To Birds, With Love

After 10 years, I am retiring my column. I have enjoyed all of your emails over the years. One last thought, birding starts with a healthy environment. Please do what you can to reduce the use of pesticides and other harmful things that can hurt the earth and thus, the birds. Thank you all from the bottom of my heart.

Chicken with Caribbean Pecan Sauce

April is National Pecan Month, and it's one of the good-for-you nuts. The pecan lends this recipe some real tropical magic.

- 1/6 ounces skinned and boned uncooked chicken breast, cut into 4 pieces
- 1/2 cup unsweetened orange juice
- 2 tablespoons cornstarch
- 1/3 cup Splenda Granular (8-ounce) can crushed pineapple, packed in fruit juice, undrained
- 1 (11-ounce) can mandarin oranges, rinsed and drained
- 2 tablespoons chopped pecans
- 1/2 teaspoons dried parsley flakes
- 1/2 teaspoons dried onion flakes

- In a large skillet sprayed with butter-flavored cooking spray, brown chicken pieces for 4 to 5 minutes on each side. Meanwhile, in a covered jar, combine orange juice, cornstarch and Splenda. Shake well to blend. Pour mixture into a medium saucepan sprayed with butter-flavored cooking spray. Stir in undrained pineapple. Cook over medium heat until mixture thickens, stirring constantly.
- Remove from heat. Add mandarin oranges, pecans, parsley flakes and onion flakes. Mix well to combine. Evenly spoon sauce mixture over browned chicken pieces.
- Lower heat and simmer for 5 minutes. When serving, evenly spoon sauce over chicken pieces. Serves 4.
  - Each serving equals: 253 calories, 5g fat, 24g protein, 28g carbohydrate, 61mg sodium, 26mg calcium, 1g fiber; Diabetic exchanges: 3 Meat, 1 Fruit; Carb Choices: 2.

Marble Paper Eggs Using Shaving Cream

While the older kids are busy coloring Easter eggs, your preschoolers will enjoy this tactile and fun way to make marbled paper eggs using an unlikely art supply: shaving cream! When complete, enjoy the artsy egg-shaped designs as decor in your home. Make a large one to hang on a door, and cut out minis for a charming garland to display just about anywhere!

Here's what you'll need:

- 2-by-4-inch piece of corrugated cardboard
- 16 toothpicks
- 9-by-13-inch baking tray or pan with edges
- Shaving cream
- Liquid food coloring, poster paint or acrylic paint, diluted 1 part paint to 2 parts water
- Heavy-duty white construction paper
- Squeegee
- Scissors, ribbon and craft supplies for decorating eggs

Here's the fun:

1. First, make a tool for swirling the color. Poke ends of the toothpicks 1/4 inch apart into the gaps of one long side of the piece of corrugated cardboard. The toothpicks should fit snugly in the cardboard, to resemble a comb.

2. Spray shaving cream in the baking tray or pan. Kids will have fun playing with it as you guide them to level it out with their hands.

3. Drop two to three different colors of food coloring or diluted acrylic paint on top of the shaving cream. (When using paint, I use small spoons or an eyedropper saved for crafts when transferring paint to the shaving cream.) The tray should now be filled with blobs of irregular colorful polka dots.

4. Use the toothpick "comb" to make a few swirls down and across the paint. Aim to make the designs on the surface of the shaving cream rather than dragging the colors too deep. Your child might say with delight, "Hey, I'm combing shaving cream!"

5. Immediately set a sheet of paper on the design, bringing the left and right sides up slightly. Press gently all over the paper, then lift. Let set for a minute or two, then, using the squeegee, remove the shaving cream in one smooth motion into the sink to reveal a beautiful marbled design. Rinse the squeegee. Let paper dry completely. Add more coloring or paint to make more designs.

6. Cut marbled paper into a large Easter egg shape. Decorate with a few craft supplies if you wish. Punch a hole at the top and tie a string for hanging. Or, make small egg shapes and glue to a long string or ribbon for a springtime garland.

NOTE: Remind young children that although the shaving cream may look like whipping cream, it is not edible.

