Investing in Your Dog

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: I've had a lot of trouble training my Dalmatian, "Damian," to behave around other dogs and people. It has really limited our outdoors time, which is very disappointing because I always envisioned bringing him around to my favorite neighborhood spots, playing in the dog park and having him in the same room with friends. What can I do to fix his bad behavior? — Jeff T., Atlanta

DEAR JEFF: Although I always stress the importance of daily training in basic behavior, and how important it is to socialize puppies to both humans and other dogs, sometimes following these basics still isn't enough.

I think of training as an investment in your dog. The more often you invest, the better the returns in terms of behavior and bonding. However, you've got to consider the quality of that training investment, too — as well as each dog's individual temperament and capacity for learning.

Many inexperienced dog owners learn to train as they go. Some breeds of dogs help them along a bit — I remember as a kid, our family's Golden retriever "Saucy" actually kept us to a routine training and walking schedule — but other dogs aren't so easy to train or willing to learn. They're not bad dogs, just different.

So, when your best efforts aren't quite enough, it's time to look for help. A professional trainer can help you figure out what's going on with Damian, find weak spots in his training regime and offer key techniques that training books often don't have or can't adequately describe. Meet with a few trainers in your area to find the right one, and keep building on that investment — and relationship — with Damian. It's well worth it.

Send your questions or tips to ask@pawscorner.com.

Now here's a tip! by Jo Ann Derson

- To make quick work of avocados when making guacamole, use a potato masher.
 - If you suspect a slow air leak in your tire but can't find an obvious puncture spot, do like the professionals: squirt the tire with soapy water, and the air escaping from the hole will begin to make a bubble. You can use this for any kind of tire, car or bicycle.

 - Use rock salt to clean stuck-on bits from a cast iron pan. Never use soap. Always dry immediately and coat with oil before storing.

Turn Leftover Turkey Into a Tasty Meal

Thanksgiving is gone, but the memories linger on — in the form of leftovers. After having all the traditional Thanksgiving fixings, I always crave spicy foods. I've come to enjoy thinking up ways I can transform the mountain of plastic containers full of a few scoops of this and a few cups of that into a new recipe. I've discovered that leftover turkey combined with Mexican spices makes a great meal! I've used leftover turkey to make soft tacos, quesadillas and enchiladas.

I love this enchilada recipe because the combination of cumin, chili powder and cayenne pepper completely changes the flavor of the leftover turkey, and it's easy to prepare. If you don't have time to make the enchilada sauce from scratch, use a good quality, commercially made sauce, and add the spices from the recipe below to give it a homemade taste! Serve this dish with a side of Spanish rice and a tossed salad, and you'll not only have a great meal, but a great way to use up that leftover turkey!

- SPICY TURKEY ENCHILADAS
- 3 cups cooked turkey, shredded
 - 2 cups sour cream
 - 3 cups shredded cheddar cheese, one cup reserved for topping
 - 1 teaspoon salt
 - 1 teaspoon cumin
 - 1 teaspoon chili powder
 - ¼ - ½ teaspoon cayenne pepper
 - 12 (10-inch) tortillas, corn or flour

Enchilada Sauce

- 2 cans (4 ounces each) chopped mild green chile peppers
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 2 tablespoons olive oil
- 2 cups chopped onion
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon cumin
- 1 teaspoon chili powder
- 1/2 teaspoon brown sugar
- 1/2 pounds stewed tomatoes
- 1/2 cup water

To Make the Turkey Enchiladas:

1. Using a large bowl, combine cooked turkey with sour cream, 2 cups cheese, salt, cumin, chili powder and cayenne pepper. Wrap tortillas in a clean dishcloth or food-safe paper towels and sprinkle both sides with a little water. Microwave for 10-15 seconds to warm and soften.

2. Place a tortilla on a flat surface. Spoon 2 to 3 tablespoons of turkey mixture on the end of the tortilla closest to you. Lightly oil a shallow, 13-by-9-inch baking pan so that the enchiladas won't stick. Roll up the tortilla. Arrange it, seam side down in the baking pan, placing each stuffed tortilla side by side until the pan is full.

3. Pour the enchilada sauce over the enchiladas and bake, uncovered at 350 F. for about 25 minutes, or until hot and bubbly. Sprinkle with the remaining cup of cheese. Bake another 5 minutes. Remove pan from the oven; let set for 5-10 minutes before serving. Serves 4 to 6.

