YMCA-NAPA tournament raises $30,000 for local children

Thirty-five teams turned out recently for the seventh annual YMCA-NAPA Charity Golf Tournament, netting $30,387. The event took place at Martindale Country Club in Auburn and featured more than 50 sponsors from the local business community. All proceeds will benefit the YMCA's financial assistance program, which last year gave away more than $95,000 in scholarships to local children and families who would otherwise not be able to participate in enrichment programs at the Y, including summer camp, swim lessons, youth sports, and dance.

Jim Whitmore of JCWNAPA Distributors congratulates Pennell Woodard, who was inducted into the 2016 YMCA Hall of Fame during the tournament.

Jim Whitmore, owner of five local NAPA stores, has been title sponsor since the tournament's inception in 2010. "First and foremost, See YMCA, page 3 the YMCA is a cause,” said Whitmore, a life-long member of the Y and father of two. “It’s a place where children and adults of all ages can become healthier and stronger together. Our tournament is about making sure those opportunities exist for all families, regardless of ability to pay.”

YMCA

This year’s tournament took on special significance as more than 150 players and guests celebrated the induction of Pennell Woodard of Auburn into the 2016 YMCA Hall of Fame. In addition to his more than 50 years of service to the Y, Woodard is among the tournament’s founding committee members.

In a citation delivered during the tournament’s reception, CEO Steve Wallace said, “There have been many community leaders among Mr. Pennell Woodard’s generation, but for the breadth and depth of his service, Penny stands head and shoulders above his peers.”

The day also offered several opportunities for players to show off their skills. Among the tournament standouts were Team Kimberly-Clark and Team Patrons Oxford Insurance, who took first gross and first net, respectively. Ethan Guerette of Auburn once again won longest drive for the men, while Lena-Jo Hartley of Auburn won longest drive among the women.

Members of the 2016 committee included Sharon Chapman (chair), Jim Whitmore, Greg Whitney, Fern Masse, Pennell Woodard, Beth Shea, Kim Slivinski, Joseph Perryman, Greg Hird, Chris Shea, Marcie Hird, Rebecca Hodgdon and Victoria Stanton.

The tournament’s planning committee is already looking ahead to next year’s event, which will take place at Martindale in September 2017.

AHA plans “Little Heart Hero Day”

The American Heart Association will host Maine’s second annual “Little Heart Hero Day” for families affected by heart defects on Sunday, October 16 from 1 to 3 p.m. at the Franco Center in Lewiston. There will be a brief speaking program from 1:30 to 1:45, but otherwise this will be an afternoon of fun and networking for children with congenital heart defects and their families.

Children’s activities will include a heart canvas craft using each child’s footprint or handprint, pumpkin decorating, make your own health snack bag, hands-only CPR demonstrations, face painting and balloon art. AHA Mascot “Ticker” will be on hand and all Heart Heroes (survivors of congenital heart defects) will receive special red capes.

During the short speaking program, country musician Mark Gentle of Farmington will perform “Carter’s Song” for his son as well as additional live music. Mark and his family were featured on the “Today” and Rachael Ray shows after their son Carter’s photograph of his heart scars went viral with an outpouring of support. Megan Allen of Winslow, mother of congenital heart defect survivor and an AHA advocate who helped pass a bill to screen all Maine newborns for CHDs, will be honored. And Sarah Cummings of Auburn, an adult CHD survivor and mother of two children, will share her message of hope for parents of children with birth defects.

Heart defects are the leading birth defect in Maine children. In the U.S., about 40,000 babies are born with a CHD each year, which equates to one child every 15 minutes. Approximately 25% of children born with a CHD will need heart surgery or other interventions to survive. Today, because of advancements made through research, more infants born with congenital heart defects survive to adulthood.

The Franco Center is located at 46 Cedar Street in Lewiston. For more information about the event, call 289-2387.

Auburn sees a flurry of commercial and residential activity

By Jonathan P. LaBonté
MAYOR OF AUBURN

The last few months have seen a flurry of activity in Auburn and a demonstration of positive momentum as we seek to grow the city and attract more people and investment here. If you drive around the community often, you’ve probably seen much of the movement on these projects. If not, let’s do a recap of some of what’s happening.

For those long awaiting the reconstruction of Park Avenue in Auburn, the final phase of that project, totaling about $3 million, is underway. Once complete, those who wish to walk or bike in that neighborhood will now find a safe connection from Court Street west all the way to Mount Auburn Avenue.

