Hospice offers free horse therapy for children who have lost a loved one

Coastal Hospice invites children who have lost a loved one to Hope & Healing with Horses, a free one-day children's bereavement camp, on Saturday, October 1 from 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. at Kindred Spirit Farm, 3191 Johnson Rd. in Salisbury.

to them. Horses offer the children a simple but profound relationship and allow them to connect to a living being without the risk or rejection or criticism.

Counselors from Coastal Hospice, who are trained in bereavement support, conduct the camp

This event is designed for children ages six to 14 who have experienced the death of a parent, grandparent, sibling or other close loved one in the past two years. It is open to both hospice and non-hospice families. Children must accompabe nied by a responsible adult.

"Children who have lost someone dear to them grieve in very different ways than adults," said Alane Capen, president of Coastal Hospice, which hosts the event. "They may find it harder to express what they are really feeling. Hope & Healing with Horses gives them a chance to connect with other children who have experienced a similar loss."

Hope & Healing with Horses teaches children and their families strategies to express grief and reduce stress and isolation. The day camp uses horses as a tool for emotional growth and learning; the children ride, groom the horses and talk and guide the children and their families through their feelings.

No previous experience with horses is required. Children should wear closed-toe shoes for riding, and must be accompanied by a responsible adult. There will also be grief support activities for the adults who accompany the children.

Lunch is provided. The event will take place rain or shine.

This event is free, but registration is required by September 27 by calling Melissa Dasher at 443-944-5846. Coastal Hospice asks all persons to honor registrations once they have been made.

OPA board meets

Parks appointed to board

By Chip Bertino

The Ocean Pines Association (OPA) Board of Directors met in special session Friday morning. It was the body's first meeting following a week of changes that recorded the management contract with the general manager terminated and the resignation of a board member. First on the agenda was the appointment of a new board member to replace Pat Renaud who resigned late last month two years into his three-year term. Doug Parks was appointed on a 4-2 vote to fill the unexpired term. Board members Cheryl Jacobs and Pat Supik had voted for Frank Daley. Both Parks and Daley had been candidates during the recent election.

Doug Parks

The board majority, that included Board President Tom Herrick, Vice President Dave Stevens, Slobodan Trendic and Brett Hill believe that Parks best embodies the desire for change that members advoated with their votes during the recent election. Nearly 70% of the members who voted cast ballots voted for candidates who campaigned on a platform of change, specifically the management of the organization. Parks immediately took a seat at the table.

Hill, who has been named interim general manager, provided an update on several topics. He said that he and Herrick had met with the organization's department heads following the departure of former General Manager Bob Thompson. He said this meeting was followed up with individual meetings with department heads in which he discussed with them active and pending projects and received an overview of departmental responsibilities.

Hill said that after consulting with his fellow board members, the job notice for a new general manager has been posted. He said that a request for information is being developed to solicit management company support should the board decide to hire a company instead of an individual to manage the community.

An RFP has been released for legal services and that one will soon be released for accounting services pending a review by the treasurer (Supik) and assistant treasurers (Art Carmine and Gene Ringsdorf). It is expected to be issued this week.

Parks declined an interview request by The Courier saying, "My immediate focus is to get up to speed on current board issues and integrate myself with the rest of the team."

Board moves on capital projects

By Chip Bertino

The Ocean Pines Association (OPA) Board of Directors took action on several projects either planned or underway within the community during their special meeting last Friday.

The board voted to approve change orders and additional funding to the new bathroom project at White Horse Park in the amount of $28,390 to cover increases due to lengthening the building by three feet, electrical and plumbing interfaces with the required sewer pump and to meet county requirements for insulation, attic access and connection assemblies which were not included in the original estimate. The finished cost for the project is projected at $130,961, which is below the budget of $145,000.

The board voted to rescind funding authorization to the Manklin Meadows sports complex approved by earlier this year. The board voted to repurpose asphalt tennis courts (11 and 12) to eight permanent pickle ball courts, extending the chain link fence as well as painting and installing nets and posts. The estimated cost for the project is $28,600. Earlier this year, the board had approved a more expansive project that would have cost $150,000.

Also, the board voted to seek estimates for a professional playground installer to rehabilitate the current playground at the complex. An RFP will be distributed. Once the bids are in, the board will take further action on funding the project.

The board voted to repurpose Huntington Park field converting the existing softball field to a multipurpose field and to install new playground equipment. The project has a budget of $25,000.

