Live Healthy

AUGUST 2014

At St. Mary's Janesville Hospital our mission of healing extends well beyond our doors. Our community involvement programs are designed to help Rock County residents get and stay healthy in body and in spirit! Here's a list of what's happening this season.

FEATURED EVENT

VELO SLOW RIDE

Wednesday, August 6th, 6 p.m.

Join St. Mary's Janesville Hospital President Kerry Swanson for an 8-mile bike ride along the new bike path connecting Dean Clinic/St. Mary's Janesville Hospital with the Janesville Bike Trail System. The ride will be slow — only as fast as the slowest rider — and will offer return car rides for any riders that have mechanical breakdowns and/or can't finish the ride. Meet in the Palmer Park Parking Lot. Bike helmets are mandatory! Sponsored by the Janesville Velo Club. Call Angie Sullivan at (608) 373-8903 for more information.

FIT FAMILIES ROCK

Participating families must have a child aged 8-12 in the 85th percentile of their age-appropriate body mass index (BMI). At least one parent must commit to attending all the sessions. Childcare arrangements can be made for siblings. Classes will be held each Tuesday and Thursday, 4:30 - 5:30 p.m. from September 16th - November 25th at the Downtown Family YMCA. Cost is $25 per family. Class size is limited! Call Nicole at (262) 472-1836 for more information.

Explore technology at historic Tallman House

JANESVILLE — The Rock County Historical Society is launching its first thematic tour, Tallman's Technologies, at the Lincoln-Tallman House. The tour, the first in a five-part series, aims to bring the Tallman House to life, which is the mission of the RCHS — bringing past to the present.

During the tour, visitors are taken back to the year 1872, when William Morrison placed his residence and grounds up for sale. Visitors play the role of potential buyers of the house and through a three-act format, have a conversation with William Morrison Tallman, view the state-of-the-art amenities of the home and interact with the technology that made the house unique in an post-tour exhibit.

"Tallman's Technologies helps visitors understand why William Morrison Tallman built his home the way he did, why he included certain novel amenities we now consider essential, and why he chose Janesville for his home," Michael Reuter, executive director of RCHS, said in a news release. "In this way, people will leave the Tallman House and by extension the Rock County Historical Society with a more immersive and educational experience that allows people to better appreciate the home amenities that Tallman held dear during his time, but that we take for granted today."

Educational curriculum and lesson plans that center around the tour's main themes — engineering, architecture, communications and preservation — offer more content for teachers and students to use in the classroom.

Beginning Monday, Aug. 18, the Tallman's Technologies tour will be offered at 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. daily through September.

In October the tour will be offered on Saturdays and Sundays only.

Beginning Nov. 20 through December, the tour will again be offered seven days a week.

General information about Tallman's Technologies, how to book a tour and more will be made available Friday, Aug. 1, by going online to TallmanTours.org. The content will include a blog, called Tallman Tales, which will provide updates about ongoing events and projects at the site.

"Imagine a home illuminated by natural gas and that was equipped with indoor running water and an indoor privy," Reuter said. "This was also a home designed to make everyday life a little more relaxing and had an intercom system. It was a home ahead of its time, and these tours will help showcase the unique innovations of the Lincoln-Tallman House."

The cost for the Tallman's Technologies tours is as follows:

- $10 for adults
- $9 for seniors, students and RCHS members
- $6 for children between the ages of 5 and 17
- $5 for groups of 10 or more people.

Visitors can combine the Tallman's Technologies tour with the traditional visit to RCHS:

- $15 for adults
- $12 for seniors, students and RCHS members
- $8 for children between the ages of 5 and 17.

To view a video trailer about the tours, visit TallmanTours.org.
