GARDEN DO'S and DON'T'S

lthough watering A your garden seems pretty simple these days, some watering habits can hurt your plants. Follow these do's and dont's.

Do group plants with similar water needs together in the same bed.

Do water early in the morning (before 10) so leaves have a chance to dry before sundown.

Do water right at the roots where plants need it the most.

Do water deeply and thoroughly so that the first 3-4 inches of soil stay moist particularly containers to give the soil time to absorb the water.

Don't water shallowly as it discourages plants from developing deep strong roots.

Don't water vegetable crops from overhead as lingering moisture can lead to pests and disease

Just a few things to help in this dry season.

Have fun and do it inexpensively!
