Children's Health

How To Help Sick Kids Get Better When Insurance Isn't Enough

(NAPSA)—Imagine this: You take your child to the doctor thinking she has an infection. You discover she has a life-altering condition and your health insurance doesn't cover all the costs.

The Bells

That's what happened to Alicia Bell when her daughter Karis was diagnosed with type 1 diabetes. Says Bell: "There are no vacations from being a parent and there are no vacations from being a parent of a T1D child."

Bell was not only surprised at her daughter's diagnosis, she was further amazed to find her insurance wouldn't pay for all the diabetic testing supplies Karis would need.

The Problem

The Bell family is far from unique. Each year, more and more Americans are forced to choose between paying for lifesaving treatments and for food, housing and utilities. People may cut pills in half, skip meals or housing payments or declare bankruptcy. An estimated 29 million Americans are underinsured and over 60 percent of all bankruptcies in the U.S. are related to medical expenses. In the Bells' case, Alicia would need to go into serious credit card debt just to pay for her daughter's diabetes monitoring and testing supplies.

An Answer

Fortunately, when health insurance is not enough, there is a group that helps close the gap, putting life-changing medications within reach for thousands of people in need and helping to pay for prescription drug copayments, deductibles and health insurance premiums for critical medical treatments.

A HealthWell Foundation Pediatric Assistance grant not only pays for Karis's supplies—including an insulin monitor, so Karis doesn't have to have her finger stuck several times a day—it pays the co-insurance for her hospital and clinic visits and will help pay for an insulin pump if and when she needs one.

The Foundation

An independent 501(c)(3), non-profit organization, HealthWell has served as a safety net for more than 225,000 underinsured patients. Eligibility is based on the family's medical, financial and insurance situation. HealthWell's Pediatric Assistance Fund is specifically designed to provide financial assistance to children 18 years old or younger living with chronic or life-altering conditions that their families are struggling to treat due to cost when health insurance is not enough. Learn more by visiting www.healthwellfoundation.org/pediatric-assistance-fund.

What You Can Do

Birding BITS BY Cindy Brook

Window Strikes
 Prevent birds from flying into windows by placing strips of tape, vertically, at least 1-inch wide and 10 inches apart on the outside of your window. I like the blue tape from the local hardware store. This breaks up the reflection, and birds are less likely to hit the glass.

Hints For Homeowners

Safety First: Protect Yourself During DIY Projects

(NAPSA)—Reality TV shows, online webcasts and YouTube videos have encouraged many people to try the do-it-yourself (DIY) route when it comes to tackling less-complicated home renovations or fixes. Often, there are advantages to DIY projects, such as financial savings, learning new skills, environmental benefits and more.

Sometimes, however, safety can seem an afterthought when it comes to DIY. Bear in mind, accidents can happen to anyone—whether you're cleaning the gutters, installing new floors or rearranging heavy furniture.

In fact, of the more than 50 million DIY home improvement projects that will take place this year, one in five of the participating homeowners will experience an injury, according to the Home Safety Council. These accidents can add up: The Healthcare Leadership Council found that without health insurance, the average cost to treat a broken leg is more than $10,000.

This can be a problem considering a recent survey of employees, commissioned by Aflac, found that 49 percent of employees have less than $1,000 on hand to pay for out-of-pocket medical expenses.

When participating in a DIY project, consider the following safety tips to help reduce your risk of becoming injured and facing medical bills you can't afford.

- 1. Always follow instructions.
 Before starting any project, carefully read the instruction manual of any appliance or tool you'll be using.
- 2. Forgo fashion.
 Always wear protective clothing, including safety goggles, gloves and a dust mask, when working with potentially hazardous materials. Avoid jewelry
- 3. Keep a first-aid kit handy.
 Choose a first-aid kit that's easy to carry, latches securely and can be opened quickly.
- 4. Never leave a project unattended.
 Never leave tools or materials unsupervised during a DIY project. Unattended power tools or a bucket of paint on your ladder can be a disaster in the making.
- 5. Know when to hire a pro.
 Although you may save money with a DIY project, taking matters into your own hands may do more harm than good. Small jobs can be simple but many tasks are better left to the experts.
- 6. Add a layer of protection.
 Consider adding a supplemental accident insurance plan to help you stay ahead of medical bills and out-of-pocket costs that can accumulate with an emergency. To learn more about the benefits of an accident insurance policy, visit www.aflac.com/accident.

