New Project Specialists at Lowe's

FLORENCE— Kelly Long has joined Lowe's of Florence and Heather Morgan has joined Lowe's of Muscle Shoals as Project Specialists in their new Kitchen and Bath remodeling service.

Long

Long and Morgan will be helping customers who are designing or remodeling their kitchen or bathroom by helping them make selections and pulling the complete project together.

Long has over 25 years in the interior decorating and remodeling industry. Morgan has been a Kitchen and Bath Designer for almost 20 years, and has worked for Lowe's for 12 years.

Morgan

"Selecting all the components of a kitchen or bath remodel can be over-whelming and requires a lot of tracking and detail work," Long said. "People are so busy these days and most want someone to help them put everything together. They need advice on what looks best with what. They can save time and money by shopping at Lowe's. They get design services free of charge when they purchase the products."

Contact Long in Florence at Kelly.Long@store.lowes.com or at 256-764-7887. Contact Morgan in Muscle Shoals at Heather.L.Morgan@store.lowes.com or 256-314-0334.

the '10 Best'

DUI/DWI Attorneys is a third-party attorney rating organization that publishes an annual list of the top ten DUI attorneys in each state.

Irby

Attorneys who are selected to the "10 Best" list must pass AIDUIA's rigorous selection process based on client and/or peer nominations, thorough research, and AIDUIA's independent evaluation. AIDUIA's annual list was created to be used as a resource for clients during the attorney selection process. One of the most significant aspects of the selection process involves attorneys' relationships and reputation among his or her clients. As clients should be an attorney's top priority, AIDUIA places the utmost emphasis on selecting significant success in the field of DUI/DWI law without sacrificing the service and support they provide. Therefore, selection criteria focus on attorneys who demonstrate the highest standards of Client Satisfaction.

We are honored to have James Irby as a 2016 AIDUIA Member. You can contact Irby at 256-766-7778 or at jamesirby.com.

as coach of the year four times along with former Jacksonville State coach, Jim Fuller.

Wallace's 2016 Lions were 7-0 in conference play and 8-1 overall. UNA boasted the league's top scoring offense and top scoring defense outscored their GSC opponents by an average score of 43-11.

Wallace was previously selected GSC Coach of the Year in 1993, 1994, and 1995 during his first stint as head coach of the Lions. It marks the tenth time that a North Alabama head football coach has been GSC Coach of the Year with Wallace's four, three for Wayne Grubb, two for Mark Hudspeth, and one for Terry Bowden.

With seven total Gulf South Conference titles and 149 wins as a head coach in the league, Wallace is at the top of both lists in GSC history.

Five generations of the Howard (Jack) Blevins family were together recently and they captured the momentous occasion in this photo. Jack, a Florence resident, is at right beside his daughter, Greenhill resident, Brenda Blevins Burbank. of Florence was honored as a fourth-year scholarship recipient.

Bank Independent President Macke Mauldin congratulated the students on their achievements. He explained that his father, the late Edward F. Mauldin, never graduated from college. However, he was a lifelong learner who deeply appreciated the value of the college experience. According to Mauldin, his father believed that any exposure to college was better than none at all.

"My challenge to our recipients today is to pay it forward," said Mauldin. "Remember what we and others have done for you and pass that kindness along to others."

UNA President Dr. Ken Kitts congratulated the students on their accomplishments and thanked the Mauldin family and Bank Independent. "What does it mean to be a premier southern university?" Kitts asked. "You have to have great friends, supporters, employees, and students like those in attendance today."

ASK THE ATTORNEY

WHAT DOES YOUR LAWYER OWE YOU?

