January is a month of beginnings and transitions. According to Wikipedia, the name is derived from the Latin word for "door", so January is the "door" of the year. It's one of the seven longest months of the year, with 31 days. It's also the coldest month of the year in the Northern Hemisphere (where it is the second month of winter) and the warmest month of the year in the Southern Hemisphere, (the seasonal equivalent of our July). Weather wise, we've had a lightweight mixture of wintry conditions so far, matched up with a sizeable helping of can't-make-up-it's-mind Texas weather. And we're OK on rainfall.

People born during the last ten days of January are Aquarians. Remember the "age of Aquarius" when cool people were to expect a change... "harmony and understanding, sympathy and trust abounding"? Aquarians possess originality and charisma, talent, style and individuality. They are adaptable, outgoing and good in social settings. Friends and family of Aquarians often state that they are the most original and positive people they know. Viva, Aquarius!

I hope we are not too deep into the New Year for me to ask you what you got for Christmas. Did you get everything, or at least something, you'd asked Santa for? My "big" present was one that I bought for my ranch-o. I've found the privilege of buying yourself what you want is one of the joys of mature adulthood.

Here's a Show and Tell from Christmas 2014.

Red of course...Cindy Roller's new Dodge Challenger R/T with Hemi V8 engine in TorRed with racing stripes. How'd they get this under the tree?

"Honey" my granddaughter's guinea pig was dressed in bows for Christmas morning.

Talk about horsepower, Sue Smith didn't get her horse for Christmas but she organized "horseback caroling" in her country neighborhood.

Julie Miller did double duty at Christmas time by baby sitting these two grandsons, born just a couple of months apart.

Since they chewed apart the wood corral. I bought the mules a new corral for Christmas and got free son-in-law labor to put it up.

We stand in the doorway of a history-changing year. I hope 2015 does prove to be the "Age of Aquarius"! Til next week, I'll watch and wait at the corral gate.

Emily D. West - Emily Morgan

Emily D. West (c.1815–1891), also known as Emily Morgan, is a folk heroine whose legendary activities during the Texas Revolution have come to be identified with the song "The Yellow Rose of Texas".

West was a free woman of color, of mixed race, or a "high yellow". She was born in New Haven, Connecticut. In 1835 she was contracted to James Morgan in New York to work as an indentured servant for one year in Morgan's Point, Texas, at the New Washington Association's hotel as a housekeeper. Several months into her year of indentureship, on April 16, 1836, West and other residents were kidnapped by Mexican cavalry. West was forced to travel with the forces of General Antonio López de Santa Anna as they prepared to face the army led by Sam Houston, and was in the Mexican camp on April 21 when Houston's force attacked. The Texans won the Battle of San Jacinto in 18 minutes.

According to legend, Santa Anna had been caught unprepared because he was with Miss West. No contemporary accounts indicate that Santa Anna was with a woman at the time, but the story was recorded in the journal of Englishman William Bollaert in 1842, who heard it from a veteran during a steamer trip. After Bollaert's diary was published in 1956, amateur historians began to expand the tale, with Henderson Shuffler suggesting that West fit the description of the girl in the then-popular folk song "The Yellow Rose of Texas." The story continued to grow, with many references to West's beauty, as the legend took hold by the 1986 Texas Sesquicentennial.

After the Battle of San Jacinto, the real Emily West wanted to leave Texas, but the papers that declared her "free" had been lost. Major Isaac Moreland, commandant of the garrison at Galveston, vouched for Emily in her application for a passport. Emily possibly returned to New York in March 1837.

It is unknown if she did carry James Morgan's surname, as was supposed; this was the custom for indentured servants and slaves at the time. Also, arriving coincidentally in Morgan's Point on board Morgan's schooner from New York was Emily West de Zavala, the wife of the interim Vice President of the Republic of Texas, Lorenzo de Zavala, and grandmother of Adina Emilia De Zavala. The widowed Mrs Lorenzo de Zavala had returned to New York in 1837 at about the same time as Emily D. West, although West de Zavala returned to Texas in early 1839. Denise McVea suggests that the Emily West of the Yellow Rose of Texas legend was Emily West de Zavala. There is no contemporary or primary evidence that Emily D. West and Emily de Zavala were the same person.

NETWORK TV NEWS IS A BIG MEDICINE SHOW

Tumbleweed Smith

In the movie Mary Poppins, Julie Andrews sings a song that states: "A spoonful of sugar makes the medicine go down in a most delightful way."

These days it takes a lot of medicine to take the news. I have a good friend, a lawyer, who says he watches the 5:30 news every day and ends up in tears because it has the entire spectrum of emotions. He cries at the horrible things happening around the world, and then does the same thing when the "feel good" stuff comes on at the end of the newscast.

He might need some medicine to make him feel better. And that may apply to a bunch of other people, too. I think the 30-minute evening network newscast is a big medicine show.

In early December I carefully watched the 5:30 news for three days straight and counted commercials for medicines. I watched CBS on Wednesday, December 10, then watched NBC on Thursday December 11, then watched ABC on Friday, December 12. I suspected the number of medicine commercials was greater than commercials for other things, but I was amazed to learn how many there were for various drugs designed to make people feel better.

CBS had fifteen commercials during the 30-minute cast. There were two for Trivago, one for GMC and the rest were for Xarelto, Prevnar 13, Gaviscon, Nexium, Tamiflu and similar items.

NBC also had fifteen commercials during its 30-minute news report. Very similar to CBS: three for investment services, two for insurance. The others were for Brisdelle, Jublia, Linzess, Cialis and other things for various ailments. The news report did have a lengthy report on a breast cancer symposium.

During ABC's evening news, there was just one of the thirteen spots that was not medicinal. It was for Ameritrade. Again, we're talking about commercials for Brisdelle, Jublia, Tamiflu, Bayer Aspirin, Cialis, CVS Health, Chrones disease, Ensure, Chantix, Alka-Seltzer, Symbicort and Coricidin. So when network news goes after sponsors, the obvious targets are firms dealing in medicines. That is quite different from local newscasts, which depend mainly on car dealers and furniture stores.

Advertising is the engine that runs the American economy. It, more than anything else (except maybe for our right to report the news), represents what America is all about and is a perfect example of how our free enterprise system works.

My wife and I have owned an advertising agency since 1981 and love the business. It's encouraging to see how effective advertising can be. Apparently network television news and medicine were meant for each other.
