THE IDLE AMERICAN Banished to the Woodshed...

Commentary by Dr. Don Newbury

Quite understandably, never by the wind but by free spirits like my Uncle Mort get unbelievably "carried away," almost

I asked my 103-year-old kin what sticks out in his memory as his ultimate "uh oh" moment—one he'd like to re-live. "I can't believe I forgot Maude's 103rd birthday," he confessed, adding that she gave him all day to "get it right" when a routine "uh-oh" moment perhaps would have been forgiven. It started with a simmer, but late in the day reached the boiling point of "UH-OH" distinction.

"I'm plumb buffaloed that it ever happened, but I was banished to the woodshed for a full week. All I had to sleep on was a pallet. How I responded the next day is what really cooked my goose," he said, smiling....

When he awoke, Mort found a terse note pinned to his pillow. "If you know what's good for you, there'll be a present here before noon that's shiny, new and goes from zero to 200 in six seconds."

"The gift was in place a full hour before the deadline, but it wasn't what Maude had in mind, I'm afraid," Mort whimpered. "I bought her new bathroom scales."

I'd like to strike out on the trail sometimes, and see the day break from between my horse's ears. The sights and sounds are fresh for both the rider and horse, and a certain amount of bonding takes place then. That's on my bucket list. If you can still ride, the Autumn Trails Ride is the weekend of October 16, and there's room for all of us! The early days of the Trail Ride were wild and woolly, kind of like the people then! My friend Terry Mathews (same last name but no relation!) has written a lovely piece about the Winnsboro tradition, and I'd like to reprint it here. Hope to see you at the Trail Ride.

By TERRY MATHEWS

Arts Editor of The Winnsboro News

WINNSBORO – In recognition of his service to the Autumn Trails Association and his community, The Winnsboro News dedicates the 2015 Autumn Trails Edition to the late Henry Whitley.

Prior to coming on board with Autumn Trails, Whitley was heavily involved in the Trail Riders Association and the rodeo association.

"He was president of the Trail Riders Association for years," remembered his son, Stephen, now a professor of English at Collin College in Plano. "He was also president of the rodeo association."

His contacts in the rodeo world were helpful when the AT Association added a roundup rodeo during October.

"When the Autumn Trails Association decided to have a rodeo associated with the October festivities, they called on Henry to head it up, and asked him to be on the board," remembered his widow, Linda Whitley.

Whitley had three other children, Patricia Teague, Class of 1967, David Mike Whitley, Class of 1969 and Melissa Lenhardt, Class of 1988, along with four grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

He and Linda were married 45 years at the time of his death in 2008.

He was also a member of the Lions Club, Wood County Crime Stoppers, president of the Smyrna Cemetery board, chaplain of the American Legion and was a member of the First Baptist Church of Winnsboro.

He retired from a 27-year career as a service manager for Pilgrim Industries.

Records reflect that Whitley was on the Autumn Trails Board of Directors from 1991-1995, serving as vice president the final two years.

Whitley hired men who worked on his farm to help get the arena ready for the October event, but that doesn't mean he – and his family – weren't busy.

"As far as he was concerned, all other activities, family and otherwise, stopped," Linda recalled. "He spent many hours coordinating everything and enlisting help from his friends."

Stephen, who earned a Ph.D. in composition and rhetoric in 2014, said his dad's connections with rodeo producers helped get the ball rolling, too.

Linda remembered working the concession stand and "putting our social life on hold" until the October event was over.

The Whitneys, like most of those in Winnsboro and the surrounding area, made the trail ride a family affair.

"We had a lot of traditions surrounding the trail ride," Stephen remembered. "Most of them centered around food. Mom made sausage balls and we had steaming cups of coffee in the morning."

Linda says she loved "getting together with friends and family and riding horses."

Stephen, who was a member of the WHS Class of 1985, said for years his dad hired Joe Stokes to drive the tractor for their hay trailer.