Does the roar of an engine beneath you and the wind in your face sound like an exhilarating combination? Are you a big motorcycles fan? Then maybe you already know that the first motorcycles were powered by steam and built in the 1800s. But did vou know that the first gas-powered motorbike was built in 1885 by the same people who would go on to produce the Mercedes? Here are other facts: -Harley-

Davidson is the number one motorcycle manufacturer in the industry. According to its most recent figures, the company sold more than 35,000 bikes in the first quarter of 2014

-Women riders are increasing in numbers. According to 2012 figures, they now represent about 25 percent of motorcyclists or some 6.7 million riders

-One of the most common reasons you'll see a bike stalled at the side of the road is because it has run out of fuel. Many older motorcycle models don't have fuel gauges.

-Tires are among the top reasons motorcycles wind up in the shop. A nail or pothole can pop a tire, but motorcyclists have to be even more careful about uneven tire wear than automobile drivers. After all, they only have two.

County honors volunteer spirit

In late August, the Worcester County Commissioners and Volunteer Services Manager Kelly Brinkley thanked a handful of volunteers during the annual Volunteer Spirit of Worcester County Awards dinner at the Atlantic Hotel for their work in the community. Those present were nominated by their peers in May in the individual, faith-based, nonprofit, team, County employee, and lifetime achievement categories.

"Once a year, we ask residents, businesses, and nonprofits to nominate volunteers who are making a positive difference in the community, so together we can honor them for their gifts of time, talent and energy." Brinkley said. That's what this program is all about. We'll be seeking nominations for the 2017 Volunteer Spirit Awards next spring.'

Barbara Peletier received the Individual Award for her work with Meals on Wheels, the Kiwanis Club of Greater Ocean Pines and Ocean City, The Dawg Team and Pine'eer Craft Club.

Star Charities founder Anna Foultz, nominated Peletier, stating, "She never gives up and ensures she accomplishes her task."

Bette Bohlman received the Faith-Based Award for her work with Temple Bat Yam (TBY). She runs the gift shop and religious school, serves on the Executive Board, and is the faith partner representative to Atlantic General Hospital.

TBY Executive Board member Candy Gusst, nominated Bohlman and said. "Wherever there is a need or a gap, Bette steps in...She brings exu-

Christine Jirikowic and Rachelle Daigneault received the Team Award for their work with the Delmarva Discovery Center & Museum (DDC). The team led 42, fact-filled, school tours, and revamped the DDC Personnel Rules & Regulations manual.

DDC Chief Executive Officer Stacey Weisner nominated them, stating, "Their vast practical experience has been our greatest gift of 2015.

Kenille Davies, Carolyn Miller, Patsy Myles, and Brenda Mannity received the Nonprofit Award for their work with Kenille's Kupboard. They assisted with animal rescue, adoption and veterinary costs, collected and dispensed animal food and supplies to 144 local residents in 2015, and delivered supplies to homebound residents.

County resident Robin Dumler nominated them, applauding them for, "...their tireless efforts and commitment to the Worcester County community and their animals.'

Worcester County Risk Manager Eddie Carman received the County Employee Award for volunteering as a certified Lifestyle Balance instructor at area volunteer fire agencies and serving as the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene spokesperson for the Diabetes Prevention Program.

Worcester County Human Resources Director Stacey Norton nominated Carman, stating, "What makes his service extraordinary this year is that his outreach touched the entire state."

Bill Kerbin, Sr., DDC founder, received the Lifetime Achievement Award for his work with the DDC, serving on the Board of Directors and Executive Committee, assisting in the gift shop, and supporting the DDC from its visionary phase.

DDC President Stacey Weisner nominated Kerbin, stating that, "Anything we need, at any hour of the day or night, he makes himself available."

the black and whites, well, not exactly. Often they miss the correct keys and give whatever I'm playing an, shall we say, uncertain quality. Robust and subtle, whimsical and emotional is a piano's voice expressing both harmony and melody. It's a complete instrument.

Settlement Music School in Philadelphia was where I was enrolled as a child to become a prodigy, a Master of the Ivories, the next Andre Previn or at least the next Victor Borge. Such lofty aspirations were silenced as quickly as a damper muffling the strings of a released key.

At first on Thursday afternoons at 4:30 and later at 7 p.m. I sat with Mrs. Goldman laboring to learn the scales and various compositions in instructional books such as Michael Aaron for Beginners, Pageants for Piano and an exercise book whose name now escapes me. Mrs. Goldman's teaching style was traditional. "Sit up straight, fingers curved and don't rush." She also emphasized practice, practice and more practice. She was an abundantly patient woman who endured my habit of attempting to just get by. It never worked. She could tell. On reflection, it was fairly easy to see through my charade. I mean really, how could I have been so brassy as to believe she wouldn't notice a couple of sharps in the scale of C? Yet, it didn't stop me from trving.