Residents of New Auburn will be pleased by the end of this month that

Mayor Jonathan P. LaBonté

South Main Street, after a couple of generations of potholes, poor drainage and bumpy sidewalks, will have been reconstructed along its full length through the neighborhood. While it’s been a headache at times, patience will have paid off and the millions in public investment to modernize that street will be well worth it.

There are many other public infrastructure projects that could be mentioned, like the transportation center in Great Falls Plaza, but the private investment that is coming into Auburn is what will help with property taxes and the creation of jobs.

We have seen several vacant buildings find new life along our major commercial corridors. Minot Avenue was recently home to a Pizza Hut; it is now a brand-new location for cult-favorite ice cream stand Fielder’s Choice. Have you heard winter is coming? It won’t matter to those who love their ice cream, as this location will be open year-round.

in permitted new residential construction or residential improvements. This is a strong commitment for homeowners’ continued investment in our community and shows we are attracting new homeowners as well.

And in our downtown neighborhoods, the Auburn City Council will soon be taking up a new program to provide incentives to small businesses that would consider locating or expanding there. Coined the Storefront Traffic Accelerates Revitalization (or STAR) program, the goal will be to provide incentives for building owners with storefronts, or the small businesses themselves, to rehab space and fit it out for uses that generate foot traffic.

Over on Center Street, the highest volume highway in greater Lewiston-Auburn, including the Turnpike, another old Pizza Hut location will soon be a Sherwin Williams paint shop. Contractors and homeowners looking to make some aesthetic improvements will now have another choice of locations for these premium products.

Just next door, a brand-new building featuring two 1,200-square-foot office spaces is being constructed.

Time and time again, cities and towns that have revitalized downtowns have done it with the growth of foot traffic by making the areas more inviting, walkable and attractive for retail, dining or nightlife.

And for some additional good news upcoming in October, this month marks the launch of a new college hockey team based out of the Norway Savings Bank Arena, the Central Maine Community College men’s team. More teams based in the arena means more ice time rental, more fans attending games and more visiting teams in hotels and restaurants.

Across the street, a property that was once a Tim Horton’s coffee shop will find new life as a Taco Bell, for anyone seeking to “Live Mas” in Auburn.

And, as if I have to remind folks, the former Paris Farmer’s Union building is coming down to be replaced with a new multi-million-dollar building to include Maine’s first Krispy Kreme, a Firehouse Subs and likely a couple other businesses.

Reinvestment and new construction along Lewiston-Auburn’s primary commercial corridor in our city is important to its long-term viability, and these projects speak to the attraction of this area.

Outside of commercial projects, in August alone Auburn saw over $1 million

Speaking of more teams, the UMaine women’s hockey team, coming off a game in Auburn last year that drew one of the largest crowds to watch Division 1 women’s hockey nationally, is in line to play two games this year, including one against rival UNH.

Auburn is continuing to take steps forward, and this is just a sampling of the long list why.

Enough is Enough

Can-do spirit has been replaced with victimization

By Robert E. Macdonald
MAYOR OF LEWISTON

Yes, I admit I get my news from Fox. Anyone surprised? I also watch the The O'Reilly Factor.

Lately throughout the show, O'Reilly has continually pushed his latest book in the Killing Series, "Killing the Rising Sun." I enjoy history and at least a decade ago I spent four to five years researching and reading books and watching documentary films on World War II.

Listening to O'Reilly ginning up his new book, I anxiously awaited its release—and perhaps my anticipation that a book could be a lot of hype but very little substance. Boy, was I wrong!

I bring the book up because, like many of you, I have had it with the anti-American mood gaining momentum daily throughout this country. Thanks to the attention given by the press to a second-string, has-been San Francisco quarterback, Colin Kaepernick, his actions are spreading throughout professional football, college and high school teams. They have even spread to the chambers of New York's City Council.

Every group coming to America, including the Jamestown settlers and the Pilgrims that landed at Plymouth Rock, experienced hardships and prejudices. All had it hard; some worse than others. But through courage, determination, hard work and a can-do spirit gained by believing in themselves, all had the opportunity to prosper.

But today the can-do spirit of past generations has been replaced with victimization. In homes, schools, colleges and the workplace, if a person becomes upset they immediately seek a "safe space" so as not to confront the problem they have been faced with. While they are in this safe-seeking state, don't confront them or quicker than you can say "roadrunner" a gaggle of lawyers will reply, "beep beep."