"Joe drove so Daddy could ride," Stephen recalled. "Now that I think about it, he was a good rider. He was calm, and even if his horse started acting up, it never seemed to bother him."

The News' copy/arts editor Terry Hamilton Mathews has fond memories of Whitley from the early days.

"One of the first years of the ride, my little horse and I played out at the turnout to Latta's Park," Mathews recalled.

"Henry asked Taft Tinney to load us up in his trailer and make sure we got safely home."

When told of the dedication, Linda said, "Thank you so much for remembering Henry in such a wonderful way. He loved this town."

I had a phone call from Gerald Walters this week from North Dakota. He had been to the World Dairy Expo in Madison, Wisconsin, and was taking a scenic Westerly route before heading back home. He said it was 37 degrees that morning, and dry. I told him when he got back home to Yantis, he'd probably find it dry there too, because there's been no rain since he left! Gerald was an Ag teacher for a long time and took students to the WDO a few times over the years. He reported that a Holstein cow from Quebec won the title of Supreme World Champion, and a Jersey won Supreme Reserve Champion. Although they love to take to the trail, the Walters love to head back to the home range too, and planned to arrive back in Texas by the end of the week via a Kansas and Oklahoma route. Til next week, let's count our blessings and enjoy the gift of good weather. I'll watch for you at the corral gate. Honk when you go by!

DRIVING TO THE PACIFIC AND BACK

Tumbleweed Smith

Tumbleweed Smith

We drove to Carlsbad, California to meet our two sons and their families for a long weekend visit. It was a leisurely drive westward, with stops in Las Cruces, New Mexico and Yuma, Arizona. It's about a thousand-mile trip and the most we drove in one day was about 400 miles.

We played in the surf, walked along the beach and some of our group went to LEGOLAND. It was a relaxing trip, with all nine of us sharing meals together. In the evenings we played games and visited. I don't think we even turned on the television.

We journeyed down to San Diego to visit a wild game park and tour the famous movie star hangout, the Hotel del Coronado (known as THE DEL). When everybody departed for home and went their separate ways, they did so with a good feeling about our time together. With everybody's busy schedules (especially those for the 9 and 12-year olds) it's difficult to get together. But we make time for reunions.

On our return trip we stayed in Tucson and El Paso. I was smitten by Tucson, with its location and architecture. Homes are of the old adobe style, and blend perfectly with the desert landscape. They are one story, low and long, and reflect the area's Native American and Spanish histories. Saguaro cactus and other desert flowers and plants surround the structures.

We had a few hours before time to leave for El Paso, so we picked up a brochure that indicated a scenic drive around Mount Lemmon, a little over 9,000 feet high located in the Coronado National Forest. We followed directions on the brochure, which led us to a place called Oracle. We stopped for coffee at a small café and talked to some folks there about the scenic drive. One man who seemed to be the local historian said, "I hope you have a 4-wheel drive vehicle. That road is not paved." He said he had driven over it recently in a jeep and was glad to finally reach the highway. "It's just 26 miles long but took hours," he said. I told him I was driving a crossover SUV and he said, "You might be all right." So we ventured on.

The road is dirt and gravel and is just a series of twists and turns that go all the way to the top of the mountain. We never traveled more than ten miles an hour and when we did, it felt like we were flying. We were always going uphill on the narrow road that skirted the edge of some sheer drop-offs that led to deep canyons below. As we climbed up the dangerous road, I considered all the things that might happen to us. We had no phone service. What if the car got hot (it was 117 degrees down below) or we blew a tire? We were in the wilderness. Nobody around for miles. Just beautiful mountain scenery and 70 degree temperatures which tended to lose their fascination. We were ready for pavement. After about 5 hours on that road we finally reached a highway. We went back to Tucson on what is called the Catalina Highway, which offered spectacular views. Why didn't we just take that road to begin with? We wrote the tourist office and suggested a change in the brochure's map showing the scenic highway.