To Prepare the Enchilada Sauce:
Quick Tip: A good-quality, commercially made chili sauce mixed with a teaspoon each of cumin and chili powder and 1/2 teaspoon of brown sugar makes a canned enchilada sauce taste like homemade!

1. Using a medium-sized pan, saute chili peppers and onions in oil until onions are soft, about 3 to 5 minutes. Add the garlic, salt, cumin and chili powder, and saute for another minute. Add the stewed tomatoes and brown sugar, and saute for 3 to 4 minutes. Stir in the water.

2. Turn heat to high and bring mixture to a rolling boil. Then turn the heat to low and simmer, uncovered, until thick, about 15 to 20 minutes.

Easy Home Heating Projects That Save Money

(NAPSA)—Make your home feel warmer without turning up the heat this winter.

The average family spends $1,400 a year on energy, with nearly half of that on heating and cooling. However, by following some simple steps on home winterizing, and by using energy-efficient heating equipment, homeowners can save as much as 20 percent on annual energy costs.

Before you begin to winterize, you should call in a professionally licensed HVAC contractor to inspect and tune up your heating system. Once that is done, there are several things you can do yourself to prolong the life of the equipment and help ensure proper operation.

•Oil Heat—Change fuel filters and service burners if needed. Check fuel tank for water content and fill tank.

•Forced-Air Systems—Clean registers and returns, remove grill on returns, vacuum, and reinstall the grill. On older forced-air systems, the entire ductwork should be cleaned every couple of years. Inspect flue pipe for blockages, leaks and holes and make sure vent cap is in place on roof.

•Furnaces—Check fan belts, pilot light, humidifier and media pad if needed. On older furnaces, the pilot light may stay on all the time and you can see it; newer models are usually self-igniting and light only when the furnace is running.

•Humidifiers or Dehumidifiers—For freestanding units, change or clean filters. For furnace-mounted humidifiers, check, clean or replace the water media pad, or water level on float-type humidifiers. Check waterline/waste line for leaks.

•Hot Water Heaters—Drain about 10 to 15 gallons from service valve, located at bottom of water tank, to remove sediment. If water has slight rust color at first, this is OK; if after draining more than 10 gallons the water still has a rust color, it's a sign the tank is rusting and that you should consider replacement. On natural gas heaters, inspect flue pipe to ensure it is secure and has no leaks. Lowering the temperature of water in the water heater to 115° to 120° reduces fuel consumption.

•An Energy-Efficient Hot Water Circulator—such as the Bell & Gossett ecocirc®—can save an average family of four more than 12,000 gallons of water and hundreds of dollars in energy costs a year.

•Thermostat Setting—68° F is recommended for cold months, 65° F at night. The rule of thumb is that you can save about 3 percent on your heating bill for every degree that you set back your thermostat.

•New Equipment—If equipment needs replacement, call a local professional for at least two quotes. Local, state and federal tax credits and rebates can assist in the purchase of an energy-saving product.

•For more information on energy-saving tips and ideas, visit www.energystar.gov, www.eere.energy.gov, www.energysavers.gov and http://completewatersystems.com.

Safety Around The Home

For Safety's Sake, Dial 8-1-1 Before You Dig

(NAPSA)—An increase in gardening, construction and other outdoor activities can sometimes lead to an increase in the number of telecom cables that are cut.

Each year, thousands of telecom cables are accidentally cut by both homeowners and construction crews. This can affect consumers, communities and communications companies.

To help keep everyone safer, a leading telecom provider, EMBARQ, reminds anyone working in their yards to protect themselves and their community by dialing 8-1-1 to report digging activities. They should then wait for utility providers to arrive and mark their facilities. This holds true for minor projects, such as putting up a fence, as well as major projects, such as the construction of a new office building.

"We see an increase in cable cuts during the spring months, and usually it is because construction crews are hurrying to meet their deadlines," said Jim Hansen, senior vice president of network services at EMBARQ. "We want to remind everyone that nothing will disrupt that deadline like cutting a communications cable, electric line or gas line. If a utility is cut, the worker and entire community can be in danger."

According to the company, because of the robust nature of its network, customers may be unaware when a cut occurs. But when there is one, the company mobilizes its technicians into action to quickly fix the cable to keep any interruption of services to a minimum.

Usually, communications cables are marked with orange warning signs, but residents and construction companies should call even if these signs aren't noticeable.

A service has been instituted nationwide that allows people to call 8-1-1 to report their digging activities.