Dollars And Sense

What Can You Get For A Dollar? More Than Many Think

(NAPSA)—If you think $1 doesn't buy much any more, you may care to think again.
In fact, $1 will get you:
• Two postage stamps (with change left over);
• A sandwich, side or dessert at many major fast-food chains;
• A lottery ticket in a number of states;
• A box of paper clips at office supply chains;
• A year's worth of the energy needed to run an ENERGY STAR-qualified Broan or NuTone ventilation fan.

Whether it's to deal with excess moisture, odor and indoor pollutants or improving the overall quality of indoor air, that fan can mean you have a healthier home. It can mean an attractive one, too. The ENERGY STAR-qualified lineup of Broan and NuTone ventilation fans is comprised of some 35 different models including basic fan, fan/light and fan/light/night-light combinations and humidity-sensing fan variations.

According to government officials, earning the ENERGY STAR means fans meet the strict energy efficiency guidelines set by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) and the Department of Energy (DOE). The fans that incorporate a light use 70 percent less energy on average than standard models; these fans provide better efficiency and comfort with less noise and use high-performance motors that work better and last longer than motors used in conventional models. In addition, they can feature improved blade design, providing better performance and longer life.

Broan and NuTone fans are designed, engineered, manufactured and customer supported in the U.S., which helps keep their carbon footprint smaller than that of many similar products.

As homeowners weatherize their homes, the EPA cautions homeowners not to overlook their home's ventilation needs so as to avoid the buildup of indoor air pollutants. The U.S. Department of Energy's Weatherization Assistance Program offers homeowners an important incentive: Weatherization service providers will install energy efficiency measures in the homes of qualifying homeowners free of charge. As many as 30 million U.S. families are eligible. To get more information on the incentive, go to <http://apps1.eere.energy.gov/weatherization/apply.cfm>.

For a list of ENERGY STAR-qualified fans, visit www.Broan.com or www.NuTone.com or call (800) 558-1711 or (888) 336-3948.

Protecting Our Environment
Save Green By Building Green

(NAPSA)—You can help the ecology and your own economy by going green. Being energy efficient and eco-friendly is more popular and more accepted than ever before. For homeowners, green is not only the right thing to do for the environment; it's the smart thing to do for their bank accounts. A common misconception is that going green is always expensive. The reality is there are many green home improvements that can help increase energy efficiency at home while actually saving money and providing a healthy return on investment. To help you establish a green home while saving cash, consider the following tips:

- Save on your energy bill. Replacing leaky, single-pane windows with high-efficiency, Energy Star-qualified windows can save hundreds of dollars a year. With more efficient windows, you use less energy, which also reduces greenhouse gas emissions from power plants.
- Add insulation. According to the Department of Energy, ensuring your home has adequate levels of insulation can save up to 30 percent on energy bills.
- Take advantage of incentives and rebates. Applying for government rebates can further increase the return on investment for a green upgrade. To look for rebates and incentives, visit the Database of State Incentives for Renewables & Efficiency at www.dsireusa.org.
- Quality products pay you back. Using quality products pays off. You don't have to replace them as often, diverting tons of materials from landfills each year. A good example is CertainTeed's Cedar Impressions Siding. The polymer siding comes backed by a lifetime, limited warranty; it's a long-lasting, low-maintenance and durable product.

- Increase your resale value. Some green products increase the value of a home in the long run. For example, a recent Cost vs. Value report conducted by Hanley Wood, LLC, shows that if a homeowner chooses fiber cement, 83 percent of the cost can be recouped when the home is sold. CertainTeed WeatherBoards fiber cement contains 50 percent recycled content—making it an excellent choice.
- Protect the community. Choosing products with the environment in mind is a great start to ensuring a healthy community and preserving the environment in your neighborhood. Do your part by selecting products that are produced by companies that embrace sustainability in their operations. Homeowners looking to green their home and save some cash have many options. To find out more about sustainable efforts, visit www.certainteed.com.

YOUR GARDEN

Growing Your First Apple Tree

(NAPSA)—According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, each American eats about 120 apples a year.

“Apples are fat-, sodium- and cholesterol-free and a great source of fiber,” says Bayer Advanced™ Garden Expert Lance Walheim, who has written or contributed to more than 30 gardening books.

But apples can be expensive. One way to save money is to grow your own. The Garden Writers Association reports that more than 16 million households grow fruits, including apples.

While it can take a few years for a single apple tree to produce its first fruit, once it gets going it can provide enough apples for your family and your neighbors. In fact, the University of Illinois Extension Service says an average tree can produce 840 pounds of apples.