Learning the classical compositions of Bach and Beethoven and others of the same ilk didn't hold my interest. Too many key changes and again.

I love a piano. Guitars, saxes, no lyrics. It was the music of composers like Scott Joplin that attracted my attention. Syncopated ragtime rhythms caught my ear when I heard the movie soundtrack of "The Sting" > which had been scored by composer Marvin Hamlisch. I listened to that LP repeatedly. Just as an aside, how many of you remember LPs?

Much to my surprise Mrs. Goldman agreed to scrap the classics for the myself, my fingers gliding fluidly over rags. My first foray into this musical format was attempting to learn "The Entertainer." Looking at the sheet music (the original, not the easy format) for the first time, was for me like gazing at hieroglyphics without benefit of the Rosetta Stone. Daunting would be an understatement. Yet, little by little, measure by measure, my brain translated the notes and put my fingers into action. It was a slow, at times overwhelming task, especially when trying to play an entire section at the correct tempo. My fingers tangled. My eyes crossed. My mother encouraged. Each week in the studio with

> Mrs. Goldman I played what I practiced. Sometimes I learned a bar and other times I only conquered a couple of chords. But I trudged on, much to the chagrin I'm sure of family and neighbors who endured listening to the cacophony of my efforts over and over and over

In time, and how much time that was I can't say, the piece was mastered from section A to section D. I could play the piece in my sleep and even performed it at a school recital. Although no talent agents were falling over themselves with recording contracts, I was nonetheless proud of what I had accomplished.

Through the years I learned additional rags but I don't play the piano as much as I would like now. When I do. more often than not, my fingers automatically engage the keys in an old familiar way.

Snow Hill to host Delmarva Paddling Weekend

Registration is open at www.DelmarvaPaddling.com for the inaugural Delmarva Paddling Weekend, which will be held September 30 through October 2 on the waters around Snow Hill.

Labor Day Weekend may signal the end of the summer season for Ocean City, but it kicks off the beginning of the autumn paddling season around Snow Hill.

As the beach traffic slows down and the hot, humid days fade away, the Pocomoke River, Nassawango Creek and Chincoteague Bay become paradise for paddlers. The warm water, cool air temps, and few insect pests combine to make late September and early October the best time of year to paddle some of the finest flat water on the East Coast.

Participants can choose from an à la carte menu of clinics and guided paddling trips to remote and rarely paddled locations. Interpretive paddling tours guided by local naturalists will focus on the birds and wildlife of the Bald Cypress swamp and the coastal marshes of Chincoteague Bay. Some may choose to experience a twilight ghost tour paddle on the dark waters above Snow Hill's historic drawbridge. New paddlers can learn basic SUP skills at Byrd Park.

A steamed crab feast at the River House Inn in Snow Hill and accommodations at the local bed and breakfasts and Pocomoke River State Park are available for this new outdoor event that celebrates the paddling experiences of Worcester County, and showcases Snow Hill as a paddling "Trail Town," a central location to stay, play, dine and drink before and after paddling experiences. Snow Hill is situated on the wild and scenic Pocomoke River, with easy access to amazing outdoor recreation opportunities and proximity to Nassawango Creek and Chincoteague Bay. The towns' natural beauty and rich history makes it a prime destination for both nature and heritage tourists.

Participants may bring their own human-powered boats or boards, or local outfitters will provide kayaks, canoes and SUPs for those in need. Participating outfitters include the Pocomoke River Canoe Company and Walk on Water.

PRMC awarded accreditation

Peninsula Regional Medical Center (PRMC), located in Salisbury, MD, recently announced it has earned The Joint Commission's Gold Seal of Approval for Hospital Accreditation by demonstrating continuous compliance with its performance standards. The Gold Seal of Approval is a symbol of quality that reflects an organization's commitment to providing safe and effective patient care.

PRMC underwent a rigorous, unannounced onsite survey earlier this year. During the review, a team of Joint Commission expert surveyors evaluated compliance with hospital standards related to several areas, including emergency management, environment of care, infection prevention and control, leadership, and medication management. Surveyors also conducted onsite observations and interviews.

