sense of commitment to improve our community. Currently in its 27th year, the program begins in August with a team building session followed by a two-day retreat, and the current program concludes in May with a graduation ceremony. Monthly sessions are scheduled on the first Wednesday of each month in various locations throughout Jones County and a session at our State Capitol in Jackson. Session topics include quality of life, state and local government, social issues, education, leadership skills training and more.

In addition to Leadership Skills training, participants of the program will also work in teams to identify, develop, fund and implement a community service project to benefit the Jones County community. Past projects have included initiatives such as the installation of the Splash Pad at the Sportsplex, the creation of a pavilion in Pine Hurst Park in downtown Laurel, the Jones County Blues Marker and Blues Park, enhancements at several ball fields in the cities and county, additions to the Jones County Library system, projects at Ellisville State School, beautification enhancements in Ellisville, Laurel and throughout the county, as well as numerous other educational and beneficial programs for youth, teens and kids.

Grand Opening of Heavenly Creations in Downtown Laurel

By Linda Cranford

A ribbon cutting ceremony was held Thursday morning, August 18 to officially open Heavenly Creations Boutique at 410 Central Avenue, Suite 3, in historic downtown Laurel. Owners Sandy and Robert Pittman were joined by Mayor Johnny Magee, Jones County EDA, Chamber of Commerce Ambassadors, friends and family members for the celebration.

Mayor Magee gave the invocation and welcomed the couple to downtown Laurel. Larkin Simpson, Jones County EDA vice president, presented the new owners with a framed first dollar of profit and a commemorative Jones County Chamber of Commerce business membership poster with a water coloring rendering of the Deason Home in Ellisville by artist and Laurel business owner Adam Trest.

Prior to opening the business, Sandy had sold her things at different festivals around. “I was like a traveling boutique,” said Sandy. “I got tired of the loading and unloading, and decided to stop and establish a permanent location.”

Heavenly Creations Boutique offers a variety of things for children and

Jones County Volunteers deliver donations to flood victims

By Caleb Worrell,
Jones County Fire PIO

On Saturday, August 20, Jones County volunteer firefighters from Powers, Calhoun and Hebron Volunteer Fire Departments, along with Jones County Fire PIO delivered donated goods to the flood victims in Louisiana.

While en route to our destination, we noticed heavy traffic coming to a stop on the interstate near Livingston, Louisiana. Our lead car advised seeing smoke in the median up ahead. As we edged a little closer, it became apparent that a vehicle was lying on its side and on fire.

After confirming that no local fire trucks had arrived on scene yet, our Jones County volunteers sprang into action. Moving quickly to the front of traffic where the burning car was, our convoy of vehicles blocked the lane nearest the engulfed vehicle and our firefighters did what they do best – put out the fire! Powers volunteers attacked the flames with fire extinguishers while Calhoun and Hebron volunteers prepped the Powers Brush truck for backup support. However, soon after the initial attack, local firefighters arrived on scene and took over. Before returning to our vehicles to continue on our journey, local police and firefighters thanked our volunteers for reacting quickly and ensuring the safety of other motorists.

After an exciting event showing that no matter where our volunteer firefighters are, the safety of others comes first, we finally arrived at our destination. The reception from the local people was overwhelming, as they clapped and cheered at the sight of a Jones County convoy delivering much needed supplies. The sheer destruction was heart-breaking but a reminder of why we as volunteers do what we do.

Providing water, food, clothes and so much more alleviated some of the weight bearing down on our Louisiana neighbors. As men, women and children excitedly helped unload the donations into their distribution center, we were overwhelmed with joy, as well as elements of sadness, fighting back tears.

The “Great Flood”, as a sign on their distribution building read, had taken so much from these people – homes, cars, loved ones. But one thing it didn’t take was their hope, and the will to press forward. As I stood nearby, snapping photos and taking video, I observed the people around me.

Many people, some without shoes and barely clothes on their backs, piled in to receive needed supplies for their families and homes. Filling sacks with food, cleaning supplies, clothes and water, those that had lost everything had a glimmer of hope to hold on to.

A girl with a young puppy stood near the center. The dog had been rescued from under a trailer submerged in water only days before.

And children, exhausted and thirsty, sat around a small table inside the center, eating donated food and re-hydrating, perhaps for the first time in a while.

At the conclusion of our journey, we prepared to head home. As we neared our vehicles, we noticed a slip of paper tucked under the windshield wiper. It was a thank you note from an unknown person, expressing gratitude for bringing these supplies to their ravaged city. Many people along the way approached to say thank you, to shake hands or give hugs. It was truly a surreal moment.

Jones County, we thank you for helping us help others.

We also want to express immense gratitude to Sheriff Alex Hodge for providing one of his 18-wheelers and trailer from B Clean to carry the supplies.

And to the rest of the Jones County Volunteer Fire Departments, thank you for offering financial support to make this endeavor possible. It meant a lot to us, but it meant everything to the folks in Louisiana.

Louisiana, we stand with you. You are not alone.

With all the trucks loaded, the volunteers are ready to head south. Photos submitted by Jones County Fire Council
