The Laurel Leaf opens in downtown Laurel

By Linda Cranford
 Thursday night, March 9, a grand opening and ribbon cutting ceremony was held to open another new business in downtown Laurel. The Laurel Leaf is owned by Tana and Mark Henderson with business partners Chan Geddie, Debra Hayes, Christy Oehrli, Donna Reynolds and April Thomas.
 The Hendersons purchased the old Smith and Sons building several months ago, which is located on Front Street next to Lott's Furniture Company. The old building was once Piggly Wiggly and The Hub (two businesses in the one building), then it was Fine Brothers Matison Annex, and later Smith and Son's Clothing Store. The building has been vacant for many years.

 The Hendersons are also the owners of The Rusty Chandelier, a business that is only open one week-end out of the month. The Laurel Leaf will be opened Tuesday through Saturday of each week from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m.

“I tell people that it’s the kind of place that you have to see to believe and understand,” exclaimed Tana in describing the new business, which includes merchandise from vintage and antiques to design. We have something for everybody.”

During the grand opening ceremonies guest were treated to an array of fruit, cheeses, and beverage. The music of Jazz Clarinetist B.J. Stegall created an enjoyable atmosphere for the evening.

Joining the Hendersons and their business partners for the grand opening ceremony were members of the Jones County Chamber of Commerce/EDA, family, and friends.

JCJC’S Pharmacy Technology program earns accreditation

Submitted

Jones County Junior College’s Pharmacy Technology program was the first community/junior college to establish an accredited program in the state and it still remains the only accredited program in Mississippi offering an Associate’s Degree in Applied Science. Recently, the American Society of Health-System Pharmacists (ASHP) and Accreditation Council for Pharmacy Education (ACPE) announced the JCJC Pharmacy Technology program has been approved for continued accreditation through 2019.

“Accreditation lasts for six years with a mid-term progress report. We are proud to receive approval for continued accreditation,” explained JCJC director of pharmacy technology, Tracey McCraw, RPH. “To be accredited means we have met and have maintained certain educational standards in our curriculum and methods of instructing, simulation lab and clinical rotations. These standards are what set us apart from other programs that are not accredited.”

The JCJC Pharmacy Technology curriculum is a two-year program which combines classroom instruction, laboratory work, and clinical experience to prepare students for employment and advancement in the pharmacy field. Admission requirements for the program include a high school diploma or GED, a minimum score of 17 on the ACT, and a background check. The student will obtain an Associate of Applied Science Degree after successfully completing the program and will be eligible to take the National Pharmacy Technician Certification Exam.

The Mississippi Board of Pharmacy has now required technicians who register with the board, to pass the technician certification exam within one year. The focus of the JCJC program is for students to earn an associate degree in Pharmacy Technology and to prepare for the National Pharmacy Technician Certification Exam. The first graduates completed the program 18 years ago and since that time, JCJC has maintained a 99% passing rate for the exam. The Pharmacy Technology program at Jones is designed to train a technician to work in each type of pharmacy setting and to proficiently perform each task.

For more information call 601-477-4230, or email Tracey McCraw at: tracemccraw@jcjc.edu or visit the website at: <http://www.jcjc.edu/programs/pharmacy/index.php>.

Magnolia Beef & Poultry Expo set for April 6

Submitted

Once again Smith County will be host to the Magnolia Beef & Poultry Expo on Thursday, April 6, 2017, beginning at 9 a.m. at the Smith County Ag Complex, located off Hwy. 35 South in Raleigh.

Seminars will be held on poultry and beef industry. Guest speakers will be glad to answer any of your questions you may have concerning your farming operation. Speakers for the day includes Tracy Tomkins from the Department of Environmental Quality. Tomkins will be speaking 9am and subject will be DEQ Permits. Speaker for the 10:30 slot is TBA. At 12pm, a poultry panel will speak on new innovative products and at 1:30 Cobie Rutherford, Jr. from the Department of Animal & Dairy Science at MS State University will be speaking on Changing our Perspective with the Non-Farming Community.

You must attend three of the four seminars to be eligible for the grand door prize.

The trade show will feature vendors highlighting the latest products in the poultry and cattle industry. Lending institutions will also be on hand to answer any financial questions you may have concerning loan information on these topics.

Be sure to register for door prizes that will be drawn throughout the day.