Protecting yourself at all times is important, especially when the cost of an accident could put you in a deep financial hole. You can be safe—all while getting your hands dirty and tackling new projects.

Hints For Homeowners

Know Your Options For Home Cooling Systems

(NAPSA)—When the weather heats up, many homeowners crank up their central air conditioning or turn to multiple noisy window units. Unfortunately, neither option is ideal: central air, wastes energy by its all-or-nothing nature. Window units, in addition to being cumbersome, diminish a room's attractiveness and obscure its views.

Luckily, there is a third option: mini-split systems.

Up To 25 Percent Savings
Mini-splits are ductless heating and cooling systems that allow you to control the temperatures in individual rooms rather than the entire house. You're not only customizing your comfort, you're saving considerable energy, and up to 25 percent on utility bills. Overall, mini-split provider Fujitsu General offers the most energy-efficient lineup.

Advantages Over Window-Mounted AC & Central Air
Compared to window units, mini-split systems are more attractive, quieter and more energy efficient. Plus they're set higher on the wall or ceiling, freeing up living space. Central air systems require expensive, intrusive ductwork and they're not scalable, so they can't be easily extended to previously unfinished living spaces such as attics, basements or three-season rooms. Mini-splits don't require complex, expensive ductwork and can be installed to cool and heat newly converted spaces.

Wall-mounted indoor units are sleek and can be installed high on the wall.

Mini-splits also allow for temperature control by individual room for maximum comfort and energy efficiency. You can keep different rooms at different temperatures—a solution to the thermostat wars waged by so many families, especially those with young children or senior parents. And while central air systems and window units can be noisy, mini-splits are whisper quiet indoors and out.

Maximum Flexibility, Minimum Space
Mini-split system compressors are outside the house but there's no need for a basement or attic evaporator unit, thanks to thin copper tubing that pumps refrigerant directly to discreet evaporators inside. In cold weather, the same unit works in reverse, absorbing heat from the outside air and moving it indoors. The result is efficient cooling and heating for year-round, whole-house comfort.

Finally, mini-split systems come in all shapes and sizes for a refreshing amount of choice. Wall-mounted systems rest well above eye-level, while floor-mounted systems, with their compact size, are excellent for residential radiator replacements or any room with limited upper wall space, such as a kitchen or sunroom. Slim duct systems are ideal for homeowners who want units completely out of sight, since they're concealed in a ceiling or framed enclosure below a ceiling.

Hints For Homeowners

Home Improvement Made Easy

(NAPSA)—The American dream can come in many forms. When it comes to home ownership, low mortgage rates and housing prices mean that dream can become a reality for many hardworking families. Moreover, the rash of foreclosures has created new opportunities for people willing to take a chance on buying a home and investing in its restoration. This can create a home to live in and an opportunity to earn a return on the investment in a house.

To help, there are a number of government-insured and conventional loan programs that address this opportunity and may open the door for those who need help making the investment in home improvement projects that will create value.

One example of a simple solution to a common roadblock is an independent mortgage lender working to make sure home improvements are within reach and that foreclosed properties are seen as a home-buying opportunity and not a risky proposition.

The company works with homeowners to make the changes and repairs to a new or existing home through an easy lending process. It helps the homeowner combine costs into one simple payment included in a mortgage payment. The loan can be used to buy a new home or refinance an existing one. This method allows the loan to process quickly and the improvement work to get done as soon as possible.

project manager who helps ensure that the whole process moves quickly. The project managers work with the borrowers from loan origination to loan closing. They assist in identifying contractors, defining the scope of work and keeping everyone informed of the progress.

As one homeowner looking to make some renovations in the most cost-efficient and comfortable way possible said, "We gutted the interior walls, did a complete remodel of our upstairs, moved a bathroom around and received new flooring. The whole process was incredible. Stonegate was there for me the entire time and expedited my loan so I was able to start right away and not be without a home. Overall, it went very well. I've already recommended the program to many of my friends and family."

