THE SALTIEST PLACE IN TEXAS

Tumbleweed Smith

Tumbleweed Smith

The Indians called Grand Saline BIG SALT. No wonder. Grand Saline's salt dome produces one-third of the world's salt.

"Our salt is so pure that it's the only salt on pretzels made in this country," says Tomasa King, who works in the city's visitor's center. "So if you get a pretzel anywhere in the United States it comes from Grand Saline, Texas."

The visitor's center is called the Salt Palace and it's actually make of salt. A twenty-minute video shows how salt is produced.

"Caddo Indians started getting salt from here in 800 AD. Then came the Cherokees, the pioneers and the Confederate army. They would just take water off the salt flat and evaporate it to get their salt. The Morton Salt Company came here in 1929 and put in a mine."

Millions of tons of salt leave Grand Saline every year. But there is plenty left "We have twenty thousand feet of salt. That's how big our salt dome is. We are currently only at seven hundred and fifty feet. So we can produce salt here for another twenty thousand years."

The Morton Salt complex is just a mile from the Salt Palace. Everything is done there, from mining the salt to packaging it. Between 1936 and 1963 visitors could tour the salt mine, but it was declared unsafe and the tours were stopped. Work is underway to provide a virtual tour.

"Our salt is extremely pure. We do pharmaceutical salt as well as salt for your animals. We're also a Kosher salt mine. We get blessed by a Rabbi. We do a lot of salt here that nobody knows about."

Two hundred fifty people work at Morton Salt in Grand Saline. Only fourteen are miners who go into the mine to get the salt.

"It looks like a huge room. They don't build anything down there. They leave big pillars of salt to hold up the ceiling of salt. Workers eat lunch down there and are down there all day. They blast out the salt on Friday, scoop it up with a front-end loader on Monday and then it goes into packaging. There's just one elevator that goes down to the mine. It takes the men and equipment. If there's a car or truck that needs to go down, they take it apart, put the pieces on the elevator and re-assemble it in the mine."

For forty years the city has had a salt festival every June. This year it's June 11-13. Activities include street dances, vendors, downtown luncheons, all ruled over by a court of salt duchesses and a salt queen. The umbrella girl on boxes of Morton Salt has been the company's advertising symbol for one hundred and one years. She has changed hairstyles and dresses six times to stay fashionable. Tomasa says the umbrella girl is the only female in the advertising logo hall of fame.

At The Corral Gate

By Enola Gay

The Hopkins County Dairy Festival is 56 years old! It's a celebration of the benefits and blessings that the dairy industry brought to the economy in Hopkins County. Although the golden day of hundreds of family-owned dairies across North East Texas has passed, the tradition is still strong enough to take up two big weekends of celebration! I hope you have reached for your fair share of this most delicious, fun time of the summer!

Enola Gay chatted with Lynda Hager about Dairy Festivals past and present on Monday's Good Morning Show. Lynda is a 50-year Dairy Festival Board member and has helped in just about every aspect and feature over the years. Her special love is the Pageant, the talent presentations and the contestants themselves. Lynda was Hopkins County dairy royalty before there was a Dairy Festival Queen. As a SSHS sophomore, she was honored to represent Hopkins County in the huge Dairy Sale in Sulphur Springs as that year's select Dairyman's Daughter. Lynda says enjoy meeting each young lady as the 2015 court is presented at the Queen's Coronation Pageant on Saturday June 20 at 6pm in the Hopkins County Civic Center auditorium. Advance tickets are $7 from contestants, and $10 at the door.

June may be Dairy Month, but unfortunately, some people limit eating "dairy". Why? They may be "lactose intolerant". This inability to digest lactose, a sugar found in milk, causes them to be lactose deficient, and this can bring on painful and unpleasant side effects! Even some babies are born with "congenital lactose deficiency" which prevents them from drinking even human milk. I think about my inner child growing up without homemade ice cream, and my adult self without cream in the coffee and shortcake sans whipped cream, and I am saddened