Here are some tips to help you grow your first apple tree:

- Start small: Don't plant an orchard your first time out. However, many apple trees need to cross-pollinate with another variety in order to produce fruit. Consult with your garden center or county extension service for best practices and to determine the best varieties for your area.
- Sunny side gets the thumbs up: Apple trees require full sun and well-drained soil.
- Dig the right size hole: Dig a hole at least twice the diameter of the rootball and just deep enough so the top of the rootball sits about an inch above the surrounding soil level.

One way to save money on apples is to grow your own.

• Mulch around the tree root. About an inch or two of mulch helps keep the weeds out and the moisture in.

• Protect against insects: Aphids and leafhoppers can damage apple trees. Since apple trees can grow tall and wide, using sprays while on a ladder can be difficult. One option: the new Bayer Advanced Fruit, Citrus & Vegetable Insect Control. It kills destructive insects and prevents new infestations for a season. Just mix in a watering can and pour it around the base of the tree. It's formulated for use on more than 100 fruit, vegetable and citrus plants. Be sure to read and follow the instructions on the label.

Visit BayerAdvanced.com for more gardening information and how-to videos or call (877) BAYERAG.

As Interest In Backyard Poultry Grows,
So Does Need For Healthy Birds

(NAPSA)—Raising “backyard poultry” has become increasingly popular all over the U.S. these days. The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) reminds both new and experienced poultry owners it’s important to keep your birds healthy by practicing backyard biosecurity.

While “biosecurity” may not be a common household word, for poultry and bird owners it can spell the difference between health and disease. Practicing biosecurity can help keep disease away from farms and backyard pens and keep birds healthy. By using biosecurity practices, poultry owners can help reduce the chances of their birds being exposed to infectious poultry diseases such as avian influenza.

According to Dr. Fidelis Hegngi, senior staff veterinarian with USDA’s Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service, backyard biosecurity means doing everything needed to protect birds from disease—similar to what people do every day to protect themselves from human infections—essentially good hygiene.

“That’s what protects us from germs—we wash our hands, avoid contact with people who have colds and flu, and we cover our mouths and noses when we sneeze,” says Dr. Hegngi. “If you follow basic hygiene activities with your birds, you’ll go a long way to keeping your birds safe from disease.”

By taking a few simple steps, you can protect your birds. Dr. Hegngi recommends bird owners wash their hands thoroughly with soap, water and disinfectant before and after handling birds. When you’re through working with your birds, disinfect your shoes and equipment. Cages, food and water should be cleaned daily. Poultry owners should remove feed from bags; place it in clean, sealed containers; and throw the bags away. Finally, bird owners should not borrow or share bird supplies. If they must, items should be cleaned and disinfected before being brought home.

Be sure to isolate new birds you bring in from your other birds for at least 30 days. You should restrict access to your birds, especially from people who own birds that are housed outside. Keep your birds away from other birds whenever possible.

Look your flock over regularly so you can watch for signs of illness or unexpected deaths among your birds. Report sick birds or die-offs to the local cooperative extension office, a veterinarian, State Veterinarian, State animal diagnostic laboratory or USDA Veterinary Services toll free at (866) 536-7593.

For additional recommendations, poultry owners are encouraged to visit the USDA’s Web site at <http://healthybirds.aphis.usda.gov>.

Planning A Successful Vegetable Garden

(NAPSA)—Edible gardening will continue to be a popular trend this year, according to a recent survey by the Garden Writers Association. More than 41 million U.S. households grew a vegetable garden last year and 37 percent plan to do more edible gardening in 2010. (Only 1 percent planned to plant less this year.)

A combination of factors is driving the trend: The desire to consume locally grown foods and save money as well as Gen X and Y consumers embracing the idea of self-sufficiency. Add the year-old White House vegetable garden to the mix and seed companies tapping into reserves to keep up with demand and you've got a gardening boom.

Growing your own vegetables is a great way to reduce your grocery bill.

"In this economy, everyone is looking for a way to make their money go farther," says Bayer Advanced™ Garden Expert Lance Walheim, author of "Vegetable Gardening." "Growing your own healthy vegetables in your garden is a great way to reduce your grocery bill while creating a nutritious supply of food from your own backyard."

organic matter, so you have the best growing conditions.

