According to the World Health Organization, depression is a major cause of disease burden worldwide, affecting an estimated 350 million people. According to the National Institutes of Mental Health, in 2014 an estimated 15.7 million adults aged 18 or older in the United States had experienced at least one major depressive episode in the past year. An international evidence review published in the American Journal of Psychiatry has found that certain nutritional supplements can increase the effectiveness of antidepressants for people with clinical depression. Both Omega-3 fish oils and Vitamin D were found to boost the effects of medication. A similar review published in Translational Psychiatry supports the link between intake of EPA and DHA omega-3 fatty acids and reduction in major depressive disorder (MDD). The effect was greater in studies supplementing higher doses of EPA and performed in patients already on antidepressants.

A common antihistamine used to treat symptoms of allergies and the common cold, called clemastine fumarate, partially reversed damage to the visual system in people with multiple sclerosis (MS) in a preliminary study that was presented recently at the American Academy of Neurology's Annual Meeting. The study involved people with MS and optic neuropathy, which is damage to the nerve that sends information from the eye to the brain. In people with MS the immune system destroys myelin, the protective coating around the nerves, which then leads to damage along the nerves, slowing signals to and from the brain. Optic nerve damage is a common consequence of the disease.

The Holy Bible plainly supports righteousness given by The Holy Father and He has no pleasure for a sinner to perish (Ezek 18:20-24). Christ was sent to the sinner seeking repentance (Mk 2:17, Jn 3:16, 1Jn 3:8), to sin no more (Jn 5:14, 8:11). There is no doubt who is the minister of churches (2Cor 11:13-15) that teach Christians are under grace not law, eat unclean meat, changed The Biblical Holy Days to man's commanded days, cannot out sin The Holy Father's love, no need to be baptized, Christ does not talk to them, given a new covenant, the old covenant was done away with. These are just some of the fabricated church teachings that cannot be found in The Bible. When fabrications create Christians, then they are a fabricated Christian, not of Christ The Holy Truth (Jn 14:6). It is Satanism to deny what Christ Biblically taught (Jn 16:22-24, 2Jn 9-11). So Be It! Ron & Jeri

Do you feel like this poor guy looks? If you can't wear your CPAP because of its bulkiness or discomfort, it's definitely not helping your sleep apnea. Many of our patients report feeling better and more rested than they have in years. Call us at (256) 287-1250 about a sleep apnea consultation today.