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On Sept. 9, 1776, the Continental Congress formally declares the name of the new nation to be the "United States" of America, replacing the "United Colonies" that had been used in Thomas Jefferson's version of the Declaration of Independence.

• On Sept. 10, 1833, President Andrew Jackson announces that the government will no longer use the Second Bank of the United States, the country's national bank, and withdraws all federal funds. Jackson resented the bank's lack of funding for Western expansion.

• On Sept. 7, 1911, avant-garde French poet Guillaume Apollinaire is arrested and jailed on suspicion of stealing Leonardo da Vinci's "Mona Lisa." No evidence surfaced, and Apollinaire was released. Two years later, a former employee of the Louvre, Vincenzo Peruggia, was arrested while trying to sell the famous painting.

• On Sept. 11, 1921, Fatty Arbuckle, a silent-film era performer at the height of his fame, is arrested in San Francisco for the murder of aspiring actress Virginia Rappe. After two mistrials, the jury in Arbuckle's third trial found him not guilty and even issued him an apology.

• On Sept. 5, 1958, Boris Pasternak's romantic novel "Dr. Zhivago" is published in the United States. The book was banned in the Soviet Union, but still won the Nobel Prize for Literature in 1958 after admirers smuggled out the manuscript.

• On Sept. 6, 1972, a West German police attempt to rescue nine Israeli Olympic team members held hostage by Palestinian terrorists ends in disaster. All nine hostages were killed. Terrorists from Black September had stormed the Israeli quarters in the Olympic Village in Munich early the previous morning.

• On Sept. 8, 1986, Nissan's first European manufacturing plant opens in Sunderland, Britain, an area hit hard by plant closings. Some 25,000 people applied for the first 450 jobs advertised.

Prayer to St. Jude

Most holy Apostle, St. Jude, faithful servant and friend of Jesus, the church honors and invokes you universally, as the patron of hopeless cases, of things almost despaired of. Pray for me, I am so helpless and alone. Make use, I implore you, of that particular privilege given to you, to bring visible and speedy help where help is almost despaired of. Come to my assistance in this great need that I may receive the consolation and help of heaven in all my necessities, tribulations, and sufferings, particularly (your request) and that I may praise God with you and all the elect forever. I promise, O blessed St. Jude, to be ever mindful of this great favor, to always honor you as my special and powerful patron, and to gratefully encourage devotion to you. Amen.

Does Dog Stink ... Or Not?

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: After we played with my dog "Jerry" in the backyard, a friend who was visiting told me that he stank. She said dogs should get baths every week. I don't think Jerry smells bad, just sweaty, and my mom doesn't give him a bath very often. Is what my friend said true? — Sara in Madison, Wisconsin

DEAR SARA: What one person thinks is a bad smell, doesn't smell like anything to another person. This often can be true with dog owners, who are a little more accustomed to how their pet smells.

This can be especially noticeable to visitors (and even owners) after a dog has been out romping in warm weather, or in the rain. Dogs don't have a lot of sweat glands, but their undercoat and fur retain oils, dirt and other things, creating a somewhat distinctive funk.

Does that mean your dog needs frequent baths? Not really. Too many baths can dry out their skin, leading to irritation and potentially infections that can make your dog really stink — and be utterly uncomfortable.

After playing in the yard, you can rub Jerry's coat with a spare towel to knock off excess dirt. Check him over for burrs and ticks, and look at the bottom of his paws to make sure nothing is trapped between the pads. Then let him relax and cool off.

Jerry should get a bath — using luke-warm water and non-perfumed pet shampoo only — a couple of times a month, or whenever his coat gets too muddy to easily rub off.

Send your pet tips and questions to ask@pawscorner.com.

CAR CORNER

Six Steps To Take If You're In An Accident

(NAPSA)—Car accidents can wreak havoc on an otherwise peaceful day. Even if they're minor, they can often create confusion. You might ask yourself, how should I react? What should I do?