Here are a few tips on making the most of your backyard vegetable garden:

- Choose your veggies: Do your homework on seed, plant and variety options, and involve your family in the selection.
- Pick a sunny spot for your garden: Most vegetables need six to eight hours of direct sun each day. The area you choose should drain well, but will still benefit from the addition of lots of

- Mark your rows: Use string to mark off the individual rows of vegetables you'll plant and make plans for irrigation. Remember that rows running east to west will get the best sun exposure.
- Add mulch and fertilize: Mulch your rows to keep weeds from popping up and fertilize regularly.
- Protect against pests and diseases: The new Bayer Advanced Natria™ Insecticidal Soap protects your vegetable garden against pests such as aphids, thrips, spider mites and whiteflies, as well as diseases such as blight and powdery mildew, among others. Hints For The Home

In Pursuit Of The Perfect View

(NAPSA)—Getting windows clean and sparkly doesn't have to be that hard.

Store-bought window cleaning solutions can work well but are not necessary for great results. Old-fashioned household cleaners are plentiful in most homes and inexpensive.

Experts at Andersen Windows have some suggestions on how to clean your windows to the envy of your neighbors. First, begin with the right stuff: rubber gloves, two buckets or one bucket with two wells; sudsy ammonia cleaner; white vinegar; rubbing alcohol; several clean, dry rags; a squeegee; coffee filters; and a ladder, if necessary.

Now follow these steps to a great view:

1. Read and follow manufacturer's instructions on each cleaning agent and all tools before beginning. In addition, use extreme caution when using ladders and working around open windows to maintain safe operation and avoid injury. Don't stand on furniture; use only equipment intended for that purpose, including ladders, scaffolding and step stools. Follow instructions for safe operation.
2. Fill both buckets with one to two gallons of the hottest water your gloved hands can stand. Use caution in handling hot water to avoid burns and scalding. This is your wash and rinse water.
3. In one bucket, add one cup each of ammonia and vinegar. In the other bucket, add two tablespoons of rubbing alcohol. The latter helps water evaporate quickly and gives windows that twinkle factor.
4. To avoid dripping on your work, start at the top; top floor, top of the window.
5. Wipe the entire surface with the sudsy solution. Bugs, stickers and other stubborn marks may be removed using a synthetic scraping tool. Avoid straight-edge metal blades, as they can damage the window.
6. Rinse the window using clean water and immediately

It's a bright idea to clean windows on cloudy but dry days. Sunlight dries the solution too quickly and makes streaks more likely.

squeegee any remaining. Start at the top, pressing firmly in a vertical motion and drying the squeegee with each stroke. This reduces streaks from wet lines forming at the squeegee's edge and limits drips from wet tools on your sparkling windows.

7. Use a clean cloth to wipe only the corners and sill. If lint is a problem, use a coffee filter—they're lint free—to touch up these areas.

Some extra tips:

- Never leave a window unattended, especially when children are present. Falls may result in serious injury or death.
- Swipe in only one direction, horizontal or vertical, on the inside of the house and the other direction on the outside. If you find streaks, you'll know which side needs touching up. Coffee filters are good for this, too.
- Change water often to limit or eliminate streaks.
- Tie a rope to your squeegee and secure it to the ladder or your belt in case you drop it.
- Clean windows on cloudy, dry days. Sunlight may dry the solution too quickly, making streaks more likely.

Q. I have an early copy of the Book of Mormon that is more than a century old. Could you tell me the value of it, or direct me to where I can find out? —Betty, Leadore, Illinois

A. I contacted several established book dealers about your book. The consensus seems to indicate that it is worth in the $25 to $50 range if, and this is a big if, you can find a buyer who is interested. Religious books are difficult to sell. For example, copies of the Bible from the 19th century are fairly common and despite their antiquity, often sell for less than $50. In order to get a second opinion, I suggest you search for the edition of your book at abe.com. It will take a little time, but it will reveal what various editions are selling for throughout the country.

Q. I have an accordion from the 1950s. It is a 120 key and was made by Stanell & Bernelli, an Italian company. I still have its original case and all of the papers and documents that came with it. Where can I sell it? —Pat, Godfrey, Illinois

A. Reverb is a company that buys, sells and consigns accordions, and that might be a good place to contact first. The toll-free contact number is 888-726-2728. Call for details.