Now, what about the people who practice a vegan or a vegetarian diet? What's the difference? Well, there are definite differences between the two, and in fact a number of sub-types exist. So I looked it up and found out they are worlds apart. Oversimplified, on-line dictionaries show that a Strict Vegetarian will not eat meats, but will include dairy products and eggs in the diet along with fruits, veggies, grains and nuts. A Vegan will not consume animal products no matter the form. Both types of diet are low in fat and high in fiber because of the veggies, fruits, grains and nuts they include. Also, both offer certain health advantages. I wondered, where does fish fit in? Well, "pescatarians" are vegetarians who will include fish in their diet... "semi-vegetarians" include fish and chicken as protein choices....and "flexitarians" are vegetarians who will eat meats (red?) sometimes. There are a few other sub-categories too. There are any number of sources you can look up to find out more about these diet and lifestyle choices.

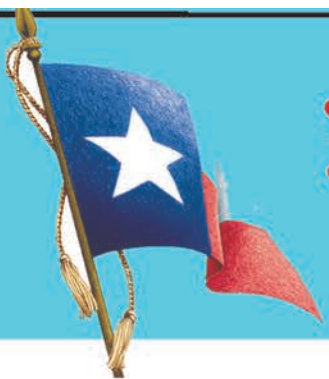

Meantime, it's summer and since I'm just a plain-old, garden-variety southerner, I'm probably going to allow the odd slice of coconut cream pie or Tres Leches cake on my plate. There's almost nothing more deliciously pleasing than nature's bounty of whatever fresh fruit's in season topped with a big dollop or two of sweetened whipped cream. Heaven on earth!

All too soon, the signal for summer's end will be sensed. Now it's the time to live up the season, soak it up and gather it to yourself. "Seize the Day" could translate to "seize the season", and that could mean any and every season of the year! Truly, it's all good!

Til next week, I'll count my blessings and watch for you at the corral gate!

Lisa Hartman - Black

Film & Television

Lisa Hartman Black (born June 1, 1956) is an American actress and singer.

Career

After some minor television appearances, Hartman starred in the short-lived Bewitched spin-off, Tabitha during 1977-78. She subsequently appeared frequently on television in guest roles, and appeared in the 1981 CBS TV remake of Jacqueline Susann's Valley of the Dolls, as Neely O'Hara.

She then played a major role in the primetime soap Knots Landing, as rock singer Ciji Dunne, during 1982 and 1983. Ciji was murdered, but the reaction from fans prompted the producers to create a new "look-alike" character for her. She returned as Ciji's lookalike Cathy Geary. She remained with the show as Cathy until 1986. She then continued to appear in television guest roles, and played the lead in the feature film Where the Boys Are in '84.

Hartman recorded four solo albums between 1976 and 1987 – two for Kirshner Records, one for RCA Records and one for Atlantic Records. Her most notable song is If Love Must Go, which she performed on various television shows like Solid Gold and Merv Griffin. Despite additional contributions from successful songwriters and producers including Jeff Barry, Dobie Gray, Bryan Adams, Rick Springfield, Will Jennings, and Holly Knight, the albums were not commercially successful. She achieved her most notable success with a duet with her husband entitled "When I Said I Do". It reached Number 1 on the Billboard Hot Country Singles & Tracks charts on December 18, 1999 and was nominated for a Grammy Award. The duet was ranked #11 on CMT's 100 Greatest Duets in Country Music in 2005. They recorded a second duet titled "Easy For Me to Say", which peaked at #27 on the country music charts in 2002.

Lisa Hartman - Black

In summer of 1994, Hartman co-hosted Universal Studios Summer Blast, a TV special celebrating the 30th anniversary of Universal Studios.

In April 2011, her albums Lisa Hartman, Hold On, and Letterock were officially released on CD with bonus tracks by Wounded Bird Records under license from Sony (who holds the rights to them now). Her last album 'Til My Heart Stops has already been reissued on CD on Wounded Bird Records.

In May 2012, Hartman starred in Flicka: Country Pride a movie from Twentieth Century Fox Home Entertainment. She plays the mother of a budding equestrian rider (Kacey Rohl).

Personal life

In 1991, she married musician Clint Black, with whom she has a daughter, Lily Pearl Black, born in 2001. They have lived in Nashville, Tennessee since 2002 after living in Laurel Canyon, Los Angeles, California.

