Welcome

The more you look, the more you see that Upper Bucks County is a place like no other.

It's quirky and casual, hardworking, loyal and authentic, and it's about the prettiest place you'll ever visit, work or live.

We're nestled between the sprawl of Philadelphia and urban clusters of the Lehigh Valley. It's a short drive to New York City or down the shore.

We're different in so many ways....

THAT'S ONE TALL PLANT! Sunflowers grown in Upper Bucks' residential gardens and farms reach heights from 9 to 27 feet tall!

*...working farms, covered bridges, open spaces,
unspoiled streams, pristine lakes and water sheds, mountains, parks, scenic trails and historic river front towns.*

A northern gateway to bounty and abundance, beauty and emerging diversity, Upper Bucks County sits at the top of the Delaware Valley. In fact, we're served by both the Lehigh Valley and Delaware Valley media outlets and provide a bridge for travel in both directions. Upper Bucks County is one of the few remaining areas of Eastern Pennsylvania that still provides families the opportunity to see and experience working farms, covered bridges, open spaces, unspoiled streams, pristine lakes and water sheds, mountains, parks, scenic trails and historic river front towns.

We've got great restaurants and shopping, and small town centers where people still know and care about each other.

Enjoy four seasons here from temperate springs, to sun soaked summers, a gorgeous bronze and red palette of fall color (we're a lot closer than Vermont or the Poconos), and snow for the holidays.

There's a ton of tradition here – you'll find a century old Five and Dime store where you can step aside for a lunch break and enjoy an old fashioned root beer float, soup and a grilled cheese sandwich. Enjoy lunch and the memory of a slower, simpler time – or create a memory for someone you love.

Stop by, our door is always open!

Thanksgiving Day football rivalries that stretch back for decades offer standing room only year after year, after year.

Our parks offer Main Street Americana experiences on the 4th of July. Enjoy a pancake breakfast and the sight of service clubs decked in red, white and blue. They're selling everything from pizza to sausage and more. Antique car shows and water battles between local fire companies offer a peek into off-line entertainment, where laughing children get soaked with spray. The day's fun caps off with spectacular fireworks in the park at dusk.

Upper Bucks County is a community made up of lots of different communities, and that's part of what makes us unique as a region. What a wonderful place to visit, to work and to call home and raise a family.

The Upper Bucks Chamber of Commerce is committed to maintaining the appeal of our community. We want to embrace advancement and ensure the principles of free enterprise. We want to welcome new business into our community while supporting long established business owners and operations. And we strive to provide the support and resources needed for prosperity, making each of us an enduring part of this remarkable community.

Fun, Flavor, Frivolity & Frills...

Whether you are visiting or call it home, Upper Bucks offers Fun, Flavor, Frivolity and Frills for everyone!

Trim your sails on a shimmering lake. Kick back and listen to lone stars and bands performing covers and originals, weeknights and weekends.

Dine al fresco at a cozy table near a flickering hearth as the sun fades or settles. Visit unique shops, poke around for antiques and stop at road side stands for something fresh to take on a picnic alongside the river!

Scores of frogs and salamanders cross the road in late winter into spring migration heading for the Quakertown Swamp. There are so many that a volunteer group, the Quakertown Swamp Amphibian Rescue Partnership (QSARP), makes sure the little critters travel safely.

Recreation Fun...

GET OUTSIDE!

Drink in the air, splash in the sun, and play!

Rocks and ridges, lakes, streams, canals, disc golf, tennis, basketball, or hiking and biking trails, it's easy to enjoy nature and get some exercise too, throughout Upper Bucks County. Lake Nockamixon, Bucks County's largest lake, is best viewed up close and personal. Hop in a kayak or canoe and paddle along the shoreline. In spring verdant foliage is fresh from the last frost. Spot splashing fish, leaping frogs or if you're very lucky, a beaver may trail across your path. Round a cove. It takes patience to sneak up on a Great Blue Heron. In spring they're worthy of the name as feathers are colored a fresh, new blue. Below their pouched bills, a beard drapes like a dinner napkin. As wings pound air, they lift up and away.

Inner tubing along the Delaware River is another way to enjoy the scenery, dangle your toes in the lazy water on a hot July afternoon. Take to a pontoon and enjoy flame and sienna colored fall finery along the banks. Push against the rushing water as it heads to the Delaware Bay and beyond to the Atlantic Ocean.