Q. I have a board game titled "Peanuts: The Game of Charlie Brown and His Pals." Although my brother and I played the game a couple of times, it is in excellent condition. What is it worth? —Sam, Kileen, Texas

A. Your game was issued by Selchow & Righter in 1959. It generally sells in the $20 to $35 range depending, of course, on condition and assuming it is complete.

Q. I have a Canada Dry plate issued in 1958 to mark the golden anniversary of the company. It looks to be in pristine condition. I have been offered $35 for it. —Cody, Lakewood, Colorado

A. I checked with several sources and they all seem to agree that your plate is worth somewhere in the $20 to $35 range. In other words, take the offer.

Isn't It Dangerous to Give Pets Yeast?

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: You recently told a cat owner that it was OK to give her pet yeast as a supplement. Yeast is supposed to be very bad for pets. Why did you recommend it? — Concerned in Cincinnati

DEAR CONCERNED: This is a great opportunity to discuss the difference between live yeast and brewer's or nutritional yeast.

You're right that live yeast, particularly dough leavened with yeast, can be a danger to pets. If, for example, your cat gets up on the kitchen counter where your soon-to-be loaf of bread is rising, and eats the raw dough, trouble could be brewing. That dough may continue to rise in its stomach, and could cause a blockage in the digestive system that, if not treated immediately, could be fatal.

Brewer's or nutritional yeast, on the other hand, is a "dead" yeast. Once it has been propagated (grown) in a medium like molasses (for nutritional yeast) or as part of the beer-brewing process (for brewer's yeast), it's pasteurized and dried. This stops the yeast from multiplying, while retaining its nutrients, like B vitamins. Brewer's yeast has either a powder or flake consistency, unlike active yeast, which is packaged as small granules.

The amount of brewer's yeast to give a pet depends on its weight. Follow the dosage instructions on the package — typically the yeast is mixed in with a pet's food.

Most pet formulations of brewer's yeast also contain powdered garlic, which is said to help ward off fleas and ticks. Garlic can be toxic to cats and dogs, making it doubly important to follow instructions exactly and contact the vet immediately if a pet consumes too much.

(NAPSA)—Catalytic converters contain no moving parts, so when they fail there is usually another problem—often in the engine—that has damaged the unit. Simply replacing the converter without repairing the root cause of the failure could end up damaging the new unit as well. ## AMERICA'S HERITAGE

Celebrating 110 Years Of The Race That Changed Everything

(NAPS)—There's more to the old adage "If at first you don't succeed, try, try again" than many people realize.

Back in 1901, Henry Ford discovered that an auto race could help him win a second chance at creating a car company.

For example, consider the automobile pioneer Henry Ford. For him, the motto was quite appropriate, because while on his way to creating one of the most successful automobile companies in the world, he suffered his share of setbacks that included the failure of the Detroit Automobile Company in January 1901. He was 38 years old, married with one son and, after losing $86,000 in the failed venture, he was broke. He had to move in with his father, William, and plan the next move toward achieving his dream of owning a car company.

gan to close the gap. As the cars raced past the front stretch grandstand on the eighth lap, Winton's car began to sputter and Ford took the lead for good in front of a cheering crowd.

"He knew that racing grabbed the public imagination and it just so happened that one of the biggest races in the country was being planned practically in Henry Ford's backyard," recalled Edsel B. Ford II. "I don't think it was my great-grandfather's intention to ever win this race. He couldn't afford to hire anyone, so he had to drive his own car. He had never raced before and he was up against the greatest driver in the country."

"It was a thrilling moment. It was an historic moment and a moment that identified Henry Ford as a winner worth watching," said Edsel Ford. "After he drove into the winner's circle, a great crowd of spectators crowded him and shouted that they were willing to back him in any venture that involved wheels."

That greatest driver, Alexander Winton, proved to be Ford's lone competition on Oct. 10, 1901 as 8,000 fans came to the Detroit Driving Club to watch. All the other competitors dropped out when their vehicles failed to start, so the main event essentially became a 10-lap match race with the winner receiving $1,000.

Now, Ford Racing is celebrating that momentous day by highlighting great moments in its storied history at www.fordracing110.com.