The Joint Commission has accredited hospitals for more than 60 years. More than 4,000 general, children's, long-term acute, psychiatric, rehabilitation and specialty hospitals currently maintain accreditation from The Joint Commission, awarded for a three-year period. In addition, approximately 360 critical access hospitals maintain accreditation through a separate program.

PRMC was also recognized in 2015 by The Joint Commission with disease-specific certifications in AMI (treatment of heart attack), Advanced Primary Stroke, Spine Surgery and Hip and Knee Replacement Surgeries.

"Joint Commission accreditation provides hospitals with the processes needed to improve in a variety of areas from the enhancement of staff education to the improvement of daily business operations," said Mark G. Pelletier, RN, MS, chief operating officer, Division of Accreditation and Certification Operations, The Joint Commission. "In addition, our accreditation helps hospitals enhance their risk management and risk reduction strategies. We commend Peninsula Regional Medical Center for its efforts to become a quality improvement organization."

"PRMC is pleased to again receive accreditation from The Joint Commission, the premier health care quality improvement and accrediting body in the nation," added Peggy Naleppa, MS, MBA, DrM, FACHE, President/CEO. "Staff from across the organization continue to work together to develop and implement approaches that have the potential to improve care for the patients in our community."

The Joint Commission's hospital standards are developed in consultation with health care experts and providers, measurement experts and patients. The standards are informed by scientific literature and expert consensus to help hospitals measure, assess and improve performance.

Stay up to date with vaccinations

The new school year is here making it the perfect time to make sure your kids are up-to-date with their vaccinations. All boys and girls ages 11 to 12 should receive the Human Papillomavirus (HPV) vaccine this year if they have not already. Not only is HPV the most common form of sexually transmitted infection, it can also cause cervical and other cancers. Fortunately, HPV vaccination is safe and effective and protects both males and females from the diseases potentially caused by HPV.

About 79 million Americans are infected with HPV, with 14 million new infections every year. While HPV can often go away on its own without any symptoms, in some instances it can lead to a variety of cancers or other health complications. The best protection from HPV is vaccination as a preteen. Across Maryland, vaccination rates for HPV are lower than some other vaccinations for the same recommended age group, leading the State to focus on increasing awareness and education about the virus and prevention this year.

The HPV vaccination is given in a series of three shots over the course of six months. It is important that all three doses are completed to receive full protection from the vaccine. The vaccine is available through your primary care doctor. It is also available through the Worcester County Health Department during back-to-school vaccination clinics. For more information, visit worcesterhealth.org or call 410.632.1100.

PRMC to hold free breast cancer conference

Peninsula Regional Medical Center's Richard A. Henson Cancer Institute will hold its 12th annual Breast Cancer Conference, "A Perspective on Breast Cancer," on Wednesday, October 5 at the Wicomico Youth & Civic Center in Salisbury.

Presented in partnership with Susan G. Komen for the Cure Maryland, the American Cancer Society, MAC Inc. and Women Supporting Women, the conference is aimed at breast cancer survivors and others interested in breast cancer who want to learn more about what's new in diagnosis, treatment, survival and resources.

Registration for the event and vendor exhibits will start at 4:30 p.m.; dinner will be served at 5:15 p.m. Presentations will run from 6 p.m. until 8 p.m. Topics covered include advances in imaging and treatments for breast cancer, as well as information about a survivorship research study taking place at Peninsula Regional. The conference will end with a Q& A panel discussion with the audience.

There is no cost to attend this conference, but space is limited. To register, please visit https://www.peninsula.org/events/breast-cancer-conference or call 410-543-7006.

'Room by Emma Donoghue

The homes of Ocean Pines play host to a fair number of book clubs. Being a member of two such clubs, the following observation in "Room" a novel by Irish author, Emma Donoghue, struck me as amusing, "They're her book club but I don't know why because they're not reading books." Thus muses Jack as he sits on the stairs out of sight. He interprets everything literally and that is paramount in his adjustment once he is Outside. By capitalizing certain words Jack indicates that he has named some nouns in honor of their importance in his solitary life or that objects have become best friends. Here is a clue to seeing life through his eyes which he relates and emphasizes in a mater-offact way.

So later in the novel we find him eavesdropping on the ladies book club meeting at his grandma's house. This book first hit book shelves in 2011 but recent events have encouraged readers to seek it out lately. The movie "Room" was a tremendous success on the big screen in 2015 and featured Brie Larson in the starring role of Jack's mother for which she received an Oscar for best actress.