It is hard to imagine where our country would be if those terrible rich white privileged forefathers—who risked the loss of not only their wealth, but also their lives by execution, most likely hanged and quartered—had sought "safe spaces." What if they had sent messages to the King and Parliament reading, "You're being so unfair" or "Isn't hanging and quartering a bit harsh for conflict resolution?"

Perhaps it is time for these perpetually timid sheep of our country to quit whining and start appreciating what many have sacrificed to allow them to carry on their reprehensible anti-American conduct. Perhaps they should provide an answer to the question: What real sacrifice have I made for the people of America?

A reading of "Killing the Rising Sun" may give those who have no appreciation of the freedom they enjoy, which was bought and brought to them by the blood, sweat and sacrifice of others, a new perspective. A reading may also spark interest and cause a thirst to obtain more knowledge and a greater understanding of the country they are protesting.

The vivid descriptions in the book of what these men experienced during the battles fought lack only one thing—the sickening smell of battle. It also provides the reader with the appreciation of how and why the spirit of individualism instilled by our forefathers has made our country great.

In battle, when American leaders were killed, every American serviceman had the ability to step up and assume a leadership position. This trait was not found in any of our adversaries.

At the end of each show, Bill O'Reilly reads listeners email. One woman wrote his "book should be required in all high schools." I agree.

It's time to stop apologizing for and defaming our past. Our purported faults, laid out by whiners and people who seek out and encourage victimization, have somehow made our country great and until the last eight years have kept order in the world.

It's time to reverse course and restore America to her rightful place in the world. Say, does anyone know where Teddy has put his stick?

I wish our Jewish readers a Happy New Year.

Kiwanis seek donations for shoe drive

The Lewiston-Auburn Kiwanis Club is conducting a shoe drive through November 11 to raise funds to help support community programs for local youth. The Key Clubs of both St. Dominic Academy and Lisbon High School are assisting the Kiwanis Club with this project.

In partnership with Funds2Orgs, the club will earn funds based upon the total weight of the shoes collected. Anyone can help by donating gently worn, used or new shoes. They can be dropped off Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. at St. Dominic Academy's Auburn campus, located at 121 Gracelawn Road in Auburn; St. Dominic Academy's Lewiston campus, located at 17 Baird Avenue in Lewiston; or at Lisbon High School, located at 2 Sugg Drive in Lisbon Falls.

After the collection, all donated shoes will be redistributed by Funds2Orgs' network of microenterprise partners in developing nations. Funds2Orgs helps impoverished people start, maintain and grow businesses in Haiti, Honduras and other nations in Central America and Africa. Proceeds from the shoe sales are used to feed, clothe and house the participants' families.

"We know most people have extra shoes in their closets, so we hope they will donate them to us to help those less fortunate become self-sufficient," said Club President Paul Gauvreau. "It's a win-win for everyone!" Those wishing to donate shoes can reach Gauvreau at 577-7298 or info@kiwanislewistonauburnmaine.org.

Women's spirituality circle offers workshop

The women's spirituality circle, or "Cakes Group," of Unitarian Universalist Church of Auburn will present a workshop called "Exploring your Personal Tree of Life at Midlife and Beyond" on Saturday, October 15 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Women at mid-life and beyond discover that, as they age, there can be new passions, new purpose, and new avenues of exploration. In this experiential retreat-workshop, Rev. D'Vorah Kelley will create sacred space to help participants explore what they each still want to do with their lives that feels important and fulfilling. Rev. Kelley is an ordained Interfaith Minister from Keene, NH and a longtime Unitarian Universalist. A gifted facilitator of women's circles, she knows first-hand the power of the circle to affect women's lives.

This workshop is open to all women. The registration fee is $45; scholarships are available. Participants should bring their own bag lunch.

For more information, email Anne Kinney at akinneyuu@twc.com, call 783-0461 or see www.auburnuu.org.

First Universalist Church of Auburn is located at 169 Pleasant Street. Enter on Spring Street, across from Dairy Joy. The building is wheelchair accessible and has abundant parking.

St. Dom's celebrates new solar panel system

Saint Dominic Academy will celebrate their new solar panel energy system with a ribbon cutting ceremony on Thursday, October 13 at noon on their campus at 121 Gracelawn Road in Auburn. Installed by ReVision Energy in December of 2015, the system includes a 350-panel solar energy array on the roof of the school's Auburn campus, making it one of the largest solar projects in the area. It generates 144,000 kWh of renewable solar energy per year, which is the equivalent of preventing 106,655 pounds of coal or 11,173 gallons of natural gas from being consumed.