Leading car insurer Progressive offers these simple steps to follow after an accident:

- 1) Stay calm. Keeping a calm demeanor helps you stay in control of the situation.
- 2) Make sure you and your passengers are OK. Move as far off the roadway as possible but stay at the scene of the accident. Warn oncoming traffic by activating your hazard warning lights and/or setting flares if you have them.
- 3) Call the police. Call 911 or the appropriate emergency number to report the accident.
- 4) Contact your insurance company and report the claim. The sooner your insurance company knows about the accident, the sooner it can start working to resolve your claim. With 24/7 claims service, reporting a claim to Progressive is easy—just call 1-800-PROGRESSIVE or report it online at www.progressive.com.
- 5) Do not admit fault. To protect yourself legally, do not discuss the car accident with anyone other than the police and your insurance company.

Keeping a calm demeanor helps you stay in control after an accident.

6) Exchange vital information with the other driver involved in the car accident. Write down the name, address, phone number and license numbers of all drivers and witnesses, particularly those who were not riding in a vehicle involved in the accident. Ask for the name of the insurer and policy number of all drivers involved in the car accident.

Before you get into an accident, make sure you have the right car insurance. Because the last thing you want to do when you're in a car accident is worry about having to pay for the damage. Go to www.progressive.com to shop around and compare rates.

VOTE

"Over the Counter"

by Bill Marcotte, Proprietor

With the primary coming up in just a week, I thought I would share some information with you. First, the new voting machines will be up and running, which will make things so much easier for the poll workers. A simple procedure for the voter. Secondly, the ballot. There won't be much on the ballot in most districts. Starting with District 1 and 4, there won't be anything other than the Democratic race for Representatives in Congress, now held by Jim Langevin. In District 2 there is a primary for Town Council seat held by Greg Laboissoniere. His opponents are Ean A. Hansen and Peter J. Mello. Moving on to the district 3 seat held by Kerry McGee, he is unopposed. District 5 will have a race for Town Council between Michael E. Madonna, Keith C. Taylor, and Debra L. Bacon. So Clearly, there isn't much on the ballot, but it is important that Districts 2, 3, and 4 come out and vote for their candidate. Moving on to November, there will be plenty of things on the ballot, starting with President, and moving on down! If you have any questions concerning the primary, please call the Board of Canvassers and Registration, at 822-9151 and talk to Lori. She can answer any question you might have.

Remember to get out and vote and support you local council person!

The Board of Canvassers, Frank Perry, Chairman, Bill Marcotte, and Julie Stephanik wishes the best to all!

See you at the polls!

Emergency Preparedness

Being Prepared For Mother Nature's Extremes

(NAPSA)—Whether it is a hurricane, tornado, earthquake or extended blackout, unexpected situations created by Mother Nature can happen anytime, anywhere.

A recent national study found that while most Americans have experienced an emergency or severe weather situation, over half do not have an emergency kit at home and one third don't believe they need one.

To help, the preparedness experts at the Eton Corporation, a leading creator of high-performance, green-powered consumer products and the sponsor of the study, recommend a few steps you can take to better prepare for the unexpected:

Make A Preparedness Kit That Contains The Following:

- Bottled water and nonperishable food
- Extra clothes and blankets for each family member
- First aid kit
- A self-powered emergency radio and flashlight combo, such as one from the Eton FRX Series.

An AM/FM/NOAA radio will keep you informed, while the rechargeable battery (recharged via solar panel or hand crank) ensures you never run out of light or power. More advanced radios, such as the FRX 3, can even charge mobile devices via a USB port on the device.

Create A Disaster Plan

- Get together with family, friends and neighbors to discuss

A self-powered radio and flashlight combo is great to have on hand for emergencies.

what disasters or emergencies could happen in the area and figure out the best plan for the community.

- Take a first aid or CPR class.
- Teach children their basic personal information so they can identify themselves if they become separated from a parent/guardian.
- Plan a place where your family can meet in the event of an emergency.

Educate And Inform

Even with a disaster plan and preparedness kit in place, you are not fully prepared unless every family member is informed about the plan—and the potential for disasters.