For the serious athlete there's sweat, silt, bicycle tires and the annual September Half Ironman known locally as the "QuakerMan". It's held in and around Lake Nockamixon. Shape up first, before this swim/bike/run endurance test to the personal best. Unpack a picnic against a clear blue sky, or get even closer to the clouds in a hot air balloon. Take a nature walk and smell autumn. Trek through trails or cross country ski across fresh season snow.

For those who love the sound of cleats or a quarterback's call of hike, enjoy a freshly steamed hot dog snuggled in a soft white bun with a side of roasted peanuts, and you've got a night out at a ball game. Watch rivals grip the pigskin and pound the grid iron. Root for the home team or relish being part of the energy and hullabaloo as young talent meets toe-to-toe on the turf.

Dining Flavor...

...The small batch spirits revival is right at home in Upper Bucks County ...

Remember Grandma's apple pie or Mom's famous pot roast? The aroma, the texture and surroundings of a special meal can transport the diner to a treasured place and time. Restaurant meals do that. A marriage proposal over lobster for two or a go-to place where they know your name, celebrate milestones. Maybe it's a favorite breakfast place for creamy scrambled eggs enjoyed at a street side table or potato soup with crumbled bacon for a quick business lunch. How about a hand-pressed burger on a Kaiser roll on the front porch or a garden patio? Fine dine on flaky crab cakes or an expertly grilled T-bone steak – charred just so. If you don't have a roster of places to call your own in Upper Bucks County, now's the time to make one. Look anywhere and you'll find great food and generous portions served up, plate after delectable plate, by people who love what they do.

Farm to table might well have originated in Upper Bucks, but we do it quietly here because fresh local food is best enjoyed where it came from. We've got food, wine, beer and an up and coming take on the new craft spirits craze. Sample, swirl and sip a chardonnay or chambourcin. Grown, harvested, crushed and crafted in a tucked away corner where soil, climate rain and sun combine. If its beer you're after, bottoms up! Visit a local brewery, pub or restaurant with an on-site brew master where taps are fresh filled and flow with a changing roster of seasonal beers, thoughtfully made from scratch. Hmmmm. Too many choices? Try a tasting flight and enjoy what's just come out of the barrels. Catch a ride on beer's frothy, popular wave, or discover the enduring appeal of a slowly aged whiskey. The small batch spirits revival is right at home in Upper Bucks County where some spirits are made with locally grown and sourced ingredients. One Pennsylvania bourbon made here in Upper Bucks boasts a mash made from a heritage corn called "The Bloody Butcher". We've got the top shelf stocked from white to amber, and some specialties in between.

And we're fascinated with food trucks...spot them at farmers' markets, breweries and distillers, where special events aim to showcase homegrown abundance, building old school community over food and drink.

Cheers!

Arts & Entertainment Frivolity...

... find inspiration in the middle of a lavender field at dawn or on the corner of Broad and Main...

For more than a century, it's no wonder artists and poets have come to Upper Bucks County for inspiration.

See us. Rich, rugged hills and landscapes covered in fresh emerald leaves. Summer is abundant as fields burst with wheat, corn kernels fill out husks and sunflowers unfurl their petals in fields. Home gardens nurture Big Girl and heirloom tomatoes, wine colored geraniums and spotted vinca overflow pots and container gardens. In fall the same landscape transforms to a palette of topaz, rust, orange and bronze. Foliage provides a backdrop against open fields harvested of rye, soy, corn or pumpkins. The winter landscape offers crisp air and may take your breath away after a coating of flaky white, new fallen snow.

The New Hope School, known as Pennsylvania Impressionists, enjoyed each other here more than 100 years ago. Drawn by light and landscape they visited, settled and painted scenes en plein air, cleft by the Delaware River. You may spot someone today working in a solitary field, or camped with brushes and easel on a bustling downtown street corner. Today's artists continue in those well-worn footsteps. They find inspiration in the middle of a lavender field at dawn or on the corner of Broad and Main at noontime. Visit open studios. We're home to an internationally renowned public art sculptor – whose work conjures up images of moving tree roots, lovers and tango dancing. Enjoy arts and crafts festivals and fairs where one-of-a-kind pieces may be yours to treasure at home, or gift to those you love.