From time to time I have discussed how lawyers are paid, either through an hourly basis or on a contingency fee contract which is what we do and is appropriate in personal injury cases where the lawyer risks his time and money in exchange for the privilege of representing injured another lawyer had said that they didn't have time to take their case. What that means is that there is no money in the case or the lawyer perceives that the client cannot afford his services. Occasionally, people just come in with motives that are just incompatible with the values that the lawyer feels comfortable working with. Tell the client why you will or will not take the case. Tell the client what value your service adds to the client's issue at hand. Make the client feel comfortable with the issues in his or her case and if a deposition will be involved, talk with them about what a deposition is and let them read a deposition. Talk with them about what they will be asked and what they are afraid they will be asked. It's the lawyer's job to help the client be as effective as possible in presenting their case.

One of my favorite lawyer jokes is where a lady asks a lawyer, "How much do you charge?" The lawyer said, "$50 for three questions." The lady replied, "Isn't that a lot?" The lawyer said, "Yes it is; what's your last question?"

So, what does your lawyer owe you? The first thing is an absolute duty of confidentiality. There is certainly an obligation to know or research the area of the law that the client is concerned with. Lawyers have to work hard to understand all of the aspects of a case, including evidence issues, time and money concerns and the impression that the client or their witnesses will make on a judge and jury.

Your lawyer owes you the duty to be competent in the area of law where you need help and owes you the duty to put your interests first every time.

Buckle up and drive safely.

My Turn, WE WON! NOW WHAT?

I was both surprised and elated by the results of the election. However, the election of a Republican President and Congress does not guarantee that the serious problems we face will be fixed. We, the voters, must hold the Trump Administration and both houses of Congress responsible to follow through with the promises they made in the party platform. Here are some of the problems that must be addressed.

For national security we must return the armed forces to the mission of being ready to defend our nation rather than social engineering. This will require a housecleaning in the departments of Defense, Army, Navy, and Air Force. All of the regulations giving preference to homosexuals, lesbians, bisexuals, and transsexuals must be rescinded. Removing the department secretaries is a good start but the bureaucrats at all levels that are in league with them must also be removed. The article in the manual for courts-martial that made sodomy a punishable offense should be restored. At the very least the "don't ask don't tell" should be restored.

Another issue that must be dealt with if we are to have a combat ready force is women in combat. The pretense that there is no difference in men and women is insanity. And so is the pretense that simply making regulations will keep combat arms soldiers from doing what comes naturally when isolated with women in the field. Equal employment opportunity should not be considered a mission for the military. I served from 1951-1972 in the combat branches of the Army-Infantry, Armor and Special Forces, ten of those years as a non-commissioned officer and ten as a commissioned officer. During that period the rule was "the needs of the service" rather than equal opportunity. I don't recall ever hearing any references to employment opportunity.

The constitutional freedom of religion must be restored for the military. Currently Christian chaplains are very restricted in their ministry to the service members. Service members have been punished for having Bibles, for expressing their beliefs that homosexuality is sin and for not believing in homosexual marriage. Several years ago an Army officer wrote a letter to a military magazine questioning the necessity of ethics and morality is qualifications for military officers. The response was a firestorm of letters from army officers as well as civilians horrified that anyone, especially an army officer, would even pose such a question. The response was unanimous that morality is the basis for integrity without which that institution could not survive as a viable defense force for our nation.

Now the commander-in-chief of our Armed Forces, along with many other politicians are promoting immorality and requiring that it be accepted by our service men and women. The generals and admirals go along and pretend that it is OK so that they can keep their stars. The new administration must completely reverse this.

Giving Thanks

The contentious last few weeks have given way to our uniquely American holiday. Thanksgiving is a celebration originally based on thanking God for the summer's bounty and asking his blessing for the future. It gives us an opportunity to slow down and realize we live in a highly-blessed country. It's easy to take for granted what we have. We're a spoiled bunch.

Our disagreements are largely superficial in nature and most of us have a fraction of the worries that plague others across this globe.

We owe so much to people we never met who are centuries removed. They risked everything and sometimes lost everything to establish this new country with a foundation of independence and a vision for excellence. We should remain thankful for those who continue to defend our freedoms and our way of life. Hopefully, we all will take the opportunity to pause and reflect. Have a safe and rewarding Thanksgiving weekend.