"That number makes it very easy for anyone digging to report their activities," said Hansen. "No longer is there a different number for each state, and in some instances a different number for each utility. Now, it is easy for everyone to remember. Just call 8-1-1."

Hints For Homeowners

Consider Siding That Better Protects A Home From Weather

(NAPSA)—Your home is probably the biggest monetary investment you'll ever make, so it's a good idea to carefully discuss your house's siding choices with your home builder or remodeler.

For homeowners, in particular, nature's wild side—hurricanes, high winds, heavy rain, fire and flood—can be a big concern. What's more, that sort of thing seems to be on the upswing: According to Weather.com, four of the top five costliest hurricanes have occurred since 2005, while Insure.com notes that six of the top 10 costliest wildfires have struck in the last 10 years.

That's why, if you're considering a home building or remodeling project, it's important to choose products that best protect that investment, including the siding.

There are several materials you can consider, including:

1. Fiber cement, which consists of sand, cement and cellulose fiber
2. Masonry
3. Wood-based siding, including cedar and wood-composite
4. Vinyl.

Compared with vinyl or wood-based siding, fiber cement siding is better formulated to handle the rigors of both everyday and extreme weather. Consider this:

•Fire: Fiber cement siding is noncombustible, so it doesn't contribute any "fuel" to a fire. Conversely, vinyl siding melts and burns and wood-based siding burns.

•Impact: Fiber cement siding resists impact from objects blown

You may be able to protect your home against severe weather with the right siding.

by a storm's high winds much better than vinyl siding.

•Flood: Fiber cement siding is a Class 5 flood-resistant material according to the Federal Emergency Management Agency. This differs from wood-based siding, which is not moisture resistant and prone to rotting.

Certain types of fiber cement siding go even further to protect your home. For example, James Hardie siding is engineered for the home's specific climate. That means for homes in cooler, wetter areas, proprietary additives are included in the formulation to decrease the water absorption rate and protect it from wet or freezing conditions. For those in hotter, dryer places, the formulation is tailored to protect the house from wind and dry heat.

You can learn more about how the right siding can protect a home, even during a hurricane, at www.jameshardie.com/protection.

Hints For The Home

Getting Outdoor Equipment Ready For Winter

(NAPSA)—When it comes to prepping outdoor equipment for winter storage, even an optimist knows that a gas tank that's half full is bad news.

That's because today's gasoline is made with a percentage of ethanol, which can increase the chances of moisture buildup, corrosion and even phase separation in your engine. That can lead to expensive repairs.

Fortunately, there are steps you can take to avoid these and other problems when it's time to start your engines once again.

Don't Drain The Tank

According to small engine expert Tom Bingham, when you leave the fuel level low, it allows water vapor to condense on the walls of your fuel tank. It then runs down the walls and collects in the fuel. This is what causes phase separation. When you start your engine in the spring, this water may run through your fuel system and can cause engine damage or even complete engine failure.

Water in a fuel tank also encourages corrosion. Particularly in today's ethanol-blended fuels, when water and ethanol mix, it can become acidic and very corrosive.

Part of the problem is that when you think your engine is dry, there is still gas in your fuel system in small amounts. These tiny fuel droplets are surrounded by oxygen that can attack unprotected fuel and cause gum and varnish buildup.

Even the smallest amounts of either gum or varnish can cause a lot of damage inside a fuel system. For example, gum can settle on a seal surface, causing a leak or preventing fuel from flowing into the engine.

A dry fuel system can also damage seals and gaskets. They're designed to be continuously soaked in fuel and play an important role in keeping fuel flowing to the right places in your engine and out of the wrong places. When they are exposed to air for long periods, they can dry out and crack. That can cause leaks and lead to costly repairs.

A Full Tank And Stable Fuel

That's why it's important to stabilize your fuel and practice proper fuel management techniques with any equipment with a gasoline engine.

It turns out that filling your gas tank 95 percent full of fresh fuel and adding the proper dosage of a fuel additive, such as STA-BIL Fuel Stabilizer, can do a lot to protect a fuel system and engine by preventing fresh fuel from degrading, leaving deposits and corroding the system.

• On Nov. 29, 1775, the Second Continental Congress, meeting in Philadelphia, establishes a Committee of Secret Correspondence. Its goal is to provide European nations with a Patriot interpretation of events in Britain's North American colonies, in the hope of soliciting aid for the American war effort.