Hear us. The curtain rises again and again on area high school stages, where you just might spot the next Tony Award winner, singing and dancing her heart out. Ssshhh! Listen. Is that the next big name in classical music, or an emerging opera star playing in a school band, ensemble or choral concert? Our musicians weave together a rich tapestry of genres, invention and innovation. Upper Bucks is bursting with live music. We're closer than you think, and parking is easy.

Homegrown talent plays at outdoor farmers' markets and festivals, eateries, pubs and events so scour the area. You'll find any number of chances to enjoy cover songs and original material as musicians sing, strum and drum. With an historic venue outfitted in vintage velvet there's no need to bother with the big city for big names, because they're right here. National acts stop between shows in Philadelphia and New York City. There is truly a genre and live performance for every musical taste. Fill up on an evening of listening live.

Shopping Frills...

... We're a destination! Come for the produce and stay for the shopping!

It's 4 A.M., or earlier and across Upper Bucks County, farmers are up before the sun. Out in the fields picking Romaine or butter crunch lettuce and green bell peppers. They're digging Yukon Gold or red-skinned potatoes, rainbow carrots and pinwheel beets then gently coaxing eggs from nesting boxes. Fresh flower bouquets are bundled with zinnias, dahlias and asters to take to seasonal outdoor markets. From April into October or beyond, downtown farmers' markets are a popular way to meet and buy from locals. Take home everyday staples and a few luxury items, too. Clover or buckwheat honey, hand made soaps and lotions scented with home grown lavender. Small multi-generational family and boutique farming is robust business. Drive around. Stop at roadside stands offering fresh pick-of-the-day moments from the fields. Get close to the food, roll up your sleeves and stock the larder at pick-your-own orchards. In June, it's ruby jewel-toned strawberries. Blushing peaches in late July. Come September, look for keeping apples like Jonagold and Cortland, their weight draping the boughs. October brings pumpkins, crazily shaped gourds and Indian corn.

Take in a pumpkin patch with the kids. Carry out an armload of these harvest icons great for back porch decorating, carving, baking and soup making. Play hide-and-seek in corn mazes. Not into picking your own? That's OK, too. Buy a box at any road stand and breathe in the ripening landscape. Want to be part of the farm without doing the farming? You can. Community Sustainable Agriculture (CSA) operations, where a healthful and tasty weekly share of the harvest can be yours for an up-front membership fee.

Come for the produce but stay for the shopping. Independently owned stores, boutiques and galleries are another reason to shop local. Offering everything from 'shabby chic' to ultra fine. Check out "Antiques Row" in many of our eclectic downtowns. Poke around and discover yesterday's treasures – a rose painted china tea service, embroidered pillowcases or translucent pink Depression glass – today's keepsakes to pass on tomorrow.

Find on-trend women's clothing at independently owned boutiques. At vintage and consignment shops spot bell bottoms from the first go-around, in the 70s, bracelets and shiny bangles, earrings, scarves, bomber jackets, pea coats and trenches, leather bags, boots, shoes and more. Get advice from the store owner on how to put it all together and learn how to mix and match classic, vintage and new.

Don't forget about chillin'...with massage – like hot stone, relaxation or stress reduction, manis and pedis all more mainstream than ever before for both men and women, seek out and find a salon offering services you'll discover you just can't live without.

History & Culture Then & Now

It's 1799.

John Fries is hiding from federal marshals in a nearby farmer's field. Suddenly his little dog Whiskey moves toward John splitting the wheat. So close, John's smile fades as he looks up to discover Whiskey is not alone....

Legend has it that John Fries' dog may have given the Revolutionary War hero's hiding place away during the hunt to find Fries and bring him to justice for inciting a riot over an unfair Colonial Era tax. A hanging rope waiting for his neck.

“*Steep yourself in Upper Bucks history and culture...
Our roots run deep here, and there's always room to grow.*”

During the Revolution, the Liberty Bell went into hiding in Quakertown en route to Allentown.

Alternately known as the “Window Pane” and “Hot Water Tax,” Fries and his German farmer friends didn’t much like having to pay more taxes – sound familiar? After the new Americans had fought and died to protect their right to government “by and for the people,” and to be taxed fairly on goods and property, they weren’t keen to start turning out their pockets again.