"We're so impressed with the results," said Saint Dominic Academy President Donald Fournier. "So far, nearly half of our electricity has been generated from solar energy, which exceeded our expectations. It's great for our students to see that we are following Pope Francis' call to be good stewards of the environment by reducing our carbon footprint."

ReVision Energy finances, owns, and operates the 126 kW solar energy array through a Power Purchase Agreement. With the system under ReVision Energy's ownership, the project is able to capture federal renewable energy tax credits that are unavailable to Saint Dominic Academy. After six years, Saint Dominic Academy has the option of purchasing the solar energy system from ReVision Energy or continuing to purchase the power that the system generates at or below current market rate values.

The company will have an information table set up at the event, and experts will be on hand to answer questions about the technology. For more information, contact Jennifer Radel, Director of Marketing and Communications at Saint Dominic Academy, at 782-6911.

2016 Dempsey Challenge: A record-breaking year

On behalf of everyone at The Dempsey Center, we'd like to thank all the participants, volunteers and fundraisers of the 8th Annual Dempsey Challenge presented by Amgen. It's our hope that everyone who participated came away with a sense of pride in their community.

This year we had a total of 3,789 participants from 33 states, and 7 countries, as well as over 1,000 volunteers! We raised over $1.2 million and counting, which directly benefits The Dempsey Center. Because of those funds, we're able to improve the Quality of Life of anyone impacted by cancer, and provide a personalized, holistic and integrated approach to cancer prevention, education and support.

"We're hoping the Challenge continues to draw participants from all over the world, and raise awareness and support for those impacted by cancer," says actor, and Dempsey Center founder, Patrick Dempsey.

The Dempsey Challenge presented by Amgen champions the spirit of celebration and culture of paying it forward – and that spirit was strong throughout the entire weekend. The Dempsey Challenge is not successful because of any one single effort, but because of a collective of hope, support and love from the community. It is an event we are honored, and humbled, to be a part of.

For more information about the Dempsey Center or Dempsey Challenge, please visit us at dempseycenter.org, or contact Dani Colvin at colvinda@cmhc.org.

Learning about political cartoons at APL

Don Robitaille stands at the Political Cartoons Exhibit set up for the first part of the Auburn Public Library's series for "No Laughing Matter: The Pulitzer Prize and the Art of Editorial Cartooning." The series will continue in October.

Story and photos by Rachel Morin

We were a good sized audience, eagerly gathering at the Auburn Public Library September 19 to hear Historian Erin Bishop, former Director for Education, Abraham Lincoln Library and Museum in Illinois and also the former Director of Maine Archives and Museums, deliver an interesting history of political cartoons from its earliest beginnings. An exhibit of political cartoons was set up in a trifold display in the Androscoggin Community Room which drew a lot of attention prior to the program.

Bishop is the first speaker in APL's series "No Laughing Matter: The Pulitzer Prize and the Art of Editorial Cartooning" which has Mike Keefe, Pulitzer Prize-winning Cartoonist, Mike Jordan, The Art of Drawing Cartoons, and George Danby, Editorial Cartoonist, Bangor Daily News, appearing in October.

Bishop's excellent presentation was illustrated by political cartoon slides depicting how cartoons had immediate visual impact, minimum of text, dramatic story, easily understood and an exaggeration. The key components of the cartoons are symbolism, captions and labels, analogy, irony, and exaggeration.

America's first political cartoon was Benjamin Franklin's "Join, or Die" published in his "Pennsylvania Gazette" on May 9, 1754. This now famous cartoon shows a snake cut into eight pieces, each labeled with the name of one of the colonies. The position of each colony in the snake corresponds to the geographic position of the colonies along the American coast, with the snake's tail pointing south and the head pointing north. The colonies, from tail to head (south to north), are South Carolina, North Carolina, Virginia, Maryland, Pennsylvania, New

Susan Geismar, APL Development Coordinator, Historian Erin Bishop, and APL Director Mamie Anthoine Ney

Cynthia Peters, Grace and Hugh Keene

Jersey, New York, and New England (New England referred to the colonies of Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, and New Hampshire). The caption reads, "JOIN, or DIE."

The cartoon appeared along with Franklin's editorial about the "disunited state" of the colonies and helped make his point about the importance of colonial unity. The original publication by the Gazette is the earliest known pictorial representation of colonial union produced by a British colonist in America. An interesting thought at the time was a superstition that a snake which had been cut into pieces would come back to life if the pieces were put together before sunset!

