Parachute Jump

I volunteered recently to perform a parachute jump for charity. On our first day of training, the instructor made an important point about preparing for landing at 300 feet.

"How do you know when you're at 300 feet?" asked one woman.

"A good question," replied the instructor. "At 300 feet you can recognize the faces of people on the ground."

The woman thought about this for awhile before saying, "What happens if there's no one there I know?"

IN MY NEXT LIFE...

In my next life.... I want to be a bear. If you're a bear, you get to hibernate. You do nothing but sleep for six months. I could deal with that.

Before you hibernate, you're supposed to eat yourself stupid. I could deal with that, too.

If you're a bear, you birth your children (who are the size of walnuts) while you're sleeping and wake to partially grown, cute cuddly cubs. I could definitely deal with that.

If you're a mama bear, everyone knows you mean business. You swat anyone who bothers your cubs. If your cubs get out of line, you swat them too. I could deal with that.

If you're a bear, your mate EXPECTS you to wake up growling. He EXPECTS that you will have hairy legs and excess body fat.

Yup Gonna be a bear.

Strange BUT TRUE

by Samantha Weaver

* It was notoriously prolific American author and academic Isaac Asimov, who died in 1992, who made the following sage observation: "There is a cult of ignorance in the United States, and there always has been. The strain of anti-intellectualism has been a constant thread winding its way through our political and cultural life, nurtured by the false notion that democracy means that 'my ignorance is just as good as your knowledge.'"

* If you're like 10 to 20 percent of the U.S. population, you suffer from "coulrophobia," a fear of clowns.

* In Linden, California, a man saw a rabbit scurry into an irrigation pipe. Worried about the animal's safety, he got two other men to help him lift the 44-foot-long pipe and urge the rabbit out. Their kindly behavior wasn't rewarded, however; while the men were lifting it, the pipe touched a 12,000-volt electrical wire, electrocuting all three of the Good Samaritans.

* Those who suffer from Moebius syndrome are incapable of showing expressions on their faces -- not a frown or a smile or a quizzical lift of an eyebrow. They often are found sleeping with their eyes open.

* Between 1976 and 1987, no red M&M candies were produced.

* A collection of items that belonged to Eva Braun, Adolf Hitler's longtime companion (and, very briefly, his wife), recently went up for auction. Among the items was a pair of her underwear, lilac with white lace and ribbon trim, embroidered with her initials. An unnamed collector bought the undergarment for more than $3,500.

* If you want to get a karat's worth of diamond, you'll have to mine, on average, 23 tons of ore.

Thought for the Day: "Every normal man must be tempted at times to spit upon his hands, hoist the black flag and begin slitting throats." -- H.L. Mencken

The Garden Bug

Frankincense

Frankincense was part of the perfume of the sanctuary (Exodus 30:34), and accompanied the meal-offering (Leviticus 2:1, 2:16, 6:15, 24:7). A specially "pure" kind was presented with the show-bread (Leviticus 24:7). When burnt it emitted a fragrant odour and symbolized the Divine name (Malachi 1:11; Song of Solomon 1:3) and prayer (Psalms 141:2; Luke 1:10; Revelation 5:8, 8:3). It was often associated with myrrh (Song of Solomon 3:6, 4:6) and with it was given to the infant Jesus (Matthew 2:11). — Brenda Weaver

NOW HERE'S A TIP
By JoAnn Derson

- * If you are chopping a lot of tomatoes and need to remove seeds, this tip will leave you spinning. Get out your salad spinner, add chopped tomatoes and give it a whirl!
- * "When you are slicing flank steak or chicken breasts (anything you need to cut thin that has a lot of skin pieces or fat that make it hard to cut), try partially freezing the meat first. It defrosts quickly when it is cut thin, and it is much easier to slice." -- C.O. in Indiana
- * Baby bottle drying racks can find a new life airing out reusable water bottles, many of which are better suited to hand-washing.
- * Need to hang something on a wall? Here's a trick to get your nails in just the right place. Use a dab of toothpaste on the back where the nails should go. Press against the wall. The toothpaste will leave behind a superb guide, which can be wiped right off the wall after the nail is in. Hang and admire!
- * Make an eraser for your whiteboard marker by gluing a pompom on the end with a drop of hot glue. Use giftwrap tape to secure a small magnet to the side of the marker, and it's ready to go up on the fridge with your dry-erase board.
- * Use a Bundt pan to roast a chicken. Season and prepare your bird, then slip the bird upright on the center of the greased pan, cavity down. Fill the pan with veggies for a complete meal.
- * "I store my loose charging cables in an eyeglass case in my purse. It all stays together, and the cords don't get damaged or crimped." -- E. in Massachusetts

PUZZLE CARD

A TRICKY TRIANGLE! Can you place the digits 1 through 6 in the circles in our Puzzle Card so that the sum of the three numbers along each side will be the same?