The Expo is sponsored by Community Bank in Raleigh, Solar South, LLC, First Financial and the Mississippi State University Extension Service. It is hosted locally by the following county Extension offices: Smith, Jasper, Newton, Rankin, Scott, and Simpson.

Admission is free. A concession stand will be available for lunch. Local farmers and producers are urged to attend this event for the latest information that concerns the poultry and beef industry.

If are interested in being a vendor to highlight your products at the Expo, please call the Smith County Extension Office at 601-782-4454.

STEM Community Outreach holds ribbon cutting ceremony

By Linda Cranford

A ribbon cutting ceremony was held Thursday night, March 9, to announce the beginning of a new non-profit organization, STEM Community Outreach, which is under the leadership of Executive Director/CEO Dr. Mary E. Moore. The focus of the organization is to offer opportunities to the Laurel/Jones County community to obtain leadership and technical skills in the areas of science, technology, engineering, and math through educational programs, workshops, and mentoring programs. These opportunities include Hands On STEM, Community Robotics Leagues, Mobile STEM, Discovery Saturdays, Computer Coding Hackathons, Just For Parents, and Senior Adult Digital Literacy.

Rev. Wesley L. Rogers Sr., associate minister at St. Paul UMC, gave the invocation. Jones County Chamber of Commerce Director and EDA Vice President Larkin Simpson presented Dr. Moore with her first dollar of profit and a commemorative Jones County Chamber of Commerce membership poster.

Dr. Moore expressed how important it is for the youth of today to participate in STEM programs and enter STEM-related career fields. Pointing to the computer screen in her Power Point presentation, Dr. Moore said, "Here is a list of the top 25 employers in Jones County. Of the 25, only seven companies are not STEM-related companies."

According to the information provided, "Dr. Moore

Surrounded by friends and family, Dr. Mary E. Moore, executive director/CEO, cut the ribbon to officially open STEM Community Outreach. Photos/Linda Cranford received her Bachelor and Master of Science degrees from The University of Southern Mississippi in polymer science and a Ph.D. in materials science and engineering from Tuskegee University. She has held engineering roles within the aviation manufacturing industry, Department of Defense, and several academic institutions. She has received several patent awards from the Department of Defense in 2011, 2012, and 2013. As a native of Laurel, she witnessed and observed first-hand the lack of exposure to STEM in minority communities and within underrepresented groups. It has been her long-time dream to work with the youth and adults in her hometown community to increase STEM literacy."

STEM Community Outreach is located at 401 Central Avenue, (the old First National Bank Building now Rasberry Financial Services) on the second floor. For more information contact Dr. Moore at (800) 481-STEM (7836), www.stemcommunityoutreach.com, or info@stemcommunityoutreach.com.

Phil Rasberry, left, followed the recipe and made Glow-in-the-Dark Polymer Slime while Dr. Mary E. Moore, center, and Ross Tucker, right, looked on.

Properly dispose of pesticide containers

By James L. Cummins

The residue from pesticides that leak from un-rinsed, discarded containers has the potential to cause significant damage to our environment. Therefore, containers should be rinsed immediately after use. If left in the container to dry, the residue becomes more difficult to remove. So, make it a little easier on yourself and go ahead and rinse it out right after you use it.

Since these containers have contained a commercial, hazardous material, it is illegal to dispose of them in landfills, recycling bins or incinerators. The only acceptable place to take them for disposal is to a hazardous waste facility. While this can be costly and time consuming, there is another option.

The most commonly used method is triple rinsing. When emptying a liquid pesticide from its container, wait until the flow reduces to drops. Continue draining for a minimum of 30 minutes after the drops start. Add the correct amount of water according to the size of the container: containers up to 5 gallons require an amount equal to at least one quarter of its volume; 30- to 55-gallon containers require a minimum of 5 gallons of water. Once water is added, secure the lid on the container. Smaller containers should be shaken vigorously. Larger containers should be rolled or tumbled in such a manner as to rinse all interior surfaces. Remove the lid and drain into spray tank. Continue draining for 30 seconds after drops start. Repeat this rinse process two more times. Replace lid and dispose of the container.

Pressure rinsing takes less time, but requires the purchase of a special nozzle. This rinsing method can be done as the pesticide is emptied into the spray tank. The special nozzle attaches to a garden hose and is used to puncture plastic and metal containers. Insert pressure nozzle by puncturing the lower side of the container. The nozzle produces a forceful spray inside the empty container and should be rotated to ensure that all interior surfaces are properly rinsed. Rinse for the length of time recommended by the manufacturer – usually 30 seconds. Container lid should be rinsed separately and placed back onto the container for disposal.