Reluctant to leave at the conclusion of Bishop's historic account, the audience remained to talk informally with her. The "No Laughing Matter" series will continue at the Auburn Public Library for the next three weeks in October. FMI, please access www.auburnpubliclibrary.org or call the library at (207) 333-6640.

made Shaker apple crisp, homemade barbeque dinner plates, and more. Chipman's Farm, neighbors to the Shakers since the 1790s, will have a fresh bounty of seasonal produce for sale, along with preserves and baked goods. Maple syrup and maple candy will be sold by Passamaquoddy Maple of Jackman. Seasonal mums, other late-season "bloomers" and houseplants will be available from Donna's Greenhouse.

Traditional craft demonstrations will include Shaker-style broom making by Kent Ruesswick, wool carding, spinning, knitting, and weaving by the R&R Spinners, rug hooking by Parris House Wool Works, blacksmithing by Tim Greene, weaving by Marjie Thompson, wood-turning by Peter Asselyn, and woodcarving by the Poland Woodcarvers. Authors Don Perkins (The Barns of Maine) and Chris Becksvoort (The Shaker Legacy) will be on hand to sign copies of their books.

Free Nature Walks will be offered at 10:30 a.m. and 2 p.m. On these 2-hour guided hikes through the Shakers' land, walkers will learn about the indigenous species of birds, mammals, reptiles, amphibians, fish, plants, trees, and fungi that occupy the many diverse habitats of Shaker Village. See evidence of glacial and geological forces that formed the land and watershed, including Sabbathday Lake from Loon's Point and the hidden treasure of Aurelia's Cascade. This hike through hayfields, forest land, and century-old logging trails will also provide insights into the Shakers' 200 years of land use and management. Pre-registration is not required, but is encouraged due to limited space.

Maine Crafts Guild
presents Brunswick show

Bowl and tops by Lanny Dean of Lanny's Woodturning

In celebration of American Craft Week, the Maine Crafts Guild will present the Brunswick Fine Craft Show on Saturday, October 8 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Sunday, October 9, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Fort Andross Event Center in Brunswick. The show will bring together buyers and artists for a unique opportunity to browse and buy fine crafts in wood, metal, clay, natural fibers and glass in the traditional manufacturing setting of the renovated Fort Andross Mill Complex. There will also be live music.

American Craft Week began as a small, grass-roots effort to enhance the knowledge and appreciation of handmade craft. In 1975, these same principles inspired a community of Maine artisans to establish the Maine Crafts Guild, and they continue to guide the organization.

"American Craft Week has caught the imagination of so many supporters," said Diane Sulg, founder and co-chair of the event. "With the growing appreciation of both artisan products and American-made goods, craft is highly regarded for its strong design, quality materials, expert workmanship and enduring value."

Admission is $3 for adults and free for those ages 18 and under. The Event Center is adjacent to Cabot Mill Antiques in the Fort Andross Mill Complex, located at 14 Maine Street in Brunswick. For more information, see mainecraftsguild.com.

Women's Walking Group to meet through October

At the group's first meeting, fifteen women of all ages gathered to share a potluck dinner, walk the trails, and return for dessert and more social time.

Fifteen women of all ages gathered at the YWCA in Lewiston recently for the first meeting of the YWCA Women's Walking Group. After sharing a potluck dinner, walking the nearby trails, and returning for dessert and more social time, the group, which is open to all women of the Lewiston-Auburn community, made plans to meet every Thursday in October from 5 to 6:30 p.m.

For each October walk, the group will gather at the YWCA for light snacks and hang-out time before walking. Participants are welcome to bring snacks to share, but not required to do so. Then, led by YWCA Community Outreach Specialist Taysir Jama, they will depart to walk a 1.4-mile loop on the Franklin Pasture trails behind Lewiston High School. The trails are private, safe, well-kept, and provide beautiful views of Lewiston. Through a generous donation from Lamey Wellehan Shoes, members of the group will be eligible to receive a free pair of gently-used sneakers. The Women's Walking Group is a PEACE (Positive Ethnic and Cultural Exchange) program, part of a growing YWCA initiative to build community among women and emphasize cross-cultural exchange. This program was inspired by input from participants in the YWCA's Single Gender Swim, a swim class designed to meet the privacy needs of Muslim women. The Women's Walking Group and other PEACE programs will facilitate opportunities for women to meet their neighbors and create relationships with other community members they may not otherwise meet.