SHOALS—The Salvation Army of The Shoals kicked off the Annual Angel Tree program last weekend with an event at Dillard's in Florence Mall.

Along with the familiar Red Kettles, the Angel Tree program is one of the Salvation Army's highest profile Christmas efforts. Angel Tree was created by the Salvation Army in 1979 by Majors Charles and Shirley White when they worked with a Lynchburg, Virginia shopping mall to provide clothing and toys for children at Christmastime.

This year we are serving 1,488 local children for the Angel Tree program and MANY Senior Citizens.

Official Angel Trees are located at Dillard's in the Florence Mall, SunTrust Bank on Cox Creek Pkwy, Long

Thanksgiving is a time for family, friends, good food, and good times. The nation's emergency physicians want to help you keep it that way and not have an unwanted memory that involves a medical emergency.

"Emergency physicians are ready to care for you any time you need it," said Rebecca Parker, MD, FACEP, president of the American College of Emergency Physicians (ACEP). "We are available 24/7, including holidays. However, we hope that by following some common sense precautions, you will avoid preventable injuries and illnesses, so you can spend your holiday enjoying time with loved ones."

The risk of bacterial contamination is high with any raw meat. Wash your hands thoroughly when handling uncooked meat and keep it separate from other foods. Sanitize any surfaces that raw foods come in contact with.

His Criminal Actions

Editor:

According to retired Navy Captain Joseph R John of Combat Veterans for Congress, Barack Obama had the Department of Health and Human Services pay the employees of George Soros' ACORN groups to illegally register millions of illegal aliens voters with our tax funds for eight years.

These ACORN organizations in all fifty states had to change their names after ACORN was convicted of voter fraud in eleven states. In 2012 Pew research Center found that approximately twenty-four million voters registered were no longer valid or significantly inaccurate. The study also found that more than 1.8 million dead people were still listed as voters and approximately 2.75 million were registered to vote in more than one state.

More than 7.5 million of the voters listed above probably had their votes cast illegally for Hillary. Captain John believes the claim by the liberal establishment that Hillary got more votes than Trump is a lie. She did not get more legal votes.

In my opinion, Obama's misappropriation of federal funds to pay for illegal activities is criminal, and he should be held accountable.

It's Good Against Evil

Editor:

Hillary called Trump supporters deplorable, but whose supporters are burning, looting, damaging the property of others, acting like animals, and disgracing America and our political system to the rest of the world? Hillary and Obama got what they deserved.

Christians are not willing to give in to so many ungodly demands of the Obama/democratic agenda that have been shoved down our throats the past eight years.

I imagine that Clinton, Obama, and the media are going to do all they can to destroy everything and anything Trump will try to accomplish to make us a more decent and law-abiding society. It truly is Good against Evil.

Playoff...

1990's the Lions were a playoff fixture. They were seeded highly enough to earn numerous home playoff games, many of which were the dessert of Thanksgiving weekends for the UNA football community. That was in and around the time of UNA's three national championships. Since that time there were a few years when UNA played away games on Thanksgiving and some down years when their season ended early in November. Playing at home on Thanksgiving weekend was a rarity.

Bobby Wallace has been back as the head coach for a few years and the team recently claimed its fourth consecutive Gulf South Conference Football Championship. The Lions earned a bye this past weekend as the playoffs opened for 24 other Division II teams. The results of the opening playoff weekend were not known as of this writing. However, we do know UNA is hosting the Valdosta State / North Carolina-Pembroke winner this Saturday at noon. It's the second consecutive year that the Lions are hosting a playoff game two days after Thanksgiving. We like that resurrected tradition.

Welcome back, Coach Wallace!

Power of Rural Hospitals

Editor:

Forty percent of Alabamians live in rural areas. Our rural communities are wonderful places to live and work and there are fifty hospitals across the state which serve this population. That is why the Board of Trustees of the Alabama Hospital Association proudly joined with stakeholders across the country to celebrate National Rural Health Day on November 17 to "Celebrate the Power of Rural."

