AUTO ALMANAC

DRAWING BOARD

2015 Kia Sorento: The company is relaunching its seven-passenger family sport ute for 2015. Overall length is increasing by 3.7 inches, while the distance between the front and rear wheels is up three inches. The Sorento's interior is also being updated, however the base four-cylinder and available V6 engines will likely carry over.

WHO AM I?

To guess his secret identity, read the following clues!

- 1) By the age of 12, he was selling photos of local stock-car racers.
- 2) By 14, he was writing a column for the weekly tabloid The National Auto Racing News.
- 3) Although he attempted to race cars, he spent most of his life reporting on them, the drivers and the races.
- 4) From 1961-'84, he was "the voice" of motorsports on ABC TV.
- 5) He died in 2012 at age of 91 and is remembered for his love of racing.

AUTO TRIVIA

• In 1946, General Motors engineer Earle MacPherson invented a combination shock absorber and front-suspension strut that's named after him.

• Actor Don Johnson of Miami Vice TV fame and Matthew Broderick, star of the movie Ferris Bueller's Day Off, were shown piloting classic Ferraris. However both cars were actually replicas made up to look just like the originals.

WHAT'S UP, AUTO DOC?

A friend of the Auto Doc's asked if the V8 engine was on its way out. Well, if V8 engines ran on no fuel and created no emissions, they (and V10 and V12 engines, for that matter) would be favorites for everyone. But as automakers look at meeting ever-increasing Corporate Average Fuel Economy (CAFE) regulations, the biggest users of fuel and the biggest polluters are not necessarily targeted for obsolescence, but simply fall by the wayside. In fact, the Auto Doc is seeing signs that even six-cylinder engines are not making the cut, replaced by four-cylinder engines and even three-cylinder engines. Cutting back on pistons seems to be dovetailing with increasing use of electric power, which clearly shows the desire to move away from fossil fuels altogether. If the next car you buy isn't a hybrid or a full-on electric, the car after that most likely will be, and the V8 — and possibly the V6 — will likely be a fond memory.

STILL STUMPED?

His name is Chris Economaki, and he had reported auto-racing news for more than 60 years.

Despite cutting weight, there's air conditioning and modern electronics.

Interior left bare carbon fiber to save weight. It also looks pretty racy.

Seven-speed paddle-shift transmission.

Hollow-spoke wheels made out of carbon fiber.

"Active" wing tilts upward 25 degrees for max downforce and "air braking." At rest, it's -6 degrees.

1,825 pounds of downforce at 275 mph.

AutoGraph
Jeff Melnychuk
www.theoctanelounge.com

The "One: 1" is an interesting car from boutique Swedish automaker Koenigsegg in that it has a power-to-weight ratio, as the name implies, of one horsepower per kilogram (2.2 pounds). A new Corvette is about 1:3 kilograms (seven pounds). The One:1 is a souped up version of the Agera R that you might have seen in the movie "Need for Speed" (2014). That means 1,360 horsepower and a top speed north of the Agera R's 273 mph. Cost? Who knows.

Carbon-fiber springs for the suspension.

Active variable ride height.

3D PRINTING For small production volumes, "3D printing" of parts on the premises, such as turbocharger housings and the titanium exhaust outlet, is more cost effective and controlled than outsourcing to a foundry/factory.

Twin-turbocharged 5.0-liter V8 runs 26 p.s.i. of boost for 1,360 horsepower.

Revs to 8,250, 750 r.p.m. higher than the 1,140-horse Agera R.

15.7-inch ceramic brakes.

Extra winglets and underbody "venturi" tunnels provide downforce for high-speed stability.

KOENIGSEGG ONE:1

Body and chassis made of lightweight carbon fiber. With all fluids and half a tank of gas, the One:1 supposedly weighs a bit less than the advertised 1,360 kilograms (2,995 pounds).