Even though Winton jumped to a big early lead, Ford slowly began to close the gap.

In addition, fans can learn about the ongoing search for the trophy Ford won that day—a cut-glass punch bowl that was sold at auction following his death in 1947. Now, Edsel Ford wants it back. He launched a search 10 years ago but failed to find it. So for a Ford of today, it's time to try, try again.

HOLLYWOOD

by Tony Rizzo

HOLLYWOOD — "Feud: Bette & Joan" is the most-watched FX show since "The People vs O.J. Simpson," which only proves people still love old movie stars. Joan Crawford wanted to work with Bette Davis since their Warner Brothers Studios days in 1945. Joan knew the two of them together would be box-office magic. But Davis' no-nonsense Broadway training was the opposite of Crawford's Hollywood hype and phony press-release practices.

Warner Studio Publicity (1949)
 Joan Crawford

In 1962, Crawford scrambled to make a comeback, and she sent the book, "Whatever Happened to Baby Jane," to producer Robert Aldrich, as a vehicle for her and Bette Davis. But she didn't count on the studio deliberately fueling a fire between them to get more heat for the film. When it opened in New York City, the studio provided a tour bus for them to travel to the 26 theaters, but Crawford wouldn't ride in the bus saying, "Stars don't ride in buses!"

their upcoming film version, directed by and starring Bradley Cooper and Lady Gaga, doesn't hit screens until Sept. 28, 2018. Clint Eastwood (originally set to direct the film with Beyonce) and Jon Peters (producer of the 1976 Barbra Streisand version) are onboard to help Cooper through his first directing project.

This infuriated Davis. I wrangled my way onto the bus, and when I asked where Crawford was, everyone pointed to the back of the bus. I finally saw her, through the back window, following the bus in a limo. Bette rented the entire time, from theater to theater!

They don't call Dwayne Johnson "The Busiest Actor in Hollywood" for nothing. He has "Baywatch" (which he also produced) set for a May 26 premiere, "Jumanji 2" (retaining him) with Kevin Hart, as well as Jack Black and Nick Jonas, due Dec. 22. He's also producing "Rampage" (based on the video game) and "Fighting with My Family," with Vince Vaughn and Lena Headey, which will take him back to his WWE roots to play wrestling superstar Paige. Johnson started producing films so he could get a bigger piece of "The Rock."

Even though the film returned $8 million on its investment, Davis was sure she'd never work again and took out an ad in The Daily Variety: "Situation wanted, mother of three, divorced, American, 30 years' experience as an actress in motion pictures and more affable than rumor would have it. Wants steady employment in Hollywood. (Has had Broadway). Bette Davis, c/o Martin Baum, REFERENCES UPON REQUEST." We'll tell you what happened next, next time.

"Beauty & the Beast" director Bill Condon has been signed by Warner to develop a Broadway version of "A Star Is Born," despite the fact

Vacation Trends

Timeshare Facts

(NAPSA)—Current trends reveal that timeshare occupancy is outpacing hotel occupancy by over 20 percent, according to a study by Ernst & Young.

To see if a timeshare vacation is right for you, check out this checklist:

From mountain chalets to beachfront resorts, timeshares offer destinations around the world and have a satisfaction rate of 85 percent.

- Do you want more bang for your buck? A typical family vacation in a hotel tends to cost more than one in a timeshare.
- Do you like the comforts of home? With a timeshare, you have plenty of space for the family to relax and spend time together. The units typically feature two bedrooms, two bathrooms, a living room and a full-sized kitchen.
- Do you want to take the hassle out of planning each vacation? Timeshares can mean no surprises.
- Do you value taking a vacation? Doctors say taking time off is good for you. Timeshares help you commit to a regular vacation, plus you may be able to trade resorts.

The American Resort Development Association says many of the more than 5,000 timeshare resorts in 100 countries have rental programs that let you try them out.

YOUR GARDEN

Plant A Healing Garden

You can use a healing garden to help restore the body, spirit and mind with pretty pink plants such as the Invincibelle Spirit Hydrangea.

it with shrubs or fencing to create a secluded retreat and include paths for walking.

• Aromatic plants: Sweet-smelling plants can enhance the relaxing atmosphere. Plant herbs such as basil, rosemary, sage, lemon thyme or lavender. Surround your garden with scented trees, such as pine and eucalyptus, to create shade and shelter. A new compact, reblooming lilac, called Bloomerang, has clusters of purple-pink, sweet-scented flowers, making it excellent for creating a fragrant hedge.