In the end, Fries was pardoned by President John Adams, but not even legends hint at how Whiskey made out. In Upper Black Eddy, a landmark hotel and restaurant was a known favorite among English and American “Tory” sympathizers. Fine dining continues in this historic eatery and hotel overlooking the rushing whitecaps of the Delaware River. Underground Railroad stops were Civil War safe havens. They operated in restaurants, many of which continue to serve up lunch, drinks and dinner to locals and hungry wayfarers. From architecture to silk, lumber, organs, fabrics and grain mills, Upper Bucks County is a microcosm of American history. Our architecture spans centuries and attracts new owners and investors who care enough about preservation to keep the best of yesterday for tomorrow. Many buildings date to or before the American Revolution. Still others continue to operate as restaurants, pubs and hotels. It’s easy to visit an earlier place in time without a long car ride. Oral history lessons and tours by enthusiastic volunteers keep local lore alive. Carefully preserved collections, photographs and artifacts tell personal stories of local life. These troves are rich treasure for residents with roots here, trying to fill out family trees. They remind visitors where there is a past there must also be a future. Tour one-room schoolhouses and glimpse the early days of public education. You might even hear stories from a guide who spent his early formative years in the classroom with six grades of students, woodstoves and inkwells.

For more go to our website @ www.ubcc.org

What does culture mean to you?

Is it classical music and a gala concert at a top-ranked orchestra? Maybe Broadway shows, art museums housing priceless paintings, sculpture and other treasures... Perhaps it’s someone like Dorothy Parker, screenwriter of A Star is Born and Jazz Age eccentric, who once enjoyed martinis in her Tinicum Township home. Maybe Pearl Buck, both a Pulitzer and Nobel Prize winner, resonates. Her estate and foundation in Bedminster Township continues to make children’s lives better - or is culture a way of life?

From Upper Bucks County, you can easily access excitement and energy without living it 24/7. Uniquely positioned with great interstates and nearby public transportation for those who aren’t up to merging onto the Schuylkill Expressway or I-78, Upper Bucks is day-tripping distance to Philadelphia and New York City. Less than an hour away, the City of Brotherly Love lies at your feet and in under two, the Big Apple is ripe and ready to sweep you off your feet. We’re near a lot, but set apart. We’re closer to the Lehigh Valley. A year-round calendar is about half an hour away for classical, choral, church, jazz and ethnic festivals. There’s almost always something to see or do. University campuses host film, dance, theater and special performances, and arts organizations offer regular and seasonal programming accessible to everyone. In central New Jersey and Central Bucks County you’ll find a thriving community of smaller museums, dance companies, theater productions and music performances, art, workshops, talks or intellectual events.

Our culture is constantly evolving, and we’re not done growing. Long standing traditions of hard work, respect for the land and how we treat each other, are trademark qualities setting Upper Bucks apart. Don’t be surprised if someone strikes up a conversation in the local grocery checkout line or while waiting for a prescription at the pharmacy. Our hearts are open and our welcome generous. Newcomers, those returning home and natives who’ve been here for generations – call our classic towns and charming villages their own.

Business | Demographics Upper Bucks Means Business!

*... We have all the ingredients
for success...*

From working farms dating back centuries, to software engineers coding driverless cars, the diversity of business is as rich as the landscape in Upper Bucks. Where else can you drive past an historic bank barn, a cutting edge biotech lab and a preserved covered bridge in the span of a few minutes? We have manufacturers exporting globally — and with truckloads of Made in USA Product, major highways and ample warehouse space, we're a regional logistics hub. Upper Bucks is a place where an abandoned 1800s silk mill is revitalized into corporate offices for software designers and online auctioneers — with a little help from pro-economic development policy, winning national awards for preservation construction along the way. Here in the northern third of the county, we're a bastion of multi-generational family businesses, ranging from bountiful agriculture to specialty retail, professional services to hospitality, manufacturing, arts and trades.

Continuity is a word that comes to mind glancing at the long list of eponymous family enterprises. Names including Levy and Wehrung, Moyer and Trumbauer, Fischer and Sines (Harr) have driven our children to school, fitted their feet, dressed them for weddings, rewarded them with penny candy and root beer floats, furnished the equipment to take care of the lawns and supplies for home improvement projects, from one generation to the next. This intersection of family and business is a cornerstone of community here in Upper Bucks, and for all involved including consumers, the sense of place and purpose provides meaning in a world of digital distractions.

