Fall Gardening Tips

- 1. Leave some leaves
 Hooray! You don't have to rake all the leaves! It's OK not to rake up leaves under trees and shrubs and on sturdy ground covers (over time they become much-needed compost). However, must-rake leaves are those on perennial beds (they can cause crown rot) and grass lawns (they attract fungi and insects).
- 2. Protect perennials
 As perennials fade away, mark their locations with small sticks, so you don't lose them in the spring. If you haven't brought in your house plants, do it before you turn on your heat to give them time to adjust, and wash them first to get rid of pests.
- 3. Transplant fruit plants
 Rhubarb, raspberries and strawberries can quickly deplete the soil of nutrients, so find new locations for them every three or four years. Transplant them well before the first light frost so they can develop roots.
- 4. House the herbs
 Dig up your herbs to grow inside. Keep them in a cool, sunny spot, and let the soil dry out before watering. Snip leaves whenever you need herbs in your cooking, but don't strip completely. For herbs that have grown prolifically, cut them back halfway and dry or freeze the extra, or share it with friends.
- 5. Hang the tomatoes
 If you have unripe tomatoes still hanging on the vine, and frost is fast approaching, pull the vines out by the roots and hang them upside down in a cool, dark place to finish ripening.
- 6. Flash some fall color
 Replace spent annuals with fall-blooming hardy mums. These pretty perennials provide color for weeks, and if properly planted, maintained and winterized, they'll add color to your garden every fall for years to come.
- 7. Bring on the bulbs
 Fall is "now or never" time to plant spring bulbs. Shop early for the best selection, and don't delay too much in planting them after buying. You'll want to plant them 6-8 weeks before the first hard frost in your area.
- 8. Try new (tasty) trees
 Fall is the best season to plant fruit trees such as apples, pears, plums, cherries, peaches, apricots and figs. Young trees should be staked to prevent roots from being pulled by fall and winter winds.
- 9. Plant now, eat sooner
 Some veggies can be sown in fall to overwinter, which results in earlier crops the following year! Try peas, fava beans, hardy spinach, spring cabbage, Italian wine grapes, leaf beets, or Swiss chard. Spring onions can be sown in late summer and early fall for overwintering.

Fall Home and Garden

5 Tips for Early Fall Home Maintenance

- 1. Furnace Repair
You don't want to wait until the cold winter months to turn on your furnace and find that it isn't working. That's why early fall is the best time to schedule your furnace repair. This off-peak time often costs less than it will in January, and gives you plenty of flexibility to schedule the technician at your convenience. Waiting until winter to tackle this project will mean you pay a higher rate in labor fees, and you risk your furnace breaking down when you need it the most.
- 2. Install a Portable Generator
If you live in an area that sees severe weather during the fall and winter months, you may want to invest in a portable generator to help keep your home running in case of a power outage. Portable generators come in many sizes so you can find the right fit for your home. Install one in early fall before costs go up during the colder months, and ensure that you're ready for the first outage of the year. Once the snow begins to fly, you can expect the demand for generators to go through the roof driving up prices and limiting availability. Waiting too long could mean that you run the risk of not finding one at a reasonable price or that you need to go without power in the event of a storm.
- 3. Mold Remediation
After a warm, humid summer, mold is a very common problem in a lot of areas. Basements, attics, and bathrooms are all particularly susceptible to mold growth. Before you spend more time indoors in the winter, you'll want to ensure that any mold is removed before it can cause health problems. Once the weather dries out in the early fall is the best time to get this done. Mold that began in the summer months will continue to grow right through the winter, so the early fall is the best time of year to tackle this job, while the air is dryer and the mold hasn't had as much time to spread.
- 4. Install Gutter Guards
During the autumn months, leaves and pine needles drop from trees at a very fast rate. These can collect in your gutter, clogging them up and forcing water back onto your roof. A gutter guard can help prevent this by stopping the debris from entering your gutters. Take care of this issue in early fall when it isn't too hot to work on your gutters, but before the leaves start falling to get the best results. Wait too long and you may have to pay a higher cost in labor due to demand and the fact that your gutters will need to be cleaned prior to installation.
- 5. Clean Your Roof
Your roof can become the home to a lot of dirt and debris during the summer months, including algae, mold, moss, and leaves. The more debris that lands on your roof, the bigger the problem, because things like moss and leaves can trap water beneath them, weakening your shingles. When snow falls, this problem will become worse, potentially causing leaks. A bleach and water solution with a soft bristle brush will work to remove algae and mold.

HEAR What Our Customers Say!

One of the best decisions that I have made in a long time was when I decided to open the door at Long's Hearing Care in Cadillac Michigan. I went in for a hearing test. I was treated with respect from the second that walked in the door. Melissa met me at the front counter and took care of my needs in a very professional manner. I was tested and diagnosed for hearing aids. I was then fitted and when I returned back in 3 days my hearing life was changed. I now don't have to ask people to repeat what they said or have to guess an answer to a question that I really didn't even hear. Today I hear everything loud and clear. Life has completely changed for me. Thank you to Melissa and Mike at Long's Hearing Care!!