For more information about the Women's Walking Group, call the YWCA at 795-4050 or email nbornstein@ywcaine.org.

Public Theatre launches season with "Last Gas"

This funny, touching comedy set in Aroostook County gets its world premiere October 14 through 23 at Lewiston's Public Theatre.

The Public Theatre kicks off its new season October 14 through 23 with Maine playwright John Cariani's most recent play, "Last Gas." In this funny, touching and thoughtful comedy reminding us that big things other than moose can sometimes wander into our paths and change our lives, the proprietor of a small, family-run convenience store in Aroostook County offering the last gas, last food and last phone before the Canadian border finds himself faced with an unexpected last shot at his dreams.

On the eve of his 41st birthday, Nat Paradis' old high school flame returns for her mother's burial on the same day that Nat's best friend shows up with the birthday gift of a lifetime - tickets to a Red Sox vs. Yankees game. Putting their noses into Nat's business as he copes with this dilemma and its implications are a cast of unusual but authentic Maine characters, including Nat's father, Dwight, who likes his girls young and Canadian, his son, Troy, and local forest ranger Cherry-Tracy.

With theatres around the country already lining up to produce this new comedy, The Public Theatre is proud to present the first production of the recently published script. Author John Cariani attended the Public Theatre's first read-through and early rehearsals, and he will be back to see the show and participate in a free post-show discussion with the audience on Sunday, October 16. There will also be a free, pre-show wine-tasting provided by Rails Restaurant before the Thursday, October 20 performance.

A native of Presque Isle, Cariani has a great deal of love, empathy and respect for the people of his home state, which is reflected in his writing. Best known as the writer of the successful play "Almost Maine," he is also an established actor who received a Tony nomination for his role in the 2004 Broadway revival of "Fiddler on the Roof," played a lead

Maine Poet Laureate appears at LPL tonight

Maine Poet Laureate Stu Kestenbaum will read a selection of poems, including new work, and reflect on the role of poetry in our lives and in Maine in a free program at Lewiston Public Library on Thursday, October 6 at 7 p.m.

Currently serving as Interim President of the Maine College of Art, Kestenbaum was the director of Haystack, a crafts school in Deer Isle, where he established innovative programs that combined craft, writing, and new technologies, for 27 years. Prior to that, he worked at the Maine Arts

Stu Kestenbaum

Commission and the Children's Museum of Maine. He remains active in the field of craft as an honorary fellow of the American Craft Council and a recipient of the Distinguished Educator's Award from the James Renwick Alliance.

In March of this year, Kestenbaum was named Maine's fifth poet laureate, a five-year post created by Maine's Legislature in 1995. He is the author of four collections of poems: "Pilgrimage" (Coyote Love Press), "House of Thanksgiving" (Deerbrook Editions), "Prayers and Run-on Sentences" (Deerbrook Editions), and "Only Now" (Deerbrook Editions), as well as a collection of essays called "The View from Here" (Brynmore Press).

Bates Theater presents "Tomorrow in the Battle"

A stock plot device, the love triangle, gets a most unorthodox treatment as Bates College opens its mainstage theater season with Kieron Barry's "Tomorrow in the Battle." Performances will take place Thursday through Monday, October 6 through 10, at 7:30 p.m. in the Black Box Theater, on the ground level of Schaeffer Theatre, at 329 College Street in Lewiston. Admission is free, but a $5 donation is suggested. For more information, call 786-6161; to register for a seat, see bit.ly/bates_tomorrow.

Workshopped in 2012 at Portland Stage Company's Little Festival of the Unexpected and premiered that year by Stage-works-Hudson in New York state, "Tomorrow in the Battle" uses surprising dramatic means to explore power, desire, honor and the ways those human qualities break down boundaries between public and private life. The Berkshire Edge described the play as "memorable, penetrating theater that will make you think and feel."

Visiting Assistant Professor of Theater Sally Wood directs the Bates production. The love triangle, she explains, comprises Simon, a world-famous heart surgeon; his wife, Anna, who is highly placed in the United Kingdom's Ministry of Defense; and Jennifer, Simon's mistress, who is the public face of a financial firm. House and Haley play Sawyer Memorial Pianist Phil House and vocalist Kathy Haley perform two shows at Sawyer Memorial on Friday, October 7.