As Jack begins the narration of his story we meet him on the occasion of his fifth birthday. He and Ma live in Room, an 11 x 11 garden shed surrounded by a hedge and bushes. It is made of vinyl-coated steel, soundproofed, with a fixed-in-place skylight being the solitary window and a coded security door. As a young girl, Ma was originally abducted several years ago and Room is where Jack was born. He has lived here with Ma his entire life

DAR to celebrate Constitution Week

The tradition of celebrating Constitution Week was started many years ago by the Daughters of the American Revolution (DAR). In 1955, the DAR petitioned Congress to set aside September 17-23 annually to be dedicated for the observance of Constitution Week. The resolution was later adopted by the U.S. Congress and signed into law on August 2, 1956, by President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

In Worcester County, the General Levin Winder DAR Chapter will celebrate Constitution Week by again inviting all venues with a bell to participate in the Bells Across America project on Sunday, September 18. This includes all churches, fire houses, city governments, and even individuals to ring bells at 11 a.m. Last year's bell-ringing was a success, with communities across Worcester County participating. The General Levin Winder Chapter received special recognition in 2015 from the Maryland State Society DAR for their efforts in promoting this uniquely American tradition.

Constitution Week honors the men who framed the Constitution which remains the legal foundation of our country. This year is the 229th anniversary of the signing of the Constitution and the 225th anniversary of the ratification of the first ten amendments known as the Bill of Rights. The delegates to the Philadelphia Convention labored during the summer of 1787 to compose the document and signed it on September 17, 1787. Thirty-nine delegates signed the Constitution including George Washington who presided over the convention. Signing for Maryland were Daniel Carroll, Daniel Jenifer, and James McHenry.

Genealogy group to meet

The Genealogy Group will meet September 19, from 10:30 a.m. to noon at the Ocean Pines library for the first of a fourpart workshop. The first lesson is Genealogy Basics: Family trees, terms, lineages or pedigrees, dates, names, marriages, children and death records. All are welcome to attend from beginning researchers to experienced genealogists. Bring any questions and be prepared to share. The event is moderated by Tom Dempsey, past vice president and life-long researcher.

and has never been Outside. (Ma was there for two years prior to giving birth to Jack in Room.) Ma is visited some nights by their captor, "Old Nick" and so Jack's bed is in Wardrobe. It's Ma's posture of defiance - keeping Jack from any contact with Old Nick.

Jack relates in great detail the many activities that fill his days. Meal times are scheduled by Clock but food is sparse, so they must ration, such as count out pieces of dry cereal for breakfast. On a daily schedule mother and son exercise, sing, play games, read books (a total of only five), craft, dance, pray, write and draw with the five, colored crayons on hand. Jack can switch TV on and wiggle Bunny (antenna) for a clearer picture but he doesn't watch all the time because "his brains would rot." He describes all of this in a genial manner - much like a conversation you might have with a precocious five year old - but because of his isolation you will note the difference.

Wearying of the cat and mouse game with their captor as they ineffectually try to free themselves Ma devises a daring plan. In it Jack must play the pivotal role and we see how his life's lessons with Ma have prepared him for this wrenching moment in his life. And so they escape from Room.

But Jack is overwhelmed by Outside. He is comfortable with Ma but now he is surrounded by a dizzying array of people; the doctors and nurses, the media who paint him a celebrity and Ma's family, now his, Jack's most puzzling encounters.

again I struggled with her decision. But Jack's purity and innocence will subtly captivate as well as his mother's perseverance to push on day after day.

I read once where reading encourages empathy and certainly it is in need today. You will pull this little boy into your heart. And though acceptance to Outside is difficult for him we know that what has gone before has made him stronger and so he will survive.

cer ball. But it remains for Steppa to unquestionably accept the ways of a strange little boy who is too old for his tender years.

Make no mistake - this book is about the confinement of the human body as well as cloistering the soul. Some might view this premise as unrelenting and depressing. I must admit I approached it less than enthusiastically. Ma exhibits behavior readers may question - here and

Hello Fellow Gardeners,

Welcome to September and hopefully, we will enjoy some cooler weather. I hope you all enjoy this beautiful month. The children have all returned to school; the traffic is much lighter in our area; the house guests have left, and now we can get back to our regular schedules and routines.

I assume you gardeners are still harvesting summer vegetables, as I am. My two tomato plants growing in large buckets continue to turn red or yellow, depending on the Brandywine variety. My lone cucumber plant continues to struggle to produce. In talking with other gardeners, their cucumber plants have not done as well this year as in past years.