Junior Whirl

by Charles Barry Townsend
AN "A" WORDS FILL-IN PUZZLE!

Illustrated by David Coulson

Our answer: Starting with the top circle and going around clockwise: 6, 1, 5, 3, 4, 2. The sum will be 12.

CAN YOU 'BREAK' THIS COMBINATION? In this AlphaMath puzzle, you must replace the letters on our safe with the digits 1 through 9 so that you will have a correct addition problem. The same letters get the same digits. Try for the highest possible total in five minutes.

Our answer: L=8, O=7, K=2, E=1, Y=5, S=9, A=3, F=4 (8728 + 615 = 9341).

FIND THE SEVEN WORDS PUZZLE! In the word square on the right, we've removed six of the letters to spell out "PLANEER." See if you can replace these letters in the squares so that you will have four 3-letter words across and three 4-letter words down. Time limit: 60 seconds.

Answers: (Across): Hap, eel, roe, end. (Down): Here, aeon, pied.

Below are the 15 "A" words you'll need to complete the puzzle grid above. Use the trial-and-error method, and keep an eraser handy!

First diagnosed in 2008, Daryle battled cancer several times over the years. He retired on disability from the City of Danville in September 2011. During his employment with the city, he worked in the Building Maintenance Department, and then in the Utility Department, first as a plumber/gas fitter for 18 years, and then as a gas control technician for 6 years.

Daryle enjoyed riding his motorcycle and would often take off to the Blue Ridge Mountains for a day of riding. On July 8, 2013, Daryle was part of a group of five men that left Danville on their bikes and headed west. Fifteen days later, Daryle and one other remaining rider returned home, having covered 6,955 miles, 1,700 of those miles in the final three days of the trip.

A celebration of Daryle's life was held on Monday, December 12 at Norris Funeral Services and Crematory, 3995 Franklin Turnpike.

The family asks that in lieu of flowers, you instead consider a gift to Danville Pittsylvania Cancer Association, 223 Riverview Drive, Danville, or Pittsylvania County SPCA, P.O. Box 936, Chatham, Va – two organizations which were very important to Daryle.

"Life should not be a journey to the grave with the intention of arriving safely in a pretty and well-preserved body, but rather to skid in broadside in a cloud of smoke, thoroughly used up, totally worn out, and loudly proclaiming, 'Wow! What a ride!'" – Hunter S. Thompson

by Tony Rizzo

HOLLYWOOD -- Meryl Streep, who won Oscars for "Kramer vs Kramer" (1980), "Sophie's Choice" (1983) and "The Iron Lady" (2011), just received word from The Hollywood Foreign Press that she'll be the recipient of the Cecil B. DeMille Award at its Golden Globes ceremony on Jan. 8. In addition to the three Oscar winners, Streep has won Golden Globes for "The French Lieutenant's Woman" (1981), "Adaption" (2002), "Angels in America" (2003), "The Devil Wears Prada" (2006) and "Julie & Julia" (2009). Streep is only 67, but many stars feel this award is the industry's way of saying they're at the end of their career.

That may have been true for Barbara Stanwyck, 78; Laurence Olivier, 75; Robert Mitchum, 74; Henry Fonda, 74; Gene Hackman, 72; Alfred Hitchcock, 72; Anthony Quinn, 71; Cecil DeMille (the first recipient), 71; and Maurice Chevalier, 70, but Judy Garland, 39, went on to a huge singing career, while Charlton Heston, 43, made 27 more films. Jody Foster, honored four years ago, at 50, is still going strong with "Elysium" (2013) and film directing.