Pianist Phil House and vocalist Kathy Haley will perform at Sawyer Memorial on Friday, October 7 at 2 and 7 p.m. Both shows are free and open to the public. Accomplished musicians in their own right, when Phil House and Kathy Haley join forces, they are a “dynamic duo.” Together they have delighted audiences throughout Maine, most notably as part of the annual Summer Concert Series at All Souls Chapel at Poland Spring Resort, along with periodic appearances at Sawyer Memorial and other local venues.

Phil House, organist at the First Universalist Church of Auburn, has recorded many CDs of his piano and organ music. He has performed near and far, from his home town of Bryant Pond, Maine to Nashville, Tennessee and as far away as Vienna, Austria. His days are filled by his duties as an administrator at John F. Murphy homes.

Kathy Haley, a Maine musician from Danville, started performing early as a church organist, pianist and folk singer. She was a lead singer with the Top 40 dance band “Good and Plenty” and the vocal band “Girls of L-A.” Currently she performs with a new vocal group, “My Mother’s Daughter.” She is the Organist and Choir Director of Court Street Baptist Church of Auburn and, during the school year, is the accompanist for the Edward Little High and Auburn Middle School choral groups.

Sawyer Memorial is located at 371 Sawyer Road in Greene. For more information, call 946-5311 or see sawyer-foundation.com.

Klahr Center hosts annual Pride Film Festival

In honor of LGBT History Month, the Holocaust and Human Rights Center of Maine will present its 2016 Pride Film Festival on four consecutive Fridays in October. This year’s event will screen four films that made a unique impact in LGBTQ+ film history. Free and open to the public, all screening will take place at 7 p.m. at the Michael Klahr Center on the University of Maine Campus in Augusta. Refreshments will be served.

The Pride Film Festival encourages discussion, celebration and inclusion of the LGBTQ+ community in central Maine. A facilitated audience discussion will take place immediately following each film. This year’s event will screen the following four films:

October 7 - “The Boys in the Band” (1970).

Noted as a milestone for its unbiased focus on the average lives of American gay men, “The Boys in the Band” features a group of friends enjoying a birthday party until the arrival of some unexpected visitors and a drinking game cause more harm than good. This film is rated R, with a run time of 1 hour and 59 minutes.

October 14 - “Fire” (1996). An Indian-Canadian romantic drama that sparked a dialogue about homosexuality and freedom of speech throughout India, “Fire” was written and directed by Deepa Mehta. Heavily protested at its release in India in 1998, the movie tells the story of Sita and Radha, who find safety from the cruelty of their husbands in each other’s arms. Fire is unrated, with a run time of 1 hour and 48 minutes.

October 21 - “Paragraph 175” (2000). This powerful documentary explores how, alongside Jews, gypsies, and other “undesirable” community members, homosexuals were persecuted during the Holocaust. “Paragraph 175” features testimony

“Art of Cartooning” workshop at APL

As a new addition to its series “No Laughing Matter: The Pulitzer Prize and the Art of Editorial Cartooning,” Auburn Public Library will host a hands-on workshop led by cartoonist Mike Jordan of Big Red “A” Press called “The Art of Cartooning” on Thursday, October 13 at 6:30 p.m. In the workshop, Jordan will give a short talk on sequential art and the changes in dynamics between a one panel strip, a three panel strip and beyond. Attendees will then create a three panel strip by committee with Jordan’s guidance.

Mike Jordan was born in Lewiston. By the age of seven, he had created his own “funny book,” a MAD Magazine rip-off that lam-

From May 15, 1871 to March 10, 1994, Paragraph 175, also known as Section 175, stood to criminalize homosexual acts between men; the Nazi regime expanded that law, leading to the imprisonment and death of thousands. This film is unrated, with a run time of 1 hour and 21 minutes.

October 28 - “The Danish Girl” (2015). This Academy Award-winning film is based on the true story of Einar Wegener, a young artist who begins the process of transitioning to Lili Elbe after realizing that she has always identified as a woman. Set in the 1930s, “The Danish Girl” tells the story of one of the first people to undergo sex reassignment surgery. This

Chocolate Church presents “Afternoon with Margaret Chase Smith”

The Chocolate Church Arts Center, in partnership with the Cosmopolitan Club of Bath, will present “Mrs. Smith Goes to Washington: An Afternoon with Senator Margaret Chase Smith” on Sunday, October 9 at 2 p.m.