My basil plant has bolted, but I managed to snip off several cuttings and have placed them in a tall glass of water to root them. Once they develop nice roots, I will plant them in a container of rich soil and hopefully will enjoy fresh basil well into fall. You can do the same and enjoy fresh basil as needed all fall until the frost gets them. Are you wondering what gardening chores you might want to consider for September? There are plenty, so let's begin with a few, as you might want to save some for October.

*How would you like to have your own fresh greens for salads right by your doorstep? Well, you can. After you pull out your spent annuals from your containers, clean those containers well and add fresh potting soil with a little fertilizer and then plant your choice of greens, such as lettuce, spinach, kale and other greens that you love. When planting those tiny plants, allow plenty of room for them to grow. It is better to use two or three containers than only one where they may be too crowded. Water well, and make sure you place them in a spot where they will get plenty of sun. Check out your local greenhouses for purchasing these green plants. Good luck!

*This is the time of year to transplant and move your perennials if they were spring and summer bloomers. It is also an excellent time to plant newly purchased perennials. There are some important do's and don'ts when doing this chore.

Don't divide perennials after October as the roots need time to establish themselves while the soil is still warm.

Do prepare the site for new divisions before you divide them.

Do make sure your tools are sharp. Sharp knives, trowels, or other tools cause fewer open wounds.

Do discard the dead woody centers of old plants. Cut the remaining section of the healthy plant into smaller pieces for replanting.

Do remove one half to two thirds of the foliage on your divisions so they won't wick water from the plants, but don't cut off more then that as this will slow growth and invite rot.

Do replant divisions as soon as possible; don't leave them lying in the sun as these divisions are very vulnerable.

Do plant divisions one half inch higher than they were planted originally as they will sink a little as the soil settles.

Do water your divisions well. Give them a good soaking as you plant them and then water regularly.

Give them a feed of fish emulsion or other fertilizer to provide trace elements and to speed up establishment.

Do mulch plants when the soil cools to prevent shallow freezing; shredded leaves or straw can be used.

Well, it sounds like a lot of work, but you will say it was worth it all next spring and summer when your beautiful perennials are in full bloom.

Enjoy this beautiful month as you clean up your vegetable and flower gardens and put them to rest for the winter.

"There is something about sun and soil that heals broken bodies and jangled nerves."

What's this about Canadian Wines?

In continuing with our road trip theme from last month, Canadian wines are up next. After my family's stop in green and lush Vermont earlier this summer, we spent a few days in Montreal that proved to be some of the best days of our trip. Canada's geography is striking, with more coastline than any other country in the world. Its borders bump up against three oceans: Pacific, Atlantic, and Arctic, and there are a variety of lakes inland. All of this water has a varying effect on climate across the vast country, making for some excellent opportunities for winemaking.

Canada's history in the winemaking business is not entirely clear. Some historians peg the origin to around 1000 A.D. when the Viking leader, Leif Eriksson discovered grape-producing vines in the area he correspondingly named "Vinland." Today it is the province of Newfoundland in northeastern Canada. Local species of grape were the Vitis riparia  and Vitis labrusca. In 1836, a planter by the name of Ephraim Bull of Concord, Massachusetts, cultivated the Labrusca grape and named his the Concord grape. While not as popular today, Concord grapes were used in creating sweet wines in Canada until well into the 1970s. Canada's primary regions for winemaking are in the Niagara Peninsula in British Columbia (specializing in Pinot Grigio and Merlot wines), Quebec (known for Vidal and Seyval Blanc wines), Nova Scotia (for Muscat, dessert, and sparkling wines), and Ontario (for Chardonnay, Pinot Noir, and Cabernet Franc wines).

A specialty in Canada that bears calling out is their ice wine. (This harkens me back to last year's article on Scandinavian wines, as these countries also create the product). Since the 1990s, Canada has become a premier producer of ice wine, and it is mostly produced in Ontario. The grapes are naturally frozen on the vine and are left there until well into the winter months to allow the sugars, acids, and fruit taste to become highly concentrated. The most commonly used varietals are the Vidal, Riesling, and Cabernet Franc. The grapes are pressed while still frozen, extracting intense flavors and at considerable effort. By way of comparison, a typical grapevine will produce a bottle of wine, but a frozen grapevine only produces one glass of ice wine. The final product is said to be a delicious balance of sweetness and acidity, the acidity providing a crisp, bracing finish. Ice wines can be enjoyed on their own or mixed into dessert recipes or with brandy to make liqueurs. A good place to find Canadian ice wine is www.mvwinecanada.com.