Streep, far from done, next stars in "Mary Poppins Returns," with Emily Blunt as Mary Poppins and Lin-Manuel Miranda (of "Hamilton" fame) playing a Dick Van Dyke-type character. It's set for a Christmas 2018 release.

Lin Manuel Miranda, the toast of Broadway, is now under contract to Disney. In addition to doing "Mary Poppins Returns," he wrote the music and sang on the soundtrack of "Moana" and is set to moonlight, from Disney, in "Speech & Debate" as a genie.

Jessica Rothe, who stars with Ryan Gosling and Emma Stone in the new hit musical film "La La Land," is set to star in a musical remake of the 1983 Nicolas Cage film "Valley Girl" (the original cost $350,000 to make and grossed $17 million). Cage will next be seen in the sci-fi film "The Humanity Bureau," coming in 2017.

Bradley Cooper, hard at work on directing his first film, "A Star is Born," with Lady GaGa, will next star in "Atlantic Wall," about an American paratrooper operating behind enemy lines before D-Day. It's due in 2018.

The success of "Rogue One: A Star Wars Story," has made TV magazines and news shows speculate that a sequel is a forgone conclusion, but insiders at Disney say there won't be one because "Rogue One" is a prequel and a stand-alone "Star Wars" story, and the sequel was already made as "Star Wars: A New Hope."

I usually end with a joke, but the recent election was a laughing matter. Enjoy this holiday season -- it may be a very different world next year.

Even Exchange by Donna Pettman

Each numbered row contains two clues and two 6-letter answers. The two answers differ from each other by only one letter, which has already been inserted. For example, if you exchange the A from MASTER for an I, you get MISTER. Do not change the order of the letters.

Reese Witherspoon

Q. One of my favorite books of the past few years is "Big Little Lies" by Liane Moriarty. My sister told me it's going to be adapted into a movie. Is that true? — Linda W., via email

A. The popular 2014 novel is indeed being adapted ... however, it will be a seven-episode limited series that will air on HBO. David E. Kelley — who created "Ally McBeal," "Picket Fences," "Chicago Hope" and "The Practice," among many others — is behind the creation of this sure-to-be-another-hit series. Aside from the excellent source material and brilliance of its creator, the series packs quite a punch with star power: Nicole Kidman, Reese Witherspoon and Shailene Woodley (who play the lead characters), along with Alexander Skarsgard, Laura Dern, Adam Scott and Jeffrey Nordling. Hot on the heels of the extraordinary and critically acclaimed "Westworld," HBO hopes to reprise its success with "Big Little Lies." Look for its premiere on Feb. 19.

Q. I know I am late to the party, but I have been binge-watching "Sons of Anarchy" like there's no tomorrow. Is there any chance we'll get more seasons of this awesome show? — Jerry T., Biloxi, Mississippi

A. Sort of. FX recently announced that it will shoot a pilot called "Mayans MC," which will be a sequel to "Sons." Kurt Sutter has written and will direct the pilot, with FX releasing this tidbit: "The drama will be set in a post-Jax Teller world, where EZ Reyes — a prospect in the Mayan MC charter on the California/Mexico border — struggles with his desire for vengeance against the cartel and his need for respect from the women he loves." And no, "women" is not a typo. Sounds like he has his hands full, and fans will get their fill of more motorcycle madness and mayhem.

Q. Earlier this year, I got hooked on "The Artful Detective." Will there be more episodes? — Marty F., via email

A. Ovation has announced that your favorite turn-of-the-20th-century detective will return for an 18-episode 10th season. Set in Toronto at the dawn of the 20th century, "The Artful Detective," as you know, is a one-hour drama series that explores the world of Det. William Murdoch (played by Yannick Bisson), a methodical and dashing detective who pioneers innovative forensic techniques to solve some of the city's most gruesome murders.

As season 10 of the acclaimed series begins — on Jan. 9 at 7 p.m. ET/4 p.m. PST — Det. Murdoch is proceeding with plans to build a house and create a happy life for himself and his wife, Dr. Julia Ogden (Helene Joy). Julia is introducing her newly arrived friend Lady Suzanne Atherly (Samantha Bond of "Downton Abbey") and her daughter Elizabeth to Toronto society at a debutante ball. Unfortunately, the elegant event turns deadly when one of the ladies vying to marry Toronto's most eligible bachelor is murdered.