During the political unrest of the mid-1950s, Maine’s Senator Margaret Chase Smith was a beacon of integrity and a “woman of many firsts.” Written by

Maine playwright Linda Britt, this one-woman play featuring Sally Jones in the title role will leave audience members with the sense that they’ve just spent an afternoon with the Senator herself. In the play, Senator Smith speaks directly to the audience in a warm and often humorous way, telling the story of her private and public life, from her early days in Skowhegan to being the only woman elected to both the House and Senate. As the only female Senator, she courageously challenged Senator Joseph McCarthy in her famous “Declaration of Conscience” speech that is featured in the play. Tickets are $18 in advance or $20 at the door. Chocolate Church Arts Center is located at 804 Washington Street in Bath. For more information, call 442-8455 or see www.chocolatechurcharts.org.

Vocalist Heather Masse to perform in Phippsburg

Celebrated vocalist Heather Masse will appear in concert with pianist Jed Wilson at the Phippsburg Congregational Church on Saturday, October 8 at 7:30 p.m. Masse, a Maine native, is well-known to audiences as a regular guest on the NPR radio show “A Prairie Home Companion” and as a member of the Billboard-charting folk super group The Waylin’ Jennys. While she’s one-third of that award-winning trio, Masse’s latest albums have showcased her jazz vocals, a return to her roots. In fact,

Masse credits her background in jazz for helping to shape her distinct approach to singing folk, pop and bluegrass.

The Phippsburg concert will feature Masse and Wilson in a program that includes pieces from both sides of Masse’s career - folk and jazz, both originals and standards.

Masse has performed at hundreds of venues around the world, sharing the stage with the world’s most acclaimed pop, classical, and jazz acts, including Elvis Costello, Wynton Marsalis, Sheryl Crow, Renee Fleming, k.d. lang,

Emmylou Harris, and the Boston Pops Orchestra. She has also performed with the renowned contemporary bluegrass band The Wayfar- ing Strangers and toured as a featured vocalist with Mark O’Connor’s Hot Swing.

In addition to her solo albums and multiple albums with The Waylin’ Jennys, in 2013 she released “Lock My Heart,” an album of jazz standards and originals with the legendary pianist Dick Hyman. It has been on the Billboard charts since its release. Her latest recording, “August Love Song,” features collaborations with

Norlands plans 19th-century-style Full Moon Fling

The Washburn-Norlands Living History Center in Livermore will host a 19th-century New England-style gathering under an October full moon with their Full Moon Fling on Saturday, October 15. The event will celebrate and support the rebuilding of Norlands’ barn, which was lost in a disastrous fire in 2008 but is now in process of being rebuilt.

This rare evening event will feature a barn dance with live music, seasonal food prepared by an expert chef, a comedy improv show, raffles, and the beauty of Norlands at night. In the spirit of Norlands’ mission as a living history center, guests are encouraged, but not required, to dress in 19th-century period attire.

The evening will begin in the meetinghouse at 6 p.m. with a show by Teachers’ Lounge Mafia, a local improvisational comedy group whose members are teachers in local school districts. The group performs interactive games similar to those popularized on television’s “Whose Line Is It, Anyway?,” along with original skits in the tradition of Second City, the Groundlings, Upright Citizens Brigade, and Improv Olympic. No two of their shows are exactly alike.

At 7:30 p.m., Norlands’ first barn dance since the 2008 fire will feature live music by the Racket Factory in the center’s not-quite-finished but charming new barn. Based in western Maine, the Racket Factory has decades of experience playing traditional acoustic music for dancing and listening pleasure. Kenlyn Clark will be the caller for the dance.

Refreshments will include hot chocolate, coffee, and pumpkin marshmallow S’mores made with a variety of cookies (such as maple cookies made with Norlands’ own syrup) baked by Chef Saveypen Sangsevang (Chef Sav), Sous Chef of the successful new Norway Brewing Company in Norway Maine. Chef Sav is a 2008 graduate of the Culinary Institute of Virginia and combines creativity and great flavor in all of his food.

Many artisans and vendors have made generous donations, including gorgeous local pottery, fragrant handmade soaps, crisp fresh apples, scrumptious homemade chocolates, and a beautifully designed planter that will be raffled off during the evening. Raffle tickets are $1 each, six for $5, or fifteen for $10. You need not be present to win.

Tickets for the Full Moon Fling are $15 for both the comedy show and dance. Tickets for the dance or comedy show only are $10. Kids ages 12 and under will be admitted for free. Tickets can be purchased at the door or online at norlands.org/ events.

Norlands is located at 290 Norlands Road in Livermore. For more information, call 897-4366, email norlands@norlands.org, or see www.norlands.org.
