson, Mississippi, to see state government in action, hear from current leaders and tour the state's capitol. Students will also participate in a service project.
