ALL KINDS OF LICENSE PLATES

Tumbleweed Smith

Tumbleweed Smith

Most people call Jesse Perez of San Antonio "License Plate Jesse" because he has thousands of them.

"It just seems like license plates are something that a lot of people like and they want to buy them from me," says Jesse. "So I started selling my license plates. I get them from collectors, garage sales, flea markets, and in individuals. I hear about some being for sale and I go buy them. Matter of fact I bought some today. I have all the years for Texas and I have all the states. We have them from rusty to brand new. Some are still in the boxes, never been used."

Some people use the license plates as materials to create art.

"Arts and crafts people cut them up to make things like stars, the state of Texas, flowers, just all kinds of things. Some people buy my plates then come back and show me what they've made from them. Some are real pretty."

The license plates have different prices.

"I might buy a plate for a dollar and if someone offers me a dollar fifty for it, I'll probably sell it for that. I just buy them for re-sale. I buy some just because I like them. I keep them in my garage. Except I have so many the garage won't hold them any more so I have all kinds of canopies and portable buildings full of junk. I also collect bottles, toys, magazines, oil cans, anything. To get in the garage, you've got to take stuff out."

Some people look for plates from a certain year.

"For example, someone might have a 1930 Model A and wants a pair of 1930 license plates to register. Somebody might tell me they were born in 1940 and want a 1940 license plate from every state. I've helped a lot of people complete what they call their birth year run."

Jesse doesn't have a website or a store. He sells at swap meets or over the phone.

"People call me all the time. Every day the wife gets mad at me because so many people call me. I would estimate we get from five to twenty-five phone calls a day. Every day people call me for license plates or they want information. Somebody called with a 1968 license plate and asked me what it was worth. I help everybody."

At swap meets, Jesse takes his big Chevy Suburban, which is completely covered with little one-inch by two-inch license plate stickers. Even the insides of the door wells have them.

"I buy those, too. One time a guy sold me 350,000 of them. I've started to cover another SUV with them now. It's funny. If I'm at a swap meet and start putting them on my vehicle people join me and we can completely cover a car in a couple of hours. Kids love to put them on."

At The Corral Gate

By Enola Gay

ACE teacher Johnny Wells is retiring after 31 years with Sulphur Springs ISD. While he's reflecting on memories of scores of wonderful students he's taught, he's also moving toward a challenging new beginning for himself. Back in the 80's when Johnny was considering a career change from the accounting world, he hoped that his math background might transition into teaching math. But somehow that was not to be, for a door to a very specialized field was waiting for him for him to enter! And it did in 1984, when then-Superintendent Paul Glover hired him to teach a brand new program called ACE (Academically Challenging Experiences) for bright middle-schoolers. The curriculum would help the most intellectual to learn about themselves and how to channel exceptional thinking and problem-solving abilities in their path to adulthood. And Mr. Wells led them all using a joyful mixture of hard work and fun. Over the years, former students have sent pictures, letters and e-mails from their successes in education, career, family, community and life, and these have become treasures. Looking back on his career, Mr. Wells says it's fairly unusual for a teacher to spend 31 years on one campus teaching one subject, but he was blessed to do just what he most wanted to do. Now, headed ever-onward and upward, Mr. Wells has accepted the position of Director of Education with Destination Imagination International. And don't be surprised if you still see him at home in Sulphur Springs part of the time too!

This is a plaque created in honor of Mike Pribble, rodeo producer and performer. As the final act of a dream to recognize Mike and his many contributions, the plaque will be unveiled and dedicated on July 2 on the parking lot of Gerald Prim Stadium, and will be permanently placed at the Horse Pavilion of the Hopkins County Civic Center. Everyone is invited to attend.

On the site in this picture in 1938, Mike Pribble constructed a rodeo arena that hosted an annual Fourth of July Rodeo for 43 years with over 20,000 fans attending annually.

In 1954, Mr. Pribble upgraded his facility to be Texas' largest and finest all steel 6,000 seat arena.

Mr. Pribble performed trick and fancy roping nationwide for 4 decades. This included: Standing on his head while roping 8 galloping horses; performing the Texas Skip for 200 yards up and down the arena; vaulting stunts off the back and side of the horse; suicide drags and many different standing tricks.

He was recruited by Will Rogers for Western movies and taught the Apache Belles to trick rope.

The Fourth of July Rodeo provided entertainment for Hopkins County residents and visitors nationwide for several generations.

Dairy Festival is summer at it's best, with the State Championship Ice Cream Freeze-off on Saturday June 13 after the parade led by Stars and Stripes and the Texas Flag, carried by members of the Hopkins County Sheriff's Posse!

That's something I'll leave the corral gate for!

Among her surviving relatives who continue to give thanks for her life are nephews Rev. Michael R. Jackson of Carrollton, Richard L. Jackson of Sulphur Springs, and Bill A. Jackson of Conroe.