Bring your passion! We have all the ingredients for success: A strong, educated workforce, consumers with solid means, excellent schools, location and infrastructure, pro-growth public policy from municipal up to county level, and a tapestry of traditions that foster community. "We have lived in the area for more than 45 years so when I started my new business it was the obvious place to begin a new venture. As we have grown, so too has the area and we hope we have contributed to that growth," shares Douglas Hutchinson, PA, EA, Managing Principal, Hutchinson, Gillahan & Freeh PC. These sentiments are echoed by UBCC member, Jerry Gorski, P.E., Principal, Gorski Engineering, Inc., who encourages entrepreneurs to take a look: "The Upper Bucks County area is a great place for companies to relocate. With easy access to New York, New Jersey, the Lehigh Valley and Philadelphia, and its dedicated workforce, Upper Bucks will continue to attract new businesses. These new enterprises will, in turn, positively impact the local economy. That is why I will continue to invest here."

Hardly an accident, economic growth and development — coupled with strategic preservation

In the last 3 years alone, 686 jobs were created and 789 more positions retained through the direct efforts of our member and partner, BCEDC.

— is driven by strong public, private and non-profit partnerships. The Upper Bucks Chamber of Commerce (UBCC) is proud to play a lead role, along with all of our members who are on the front lines of commerce. And we're grateful for tremendous partners, each excelling in their respective missions building a better Upper Bucks. Workforce development is one critical component, and the three school districts that teach the youth of our region — Palisades, Pennridge and Quakertown Community — put emphasis on rigorous academics, college prep and placement, and career readiness. Matching the passions of our youth with the emerging needs across local industry, the Upper Bucks County Technical School provides hands-on practical experience and instruction. With its extensive Occupational Advisory Committees, comprised of leaders and doers from across our area's burgeoning business sectors, guidance and mentoring in real world settings ensures a locally cultivated, passionate and vibrant workforce for today and tomorrow. And UBCC is proud to foster the entrepreneurial spirit of tomorrow's leaders, sponsoring students from across our region to attend Pennsylvania Free Enterprise Week each year. Christopher Betz, Publisher, Upper Bucks Free Press and program mentor notes: "This is a priceless opportunity for high school sophomores and juniors from across our state to experience a week of college living, relationship building, problem solving, and a hands-on introduction to the principals of free enterprise."

Serving a parallel role for enterprises, the Bucks County Economic Development Corporation (BCEDC) fulfills the mission of creating a strong and vital economic base through the preservation and creation of job opportunities for Bucks County residents. Approaching its sixtieth anniversary, BCEDC helps business and industry successfully navigate the maze of opportunities by working with all forms of government, through cooperation agreements to administer loan programs, communication and coordination to support infrastructure development for business growth, and other programs deemed necessary to create a vital economic base for the Upper Bucks region. In working with companies who are considering an expansion or relocation in Upper Bucks, BCEDC provides long-term, low interest loans for land, buildings, machinery and equipment, and combines other innovative programs to create financing alternatives, often at lower than conventional rates. The tapestry of funding sources leveraged derive from numerous programs at all levels of government — the County of Bucks, the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and US Small Business Administration — and at the municipal level, incentives including Local Economic Revitalization Tax Assistance (LERTA) ensure that Upper Bucks is Open for Business. Open Space is another place where forward thinking public policy drives commerce and smart growth. Preserved land with accompanying historic structures serve as beacons for travelers searching ancestry and heritage, fueling the county's nearly one billion dollars credited to tourism. Without the commitment to land preservation from public, private and non-profit institutions — and of course the community at large — local treasures like covered bridge and historic barn tours, not to mention the wine trail, might only be the stuff of picture books. The strategic preservation of our region's scenic, historic and rural characteristics is only part of the equation — the supply and quality of water are protected by these efforts, while flood dangers are also mitigated. And did someone say, "No Farms, No Food?" At last count, there are 827 working farms in Bucks County — many here in Upper Bucks — averaging 77 acres each, and combining for 64,024 acres. According to fresh data from Bucks County, their initiative has preserved 134 farms totaling 10,956 acres in Upper Bucks since inception. "That's not too bad, considering that the total amount of farms preserved throughout the county through this program is 193 farms totaling 15,724 acres," notes Rich Harvey, Administrator, Bucks County Agricultural Land Preservation Program. He stresses to add that multiple organizations are working in concert, even on the same properties as a team: "A substantial amount of additional farmland has been preserved by individual Townships and private non-profit organizations like Heritage Conservancy."