• On Dec. 1, 1824, Congress acts to decide a presidential election for the first time in history, giving the presidency to John Quincy Adams, even though Andrew Jackson had received the most electoral votes among the four candidates. The Constitution's 12th Amendment puts an election in the hands of Congress if no candidate receives a majority of Electoral College votes.

• On Nov. 28, 1895, Frank Duryea wins the first motorcar race in the United States, piloting a gas-powered "horseless carriage." Vehicles had to be able to carry at least two people: the driver and a race-appointed umpire, who would guard against cheating.

• On Nov. 30, 1954, the first modern instance of a meteorite striking a human being occurs in Sylacauga, Alabama, when an 8 1/2 pound meteorite crashes through the roof of a house, bounces off a radio, and strikes Mrs. Elizabeth Hodges.

• On Dec. 3, 1947, Marlon Brando's famous cry of "STELLA!" first booms across a Broadway stage, electrifying the audience at the first-ever performance of Tennessee Williams' play "A Streetcar Named Desire."

• On Dec. 2, 1975, Ohio State senior running back Archie Griffin becomes the first player in history to win the Heisman Trophy two years in a row. Griffin set an NCAA record with 5,177 career rushing yards.

• On Dec. 4, 1991, Islamic militants in Lebanon release kidnapped American journalist Terry Anderson after 2,454 days in captivity. He was kidnapped on a west Beirut street and held prisoner in an underground dungeon for the next six-and-a-half years.

Remove all dried dirt with a wire brush, rinse and dry thoroughly. Sharpen dull tools using a whetstone or file. Sand off any rust spots with fine sandpaper and coat the metal with vegetable oil. Wipe a thin coat of linseed oil on wooden handles to prevent cracks. Store hand tools in a bucket of sand soaked in oil to further deter rust, and hang large tools after prepping for storage. Fully drain your garden hoses, repair any leaks or damaged sections, and coil and tie them for storage.

Holiday Hints

Tips To Streamline Seasonal Shopping

(NAPSA)—Give yourself some credit if you plan to do your holiday shopping with a credit card. Besides helping to speed you through the checkout line, it's a much safer idea than carrying cash, which you could lose. Shopping with a card can also help you track your spending and even earn some cash back.

Here are a few tips to help:

- Before you go shopping, set a spending limit and stick to it.
- If you carry a balance on your credit card, use a card that offers the lowest possible rate.
- Opt for a card that offers bonus points on everyday purchases, no annual limits on how many points you can earn and plenty of opportunities to earn double, even triple points. For example, the new AAA Member Rewards Visa® credit card lets you earn 2,500 bonus points after your first qualifying purchase as a way of saying "Happy Holidays."

Then, you earn more points with these everyday purchases; you earn triple points for all qualifying travel purchases, double points for grocery, gas and drugstore purchases, and one point per dollar spent for all other retail purchases. Plus, you can combine points from multiple member rewards cards.

The points can be turned into gifts in several ways. You can convert points to one percent cash back starting at just 5,000 points. Or redeem points for gift cards at more than 100 national retailers and restaurants, including Olive Garden, Panera Bread, Bath & Body Works and Best Buy. Or you can make selections from your personal wish list of name-brand products.

Another option is to redeem your points for vouchers. You can use the vouchers for travel, car rentals, flights, tour vacations and attraction tickets. You can also redeem vouchers for AAA membership and enjoy an entire year of safety and security. Some vouchers are good for repairs, bodywork, tires and more at approved auto repair facilities.

- If you lose your card, call immediately. In many cases, you can have a new one overnight. Be sure your card offers around-the-clock fraud protection and zero liability for fraudulent purchases.
- If you pay for holiday travel with your card, be sure it offers travel accident insurance, plus concierge service.

For information about rates, fees and other costs and benefits of this card, or to apply, call (866) 665-3581 or apply online at www.AAA.com/CreditCard.

It's a smart idea to play Santa with a card that offers bonus points for certain purchases.

HOLIDAY SHOPPING

Before You Do Your Holiday Shopping, Check Your Credit Report

(NAPSA)—Holiday retail sales are expected to increase anywhere between 3 and 4 percent during the 2015 shopping season, according to estimates by various experts in the industry. That's down slightly from 2014 but higher than the National Retail Federation's 10-year average of 2.5 percent.

But before you pull out the plastic credit cards this year, you should take stock of your financial situation. That means getting a copy of your credit report to gauge your credit payment obligations before the holidays. Consumers can get an annual free copy of their credit report from each of the three nationwide credit bureaus: Equifax, Experian and TransUnion. Go to annualcreditreport.com.