September 14, 2016 The Courier Page 11

Getting back to our road trip, we found two wines produced by the Nicolas Laloux winery based in Montreal, Quebec. The wines' label is in French showing a Bohemian gentleman astride a bike. On the winery's website, the English translation for the bicyclist is given as "an independent and passionate individual whose unconventional lifestyle is governed by musical, artistic or literary interests, and by a code of self-respect and intellectual refinement." Who knew that we were going to get all of this in our bottles of Les Chais 330 Rosé and Les Chais 550 Vin Blanc? The word "chais" in French means "cellars." Montreal was charming and picturesque, making us feel like we were walking through cobblestoned streets in France. Along with the friendly people we met, the atmosphere certainly called for partaking in the local wines. Both wines were tart and crisp with the rosé being slightly sweeter. I wouldn't consider either of the wines far on the sweet spectrum. They were a delicious complement to the breads, cheeses, and soups we enjoyed, particularly the tomato and corn gazpacho I ordered. Natalie MacLean has a number of reviews on her website for the Nicolas Laloux wines at www.nataliemaclean.com.

Our trip to Montreal was full of nice surprises as we had never been there before, and we heartily enjoyed the sights and sounds of the city. One of the surprises was discovering that Canada offers a wide variety of wines, complete with fascinating stories about how and where they are produced. Knowing that this vast country is our friendly neighbor offers another reason to try their wines and experience their hospitality.

Kane will speak at NAACP meeting

On Thursday, September 22 at 6 p.m., Worcester County NAACP will welcome speaker Tom Kane, Emergency Management Planner for Worcester County Emergency Services. Kane will discuss the process, "Preparedness, Respond, and Recovery" as it pertains to Worcester County residents. The meeting will occur at the Snow Hill library located at 307 N. Washington St. in Snow Hill. Executive board officers for next year will also be nominated at this meeting. Call 443-944-6701 for more information.

Maryland's health club law: is your gym in compliance?

By Steven W. Rakow, Esquire

Many people frequent health clubs. Some join national chains like Powerhouse, 24-Hour Fitness, Curves, or Anytime Fitness. Others may join small, locally owned gyms like CrossFit Ocean City or Furious Fitness. While gyms are clearly health clubs, other fitness-related facilities fall under Maryland's Health Club Law. By statute, health clubs include: health spas, figure salons, weight reduction centers, self-defense schools, or other physical culture service enterprises offering facilities for the preservation, maintenance, encouragement, or development of physical fitness or physical well-being. Laws have been put in place to protect consumers from unscrupulous health club owners.

Health clubs fall into three categories: (1) those requiring a surety bond; (2) those not requiring a surety bond because they do not collect more than $200 in advance, have no initiation fee, and do not collect more than three month's dues up front; and (3)pay-per-day health clubs that have no contracts, no initiation fees, and no advanced payments or dues. Regardless of which category the health club falls into, the health club must register with the Consumer Protection Division of the Attorney General's Office and must notify their members in writing using specific language set forth by the Division. Those health clubs who fail to register can be shut down and fined for engaging in an unfair or deceptive trade practice.

Consumers of health club services have a lot of rights under the law. Health clubs must provide written contracts or fee schedules to their members in a format approved by the Division. Contracts must have certain clauses to alert consumers as to the type of club (bonded, not bonded, payper-day) and the right to cancel within 3 days. Automatic renewal clauses are not allowed unless the member can opt out of the renewal.

If a consumer becomes injured or disabled for a period in excess of 3 months, the membership must be extended for an equal period of time. If the health club closes for more than one month, the membership must be extended for an equal period of time, or there must be a prorated refund of the membership fees paid.

If a consumer signs a pre-opening membership agreement with a health club and the health club fails to open, the consumer is entitled to a refund.

The consumer may also cancel the membership within three days of the health club opening.

There are both civil and criminal penalties for violating the Consumer Protection Act through an unfair or deceptive trade practice. Civil penalties include $1,000 fine for a first offense and up to $5,000 for repeat offenses in addition to allowing the aggrieved consumer to recover separate damages. The criminal penalty for violating the statute could result, in addition to civil penalties, a misdemeanor conviction with a fine of $1,000 and up to one year in jail.

While the foregoing regulations may seem onerous to some, there have been many health clubs that have taken advantage of consumers of the years. The Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division maintains a website where consumers can see if their health club is registered. This can be found at https://www.oag.state.md.us/healthclub. If you see a club that fails to comply with the statute, report it.