Alabama's rural hospitals deliver an impressive array of services including emergency, primary, chronic, and long-term care as well as home healthcare, hospice care, and assisted living. They treat more than 620,000 patients in the emergency department every year, and 10,000 babies are born in these rural hospitals annually. Access to care is essential and rural hospitals play a pivotal role in their communities. The hard-working staff at Alabama's rural hospitals ensure that every Alabamian receives the right care, at the right place, at the right time.

Rural hospitals also contribute to the overall strength of the community's economy. Hospitals are among the largest employers wherever they are located and in rural areas these jobs are even more impactful. In fact, nearly 15,000 people are employed by our rural hospitals. Fourteen percent of total employment in rural areas is attributed to the healthcare sector.

David Spillers, Chairman, Alabama Hospital Assn. Board of Trustees; CEO, Huntsville Hospital Health System

A Figurative Father

Editor:

I believe many of Hillary's supporters are so upset because they are afraid. They are afraid of change, afraid of not getting their way, and afraid of consequences to their actions.

In short, they are afraid of someone telling them what to do. What does this sound like to you? A child? Without proper guidance a child can grow into an adult body with the same will of a child. Children throw tantrums. Children want their way. Children do not consider consequences or even fully realize why they do these things. Guess whose job it is to turn children into responsible, mature, enlightened adults - the parents'. Parents, plural. It takes both

A Citizen

My son wrote a prayer recently that I wish to share with you:

God, Today I pray for my country. I'm living in a treacherous time and I'm afraid of what we are becoming as a nation. The values of most citizens are so reasonable and yet so antagonizing in how they manifest themselves and I pray that we could find balance. Help our society to come to understand the truth of love and not simply the soft-handed kindness of it. Help the loudest voices to know patience and the offenders and offended to seek peaceful and graceful reconciliation. Help us to come together not to pursue greatness and prosperity by this world's terms but meekness and servitude. Show our leaders how to be strong against wickedness but compassionate for the souls of the lost. And, God, help those of us on the bottom to see and understand how to carry ourselves together, as a citizenry, to a more noble path of interconnectedness with ourselves and the rest of the world.

God, humanity has made itself such a divisive lot. Bring us back together again. Show us all how we fit, knit together by your breath. There is so much finger pointing and blame being spread. Make it clear to me and to everyone that sin and the lack of your presence is the only thing to blame for the missteps, failures, quarrels, and hatred that exist between us. And then, God, make yourself impossible for us to ignore, in this country and globally. Evidence yourself in the splendour of your earth and in the lives of your people, your nation, so that the world will see and understand what it means to have peace. Bring us peace, God.

I love you and want you to lord over my life. Give me that peace, through this troubling time and forever. Help me to continue to grow in my diligence with being in conversation with you and be in my heart as I try to lead myself and my family as a parcel of your nation. Help me to understand the great responsibility I have in being one of your elect and the leader of my home. I know that it'll take everything I have to give to lead like your son leads your nation. Help me to commit to that responsibility fully and follow the example that your son set in his service for the church. God, Jesus won the greatest battle there has ever been so that I could be freed from my earthly ties and be a citizen in your kingdom. Remind me daily to never take that lightly. Remind me that my responsibilities to my Saviour are to uphold the commands of my King, lead my house to be people of your kingdom, and show foreigners the path to freedom. And help me to do those things and have the clarity to see opportunities to become a stronger and more adept leader under your lordship.

God, you are mighty and you are good. Let your goodness and mercy follow us all in the days to come so that we can dwell with you forever.

Amen.

A Figurative Father

parents (both male and female, respectively) to have a well-balanced adult child. What happens when both parents aren't there? Let's face it folks; there are many absent fathers today with staggering results. Without a dominant male in their lives children are at a great disadvantage in this world. It can be a biological father, uncle, stepfather, or grandfather. This male influence is so crucial to their maturity that without it many remain in child-mode forever. They disrespect, misunderstand, and even fear a dominant male in any role and may not even know or understand why.

