The U.S. Food and Drug Administration has approved Differin Gel 0.1% (adapalene), a once-daily topical gel for the over-the counter (OTC) treatment of acne. Differin Gel 0.1% is approved for use in people 12 years of age and older. Differin Gel 0.1% is the first in a class of drugs known as retinoids to be made available OTC for the treatment of acne, and contains the first new active ingredient for acne treatment for OTC use since the 1980s. Differin Gel 0.1% was originally approved in 1996 as a prescription product for the treatment of acne vulgaris in patients 12 years of age and older. Acne is a common skin disease that affects approximately 50 million people in the United States. Acne pimples form when hair follicles of the skin clog up. Generally, pimples form on the face, neck, back, chest and shoulders. Anyone can get acne, but it is most common in teenagers and young adults. Acne can cause scarring and have adverse psychological effects (for example, poor self-image, depression and anxiety). Women who are pregnant, planning to become pregnant, or breast-feeding should ask a doctor before use.

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration has approved Xiidra (fifitegrast ophthalmic solution) for the treatment of signs and symptoms of dry eye disease. Dry eye disease includes a group of conditions in which the eye does not produce an adequate volume of tears of when the tears are not of the correct consistency. The chance of experiencing dry eye increases with age, affecting approximately five percent of the adult population age 30-40 and 10 to 15 percent of adults over age 65, and is more common among women. When severe and left untreated, this condition can lead to pain, ulcers or scars on the part of the eye called the cornea. Dry eye can make is more difficult to perform some activities, such as using a computer or reading for an extended period of time, and it can decrease tolerance for dry environments, such as the air inside and airplane.

JOHNSTON RV CENTER
 Wants you to join them at the Alabama Super Show, Feb. 17, 18, 19, at Von Braun Civic Center, Huntsville, AL.

The disciples witnessed the wind and sea obeying The Messiah (Mt 8:27, Mk 4:41). Demons even obeyed Him (Mt 8:28-34). Christ gave power to the disciples to cast out demons by hearing (Lk 10:16-17). Yet most Christian churches teach against hearing Christ's Biblical Words (Mt 4:4, 5:17-19, 7:21-27, Acts 3:23). They claim to believe in one Elohim, the devils also believe and tremble (Jam 2:19). Most contort the covenant of "The One" they claim to believe with a covenant made by man and call it believing in Christ. So Be It!