Health club owners also have protections too. The contract the consumer enters into is just that – a contract. Once a consumer enters into a valid contract with a health club, the consumer must make sure he or she pays on time and keeps their method of payment current. Failure to do so could result in the health club suing the consumer to recover fees owed under the contract.

Wilgus wins DAISY award

General Hospital Atlantic awarded the DAISY Award for excellence in nursing to Mary Wilgus, RN at a recent presentation.

Wilgus has worked with Atlantic General Hospital for over nine years. She supports the hospital in caring for the community and its visitors as a staff and charge nurse, as well as patient care supervisor. Of her nomination, Wilgus says, "There is no greater compliment than the kind words of the people we care for."

One nomination Wilgus received stated, "She tries her hardest to meet the needs of the patients and staff...making every patient feel safe and well informed. Mary is a blessing to everyone she comes in contact with!"

The DAISY Award, created by The DAISY Foundation in Memory of J. Patrick Barnes, honors the extraordinary work nurses do for patients and families each day. Hospital leadership brought the awards program to Atlantic General to recognize the compassion and high level of care its nurses provide to residents and visitors of the community.

Patients and visitors can nominate an Atlantic General Hospital and Health System nurse for the DAISY Award at any time. Nomination forms are available in every hospital department and health system physician office. Awards are bestowed quarterly.

Naleppa announces retirement plans

sula Regional Medical Center Board of Trustees, announced

last week that Peggy

Naleppa will retire in January 2018 from her position as the president/CEO of

Peninsula Regional

Monty Sayler, chairman, Peninsula Regional Health System Board of Directors and Penin-

Peggy Naleppa

Medical Center and Peninsula Regional Health System. Her retirement will cap a healthcare career that spanned over 40 years and saw Dr. Naleppa in a number of leadership and executive roles from registered nurse at the bedside to CEO of the eighth largest health system in the state of Maryland.

The Board of Trustees has enlisted the assistance of a national firm, Witt/Kieffer, to conduct both an internal and external nationwide search for candidates to be considered as the next president/CEO of Peninsula Regional Medical Center and the Peninsula Regional Health System.

Dr. Naleppa joined Peninsula Regional Medical Center in 2003 as its Executive Vice President/COO. She was named president in 2008, and led the hospital during a succession period where she worked closely with retiring CEO Alan Newberry. Upon Newberry's departure in 2010, she was named the Health System's president/CEO.

Dr. Naleppa's healthcare career began as director of Neurosurgical Services at George Washington University Medical Center in Washington, DC. She has served as a clinical leader or as a senior executive at several hospitals in Maryland. She has served as president of the Maryland Chapter of the Healthcare Financial Management Association (HFMA) and has held several leadership positions with the Maryland Hospital Association (MHA). She is also a fellow of the American College of Healthcare Executives.

"Peggy's leadership may be based on the Eastern Shore, but her influence reaches across the state. At the same time she was building PRMC into a nationally respected patientand community-centered organization, her innovative way of thinking and leading as chair of the Maryland Hospital Association's key financial policy council made her a statewide consensus builder," said Carmela Coyle, president & CEO of the Maryland Hospital Association. "She has played an especially important role in our current work to see that model progress to one guiding not just hospital costs, but the total cost of care in our state. As a member of our association, her contributions are invaluable; as a mentor, her knowledge and generosity are insightful; as a friend, she is, simply, cherished."

Dr. Naleppa, who is a registered nurse, holds a Bachelor of Science in Healthcare Administration from St. Joseph's College; a Master of Administration degree with a concentration in finance from the University of Maryland UC; an MBA with a concentration in medical services from Johns Hopkins University; and a Doctorate in Management with a concentration in organizational process management from the University of Maryland UC. She has also been presented a second Doctorate in Public Service from the University of Maryland Eastern Shore.

She lists among her most gratifying professional accomplishments the creation of awards to honor staff and assist those entering the healthcare profession, including the President's Leadership Award, the Ed Urban Quality Award, the Leighton Moore Helping Hands Award, the PRMC Super Hero Safety Award and the Naleppa Family Healthcare Scholarship Fund.

During her nearly 14 years in executive leadership at PRMC, Dr. Naleppa has also overseen a number of significant projects that have improved healthcare and healthcare opportunities for residents of the Delmarva Peninsula.

"It's an honor and a privilege to lead this organization. I humbly start my day on my knees and in prayer. With significant responsibility comes significant blessings - healthcare is a team sport and I am blessed with a great leadership team, an innovative and forward thinking Board of Trustees, an outstanding team of physicians, caregivers, support and professional staff," said Dr. Naleppa.