VA Pushes Research on Prostate Cancer

The headline on the Department of Veterans Affairs news release cited a grim fact: 12,000 veterans are diagnosed annually with prostate cancer. The VA's partnership with the Prostate Cancer Foundation can't come too soon. Their goal: to prevent, screen and promote research to speed the development of treatments and cures among veterans.

To that end, they're bringing together the big guns: researchers, data, cancer experts, advanced screenings and diagnostics. The PCF kicked in $50 million to get things started.

PCF will be partnering with many groups around the country to enroll more veterans in studies, provide data for studies, increase the number of VA facilities applying to them for funding and much more. Key in cancer treatment will be the development of precision medicine. The research and data also will be shared with public agencies and corporations.

This won't be the VA's first time partnering with others to search for cancer prevention and cure answers. In 2016 alone, it was part of 262 projects.

The new efforts include the Million Veteran Program, the world's largest database of health, military and genetic data; VA Precision Oncology Program, providing state-of-the-art care; and VA Cooperative Studies Program, a colonoscopy screening, which wants to enroll 50,000 veterans.

Meanwhile, don't wait for a call. Take charge of this. If you haven't had a prostate-specific antigen test in a while, go get one. It's a simple blood test that could save your life. Even if you have no symptoms at all, get the test. The result will tell you the likelihood that you'll ever develop cancer. You might just be told to come back for another test so the results can be compared. The earlier you get on this, the better. So, go.

Snappy Magazines

Q: While going through a family storage area, I found about two dozen issues of Snappy Magazine from 1930 and 1931. Since they were tied up with string and labeled "smut," I was naturally interested. What can you tell me about them? -- Steve, Metairie, Louisiana

A: Your magazines were part of GlemArt, which also included Gay Parisienne and Paris Nights. Not exactly smut by today's standards (or lack thereof), the issues often included pinup illustrations, occasional nude art images and suggestive stories. Look for contributions by Octavus Ray Cohen, Achmed Abdullah (Michael Romanoff), and Jack Woodford, since they are especially collectible. According to "Vintage Magazines Price Guide," by Richard Russell and Elaine Gross Russell and published by Krause Books, most issues of Snappy magazine are valued in the $30-$85 range, but there are exceptions. Due to content, May 1931 and May 1933 issues are worth about $125 each; April 1933, $100; and June 1934, $150. According to these prices, your stack of Snappy publications -- if in good condition and complete -- could easily be worth several thousand dollars.

Q: I have an old 78-rpm recording of "Long Ago and Far Away" by Dick Haymes and Helen Forrest. I believe it is from World War II. What is it worth? -- Billy, Rio Rancho, New Mexico

A: Your recording -- Decca 23317 -- was issued in April 1944 and spent 18 weeks on the nation's bestsellers chart. At one point, it was the No. 1 recording in sales in the country. It was introduced in the film, "Cover Girl," featuring Betty Grable. Hubba Hubba. Your disc is worth about $5 in excellent condition.

Q: I inherited a small bowl, which my late grandma told me was hobnail glass. What exactly is hobnail glass? -- Martha, Portsmouth, Virginia

A: Hobnail glass is a pattern on pressed glass that has raised bumps as part of its distinctive design. Dozens of hobnail patterns and variants have been made in a wide variety of colors. This type of glass was perfected in 1886 by William Leighton Jr. and William F. Russell of Hobbs, Brockunier & Company. Incidentally, one of the earliest names for this glass pattern was dew-drop.

CHRISTMAS SUGAR COOKIE TRUFFLES

Ingredients

- 12 sugar cookies (about 2 1/2 to 3-inches in diameter)
- 3 tablespoons cream cheese, room temperature
- 2 cups white chocolate for melting (or candy melts)
- Sprinkles for decoration

Instructions

Place sugar cookies in a food processor and process until cookies turn into fine crumbs. Add cream cheese and process again until well-combined and mixture can be pressed into a ball, 1 to 2 minutes.

Shape cookies into balls about 1-inch to 1 1/2-inches in diameter. Place on a cookie sheet lined with parchment paper and place in the freezer for 15 minutes or the refrigerator for 1 hour.