Once you're aware of the type of disasters that can occur in the region where you live, find out if there's a "season" or time of year when these events are most prevalent.

Don't Be A Hack: Cybersecurity Expert Provides Tips To Prevent Social Media Hacking

(NAPSA)—Each year, 9 million people fall prey to cyberattacks, according to the Federal Trade Commission. Data breaches wreak havoc on one's personal and financial lives and can cause headaches for years to come. Unfortunately, you or someone you know has already likely been hacked at some point—and if you haven't, now is a good time to make sure you're fully protected.

iPhone apps, Google searches and most any online activity can be tracked and used to find personal information.

1. Use VPN networks and Tor browsers on public networks when available.

2. Use websites like www.agilebits.com/onepassword or guerrillamail.com to protect passwords and e-mail addresses. And make sure passwords are more than eight characters long and contain numbers and symbols.

3. Remember that nothing posted online is truly hidden, secure or private—and that doesn't pertain only to the Internet; information from apps, smartphones and tablets can also be accessed. Take extra steps to keep financial information, passwords, e-mail addresses and other personal information secure.

"We can't just turn off our phones; and never use electronics again; that's not realistic," Konzen said. "You need to be aware of what is being put out there and make sure all your data is secure."

For people interested in additional ways to protect their online identity, or interested in courses on cybersecurity, many colleges offer cybersecurity degree programs. According to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, cybersecurity jobs are expected to grow 37 percent by 2022. University of Phoenix, for example, offers associate's, bachelor's and master's degrees and a number of certificates in cybersecurity on campus or completely online. For more information, visit www.phoenix.edu/colleges_divisions/technology.html.

Konzen often performs live hacks to show people just how easy accessing blocked or hidden information can be. He offers the following tips for people to protect themselves:

We learn from history that we learn nothing from history.
—George Bernard Shaw

The feeling of "aha, that's it," which accompanies the clothing of a situation with meaning, is emotionally very satisfying and is the major charm of scientific research, of artistic creation, and of the solution of crossword puzzles. It is why the intellectual life is fun.

—Hudson Hoagland

A picture that is beautiful, or that comes off, or that works, looks as if it was all made at one stroke.

—Helen Frankenthaler

Would that there were an award for people who come to understand the concept of enough. Good enough. Successful enough. Thin enough. Rich enough. Socially responsible enough. When you have self-respect, you have enough, and when you have enough, you have self-respect.

—Gail Sheehy

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) You should soon be hearing some positive feedback on that recent business move. An old family problem recurs, but this time you'll know how to handle it better.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Some surprising statements shed light on the problem that caused that once-warm relationship to cool off. Use this newly won knowledge to help turn things around.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Your spiritual side is especially strong at this time. Let it guide you into deeper contemplation of aspects about yourself that you'd like to understand better.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Your merrier aspect continues to dominate and to attract folks who rarely see this side of you. Some serious new romancing could develop out of all this cheeriness.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) You're always concerned about the well-being of others. It's time you put some of that concern into your own health situation, especially where it involves nutrition.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Just when you thought your life had finally stabilized, along comes another change that needs to be addressed. Someone you trust can help you deal with it successfully.

BORN THIS WEEK: You have a sixth sense when it comes to finding people who need help long before they think of asking for it. And you're right there to provide it.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) As tensions ease on the home front, you can once more focus on changes in the workplace. Early difficulties are soon worked out. Stability returns as adjustments are made.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) A new romance tests the unattached Bovine's patience to the limit. But Venus still rules the Taurean heart, so expect to find yourself trying hard to make this relationship work.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) It's a good time to consider home-related purchases. But shop around carefully for the best price — whether it's a new house for the family or a new hose for the garden.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) A contentious family member seems intent on creating problems. Best advice: Avoid stepping in until you know more about the origins of this domestic disagreement.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) A recent job-related move proves far more successful than you could have imagined. Look for continued beneficial fallout. Even your critics have something nice to say.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Ease up and stop driving yourself to finish that project on a deadline that is no longer realistic. Your superiors will be open to requests for an extension. Ask for it.