Linda was a faithful disciple of Jesus Christ, a cherished member of her family, a loyal friend to others, a dedicated worker and a cautious optimist. Her achievements in life came not from running after goods that do not enlarge and wealth that does not enrich, but rather in taking pleasure in kind deeds, bearing suffering, sharing enthusiasm and a spirit of gentleness and love. She worked in retail sales at Wynnewood Village in Oak Cliff, was a member of the physical therapy department of a Dallas area hospital, and worked in food service at a number of restaurants in Sulphur Springs, where she and her husband were owners and operators of catering services and neighborhood grocery stores. Linda’s last days were lived at Sulphur Springs’ Sunny Springs Nursing Home, whose staff showed her great care, compassion and concern. For that, her family remains sincerely grateful.

Services were held at West Oaks Funeral Home on Saturday, June 6, at 10:00 a.m., and interment was at Evergreen Cemetery Field, Paris, Texas.

THE IDLE AMERICAN

Just Trying to Help Out.

Commentary by Dr. Don Newbury

The water of 38 years has flowed under the bridge since I “stole” a hearse. Surely the statute of limitations has kicked in by now, thus this confession. I am NOT, however, admitting guilt. Instead, I was the “victim” of yet another Groner Pitts prank. Friends who knew this merriest of morticians--who reigned in Brownwood for a half-century--also were “victimized” from time to time. Yet, I never had a better friend, and Brownwood (TX) never had a greater ambassador. And thousands who followed his antics for three decades through the late George Dolan’s daily columns in the Fort Worth Star-Telegram never lacked for laughs. Many were often ensnared in his webb of tomfoolery. I’m probably the only “victim,” however, to “steal” a hearse partially owned by Pitts himself.

The “pro’s pro” among morticians, he had fitting first and last names (Groner? Pitts?). Even his initials (GAP) pointed to the grave. The Cleburne native conducted funerals with utmost dignity. To the Brownwood community, he was “Uncle Groner,” the “go to” guy counted on by several hundred grieving families annually.

During slack time, however, he was helping college students or assisting others who’d reached rope’s end (maybe striking out in Austin or Washington DC) co-signing bank notes or maybe this should head the list--plotting his next shenanigan. He befriended me from my first enrollment at Howard Payne University. Though 15 years my senior, he was a fellow “trooper” in the Texas National Guard, and best man when Brenda and I married in Alpine almost 49 years ago. I was privileged to speak at his funeral in 2004. Upon his death, thousands of “Groner Pitts stories” were shared, locally and beyond.

Admittedly, I was an accomplice during many of his escapades. Yet, many times when pies were thrown toward him, they coated my face instead. That’s the way I choose to remember the day I “stole” the hearse. Had it happened today, I might have gone down in a hail of bullets, or, short of that, endured the indignity of arrest, the messiness of finger printing, the ordeal of a trial, etc.

I might never have been a university president, but likely could have remained the “PR flack” at Tarrant County College, because my boss, Dr. Joe B. Rushing, a classmate of Groner’s at Howard Payne, might have ruled in my favor. He KNEW Pitts well, and sometimes was a co-conspirator. It was indeed an era not unlike “Mayberry, RFD.”

Here’s what happened. On that long ago day, Pitts was bored. He decided to charter a plane to fetch some press people to Brownwood, ostensibly to “cover” a reception for new Filipino nurses at Brownwood Regional Hospital. As requested, I contacted a half-dozen press folks, promising them chicken and biscuits on the way down and a “surprise” on the flight back. I was blissfully ignorant, NOT privy to what the “surprise” would be.

*****

On the returning flight over Granbury, Pitts feigned boredom, ordering the pilot to land. (He’d arranged a special act for the press at the Opera House.) One of the writers, Roger Summers, groaned, fearing he’d miss a deadline. I spotted a hearse near the theater, presuming the late George Martin, Groner’s Granbury partner, was “in” on the deal. The key was in the ignition, so, when lights darkened, Roger and I slipped out of the theater. We took the hearse--okay, I took the hearse--dropping Roger off 40 miles later in downtown Fort Worth at the Star-Telegram. Then, I was off to DFW where I’d leave the hearse and retrieve my car. (I didn’t realize Martin was not privy to the goings on, and was merely stopping off for a cup of coffee near the Opera House.)

*****

When Martin discovered his hearse missing, things got tacky. Another hearse had been stolen a few days earlier, so the local mortician was somewhat edgy. He notified authorities. They gave chase. We missed several road blocks by minutes. No arrests were made. All--or most, anyway--was forgiven. Summers made his deadline. I was spared. Memories of Pitts’ big heart--and his shenanigans--live on. He won all the community awards Brownwood had to offer, some twice. He deserved them all.