• Healing plants: Include medicinal plants to symbolize the health aspects of your garden. Lavender, sage, basil, thyme and St. John's-wort have been prized for centuries for their medicinal qualities. Fruits and vegetables can symbolize—and supply—nutrition. For example, the fruit of Sambucus, also called elderberry, is rich in antioxidants. An elderberry called Black Lace has intense purple-black, finely cut foliage. Its fruit can be used in jam or even wine.

• Attracting wildlife: Add a birdbath, bird feeders or birdhouses and put in plants that attract butterflies. A new shrub, Lo & Behold Blue Chip buddleia, attracts flocks of butterflies as well as hummingbirds. It's the only miniature butterfly bush with loads of fragrant blue flowers that bloom continuously.

• Color: Plants with bright colors can lift the spirits. To show support for overcoming breast cancer, consider pink flowers. A newly available choice, Invincibelle Spirit Hydrangea, is the very first pink-flowered "Annabelle" hydrangea. You can see more than 100 blooms on a single plant. Its dark-pink buds open to hot-pink flowers, which mature to a soft pink. In addition, for every Invincibelle Spirit sold, Proven Winners ColorChoice will donate a dollar to the Breast Cancer Research Foundation.

These plants are at better garden centers. To find the one closest to you, see www.provenwinners.com/findaretailer.

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On April 19, 1775, the American Revolution begins when 700 British troops march into Lexington to find 77 armed Minutemen waiting for them on the town's common green. Suddenly, the "shot heard around the world" was fired. Eight Americans lay dead or dying and 10 others were wounded.

• On April 20, 1841, Edgar Allan Poe's story "The Murders in the Rue Morgue" first appears in Graham's Lady's and Gentleman's Magazine. The tale, widely considered to be the first detective story, describes the extraordinary "analytical power" used by Monsieur C. Auguste Dupin to solve a series of murders in Paris.

• On April 21, 1865, a train carrying the coffin of assassinated President Abraham Lincoln leaves Washington, D.C. on its way to Springfield, Illinois, where he would be buried on May 4. The train traveled through 180 cities and seven states, stopping at each town for a ceremony.

• On April 18, 1906, an earthquake estimated at close to 8.0 on the Richter scale strikes San Francisco, toppling buildings, igniting fires and breaking water mains. An estimated 3,000 people died and 30,000 buildings were destroyed.

• On April 22, 1945, Adolf Hitler, learning from one of his generals that no German defense was offered to the Russian assault at nearby Eberswalde, admits to all in his underground bunker that the war is lost. He committed suicide a week later.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) This is a good time to begin setting far-reaching goals and connecting with new contacts. Aspects also favor strengthening old relationships — personal and/or professional.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) A personal disappointment should be viewed as a valuable learning experience. Go over what went wrong and see where a change in tactics might have led to a more positive outcome.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Don't leave projects unfinished or personal obligations unresolved, or you might find yourself tripping over all those loose ends later on. A relative has important news.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Expect a challenge to the usual way you do things. Although you might prefer the tried-and-true, once you take a good look at this new idea, you might feel more receptive to it.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Much work has yet to be done to polish a still-rough idea into something with significant potential. Expect to encounter some initial rejection, but stay with it nonetheless.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) There still might be some communication problems in the workplace, but they should be resolved soon. Meanwhile, that "tip" from a friend should be checked out.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) A new relationship appears to need more from you than you might be willing to give right now. Best advice: Resist making promises you might not be able to keep.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) That restless feeling encourages you to gallop off into a new venture. But remember to keep hold of the reins so you can switch paths when necessary.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) A demanding work schedule keeps the high-spirited Goat from kicking up his or her heels. But play-time beckons by the week's end. Have fun. You earned it.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) You're beginning to come out from under those heavy responsibilities you took on. Use this freed-up time to enjoy some much-deserved fun with people close to you.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Before you get swept away by a tidal wave of conflicting priorities, take time to come up for air, and reassess the situation. You might be surprised by what you'll find.

BORN THIS WEEK: Your leadership qualities are enhanced by a practical sense of purpose that keeps you focused on your goals.