Women should not deny the presence of a dominant male figure in their children's lives. Rather, they should seek it. I can't help but conclude that many of the tantrums we are seeing due to the recent presidential election are more a result of the missing male role model they've so desperately needed to prepare for this moment in time. Just a spin to think about.

"Forgive Me When I Whine"

Today upon a bus I saw a lovely maiden with golden hair;
I envied her—so beautiful, and how, I wished I were so fair;
When suddenly she rose to leave, I saw her hobble down the aisle;
She had one foot and wore a crutch,
but as she passed, she wore a smile
Oh God, forgive me when I whine,
I have two feet—the world is mine

He looked ahead without a word,
I realized—he could not hear.
Oh God, forgive me when I whine,
I have two ears, the world is mine

With feet to take me where I'd go, with eyes to see the sunsets glow,
with ears to hear what I would know,
I am blessed indeed. The world is mine.
Oh God, forgive me when I whine.
(I first read this poem in an article by Jack Exum)

And when I stopped to buy some sweets, the lad who served me had such charm;
he seemed to radiate good cheer, his manner was so kind and warm;
I said, "it's nice to deal with you, such courtesy I seldom find;"
He turned and said, "Oh, thank you sir."
And then I saw that he was blind.
Oh, God, forgive me when I whine,
I have two eyes, the world is mine.

Then when walking down the street,
I saw a child with eyes of blue;
He stood and watched the others play,
it seemed he knew not what to do;
I stopped a moment, then I said,
"Why don't you join the others, dear?"

HEARTWORM HAZARDS

What you don't know about heartworm disease can hurt your dog or cat

By Kim Campbell Thornton
Universal Uclick

You've probably seen a dusty jar of long, spaghetti-like worms in your veterinarian's office. They're heartworms (Dirofilaria immitis), and they are deadly to dogs and cats. The internal parasites make themselves at home in the heart and lungs, causing heart failure and lung disease and potentially migrating to the brain, eye and spinal cord. Here are seven things you might not know about heartworm disease:

1. Heartworms are transmitted by more than 70 species of mosquitoes. Some of these mosquitoes don't need standing bodies of water to reproduce. They thrive in small areas, such as downspouts, gutters and flowerpots and adapt well to cold weather.

2. The incidence of heartworm disease is rising. Between 2013 and 2015, the Companion Animal Parasite Council saw a 166 percent increase in reported positive heartworm cases. That's because nationwide, only about 35 percent of dogs are on preventive medication, says C. Thomas Nelson, DVM, who practices in Anniston, Alabama, and is a spokesperson for the American Heartworm Society. On the West Coast, it's only 16 to 18 percent. In the Southeast, where heartworms are especially prevalent, it's about 26 percent.

3. Heartworm disease has been found in pets in all 50 states. "Owners carry their dogs with them a lot," says parasitologist John W. McCall, Ph.D., professor emeritus in the department of infectious diseases at the University of Georgia College of Veterinary Medicine. "They go from the north to the south, and they just don't really think that they're going into an area where there's mosquitoes. Many owners don't even know heartworm is transmitted by mosquitoes."

4. Cats can get heartworm disease. They are not as susceptible as dogs, but the worms can cause more serious problems in cats. Larvae in the lungs lead to what's called heartworm-associated respiratory disease (HARD), which has signs similar to feline asthma. It's worse if worms manage to develop to the adult stage.

"The clinical signs associated with the presence of a couple of adult worms in the cat's pulmonary artery are usually very severe, ranging from acute respiratory distress to sudden death as a result of severe inflammation and pulmonary embolism," says Romain Pariaut, DVM, an internal medicine specialist and associate professor of cardiology at Cornell University College of Veterinary Medicine in Ithaca, New York.

5. Preventive medication is recommended year-round for dogs and cats in all areas. One reason is because mosquitoes are more widespread. Another is that longer bouts of warm weather and shorter bouts of cold weather mean mosquitoes are seen year-round in most areas.