"Better to review what you owe currently before taking on additional debt that might be a strain on your budget," said Stuart K. Pratt, president and CEO of the Consumer Data Industry Association. "Many consumers get caught up in the holiday spirit and focus on the many gifts and presents they want to purchase for family and friends. Then the bills start arriving in January and along with them realization that the payments are due. Budgeting for expenses based on an overview of current credit obligations is a much more responsible way to go about it."

Another benefit of reviewing your credit report now is to check to make sure everything is in order before you hit the shopping mall. If you see something in your report that is wrong, then you will have plenty of time to clear it up. Notify the credit bureau if there is an issue. They will send all the information provided to them to the appropriate lender and then let you know what the resolution is.

Pratt noted that encouraging consumers to get a copy of their free credit report is part of a much larger consumer initiative called the National Consumer Assistance Plan that the nationwide credit bureaus have implemented. "With only about a third of consumers getting their free annual credit report, our goal is to engage with consumers and increase that percentage. Getting your credit report is key to better understanding your personal finances," said Pratt. Studies show that managing credit and debt obligations is a key factor in long-term financial security, he noted. The campaign will roll out over the next several years.

Holiday Joy And Beauty

(NAPSA)—This holiday season, you can be helpful to the hungry and give yourself or others a beautifully packaged way to feel lovely.

That's because purchasing certain holiday skin care products means a donation to a hunger-relief charity. Kiehl's Since 1851's 7th Annual Limited Edition Creme de Corps Holiday Collection features custom art created by award-winning fashion designers Jeffrey Costello and Robert Tagliapietra.

+Adorably festive fashionable characters adorn a skin care collection gift set—and the net profits go to feed the hungry.

One hundred percent of Kiehl's net profits, up to $100,000 from this limited edition collection, will help Feeding America, the nation's leading domestic hunger-relief charity. Feeding America helps more than 46 million people through 60,000 food pantries and meal programs; supports programs that improve food security; educates the public about the problem of hunger; and advocates for legislation that protects people from going hungry. Visit www.feedingamerica.org to learn more.

The charitable collection includes:

- Creme de Corps, a nurturing body treatment in 8.4 oz. and 16.9 oz., formulated with beta-carotene, squalane and nurturing oils to leave even dry skin soft, smooth and elegantly hydrated.
- Creme de Corps Soy Milk & Honey Whipped Body Butter: Luxuriously scented, it's air-whipped to restore, protect and soften skin.
- Hydration Essentials gift set includes: Creme de Corps, Ultra Facial Cleanser, Ultimate Strength Hand Salve, Ultra Facial Cream and Lip Balm #1.

In addition to freestanding stores, Kiehl's products are at www.Kiehls.com/Costello-Tagliapietra, (800) KIEHLS-2 and select specialty retailers.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Keep those sharp Sheep eyes focused on a hazy situation. As things begin to clear up, you'll find a sharper picture emerging, showing something you will need to know.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Watch your expenses through the end of the month. Later, you'll be glad to have extra money to pay for something that will make an acquisitive Bovine's heart beat faster.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) You're now ready to make that oft-deferred commitment, if you still believe it's what you want. Don't be afraid to change your mind if you feel you should go in another direction.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Now that you are moving on with your life after that recent disappointment, how about reactivating your travel plans and taking someone special along with you.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Many new friends come into your personal life, which suits all of you social Lions just fine. However, one new friend might make demands that you could find difficult to deal with.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Communication doesn't exist unless it's two-way. So if you're getting no replies to the signals you're sending, it could be time to look for someone more receptive.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) A workplace complication that you thought was ironed out develops new wrinkles that need attention. Meanwhile, expect continuing improvement in your home life.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) A tense personal problem needs to be talked out before someone decides to walk out. Resist making decisions until full explanations are offered from both sides.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) A technological glitch that caused problems recently will soon be repaired, and life can return to normal. A colleague has a surprising message to deliver.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Your partner might feel that you haven't been as open with him or her as you should be. Deal with this now, before it turns into something more difficult to handle.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Good news: Many of the stumbling blocks that affected the progress of some of your career projects are fading away. Things also start to look up on the home front.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) You'll need that strong Piscean pluck to get through waters that will be turbulent for a while. A more positive aspect soon emerges, along with some welcome news.

BORN THIS WEEK: You are zealous in the pursuit of truth. You would make an excellent research scientist.