In medium bowl, melt white chocolate according to instructions. (See my tips for melting chocolate.)

Remove the cookie balls from refrigerator. Using a spoon or two forks, dip and roll chilled cookie balls, one at a time, in coating. Return to lined cookie sheet and immediately top with sprinkles. Repeat process for remaining cookie balls. Store in an airtight container in the fridge for up to a week.

Notes

If the sugar cookie truffle dough is not firm enough, add another tablespoon of cream cheese.

Few Children Outgrow Tree- Nut Allergy

DEAR DR. ROACH: Can you tell me if there is any hope of a cure for tree-nut allergy, particularly for a child? -- X.M.

ANSWER: Tree-nut allergies, like all allergies, vary in severity from mild to life-threatening. Allergies to tree nuts (these include walnuts, cashews, almonds and others) are common, are more likely to be severe, and tend to persist throughout lifetime. People with one tree-nut allergy may have others, and about 30 percent to 40 percent also may be allergic to peanuts (despite their being legumes, they share enough characteristics for co-allergic reactions). Peanut and tree-nut allergies appear to be increasing in prevalence over time.

The mainstay of treatment is avoiding the allergen, which requires constant vigilance, careful reading of nutritional labels and a plan for treatment in case of ingestion, such as an epinephrine auto-injector. Only about 15 to 20 percent of younger children will develop tolerance to ("outgrow") their allergy; an allergy that develops later in life usually is lifelong. Your allergist can do skin testing to see if the allergy is resolving.

DEAR DR. ROACH: I'm a retired ob-gyn and am married to a practicing MD. I'm writing you today about autism and its use as a diagnosis. My view is that each individual is unique, mentally and physically. While autism may be one way to describe a personality, each person must deal with the world on its terms, not because of a diagnosis.

I personally believe I am a variant of Asperger's, but who knows? I don't qualify as an Asperger's if given a test prepared by psychologists/psychiatrists. Yet, I have had many life experiences that are best explained by an Asperger's diagnosis. What are your thoughts on Asperger's syndrome? -- A.G.

ANSWER: Since I recently published a letter by an adult who believed he was autistic despite never having received a diagnosis, I have had several letters like this.

Autism, including its variant Asperger syndrome, is a spectrum of illnesses that share deficits in social interaction, communication and stereotyped, repetitive behaviors. In Asperger syndrome, there is no clinically significant delay in language and intellectual development.

I certainly agree with you that each person is unique and that the label of a psychiatric condition, such as autism, bipolar or a personality disorder, has only limited usefulness. In the best case, it can give a person a way to start learning how to overcome challenges that similar people have faced. At worst, a label predisposes others to look at the person through a certain lens and to expect certain behaviors.

I have had many patients with psychiatric diagnoses ask me not to put that into their medical record, after having built up enough trust to share the diagnosis with me. People have had such negative experiences based on their diagnosis, their label, that I don't blame them for wanting to avoid being stereotyped. There is so much variation in all of these conditions -- even in those of us considered neurologically typical -- that we need to recognize the good and the bad side of making such a diagnosis.

Dr. Roach regrets that he is unable to answer individual letters, but will incorporate them in the column whenever possible. Readers may email questions to ToYourGoodHealth@med.cornell.edu. To view and order health pamphlets, visit www.rbmamall.com, or write to Good Health, 628 Virginia Drive, Orlando, FL 32803.

Enjoy Some Peace and a Routine Christmas.

By Glenn Mollette

It's easy to get tired of the same routine. We bring out the same old Christmas tree, same decorations and with almost the same holiday schedule. For good or bad though, Christmas is rarely exactly the same each year. Every Christmas brings a change.

Rarely will you celebrate Christmas with all the same people every year. Consider yourself very fortunate if you do. In many households someone will be missing. Sadly, the missing person is often someone who has been lost in death. Human life is frail and not much is required to eliminate us from living.

The human body is awesome but disease, old age and unfortunate events can take us out of this world easily. Your Christmas celebration may not be impacted this year but if you live long enough you will eventually celebrate the season without parents, siblings, a spouse or even a child. We don't like to think about such loss and grief but every Christmas brings an empty chair or a reason to experience grief.