6. Heartworms are becoming resistant to preventive products. Bacteria, viruses and parasites such as heartworms eventually become resistant to drugs used against them, McCall says. The current drugs have been used for almost 30 years.

"We don't really know how much of a problem it is," he says, "but the longer we use the products, the more likely it is to occur."

7. Experts recommend combining preventive with a dog-safe mosquito repellent. Even though preventive medication is highly effective, it's not failproof, especially in areas where heartworms have become resistant. Based on a study McCall did using Vectra 3D, which repels and kills mosquitoes, combining heartworm preventive with the topical parasiticide was 100 percent effective in blocking transmission of microfilariae (immature heartworms) from dogs to mosquitoes — a necessary part of the heartworm lifecycle — and more than 95 percent effective in repelling and killing mosquitoes for 28 days after treatment.

Due to heartworm resistance, even pets who are on year-round preventive have been diagnosed with heartworm disease, but using preventive in tandem with mosquito repellent reduces that risk, a study shows.

"If the dog is treated, the mosquito can't bite the dog and it can't transmit the infective larvae to the dog," McCall says. "It will pretty much keep the dog protected, even when there's a high degree of resistance." The product is not safe for use on cats, but cats who live with dogs who are protected share the benefit.

More retirement homes permit pets

• TigerPlace, a retirement community in Columbia, MO, is a pet lover's dream. Residents can keep their pets with them and benefit from a pet care staff that helps walk, feed and care for the pets as needed. Allowing pets and providing pet-care services is a growing trend at retirement communities. TigerPlace, with 90 residents, is operated in collaboration with the Sinclair School of Nursing at the University of Missouri. Rebecca Johnson, director of the Research Center for Human-Animal Interaction at MU's College of Veterinary Medicine, says pets encourage people to walk, decrease loneliness and promote social interactions with other people.

• Prehistoric best friend? Scientists in Siberia are studying the mummified remains — including skin, hair, internal organs and stomach contents — of two unusually well-preserved puppies thought to have died in a landslide more than 12,000 years ago. Amazingly, the brain of one is intact, the first-ever completely preserved brain of a Pleistocene canid. DNA tests on the first puppy, found five years ago, confirm dog rather than wolf ancestry, but the genetic makeup of ancient dogs and wolves is similar. The pups' genomes will be further evaluated in the hope of learning more about canine domestication and evolution.

• A veterinarian at the University of Wisconsin School of Veterinary Medicine is working with physicians to test a new delivery method for a canine melanoma vaccine, according to an article by David Wahlberg in the Wisconsin State Journal. David Vail, DVM, is testing a modified tattoo gun with multiple punctures, which may induce a stronger immune reaction than a single injection. The canine melanoma vaccine, an immunotherapy approach that works to prevent the skin cancer from spreading, was approved in 2010 and is currently injected intramuscularly. If the new approach works in pet dogs, it could also benefit humans.

"Prescription Drug Plans 2"

When looking at a prescription drug plan the first thing that most people look at is how much the plan cost. There are drug plans that cost less than $20. There are also plans that cost more than $100. Conventional wisdom tells us that something that cost $100 has to be better than something that cost $20, but when talking about Medicare prescription drug plans this isn't necessarily true. You have to look deeper than the premium of the plan to see if it's the right fit for you.

One important part of a drug plan is the deductible phase of the plan. A deductible is the amount of money you must pay out of your pocket before your plan will begin to pay. For example, if your plan has a $400 deductible you may have to pay the first $400 before the plan will pay. The good news is plans treat deductibles differently. Some plans have deductibles on all tiers of drugs. On some plans the deductible only pertains to tier 3, 4 or 5 drugs but not tier 1 or 2 drugs. Other plans have no deductible at all. The way to know if your plan has a deductible on the prescriptions you are taking is to look at the plan's Formulary to find your drug's tier and the Summary of Benefits to see if you have a deductible.