A woman called Sonora Smart Dodd was an influential figure in the establishment of Father's Day. Her father raised six children by himself after the death of their mother. This was uncommon at that time, as many widowers placed their children in the care of others or quickly married again.

Sonora was inspired by the work of Anna Jarvis, who had pushed for Mother's Day celebrations. Sonora felt that her father deserved recognition for what he had done. The first time Father's Day was held in June was in 1910. Father's Day was officially recognized as a holiday in 1972 by President Nixon.

THE IDLE AMERICAN All Scream for Ice Cream

Commentary by Don Newbury

It is considered a short poem, ditty, slogan or even a hard, cold fact--we all scream for ice cream. Purists may sniff, however, insisting that initially, it was but the chorus of a simple melody introduced in 1925.

Here lately, however--with Blue Bell's voluntary removal of its desserts from all outlets--many of its faithful have raised their voices. Screams have been ramped up to rafter-shaking levels.

Some folks--whim-pers and moans awash in tears--maintain that nothing else will do. Alas, what if there's no peaches n' cream until 2016? Or a summer without Blue Bell?...

Greatly marginalized, that's what, the Blue Bell nation insists.

The company's leaders--with a long history of getting it right--assure us that soon, all will be right again. This means millions who are "Blue Bell dependent" will be lifting spoons and loosening belts once more, prospective weight gain be hanged.

At some venues--such as at Globe Life Park in Arlington--where the Texas Rangers sometimes play baseball--signs apologize for Blue Bell's absence; instead, a substitute is offered. (Never mind the cost; hey, it's the old ball-game)...

Grumps--with popular hamburger hang-outs in Burleson, Granbury, Cleburne and Stephenville--has long featured Blue Bell, and its absence has presented challenges.

Their clever signage remains in place, "heavy on the blue." At the ice cream stop, they're substituting "Bunny" for "Bell." Most have accepted the substitution without comment.

To the few grumblers at Grumps--where hens' teeth are in greater supply than critics--owner Collier Albright says they're "doing the best they can." For customers who feel the substitute treat tastes about as much like Blue Bell as the car "that doesn't look like a Buick," customers get their money back, even if they've licked clean both dish and spoon....

"We're able to get the 'blue part' right for now, but we think the addition of 'bell' will be in order soon," Albright said.

Practicing "the customer is always right" philosophy, Grumps--introduced in

The One, The Only... Groucho!...

You Tube preserves much--some of it worthwhile--about what has been said. It proves yet again that when everything is said and done, usually more is said than done.

This day, the spotlight is on responses of game show contestants, who simply become "clabber-headed," casting nervous glances toward microphones, cameras and spotlights. They wilt, fearing questions posed by experienced hosts may elicit responses that make them the stock of laughter.

Radio personalities come to mind. Among the very best was the late Groucho Marx, one of a precious few "mercy-makers" who not only survived--but indeed thrived--on stage, screen, radio and TV....

Few can match his wit--it was faster than any gun in the west. His best work often sprang from his fertile comedic mind, without benefit of assistance from skilled writers who are basic to most TV shows today.

Even fewer could hope to succeed in "being good" at everything attempted. His expressions, ever-present cigar and engaging personality were classic.

Mike Pribble Plaque To Be Unveiled

This is a plaque created in honor of Mike Pribble, rodeo producer and performer. As the final act of a dream to recognize Mike and his many contributions, the plaque will be unveiled and dedicated on Wednesday, July 1st, at noon at the Equine Pavilion.

On the site in this picture in 1938, Mike Pribble constructed a rodeo arena that hosted an annual Fourth of July Rodeo for 43 years with over 20,000 fans attending annually.

In 1954, Mr. Pribble upgraded his facility to be Texas' largest and finest all steel 6,000 seat arena.

Mr. Pribble performed trick and fancy roping nationwide for 4 decades. This included: Standing on his head while roping 8 galloping horses; performing the Texas Skip for 200 yards up and down the arena; vaulting stunts off the back and side of the horse; suicide drags and many different standing tricks.

He was recruited by Will Rogers for Western movies and taught the Apache Belles to trick rope.

The Fourth of July Rodeo provided entertainment for Hopkins County residents and visitors nationwide for several generations.