The people of Christmas are God's greatest gift to us. Our health and our family and friends are the best of life. Take time this Christmas to enjoy the people in your life. Hug on them, love them and be very kind to them. You may not have them next year and you'll be glad you cherished them. Or, you may be the one missing next Christmas. Hopefully everyone will sit around the table and talk about what a kind and loving person you were...or maybe they won't. Don't take the chance; turn up your kindness, love and thoughtfulness this year. You don't have to shower people with gifts. Gifts are nice and it helps the economy but most people just need a little love and a few kind words. A little affirmation and appreciation always go a long way. Make a list of people you need to call, send a kind email to or visit in person.

My wife and I love going to see a lady in our town. She is 95 years old and still very independent. She is a greeter at her church, gardens and drives wherever she wants to go. She visits people in the nursing home who are 15 - 20 years younger. She is an easy person to visit because she always inspires us and makes us laugh. She is always kind, never grumpy and has a sweet spirit about life. She exercises every day and eats her vegetables. She is our mentor and we want to be just like her. Therefore, be kind, eliminate grumpiness and be sweeter. People might want to come and spend a little time with you. We always take her a little something when we go to see her like a poinsettia or something simple. You would think we had taken her a bar of gold or diamonds because she is always so appreciative and grateful.

We need people in our lives because life is not that exciting staring at walls for 24 hours a day. This is what happens to people in nursing homes so often.

Every Christmas has problems. Life is filled with problems. Mary and Joseph had lots of problems their first Christmas. No room in the Inn, taxes to pay, an unplanned pregnancy, and eventual threats from King Herod which caused them to flee into Egypt for safety. People all over the planet will deal with problems this Christmas. What is your problem this Christmas? How are you going to deal with it and move forward? Sometimes there is no answer to life's problems except to work over or around them. Whatever your problem is this year, please try to not allow it to mess up your Christmas.

Finally this Christmas try to take a new look at the person of Christmas - a little baby. Whatever your religious spin in life is you can't feel too ill about the baby of Christmas. Years before Jesus' birth it was told that a babe would be born in Bethlehem and the government would rest upon his shoulders. He would be called wonderful, counselor, the mighty God, the everlasting Father and the prince of peace. If you see or experience nothing else about Christmas this year hopefully one descriptive word about the baby will penetrate your life and that is peace. Also, be further blessed with a lot of routine.

DONNA'S DAY: CREATIVE FAMILY FUN
By Donna Erickson

Shake Up Snow Globe Filled With Memories

There's something magical about a snow globe. Who can resist shaking a liquid-filled decoration to watch it "snow"? I know families that collect them on their summer vacations, and on occasion they give them a good shake, turn them upright and then smile with the memories. Now you can make your own to commemorate something special you did in 2016. Reminisce with your kids about activities your family enjoyed this past year, and then make a memory snow globe using a small waterproof object to represent the activity or event. Here's how:
First, you want to have a vision for your scene and how it will be contained. Will you need a little jar, a fat jar or a skinny jar? A tall jam jar might accommodate that plastic bear figure as a reminder of a camping trip at a national park. A baby-food jar would make a perfect home for a little rubber starfish to represent the sea life you observed at an aquarium. It's all up to you and your imagination.
Step 1: Fill the jar with water and shake to test the lid for tightness. Pour the water out, remove the paper label and let it dry completely.
Step 2: Choose a clean, waterproof toy, game piece, travel souvenir or trinket to inhabit the imaginary world. Place it temporarily inside the lid and lower the jar down over it, just to make sure it fits and allows enough space for the "snow" to fall when complete. An adult should glue the object on the inside of the lid with water-resistant glue, such as aquarium sealant from your local pet store. Let dry 24 hours.
Step 3: Fill the jar almost to the top with baby oil, or use distilled water with a few drops of glycerin added. Sprinkle glitter or waterproof confetti into the liquid. An adult should apply water-resistant glue to the outside grooves of the jar rim and carefully screw on the lid. Stand the jar with lid end up to dry for 24 hours.
Gather your kids around and shake your 2016 memory globe. Then hold still and watch.
Extra tip for grandparents: Enjoy a "crafting fest" with your grandchildren, and let each one make a memory globe with objects that represent something you did together, such as a fishing trip, a book you read, a movie you saw or a recipe you cooked up. Talk about the memory as you create.