You will also want to know if the plan requires you to pay a coinsurance on any of your prescriptions. A coinsurance is a percentage you will pay on your prescription. A lot of plans have a coinsurance on tier 4 and tier 5 prescriptions. This means if you have a coinsurance of 20% on your prescription, and the prescription retails for $500, you would pay 20% or $100. Next week we will look at copays, formularies and provider networks.

DAVE Says

by DAVE RAMSEY

IS THIS PLAN TOO INTENSE?

Dear Dave,
My wife and I make a little over $50,000 a year combined, and we're almost debt-free. Right now, we have $50,000 left on our mortgage and $4,000 in student loans left to pay. We're both really excited about the future, and we're thinking about selling our home and moving into a trailer her parents own. On top of this, we'd like to save my wife's entire salary for five years to buy another, better house. What do you think of this plan?
Travis

Dear Travis,
Man, I'm really excited for you two. You're working hard to take control of your finances and pay off debt. This is what I mean when I use the phrase "gazelle intensity."

However, I think selling your home is going a bit too far at the moment. Despite a really rocky road the last several years, the housing and real estate market is finally starting to rebound. At this point, there's every indication that your home is going to go up in value. If you go with your plan, you're going to lose all that appreciation value and lower your standard of living at the same time.

While you have something of a modest income, I think you make enough money to pay off the house and become prosperous during the next five to seven years, without going to the extreme. Keep up the great work!
— Dave

HEALTH INSURANCE OPTIONS

Dear Dave,
My husband and I are self-employed, and we currently pay almost $1,000 a month for health insurance. I've heard you talk about the potential for rates to increase as much as 40 to 60 percent next year. Are there other options, such as just saving the money in case of medical emergencies?
Anna

Dear Anna,
You don't want to go completely without insurance, because you'll get penalized by the government. Remember, when it comes to health insurance, the problem usually isn't a kidney stone or a trip to the emergency room for a few stitches. The problem is a cancer diagnosis, which ends up costing $500,000 or more.

You might want to check into an HSA (Health Savings Account) type of plan within the exchanges. Another thing you could look at is one of the medical sharing programs through a Christian organization such as Christian Healthcare Ministries.

But a higher deductible, HSA-type plan might help keep your premiums down. It's sad, but this is what Obamacare has done to independent people like you and me who are self-employed. It's destroying small group plans, and I guess that was their intent. I suppose they wanted to put those companies out of business, so the government could take it over.

Safety...

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) recommends that oven temperatures should be no lower than 325° and turkeys should be completely thawed before cooking. A food thermometer must register a safe minimum temperature of 165° inside a turkey before it is served.

It's best to cook stuffing in a casserole dish outside the turkey, but if you choose to stuff a turkey, make sure the stuffing reaches a temperature of 165° (CDC) to ensure there is no bacterial contamination. Refrigerate all leftovers within two hours.

People with food allergies who have not prepared their own meals at home should ask about the ingredients and how food was prepared to prevent exposure to allergens.

and use extreme caution. Frying a turkey should be done well clear of the home or any flammable structure. Never attempt to deep fry a frozen turkey.

EATING SAFELY

The key is to approach the Thanksgiving meal with moderation. Food is usually abundant and for some it is too much and consumed too quickly. For those with medical conditions such as congestive heart failure, kidney disease and high blood pressure, excess salt is dangerous. Monitor your sodium intake and make sure you take any necessary prescription medications as you would any other day. Consult your doctor if necessary. Eat food slowly and when satisfied take a break and allow your body to process it. Eating too quickly can cause heartburn, indigestion, and may create chest pain, which could require medical assessment.

INJURY PREVENTION

Before or after the meal, it's common for many to head outside and play sports (football, basketball, etc.). Weekend warriors - beware! Injuries can occur for those not used to routine exercise. Emergency physicians recommend having fun and going easy — not overdoing it. It's important to pace yourself after a big meal. For those not used to regular physical activity, you might want to reconsider and participate in a different activity. Emergency physicians see many sprains, strains, and fractures in those who try to do too much too quickly. We also treat patients who develop shortness of breath and chest pain from over-extension. ACEP is the national medical specialty society representing emergency medicine.