Open for business is not an accident, just the opposite. Which is why UBCC continually strives to be a leader, facilitator and collaborator in economic development in the communities it serves. We're a champion for, and united voice of, our freely associating dues-paying members — and by proxy, we are the face of local commerce for our community. We provide the unique voice of a decidedly independent membership, while acting as the glue that binds distinct geography, deep history, rich culture, diverse local governments and job creators of all shapes and sizes, in mutual service to collective prosperity. UBCC strives to be an unparalleled visionary force in the community we call Upper Bucks — attracting and fostering enterprise, driving smart-growth policy locally, and inspiring and nurturing the next generation of entrepreneurs. We cherish the role we play as caretaker of local treasures, and as a hub for the region's tourism. Through our many strong partnerships, we can serve as a clearinghouse for boundless programs, resources and agencies — also lending a supporting hand for revitalization and local promotions, ensuring that together Upper Bucks means business!

Sellersville is also home to Bucks County’s first hospital, established in 1913, Grand View Health. Enjoy exhibits at the Sellersville Museum, community events like the Gallery of the Arts Festival, weekly bingo at the Fire Hall, or a stroll in any season through Lake Lenape Park.

A Sellersville water works project was among 9 federal relief projects established in the county by the Roosevelt Administration during the Great Depression.

Municipalities (continued)

Silverdale Borough

silverdalepa.org
100 West Park Avenue
P.O. Box 187
Silverdale, PA 18962
Tel. 215.257.5550

Whether it was known as Paletown, Portland or Lawndale, Silverdale Borough is a small borough known for its civic pride and commitment to residents. From its parks and recreation facilities to nearby attractions such as Lake Nockamixon and Lake Galena. It's home to Bolton Farm Market, where they raise chicken, beef and turkey, and sell fresh milk in glass bottles. Silverdale offers visitors and residents small town charm and appeal.

Springfield Township

springfieldbucks.org
2320 Township Road
Quakertown, PA 18951
Tel. 610.346.6700

Springfield Township is one of the larger municipalities in Upper Bucks. Bordered by Lehigh County, many residents may have Coopersburg or Hellertown mailing addresses, while others in the township will have a Quakertown mailing address. All of Springfield Township is located in the Palisades School District. Rolling pastoral hills and country roads make Springfield Township and such National Register of Historic Places sites as the Jacob Funk House and Barn, Knecht's Covered Bridge, Springhouse Farm and the Springtown Historic District, notable landmarks.

Tinicum Township

tinicumbucks.org
163 Municipal Road
Pipersville, PA 18947
Tel. 610.294.9154

Located along the Delaware River, Tinicum Township is quintessentially Upper Bucks. Preserved open space abounds, and the National Register of Historic Places takes note of such local treasures as the Red Hill Church and School, the Ridge Valley Rural Historic District, the Stover Mill and the Lewis Summers Farm. Outdoor recreation abounds by Delaware Canal and Ralph Stover State Parks, along with local gems, The Giving Pond Recreation Area and the 126 acre Tinicum Park, which is home to numerous community events including the annual Tinicum Arts Festival.

Trumbauersville Borough

trumbauersville.org
1 Evergreen Drive
P.O. Box 100
Trumbauersville, PA 18970
Tel. 215.536.1761

Surrounded by Milford Township, Trumbauersville Borough is primarily residential and part of the Quakertown Community School District. Just under 1,000 residents, it celebrated its centennial in 2008. It offers small town appeal against a rural landscape. The Trum Tavern dates back to 1752, then known as the Spread Eagle Hotel and was once owned by Jacob Fries, brother to John Fries of the Fries Rebellion — one of the first grassroots protests against unfair federal taxation. Today you can stop by the family owned, Spor's General Store, and fill up a growler of stout!

West Rockhill Township

westrockhilltownship.org
1028 Ridge Road
Sellersville, PA 18960
Tel. 215.257.9063

Scenic landscape, stony rock outcroppings, farms and woodlands make West Rockhill Township a picturesque municipality in Upper Bucks County and provide opportunities for quiet or active recreation. Ridge Road (Rte 563) divides West Rockhill in contour and land use; the north being dominated by rural, rocky land and the south by industry and farms. Its scenic and bucolic landscape and convenient access to major highways and amenities, are some of the many reasons residents and businesses such as North American Drager, Teva and Fresco, choose to call West Rockhill Township their home.

Bucks County was founded in 1682 by William Penn.

He named the county after Buckinghamshire, his family home in England.