If properly prepared before disposal, the containers are then considered to be non-hazardous by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency. Proper preparation includes either triple rinsing or pressure rinsing. Laboratory studies concluded that these methods resulted in less than 1 part per million of residual in the water from the container after cleaning. This is a safe level in which to dispose of the containers using traditional disposal methods.

Proper rinsing is easy, saves money and reduces the risk of environmental contamination. As always, check with your local recycling center for regulations governing your area.

James L. Cummins is executive director of Wildlife Mississippi, a non-profit, conservation organization founded to conserve, restore and enhance fish, wildlife and plant resources throughout Mississippi. Their web site is www.wildlifemiss.org.

Sideline View: Rest in peace, Coach

By Dale McKee

Mississippi Hall of Fame high school basketball coach Phillip James passed away this week at 88 years of age. James was one of the winningest coaches in Mississippi girls basketball history. He guided South Jones to a perfect 1987-88 season as they downed Noxubee County 59-57 in the title game. That was Coach James's 635th win. He entered the HoF in 1992.

The Waynesboro native was not only a Hall of Fame coach but also a driving force behind the success of South Jones basketball from the mid '60s until his retirement. Coach James's legacy was the positive impact he had on young lives, from his first coaching position at Moselle until he hung up the whistle 32 years later. He was a devoted Christian man who was prouder of his former players' success stories than of his own. He described himself as a teacher first both on the court and in the classroom. Many of his former pupils say he was the best teacher they ever had, and his players demonstrated undying loyalty to him. Everyone respected Coach James. Back in 2008, Coach shared a story with me at a South Jones basketball game about his first year as football coach at Moselle High School. He recalled a woman who was shouting at him from the stands his rookie season. She yelled, "You won't be around the next year!"

"I guess I fooled her a little bit," he said with a hardy laugh.

Rest in peace, Coach. You'll be greatly missed by many.

Sweet 16 for former Wayne County star

Former Wayne County basketball star Avery Woodson is heading to the Sweet 16 with his Butler (Ind.) basketball teammates. Woodson is a former Dandy Dozen who led Wayne County to the 2010-11 Class 5-A basketball championship and also to a runner-up finish in 2011-12. Woodson transferred to Butler from Memphis. Having graduated last May from Memphis, he is a graduate student at Butler. Avery, who hit six three-pointers in last Thursday's win over Winthrop, leads Butler in three-point shooting. Butler knocked off Middle Tennessee, 74-65, Saturday as Woodson tallied seven points. On the year, Woodson is scoring almost 10 points per game. Woodson and his teammates will play North Carolina Friday in Memphis. Butler is now 25-8 on the season.

Lady Bulldogs going back to Sweet 16

The Mississippi State women's basketball team is headed back to the Sweet 16 for the third time in school history after a 92-71 win over DePaul in a second-round game of the NCAA Tournament's Oklahoma City Regional at Humphrey Coliseum Sunday. The Bulldogs (31-4) are the No. 2 seed in their region and will face No. 3 seed Washington or No. 6 seed Oklahoma. The game will be televised on one of the ESPN networks at either 6 or 8:30 p.m.

The Ole Miss Rebels (22-13) shocked No. 1 seed Syracuse, 85-80, to advance to round three of the NIT. The Rebels were to play Georgia Tech Tuesday, with the winner heading to New York.

Robbins named president of University of Arizona

Former South Jones quarterback (1973 & 74) Dr. Bobby Robbins has been named the president of the University of Arizona. Robbins has been the president & CEO of Texas Medical Center in Houston.

JCJC men's/women's Cagers in National Tournament

The JCJC Lady Bobcats (28-1) are the No. 13 seed in the NJCAA Division 1 Women's Tournament this week in Lubbock, Texas. The tournament runs through Saturday. The Bobcats (28-1) shocked the world in 2014 by winning the national tournament in Hutchinson, Kansas. This tournament also runs through Saturday.

Baseball, Softball still perfect

The Lady Bobcats softball team is 24-0 entering this week's play after sweeping Meridian this weekend. The baseball Bobcats enter the week 20-0 after sweeping East Mississippi.