COMMON INJURIES

One of the most common injuries during the Thanksgiving holiday is cuts with knives — specifically carving knives that cut fingers or hands. Be careful when slicing food, and more specifically, do not rush. If possible, allow someone who is experienced in handling sharp knives to do the carving.

Burns are another common injury during Thanksgiving. The kitchen can be a dangerous place, especially around the oven and grill.

A special note of caution is given for anyone who deep fries a turkey. This can be very dangerous and cause serious burns and fires, especially if you have never attempted this before. Make sure to carefully research the proper way to "deep fry"

Being Thankful

This week is the week for Americans to feel thankful. Not really, but we definitely talk about it a lot more this time of year. Some have stretched it out to a thankfulness month, posting a different thing they're thankful for each day on social media. I love reading them, and I love the spirit of gratefulness that this time of year inspires. The stores are full of signs and clothing and anything else that will be still long enough to be printed on, all with catchy slogans about being grateful. I just wish that we didn't seem to pack it all up so quickly and get back to grouching about what isn't wonderful about life.

In my opinion, if you wake up in the United States of America, every day is a day to give thanks. Even though our country just suffered through what was probably the most contentious election in its 240 years. Even though we all admit that there are areas for improvement, from our government all the way down to the way we interact with each other as individuals. Even though we as a people are incredibly divided on several big issues. Even though all of those things are true, there is no better place to live on this planet. If there was, don't you think all the celebrities who swore they were leaving if the election didn't go their way, would be gone? They certainly have the means to pick up and move wherever their hearts desire. That just proves what most of us already know: that this country is not without flaws, but we are all incredibly fortunate to call it home.

Many times when we think about what we are thankful for, we think of the things that we like about our lives. The things that are going our way. One thing that I often forget is to be thankful for the challenges in life. The things that are tough to go through, but that are the very things that make us better people. Stronger people, people who appreciate things. It's hard, but I want to try to be more thankful for the not-so-good times. I want to celebrate all of life, the good and the bad. What if we as a country made thankfulness a part of everyday life instead of a certain season?

Happy Thanksgiving, all year long.

The Love Of God

Jesus said in John 5:42 "But I know you, that ye have not the love of God in you." Jesus again in Matthew 12:34 "O generation of vipers, how can ye, being evil, speak good things? for out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh." What comes out of your mouth? The Apostle Paul in Romans 5:5 "And hope maketh not ashamed; because the love of God is shed abroad in our hearts by the Holy Ghost which is given unto us." At salvation, the love of God is given by the Holy Ghost. In a mature saved, born-again child of God, it's near impossible to hide the joy and peace and love that indwells them. Smiles of happiness and elation should fill the congregations of the Lord on each worship day. Tears of joy should fill our hearts when singing and praying and hearing preaching fills the air. When God's word is read and taught and preached and sung, God himself is present because what is being done is to worship and glorify Him. One of the great visible signs of saved folk is their eyes and mouth beam when hearing about the great God and mighty Saviour we have. We have so much to live and die for. Hebrews 10:34 "For ye had compassion of me (PAUL) in my bonds, and took joyfully the spoiling of your goods, KNOWING in yourselves that ye have in heaven a better and an enduring substance."

Now, brothers and sisters in Christ, those things should put a smile on your face. Titus 2:13 "Looking for that blessed hope, and the glorious appearing of the great God and our Saviour Jesus Christ;" 2 Timothy 4:8 "Henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness, which the Lord, the righteous judge, shall give me at that day: and not to me only, but unto all them also that love his appearing." What about you friend, where does your joy and peace and love come from? What does your heart and mind and soul dwell on? The love of God and the Holy Spirit living in you is demonstrated by your joy, giving, loving, serving, and having peace in your heart. Are these things in your heart? They can be. Ask Jesus Christ to help you and clean you up and save you today. Christ loves you and will do it right now.
